"THE STORE THAT SERVES YOU BEST"

Official Opening New Dormitory

Will Be Held Jan'y 9

Hon. George Hoadley, Minister of Agriculture, has just sent word to the School of Agriculture that the official opening of the new dormitory will be held on January 9th.

This will probably be one of the largest and most important gatherings ever held in Vermilion in view of the speakers who will be present to take part in the function. Mr. Hoadley says he expects to bring with him the Premier of the Province, Mr. Brownlee; Dr. Wallace, President of the University; Hon. R. G. Reid, Provincial Treasurer, and it will be a treat to hear these distinguished gentlemen.

The official opening will take the form of a banquet to the students, Alumni Association and a number of invited guests. This number will necessarily be limited to the capacity of the dining room. Then there will be the official opening program held in the gymnasium at which there will be appropriate addresses by the Premier, Dr. Wallace, Mr. Hoadley and Mr. Reid. A general invitation is hereby extended to all the good people of Vermilion and district to attend this official opening program which is to begin at 8:30 p.m.

Every available seat about the institution will be crowded into the gymnasium and galleries to provide for all who wish to attend, and it is hoped that there will be a capacity audience. The school orchestra will provide music for the occasion, and a number of the students and local musicians are being asked to take part.

The visit of the premier of the province to Vermilion is a circumstance enough in itself to warrant a general turnout of the whole district, as he is a finest speaker and his message, coming as it does from the highest government official in the province, will be well worth the time of every citizen.

All those who heard Dr. Wallace at the time of the teachers' convention in Vermilion know of the treat that is in store for them in his address. Dr. Wallace puts his thoughts in a way that compels his listeners to think.

Hon. R. G. Reid, the provincial treasurer, and sitting member for this district is a man of judgment and common sense and will be listened to by all with attention and appreciation.

The Hon. George Hoadley, minister of agriculture and health, will also have a greeting for the people of this community. He is the head of the department that has the supervision of the Schools of Agriculture and is intensely interested in health and agricultural educational matters, and all will be glad to hear him.

MASONIC BALL WAS LARGELY ATTENDED AND SUCCESSFUL AFFAIR

The annual Masonic ball held in the community hall new year's eve drew a record attendance and fully upheld its reputation as being the leading affair of the year. The hall was tastefully decorated, with something different from former dances held in the hall. Special mention of the orchestra stand might also be made. Chimes at midnight, a little drama of the passing of the old year and the entrance of the new, and a song with Mrs McLean leading, were other interesting features of the evening. Refreshments were served at 11.30 p. m. Music was supplied by the Lloydminster six-piece orchestra.

SCORE 3 TO 2

The North Battleford puck-chasers ran into another defeat last Thursday night when Clarence Barr and Co. outscored them 3-2 in a fine clean exhibition of hockey. The night previous the Lloyd. Elks had handed the touring North Battleford bunch a 4-1 trimming so this looks as if we were getting an A1 class of amateur hockey in this man's league. In the local game on Thursday evening Hanson was the big noise for the A.A.A. boys, playing a fine game throughout and garnering a goal and an assist, while M. Barr got one and C. Barr the other.

The line-ups:

Battleford—Hallwood; Mullins and Loscombe; Harper, Collins, King; Kirkpatrick, Howell and Pipes.

Vermilion—Millikan; M. Barr and Mackenzie; C. Barr, Hanson, Hallirk; Mooney, Wiebe and Rosebeck.

"ABIE'S IRISH ROSE" NOW SHOWING AT COLUMBIA

First Appearance of this Production in Alberta

Manager Pitkin of the Columbia Theatre has secured, at considerable expense, the first showing of the world famous play "Abie's Irish Rose" in the province. It was incorrectly stated in last week's paper that this play would come from Red Deer, but this film was shown for the first time in Alberta at the Columbia Theatre on Wednesday evening and will run until Saturday night. The play itself needs no comment. A comedy drama of the highest order, it has been on the stage in every civilized country in the world, but only lately has the play been put on the screen. Special vocal solos each evening, and a beautiful doll being given away to the lucky child at the Saturday matinee, are added features of the programme. Regular week-end prices.

World's Largest Medal

Awarded To Edmonton Man By Government Of China

The owner of the world's largest medal has been discovered after a search of many years, conducted by scientists interested in such things as Dr. C. Douglas of the Edmonton office of the Soldier Settlement Board, is the man.

It was by performing the last rites for a party of Chinese road workers, killed in France when they thoughtlessly camped on a spot selected by a night-flying Gotha to lay its eggs, that Mr. Douglas won his medal.

Serving with the Canadians, the Edmontonian was commanded to letter the dead Chinese, which he did with a dictionary and text that won the admiration of all onlookers.

A few months after coming back to the city, Mr. Douglas received a large parcel. It turned out to be a medal, about one foot across, with a couple of yards of red ribbon on it and covered with Chinese ideographs. A letter with the parcel explained that it was a gift from the Chinese government—which government, is not quite clear—as a reward for his services in burying the dead Chinamen in France.

Unfortunately, owing to its weight and size, Mr. Douglas has never been able to wear the medal.

Why She Won There

"If it hadna been for my sillier!" was dinned into McTavish's ears from morning till night by his most unattractive wife. The man was paying heavily for the privilege of marrying a woman with a "Tai dowry."

Buying a fine-stepping mare at the local monkey market, he rode the animal home, and immediately on his arrival he called to Maggot to come and see the new purchase.

"She's not a bad mare, McTavish," quietly admitted his wife, "and if it hadna been for my money she wouldna be here noo."

"Lest tak' ye woman," angrily exclaimed the husband. "If it hadna been for yer sillier ye wouldna hae been here yersel'!"—Sir Harry Lauder.

Depends On the Teacher

"I can't understand it!" said a farmer, after watching with undisguised envy a series of tricks performed by a pedlar's dog. "Here is this smart ge' yours doing all these clever things, and there is my dog, with a pedigree a yard long, can't be taught a single thing! I've hammered at it till I'm tired of him. He won't learn even the simplest tricks!" "Well, sir, 'tis'nt so much the dog," the pedlar replied confidentially, "You have to know more'n he does, or you can't learn him anything!"

Washed Eggs No Good For Storage

Experiments Show It Detracts From Their Keeping Qualities

Experience has shown that washed eggs are suitable only for immediate consumption, and will not stand up under storage conditions for any length of time. Although the washed egg may get by for a short time, and be quite acceptable on the fresh egg market, its inferiority is immediately evident after a period of storage.

Experiments carried on at several Dominion Experimental Farms have shown that clean eggs which graded 75 pc cent. specials and 25 per cent. extras before storage, graded 85 per cent. extras, 12 per cent. firsts, and 3 per cent. weak and watery after six months storage. Dirty eggs graded similarly when placed in storage, came out practically on a par with the clean eggs. Washed eggs, however, stored under similar conditions graded only 45 per cent. extras, 24 per cent. firsts, and 31 pcr cent. weak and watery, or nearly 50 per cent inferior to both the clean and dirty eggs.

Evidently the washing of eggs detracts from their keeping qualities to such an extent that it may be considered to be bad practice. It is advisable by cleanliness and sanitation on the poultry plant to avoid the producing of dirty eggs, writes H. S. Gutteridge, Poultry Husbandman, Central Experimental Farm, Ottawa. Dirty eggs, when obtained, should be marketed as such. By washing them the poultryman is placing a product of inferior quality upon the market.

The first insurance policy was issued on June 18, 1583, on the life of one William Gibbons.

Abbreviated Language

Transcribing English Into a Language Of Short Words

Is it true that the English language is about to transform itself into a language full of short words, spoken with a rapid, staccato utterance? That is the dismal prospect suggested by Professor Otto Jespersen in his lecture delivered to the British Academy; and no doubt there is much evidence in favor of the conclusion. A language that has dispensed with inflection is on the way to "monosyllabism"—a word which, by the way, goes comfortably far to correct the tendency which it names. Then there is also the subtle influence of slang, which tends always to invent some short, sharp substitute for any word that pleases the fancy of the hour or tongue; and popular custom inevitably adopts itself to the line of least resistance. Then, again, there is the influence of the American vernacular, which is becoming more and more potent in this country, with its vivid, pointed utterance and humorous quality, which so easily disarms resentment of its aggressive use. It is significant that Professor Otto Jespersen, that the tendency to monosyllabism is strongest in the English section of other language. Anyone who dabbles in verse-making is painfully aware of the difficulty of avoiding this tendency of monosyllables which are so fatal to rhythm and cadence. And yet monosyllables, as a rule, should be marketed as such. By washing them the poultryman is placing a product of inferior quality upon the market.

Cannot Dispute O'Malley Claim

Irish Family Dates Further Back Than Any In England

England's proudest families are said to take second place when they make allowance of the proud pedigree of the famous O'Malleys of Ireland.

The O'Malley claim is based on a magnificent illuminated pedigree, with pages bordered in green and gold, and with coats of arms in scarlet and blue and black, which is registered in the Office of Arms, at Dublin Castle. A hundred years ago it was certified by Sir William Betham, the Ulster King at Arms, as being "founded on evidence of the most unquestionable and authentic character." It proves that the O'Malleys are descended in an unbroken male line from 365 A.D., when it joined the Milesian-Gaelic High Kings of Ireland.

The Shirley's and Cresleys in England still claim to be the oldest families, but they have not been able to dispute the O'Malley claim.

Misses Her Master

Charlotte, the King's pet parrot has been disconsolate at her royal master's absence. She sits in study where her big cage hangs: "Where's the captain?" she demands immediately anybody enters the room and whatever the answer is does not appear to console her very much. Charlotte always uses nautical language, for she was born on a warship, and first passed into the King's possession when he was a young naval officer.

Our Trade With U.S.

Canada's trade with the United States amounted to $1,818,853,648 for the twelve months ending October 31st. This is an increase of $127,754,417 over the previous similar period. Imports amounted to $925,483,-204, and exports to $892,562,905, a gain of $30,304,753.

No Rival Of Canadian Banks

Will Not Compete With Existing Conditions Is View In London

The decision to establish a branch of Barclays Bank, Ltd., in Canada, is singled out by financial commentators. The London Financial Times says it gathers that Barclays Bank does not intend to extend its operations throughout the Dominion in competition with existing institutions, but that the future activities of the Canadian branch will depend on developments. The newspaper draws attention to two interesting points, first, how far the new bank will succeed in penetrating the existing system, and, second, its relations to the New York call market. The Financial Times expresses the opinion that if Barclays Bank fall into the practice whereby Canadian banks lend surplus funds in Wall Street, it will mean the establishment of a new, direct, connection between London and New York, thus in part supplying a new and valuable link in the chain of Empire banking. The proposal, is suggested, contains possibilities likely to lead to interesting developments.

Anti-Japanese Boycott

Order Has Been Issued Against Merchants in China

Chinese merchants who sell Japanese goods are to be paraded through the streets of Peking in wooden cages, while the people mock at them, according to an order issued by the local branch of the Kuomintang (Nationalist Party).

Wooden cages have been used for similar purposes in southern provinces before, but the interesting thing this is the first time the device has been used in the North to enforce a boycott. The anti-Japanese agitation is reported to be strengthening in all parts of China, and merchants are forbidden to sell even Japanese goods which they have in stock. Investigators are visiting shops to inspect the goods.

Might Be Good Move

News comes from France that a league has been formed there to ban banquets on the grounds that they place too great a strain upon the digestive of the patrons. This, we take it, is a step forward in the movement which has been going on that especially at banquets should be few and very short. It is not only a step forward in this, but obviously would do away with after-dinner speeches altogether. There are good reasons why this subject should receive due consideration.

Identified The Painting

Col. Mackenzie Rogan tells a good story about a party of Lancashire folk visiting a Northern art gallery. They had halted before a full-length picture of Adam and Eve in the Garden of Eden.

"Mary's that, mother?" inquired one of the gentlemen of the party. "I'll look in t'book," said she, consulting the catalogue.

"Why," she burst out a moment later, "it's Queen Elizabeth receiving the Spanish Ambassador!"

How Did He Know

An Irishman sold to a friend as they were about to go into the dining room, "If you can guess the number of eggs I'm going to have for dinner, you can have them both."

"Two," said the other.

"Take 'em," said the Irishman, "and curse the man that told ye."

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

JANUARY 6

OUR HEAVENLY FATHER

Golden Text: "Like as a father pitieth his children, so Jehovah pitieth them that fear Him."—Psalm 103.13.

Lesson: Exodus 34.4-7; Psalm 103. 1-5; 10-14; Isaiah 40.27-31; Matthew 6. 24-34; John 5.3-6; 4.20-24; 8 60-47; Romans 3.21-31; 8.14-17; 1 John. 4. 7-16.

Devotional Reading: John 5.3-6; 4. 20-24.

Explanations and Comments

Serve God Only, verse 24.—You cannot serve, be the slave, of both God and mammon. The word mammon comes from a Syriac word meaning that in which one puts his trust, and because so many put their trust in riches, the word has come to generally mean riches. You cannot put your trust in God and also in riches. It is not a sin to have riches, but it is a sin to put your trust in riches.

You cannot serve God and mammon; for you have in your heart for loyalty to one only.

"How do you know there is but one God?" a father asked his son, to test him. "Suppose after all, we should be mistaken, and it should turn out that there are a great many gods?" "Why, then," the boy replied, "there would you put them? There's room for only One."

Trust God, verses 25-34.—Five times in ten verses Jesus says, "Be not anxious." Therefore I say unto you, Do not anxious for your life. The Authorized Version reads, "Take no thought for your life." Even at the time that translation was made such words included the idea of anxiety, and meant to take no anxious thought. Moffatt's translation of the rest of the verse reads: "Do not trouble about what you are to eat in life, nor about what you are to put on your body; surely life means more than food, surely the body means more than clothes."

Then Jesus gives us a lesson from the birds. It is not idleness nor want of forethought which Jesus condemns, but to be unlike the birds and the wild birds; it is their freedom from care.

Are you not of greater value than they? Our everlasting Father watched a bird as it sat perched on a twig of a tree, and then he said: "This little bird has had its supper and is now getting ready to go to sleep here, quite secure and content under the shadow of the Almighty."

Commercial Feeding Stuffs

Hundreds Of Brands Of Feeding Stuffs On Market

Feeders of live stock and poultry accustomed to raising their own feed will be astonished to learn that there are hundreds of brands of commercial feeding stuffs on the market. Indeed, it is reported by the Seed Commissioner, at Ottawa, that in the registration year ending September 30th, 946 brands of commercial feeding stuffs were registered by the manufacturers. The Province of Ontario stands highest both with number of manufacturers and number of brands registered, there being no less than 453 varieties of food made by 85 manufacturers. British Columbia follows with 174 brands made by 44 manufacturers.

These feeding stuffs are very carefully analyzed and are given registration only when they measure up to the requirements of the Feeding Stuffs Act.

Little Helps For This Week

"Choose you this day whom ye will serve."—Joshua xxiv. 15.

But hasni are the voices,—
"Choose well, your choice is
Brief, and yet endless;
Here sys do regard you
In eternity's stillness;
Here in all fulness,
Ye brave, ye reward you;
Work, and despair not."
—Johann Wolfgang Von Goethe

You must choose whom you will serve. You cannot serve God and mammon; you cannot be a friend of Christ and a friend of the world at the same time. The way is narrow and rough, and there is no way saving it is not; but depend upon it, there can be no saving religion without sacrifice and self-denial.—Ryle.

Find Ancient Razor

The ancestor of all razors is believed to have been dug out of a temple at Moutiers-les-Amiens in the Somme Valley, and it is said to be cut off, but otherwise the straight-edged blade would be as good as new with honing. It was discovered by a French archaeologist, Dharvent, and neolithic experts to whom it was shown declare it to be 10,000 years old.

Planning Second Atlantic Trip

Commander Is Anxious To Refute Criticisms, Of Graf Zeppelin

The Hamburg correspondent of the Telegraphen Union quotes Dr. Hugo Eckener as saying that the Graf Zeppelin would make another transAtlantic flight in order to refute criticisms that have come from various sources, particularly from Frederick Gillilan, who was one of the American passengers when the big ship travelled from Friedrichshafen to Lakehurst, N.J.

Dr. Eckener was quoted as saying that the dirigible was not wholly faultless, but that she was not so bad as her critics have painted her.

No date was mentioned for the second visit to the United States. It might come anytime before the spring of 1930, when the Zeppelin is under contract to carry Friedjof Nansen over his unexplored Arctic regions northeast of Alaska.

Mr. Gillilan's criticisms of the voyage to the United States were made as he started back to Europe on a steamer. He expressed dislike of the accommodations on the dirigible and of the treatment accorded the passengers, as well as doubts of its stability and safety. He was one of those hard hit by the "no-smoking" regulations.

Russia Responsible For Chinese Revolt

Soviet Agents Built Foundation Says Governor Of Hong Kong

Addressing the Canadian Club at Vancouver, Sir Cecil Clementi, governor of Hong Kong, described the recent revolution in China, the foundation of which he said, had been built by Russian Soviet agents. It was Russian inspiration which set the Chinese about driving British from their soil. British prestige once lost had been revived and it has now been officially announced that China intends to seek British prosperity in that country, he said.

Sir Cecil spoke of the need of understanding the Chinese if British merchants and diplomats were to succeed in the far east.

No Wonder

The bus had struck a patch of very bad road and the conductor was thrown off his balance. On regaining it, he accidentally stepped on a nottoo-young woman's toe.

A violent argument ensued, which was finally terminated by the comforter demanding his opponent's fare.

The passenger snapped out her destination, tendering a coin.

"Single?" asked the conductor.

"Yes," she snapped again.

The conductor looked her up and down.

"Hm," he murmured as a parting shot. "I'm not surprised!"

Starts Air Taxi Service

France's foremost woman pilot has been forbidden by the Government to drive an airplane on the big commercial lines, so she has started an aeroplane taxi service. Miss Maryse Bastie, holder of the world's record for straight-line flights by a woman in a light airplane, already possesses an airplane. She hopes to make a paying service between Paris and Deauville, La Touquet, and other fashionable resorts next spring and summer.

New High School Opens Next Thursday

The new high school will be opened for class work on Thursday of next week. It may be that the building will not be taken over then, this depending upon whether everything has in the meantime been completed. The carpenters finished their work today (Wednesday) and the building is now in the hands of the painters. It is not expected that the floors will be ready until Monday or Tuesday and it will take at least a day or so to place all the desks and seatings. The tables for the laboratory will be here on Saturday. They are being manufactured in North Battleford. There will be four, each twelve feet long. Two will be placed on each side of the room. The tables contain cabinets and drawers arranged so that two students can work at each unit. From four to six students will be working on their own resources, that is they will have to do more experimental work than has been the case heretofore. There will be no seats in this room but the students will be provided with stools available them to work to better advantage.

The official opening will not take place for some little time yet.

All the furniture and equipment of the high school will be removed this week from the old building and installed in the new one just as soon as conditions permit. This work will be finished by Thursday. Everything at the latest and cleanest renew their term work on Thursday. The board are anxious to have the new school in use as soon as possible. The first donation received for this commendable purpose was from return the John Wells, who, although he is unable not of Burn's works. It is thought that by the time the school opens a great many more volumes will be placed at the disposal of the board.

Mrs. A. Taylor entertained the men born of the Ladies' Aid, among those present being Messrs Verbert Moulove and Clive Stephens while the Canoe conclusions was made by by Margaret Wilson, Bertha McRae Muriel Moore, Mae Crisp, Campbell Moore, Alma Rostborn Roy Fraser.

Ted Brown, who will be well remembered as a member of the cast of 'The Mummy and the Mumps' went to Edmonton this week where he is being employed by the C. N. R.

The first donation to the school library has been received from Mr. John Wells, who presented a valuable set of Burn's works to the board.

Earl Bowser and Stewart Bothwell of Islay returned to Varsity on Thursday afternoon's train, while Miss Flora Farwer travelled to the Canoeus second on the same day. Miss Jean Fyfe expects to leave for her school in Saskatoon on Sunday night.

"A Peerless New Year" will be the subject at the Presbyterian church next Sunday evening. Rev. H. D. Hamborough will be the preacher. Everybody welcome.

The Cabaret boys are playing a return game at Hamerville on Friday night this week.

PRESENTATION AT WILDWOOD

An interesting ceremony took place during the service at Wildwood on Dec. 23rd, when Mrs Geo Jack, Secretary of the Ladies Aid presented their minister, Mr. Mitchelson, with a cheque. In doing so she thanked him for his painstaking conscientious and faithful performance of all duties, never considering himself, but having the well being of his people at heart. The hope was expressed that he would be spared for a long time to labour among them as their friend and pastor. Mr Mitchelson suitably replied, saying that this had been so suddenly sprung upon him that he could not find words to express his feelings. Whatever he had done had been done from a sense of duty and love to them as a minister of the gospel, he thanked them for that bond of friendship which had been formed and hoped that them might be blessed Jesus would ever have the pre-eminence and that his work here would go on prospering.

CHRISTMAS TREE AT WILDWOOD

Santa Claus found himself at Wildwood, Thursday, December 20 when a splendid program was rendered with marked precision, compliments O Canada, chorus songs, recitations, dialogues, monologues, drills, boat-drill, fairies, Old Saint Nicholas and Song. The following pupils took part Grace Dowen, Murray Bowen, Bobby Shavich, Myrtle Shavich, Ruth Hilbert, Muriel Stone, Tommie Wheadon, Helen Bowen, Marshall Bowen, Kenneth Shavich, Edna Hastir, Tom Hastir, Mary Wheadon, Arthur Cote, Paul Hagir. James Stone rendered a comedy recitation which kept the audience in explosions of laughter

Great credit is due Miss Johnston, the teacher, for the splendid training her pupils received. After God Above the King had been sung by the assembly, twelve of them were passed by Mrs. Cole, Mrs. Wheadon, the teacher and the pupils for their contributions to the evening's enjoyment. Gifts on the Christmas tree were distributed by Santa Claus, followed by applause, cheers and songs.

The Rev. William Mitchelson acted as chairman.

KINNAIRD (KITSCOTY)

The Christmas Tree at Kinnaird was a great success, being held on the 21st. The house was packed to the door.

The Kinnaird Ladies Aid presented Mrs. Mitchelson, wife of Rev. Mitchelson, with a cheque, wishing him all success in the work on the field.

GANTON (TOLLAND)

Under the auspices of the Sunday School at Ganton, nearly one hundred people enjoyed a splendid and effective program, consisting of songs and recitations by the children. The following are the names of those who participated in the evening's entertainment. Shirley Trevithick, Marion McQuid, Elsie Rudd, Fred Webber, Margaret Byrd, Ronald Rudd, Peggy Rudd, Fernet Vanpaulin. Mrs. Trevithick rendered a beautiful song "Home for Xmas."

After God Save the King had been sung, votes of thanks were given to the children, Mrs. Trevithick and Mrs. McQuid who presided at the organ.

Santa Claus appeared and distributed the gifts. As usual, Mrs. C. H. Webber had a gift for each child.

Mr. Mitchelson also received a gift of thanks will you the whole school in appreciation. The large new boiler is ready to commence its duties, but will not be connected up until the installation of the smaller engine is completed

Industry Owes a Great Debt To the Work of Scientists Who Discover Secrets of Nature

When science speaks, thinking men give heed. Not long ago as time is finely reckoned, the world was in the haze of superstition and ignorance. To be exact, our present wealth of scientific knowledge had its beginning with the discoveries of Galileo and Newton; and during the intervening three hundred and fifty years unbelievable progress has been made. Dr. Robert A. Millikan, of the California Institute of Technology, talked about these things the other night to the members of the New York Stock Chamber of Commerce, and interested his audience deeply. The New York Times deemed it worth while to give his address in full for Dr. Millikan, winner of the Nobel prize for research work in isolating the cosmic and vegetable ray, the leading American physicist, speaks with authority. He told this important group of industrialists that pure science was the parent of modern industry, and he amply proved his case. He began by alluding to the more or less universal belief a century ago that Bishop Usher's calculation of the date of creation was accurate. It was not known, he asserted very positively, that this world of ours has been in existence for at least a billion years, and that the possibilities "the human race can probably count on occupying it for a very long time to come, say another billion years." Since the period of time within which our wider knowledge has been gathered might be regarded as no more than a minute, it is the advance of scientific truth which may be reasonably expected to take place that makes the outlook so bright with promise and interest. "There is the possibility of control," said Dr. Millikan, "of learning in the next billion years to live at least a million times more wisely and well than we live." A glorious prospect indeed.

Commenting on the stimulating story of progress during comparatively recent years, Dr. Millikan showed quite conclusively how the radio and the aeroplane, for example, would not be products of scientific discoveries made by Galileo and Newton and by others since. The forward march to these achievements had been methodical and gradual. "Do you suppose," he asked, "that Marconi could have invented the radio if the laws governing all heat engines, the laws governing electrical oscillations through the use in the preceding hundred years of the steam engine, and the wireless made possible by the preceding 200 years of work in celestial mechanics; that this was was only made possible by the discovery of the laws of force and motion by Galileo and Newton? That states the relation of pure science to industry." And this was just as true of the radio, the fundamental structure of which has been built in the research laboratories since 1916. In all branches of human progress the same story holds true. One step has led to another. We are now moving somewhat rapidly in the broad field of electrical energy, and in the application of the scientific knowledge gathered in the fruitful century just ended with respect to the atom and the constitution of matter. Pure science has laid the foundation for applied science, and at this point the great captains of industry step in with their genius for organization and production. If our great industrial parents could return to us for a day they would feel themselves in a world utterly new to them; yet a century hence the change may be even more amazing. Men of science are probing deeper and deeper every day in the secrets of nature. A truth learned today may tomorrow become a basis of a great and revolutionary invention; and as the world of thinking men and women has moved upward to knowledge almost by instinct, it has at the same time formed new concepts of the philosophy of life. The quest for truth goes on, and it will be an immeasurable privilege to watch the unfolding of a new era of knowledge.—Montreal Gazette.

Diagram: closing of bodice, swathed girdle and skirting at one side of skirt, are attractive new style features seen in Design No. 960. The collar that extends to lower edge of waist line in front affords splendid opportunity for trimming contrast. As in the case of the model, the skirt is made of the dull side of crepe, which is also used for cuffs and girdle. Flat silk crepe, duchesse and sheer velvet, suit well on with canton-faille crepe silk, printed crepe satin, crepe romaine, crepe Elizabeth, georgette crepe, satin-backed velvet, silk knots, wool crepe and canton-faille crepe are also suitable for this style. Pattern in sizes 16, 18 20 years, 36, 38, 40 and 42 inches bust measure and only requires 3½ yards of 40-inch material and 3/8 yard of 2-inch lace, as sketched for the 36-inch size. Gold Dredging At Medicine Hat

A company formed in Medicine Hat with 90 miles of river fronts for gold-dredging in the river is expected to start work as soon as its equipment arrives. This follows a ten weeks' visit of inspection here by C. L. Holmes, a California dredging engineer. Reports appear to promise well.

A Valuable Newspaper

Schanson, of the Columbian News Company, Columbian, Ohio, has refused an offer of $300 for a copy of the New York Herald of April 15, 1865—the paper with the story of Abraham Lincoln's Assassination. The paper originally sold for three cents.

A recent emigrate shows that 28 out of every 100 farmers in western Canada own a motor car and 18 out of every 100 farms have gasoline tractors.

Daily Newspaper For Falkland Islands

Enterprise Of Governor Is Recognized—No Fee Its Motto

A recent issue of the London Morning Post says:—"I have before me a copy of a daily newspaper which is published farther south than any of its contemporaries. It is the Penguin, printed and published at Port Stanley, Falkland Islands, and it owes its existence to the enterprise and assistance of the Governor, Sir Arnold Hodson, C.M.G.

This remarkable publication contains 22 foolscap typewritten pages printed on a copying machine, and can be only one penny a day, or 2s. a month. It contains the latest wireless news, accounts of the visits of British warships to the ports, as well as accounts of rifle and miniature rifle shooting and other sports, a Ladies' Page, a Children's Page, and a long poem on golf by the Governor himself, which concludes with the excellent advice:

"And do not, after every game
Recount the way you played the same."

Altogether the Falkland Islands have reason to be proud of their new daily, which the advent of wireless has rendered possible, and I am sure my readers will join me in wishing the Penguin every success and the largest possible circulation."

Nothing Modern In Scientific Equipment

Aeroplane Had Planes, and Automobiles Opinion Of Henry Ford

Aeroplanes and automobiles and all other scientific equipment of the age existed in civilizations so ancient that historians have no record of them, Henry Ford is quoted as saying in an interview with Ralph Waldo Trine, published in the January number of McClure's magazine.

The Detroit manufacturer said, according to the article, said a highly developed moral sense was the only attribute of modern man that was not possessed by ancient peoples.

He believes, Trine writes, that the moral sense was developed through re-incarnation.

"This globe has been inhabited by intelligent human beings," Mr. Ford is quoted as saying. "Very ancient people. I believe, were highly developed in the arts and sciences.

"I believe they had all or most of the things we think are the creations of modern progress. In some way they had the automobile, the radio and the aeroplane.

With an almost empty treasury, the new Manin Peasant Government has undertaken the gigantic task of feeding a half-million peasants out of state resources. A relief commission which was sent to Rumania, has recommended the employment of the male population in the construction of roads, for this measure the Government gave its unqualified approval.

Roumania's wheat exports this year were the lowest in the history of the country.

Will Buy World's Champion Cow

Hon. C. M. Hamilton, minister of agriculture, announces that Saskatchewan will purchase the world's champion Holstein cow from Ben H. Thompson, of Bakaru, Sask., her present owner, for $10,000, to prevent the sale of her splendid animal to the province.

COL. HENRY COCKSHUTT,
Director, Canadian Pacific Railway

Colonel Cockshutt, ex-Lieutenant-Governor of Ontario, is a director of the Canadian Pacific Railway and the Bank of Montreal, and President of the Cockshutt Plow Company. He was born in Brantford, in 1846, son of Ignatius Cockshutt, and was educated at Brantford Public and High Schools. He has been associated with the Cockshutt Plow Company since 1884, becoming Secretary-Treasurer in 1886, Managing Director in 1895, and later President. He served as Mayor of Brantford during the term of 1900-1901, was President in 1894, and 1895 of Trade in 1896, and President of the Canadian Manufacturers Association in 1906. He was also Lieutenant-Governor of the Province of Ontario in 1921, and served at that post until 1927.

Granary Is Now Wilderness

Researchs Paves Famine When Wheat Crop Fails For Second Year

For two consecutive years Bessarabia's wheat crop has failed and what was once Europe's granary, is today a desolate wilderness, with famine in its wake. Bessarabia's rich wheat fields were devastated by a scorching heat and drought. The unusual cold and heavy rainfall has thrown the hard-working population of Bessarabia into despair.

Eye-witnesses, who have just returned from the famished districts, report harrowing scenes which occur daily in this remotest and inaccessible part of Roumania. The mortality among the inhabitants has increased alarmingly, because the peasants have resorted to the use of roots, herbs and other non-nutritive foods for sustenance.

With an almost empty treasury, the new Manin Peasant Government has undertaken the gigantic task of feeding a half-million peasants out of state resources. A relief commission which was sent to Rumania, has recommended the employment of the male population in the construction of roads, for this measure the Government gave its unqualified approval.

Better Baby Chicks

Inspection Policy Adopted Which May Have Good Results

A policy is to be put into operation by the Department of Agriculture, at Ottawa, to protect the interests of the purchasers of baby chicks. The Baby Chick Association, representing the whole of Canada, has felt the need of some oversight of the hatchery industry, and their executive committee has co-operated with officials of the Live Stock Branch in preparing a workable plan. The policy to be known as "Approved Hatcheries" provides for the inspection of flocks supplying hatchery eggs and the certification of those that measure up to the requirements with respect to layperformance, health and type. The inspection is to be done under the direction of the Live Stock Commissioner by district poultry promoters and others duly qualified for the work. The approved hatcheries themselves are to be under supervision so as to judge of their fitness to do business. Hatcheries wishing to qualify as "Approved" are required first to make application on forms that have been prepared by the Live Stock Commissioner, on which must be recorded, among other things, the breed and variety of the flocks, the date the birds would be ready for inspection and testing, the size of the flocks, both with respect to pullets and hens, and the name and location and capacity of the hatchery.

Famous Cow To Remain in Saskatchewan

Holstein Cow, Canary Kornbyke Augustra, Purchased By Provincial Government

Purchase for $10,000 of "Canary Kornbyke Augustra," the Holstein cow holding the world's record for butter fat production, from Ben H. Thomson, of Bakaru, by the Saskatchewan government was announced by Hon. C. M. Hamilton, minister of agriculture.

Mr. Hamilton stated that arrangements had been made to leave the cow in the care of Mr. Thomson at "Brookyn" farm at Bakaru, six miles from Moose Jaw. "Having developed this animal as well as a number of others with outstanding high records, Mr. Thomson is probably in a better position than anyone else in Canada to look after mature record," stated Mr. Hamilton.

Shortly after "Canary" beat the previous world's record, Mr. Thomson received an offer from the manager of one of the wealthy corporations operating a large Holstein herd in the United States. Mr. Hamilton said that since this became known he had been flooded with letters, telegrams and offers from Moose Jaw. "Having developed this animal as well as a number of others with outstanding high records, Mr. Thomson is probably in a better position than anyone else in Canada to look after mature record," stated Mr. Hamilton.

JANUARY 1st, 1913

W. H. McClinton and wife of Pilot Butte, Sask., are spending the holidays with friends in Vermilion.

A. Wheeler of the Bank of Commerce staff has been moved to the Winnipeg office.

W. B. Cameron, real estate dealer, Battleford, was in town during the week.

C. F. Dolliver and family moved to town this week from their farm and have taken up residence for the winter. Mr. Dolliver reports his auction sale a big success, cows bringing from $74 to $94, yearlings from $40 to $56. A spring foal sold for $165 and a brood mare for $250.

At the dance at Allandale school on December 27, a prize was given for the best waltzer. The prize was awarded to Wm. Armstrong and Miss A. Lee. People may think that Billy is pretty slow, but he generally succeeds in running off with the prize.

The year 1912 saw very gratifying progress in the town. It is, perhaps, useless to say that it was the best year Vermilion has had and the prospects for the future could not be brighter. The hope is that before many years Vermilion will be one of the brightest and most progressive among the young cities of the West.

Clarks Defeat Manville and Elks Are Trimmed by Vets in Civic League Double Header

Last Wednesday evening saw the opening of the Civic League when a double headed bill was put on for the hockey enthusiasts. A great deal of hockey was dished up to the two rail birds present, as all the senior players are divided among the clubs.

The first game ended with the Vets team on the long end of a 7-3 count against the Elks.

In the second set-to of the evening a Manville team substituted for the College boys, but the Clarks had little difficulty in winning 9-1. A matter of interest is that Welch is goal, Hanson and Hodgson on defence, with Cooper, Fellow, Chisholm, MacKenzie, Lamb and Sharp constituted the Clarks line-up.

Red Cross Workers Deserve Gratitude Of All Citizens

We are now approaching the end of another year of very valuable Red Cross work in the Province of Alberta and can look back on the results and accomplishments with a great amount of pleasurable pride. Those who have had charge of the work in this Province are deserving of the gratitude of every citizen who is interested in the welfare and happiness of our people.

Perhaps few of our citizens have a proper conception of the magnitude of the work done by the Red Cross workers and the constant demands that are continually being made upon them from different parts of the Province, especially from the outposts of civilization where other help is not available. Prompt attention has been paid to these demands and immediate relief given to many of these deserving cases.

If any person will take the trouble to visit the Junior Red Cross hospitals in Edmonton or Calgary he can see for himself the wonderful work being done transforming crippled children into strong, healthy citizens.

Sometimes people ask the question: "Is the Red Cross Society necessary when we have so many community organizations doing similar work?" We all appreciate the excellent work of these organizations but none is in so good a position to render assistance during humanity the aid so badly needed as The Red Cross Society. It is a world-wide organization which functions efficiently during the Great War, which has received the recognition of the League of Nations and should be able during times of peace to continue to give to the peoples of the world as valuable service as it did during the war.

In order to continue these services efficiently this society must receive the financial support of the citizens of each Province. The central organization of the Dominion has since the close of the war given financial aid to the Provinces but now finds itself unable to continue this assistance through lack of funds. Each Province must now furnish its own funds to carry on this work.

If Red Cross activities are to be continued in Alberta our citizens must realize the responsibility and give liberally to the support of this cause. We sincerely trust that the people of Alberta value the reputation of the Province too highly to permit the failure of such a cause for lack of support.

(Signed) W. EGBERT,
Lieutenant Governor of Alberta.

Bi-Lingual "Chanty" Sea Discovered

RALPH CROMIE
Ralph Cromie, the well known Canadian novelist, collected recently from a half-breed voyageur, in the Canadian Northwest a highly interesting folksong which will be sung at the Vancouver-the Music Festival next January by Ulysse Paquin, of Montreal. This song is half French, half English, the first part being the story of a Valiant Cabin while the chorus is an English one chanty "Blow the winds of morning". This bi-lingual song appears to have been popular many years ago at a time when white pine was exported in large quantities on the old sailing ships from Quebec which carried overseas the logs rafted down the St. Lawrence from the Ottawa River. The word 'chanty' is considered by some authorities as connected with the "shanties" of the Quebec lumberjacks who frequently were sailors as well as woodsmen and always sang at their work. According to Ralph Cromie, the half-breed or metis from whom he recorded this song was a bateau-some chap with beautiful voice and manners and was a first-class canoeman. A number of purely French Canadian chanteys as well will be sung by Ulysse Paquin at Vancouver, as the intention is to make this Sea Music Festival as Canadian as possible.

INFLUENZA

(Issued by the Provincial Department of Public Health)

The first epidemic of influenza of which an accurate description of the symptoms has been given occurred in 1889-90. Before this time the account of the clinical features of the disease was confusing and often conflicting.

Leichtenstern gives the following description of the type of influenza which occurred in the 1889 outbreak: "The typical influenza consists of a sudden pyrexia of from one to several days' duration, commencing with a rigor and accompanied by severe headache, generally frontal, with pains in the back and limbs, with prostration quite out of proportion to other symptoms, and marked loss of appetite." He also adds that catarrhal symptoms arise from the affection of the respiratory tract, particularly the upper respiratory tract. The above description is closely in accord with the symptoms of the influenza which was epidemic in 1918, when not accompanied by complications.

In the epidemic of 1892, the upper respiratory tract was more generally affected than the lower, whereas in the 1918 epidemic the lower tract was the more commonly affected.

Three other forms of the disease are observed:

A Nervous Form—Without any catarrhal symptoms in evidence. There is headache, pain in the back and joints, and marked prostration.

The Gastro-Intestinal Form — Nausea, vomiting, abdominal pain, diarrhea, collapse, being the common manifestations of the type of influenza.

Febrile Form—Although fever is usually present in all forms of influenza, in this form it is the only manifestation of the disease. It is sometimes remittant and accompanied by chills. In a few cases, the fever may last for several weeks and simulate typhoid fever.

At the present time influenza is epidemic over a large part of North America. The first cases of the disease appear to have been reported in the Pacific Coast States, and within the last three or four weeks, the infection has swept east and north across the continent. The disease is now prevalent in Alberta, but fortunately is of a much milder type than that which prevailed in 1918.

Symptoms

There may be considerable variation in the initial symptoms. There may or may not be evidence of coryza or cold in the head. Nose bleed occurs in some cases. The fever is of a moderate height. The throat is usually congested. Headache, mostly frontal, is an early manifestation but may be absent. Dizziness, loss of appetite, and palpitation of the heart may ensue. Marked weakness, shortness of breath, and severe muscular and joint pains may be present. In some cases severe abdominal pain may be complained of and in severe infection, cyanosis may be noted. In a few cases, a rash appears shortly after the onset of the symptoms, usually being more noticed on the chest and back.

While the type of the disease prevailing at this time is generally speaking, a mild one, some subjects are severely ill than others, and as a consequence all do not manifest the variety of symptoms described above.

Prevention

To avoid contracting the disease, it is advisable to keep away from crowds and crowded places. By reducing contact to a minimum, the chances of being infected are reduced. Avoid getting chilled and wash the hands frequently. Also by diligently observing the following simple rules of health:

Eat plain, easily digestible and nourishing food, and keep the bowels well regulated.

Get eight hours' sleep each night in a well-ventilated bedroom.

Get some exercise each day out in the open.

Do not worry about the disease.

Be cheerful.

If the symptoms of the disease are outlined above develop, go to bed at once and remain there until fully recovered. Thousands of people have died from influenza or the complications following influenza by attempting to stay at work and fight the disease.

Make 1929 a Happy New Year

The old year has become a part of the history of the past. The new year has dawned. It is with a feeling of optimism that the people of Canada have hailed its coming. Conditions throughout the Dominion are most encouraging and the outlook for the future is distinctly bright.

If we all have faith in Canada, in her institutions, in her enterprises, in her resources, and we all work together striving for her greater development and prosperity, there is hardly any limit to the greatness to which as a people we can carry our country.

But if in 1929, the Canadian people are to realize the bright hopes entertained for their Dominion at the dawning of the year, there must be a realization of the fact that each individual must do his or her share. There is not a Canadian citizen, no matter how humble the sphere they occupy, but who has it in their power to do something to either promote or retard the welfare of the country during the next twelve months.

Of first importance is our own outlook on life. If that outlook is a cheerful, optimistic one; if we are eager to rise the bright, rather than the dark things of everyday life; if we strive to see the good in all matters and things which affect ourselves and the community in which we live; if in our criticism of public men and affairs we seek to be constructive, to build up rather than tear down; if, in a word, our thoughts and actions are of kindly intent, then a good foundation is laid for our work of making the new year the brightest, happiest, most prosperous Canada has ever known.

Next in importance is it to realize that for the vast majority the best service that can be rendered to Canada is to be found in the faithful discharge of whatever duties may fall to us in the daily round of ordinary tasks. For example, if, without a single exception, the farmers of the Dominion tilled the soil a little better, used somewhat better seed, fought weeds a little more vigorously, who can measure what the aggregate result would be in larger, better crops and consequently increased national prosperity? Or, if every office clerk, every workman and laborer, did their work this year a little more conscientiously, exercising greater care and promptitude, the effect on the business life of the Dominion would be tremendous.

Who can possibly compute the gain to Canada in 1929, if men and women, boys and girls, employers and employees, individually and collectively, co-operated to promote good health and prevent disease; by taking only reasonable precautions largely reduced losses of life and property through fire; by obeying the laws and observing the courtesies of the road eliminated many of the preventable automobile accidents?

There is nothing very great or wonderful about these and sundry other matters of a like kind. They are in no sense spectacular. Their accomplishment does not call for great executive ability, large wealth, or high position. No, it is within the power of everybody to contribute their quota.

But it is just through the exercise of such commonplace qualities as care, forethought, presence of mind, courtesy, faithfulness to duty in discharging the smallest task, that this new year can be made exceptionally bright, unbelievably happy, and enormously prosperous.

And is Canada not worthy of such simple but effective service? Consider all the countries in the world today! Can you name one that is healthier, that has more varied beauty of mountains, lakes, rivers and forests, that possesses greater wealth of natural resources, that has less poverty, fewer slums, a better system of education or of government, more of the modern comforts of life available for a greater proportion of the total population, or that offers greater opportunities for advancement to those eager and willing to work that they may take advantage of offered opportunities?

Canada is deserving of the best we have in us to give, and if we give it, as we should, there is no country in the world which will so fully and so quickly reward the giver.

Canada's Living Cost Lowest

Great Britain and United States Considerably Higher

The cost of living in Canada, while over 50 per cent. higher than before the war, still continues lower than in the United States, Great Britain, or in any of the principal countries. Taking 1913 as 100, the index cost of living in Canada in October, 1928, was 152, in the United States, 170, and in Great Britain, 166.

The cost of living was the peak of living costs in all countries save for the fantastic prices of the depreciated currency period in some of the central European nations. In Canada, in 1920, it rose to 190; in the United States, 204.4; in Great Britain, 255. There was a slump in Canada in 1924, and then a rise to 152 in October of last year.

The index of retail prices: rents and services in Canada was 153 in November, as compared with 152 last October. Food and clothing reached their peak in 1920, fuel in 1921, and rent in 1924-25. Generally speaking food, fuel and clothing are low this year compared to the post-war years. In November of 1928, as compared with November of 1927, foods were lower, save eggs and butter, which were higher.

Gift Will Be Appreciated

British Hospitals Receive £50,000 For Purchase Of Radium

The urgent need of the London hospitals for radium has produced a splendid result, for Sir Otto Beit has placed at the disposal of King Edward Hospital Fund a sum of £50,000 to be spent in the purchase of radium for distribution on loan among those institutions which can make the best use of it. The present cost of radium is about £12,500 a gramme. The Radium Institute, which holds the largest stock in the country, has only five grammes. From such figures the beneficient value of Sir Otto Beit's gift may be judged.

Many mothers have reason to bless Mother Graves' Worm Exterminator because it has relieved the little ones of suffering and made them healthy.

Puzzle For Jurymen

The forensuh was arguing with the jurymun who was holding out on the case.

"How can you refuse to convict that man with all the evidence clearly against him?" he asked crossly.

"Huh!" snorted the stubborn one in disgust, "how kin ye convict him of manslaughter when it was a woman he killed?"

Agricultural production in British Columbia in 1928, valued at $71,030,000, is higher than in any previous year.

Invisible Death Ray

New Invention Of German Experimenter Has Fearful Possibilities

Capable of exploding one kilogram of coal with a force of 90,000,000,000 horsepower and creating instant death to anything it touches are claims laid by Erich Graichen, 30, of Berlin, Germany, for his "invisible death ray."

Graichen's ray is produced by an electrical current of 160,000 voltage passed through a vacuum valve of quartz glass containing an anode and two cathodes. The ray is it's product of a combination of Roentgen or X-rays, cathode rays and light rays.

The purpose of the ray, according to Graichen, is to banish storms and help eradicate cancer.

His present ray is said to kill at 15 feet. "I am afraid under present inadequate conditions to build a bigger valve," he says, "for it would destroy everything in the laboratory."

NEGLECTED ANAEMIA

Often Leads To the Most Serious Consequences

In no disorder is delay or neglect more dangerous than in Anaemia. Usually the first noticeable signs are pale lips and cheeks, dark rims under the eyes and a feeling of weariness. Then follow headaches, backaches, palpitation, indigestion and nervousness. The only way that anaemia can be overcome is to enrich the blood, and it is because of their wonderful blood-enriching qualities that Dr. Williams' Pink Pills owe their great success in the treatment of the most anaemic conditions.

Thousands of young girls who were in an anaemic condition owe their health and strength to Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. One of these, Miss Kaille McEachern, Bathurst, N.B., says: "I praise the day I began the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. I had not been feeling well for some time. I was very pale, had severe headaches, and my heart would palpitate fearfully when I climbed a hill or anything special. The least exertion would leave me tired and breathless. In this condition I began taking Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. I continued their use until I had taken six boxes, by which time I was again enjoying good health. I hope my experience will induce others to give this medicine a fair trial."

If you are at all run-down, or weak, nervous or ailing, you should take Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and you will soon be well and strong. These pills are sold by all medicine dealers or may be had at 50 cents a box by The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Beneath His Station

Bricklayer's Laborer Chose Unemployment Rather Than Weird Job

The Unemployment Insurance Umpire of the British Ministry of Labour has just struck a blow at the dignity of a bricklayer who recently refused to sweep a yard because he considered that it was beneath his status.

If the foreman wanted him to do general laborer's work, he said, he would have to give him a written notice terminating his engagement as a bricklayers' laborer and re-engage him as a general laborer.

The foreman told the man either to do the work or clear out. He refused.

Then he made application for the dole. The Employment Exchange referred him to the Umpire, and he pealed to the Court of Referees and they sanctioned it. The Chief Insurance Officer, however, appealed to the Umpire, who has just decided against the man.

"If a laborer chooses to throw himself out of employment," he says, in delivering his decision, "because he considers that he is required to do pairs by sweeping a yard, he must not expect to be compensated for his loss of employment out of the Unemployment Insurance Fund."

Miller's Worm Powders will drive worms from the system without illness to the child. These powders are so easy to take that the most delicate stomach can retain them and the welcome them as speedy cavers of pain, because they promptly remove the worms that cause the pain, and thus the suffering of the child is relieved. With so delightful a remedy at hand no child should suffer an hour from worms.

Quite Impossible

A man complained to a parson of the continual noise made on a trombone by a neighbor.

"Can a man," he asked, "who practises on such an instrument from morning to night be a good Christian?"

"Such a man might possibly be a good Christian," replied the parson, "but his neighbor couldn't!"

Always keep Minard's Liniment handy.

The very first evidence of a feast having been held in honor of the birth of Christ was in Egypt, about the year 300.

Sick Stomach Troubles Have a Good Lesson

Miss Jeanne Gendron, Bronx, N.Y., writes: "I had become accustomed to suffering each day with a bad stomach and a bad taste in my mouth. My appetite was poor, I vomited, and constipated. I feel greatly relieved after taking your kindly vegetable laxative. CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS did wonders—one pill the red page.

Radio Users Will Welcome New Invention

Device To Eliminate Static Said To Work Perfectly

If the report that a convict in the state prison of Nebraska has invented a device for the elimination of static from radio proves true, then a great revolution is assured in the radio world, for a contemporary points out. Everybody who has had anything to do with radio knows the intense irritation that is caused by the sudden substitution of a series of crackling noises, very much like a bunch of dried peas rattling around together, for the song or the speech, or whatever is coming through the air at the moment. Experts have never been able to determine precisely how this disturbance is caused, nor have they ever been able to do anything towards its elimination. It has been the one big blot on the enjoyment of the radio fraternity, and has probably caused more outbursts of bad temper than any other single factor since radio was invented.

The name of the convict to whom is credited this highly important discovery is Louis Cerny. The prison warden is backing him to secure patents. The device is reported to be small, fits into the radio, has been tried out on five different makes, has operated perfectly in destroying static in each case, and can be manufactured for a few cents, not a dollar. As there are millions of radios in use on the North American continent, and as each one is enjoyed by static in eternal quantities, a fortune is in sight for the inventor. It is also within the range of possibility that his sentence may be shortened in recognition of his services to humanity.—Regina Daily Post.

The Proven Asthma Remedy. Since asthma originated there has been no lack of much heralded remedies, but they have proved short-lived and worthless. The ever-growing reputation of Dr. J. D. Kellogg's Asthma Remedy has given it a place in the field of medicine which is unique in approach. It has never been pushed by sensational methods, but by supply gone on effecting relief and making new converts.

Distinguished English Character Actor

Brandon Williams Will Execute Prominent Part in New Oliver Twist Play

When the distinguished English character-actor, Brandon Williams, comes to Canada in the near future, one of the outstanding features of his repertoire of four plays will be an entirely new acting version of "Oliver Twist." As the greatest living expert on Dickensian drama, Mr. Brandon Williams is well qualified to prepare a dramatic version of any of the novels of Dickens that lend themselves to such treatment. In his new version of "Oliver Twist," he has introduced a novel feature.

By the elimination of all superfluous dialogue, Mr. Williams unfolds the story and preserves the continuity of its action with the introduction of a series of clever and artistic tableaux which are interwoven with the big dramatic scenes of the play.

In this manner, long waits between the scenes are avoided. The audience witnesses the finding of Oliver by the Artful Dodger; his introduction to Fagin the Jew; his ultimate escape from the thieves' den, and his recapture and later developments, exactly in accordance with the novel.

Mr. Brandon Williams will undertake in the presentation of "Oliver Twist," to play two roles with ease and facility, to a degree that makes people wonder whether the same man could possibly play both parts.

Details of "A Romance of the Roads" another new play in which Mr. Brandon Williams will present in the west, will be forthcoming shortly as the version is completed in every well known, and gives the vital features of the famous Stevenson classic in a vivid and dramatic manner.

Fliers Find New Islands

Members Of Wilkins Expedition Discover Six Near South Pole

Ole Ellson, of Grand Forks, N.D., father of Lincoln Ellson, famous flier and chief pilot with the Wilkins expedition in the South Pole region has received a message from his son, relayed from San Francisco, which said the two explorers had just returned from 1,300 mile flight over unknown regions, and had discovered six new islands.

It is not known definitely just where the ferry started nor which direction they took in the flight, but it is presumed that they used the Wilkins machine which has proven its utmost range from the thieves' den, and his recapture and later developments, exactly in accordance with the novel.

The Improved Glass Substitute COMES WITH A MESSAGE OF HEALTH

THE sun is the all-powerful life producer, builder and destroyer. It is the supreme energizer, as well as stimulant and tonic. Without it life could not exist. Sunlight is the most important ally.

Medical research has definitely proved that from the point of view of Health and Hygiene, the most effective among the sun's rays are the Ultra-Violet rays, which possess the greatest power for the prevention and cure of disease and infection.

Science has further established that ordinary window glass does not allow the passage of Ultra-Violet rays, so that by using glass we are artificially excluding these vital health-giving rays. Therefore, the invention of WINDOLITE has completely overcome the long-felt want. Extensive experiments have conclusively proved that it is a most effective substitute for glass, that it freely admits the Ultra-Violet rays, and that its use has a most beneficial effect on the growth and development of pants and chickens and on the well-being of cattle; enabled for the first time to have healthy light instead of darkness in their sheds.

Indeed, the discovery of WINDOLITE has during the last six years completely revolutionized, given a new stimulus to poultry breeding, increasing the egg-laying capacity and fertility of chickens, has greatly improved the health of cattle and is now being used in domestic and household requirements.

BRANCH LINE PROGRAM OF C. N. WILL BE HEAVY

Montreal.—The Canadian National Railways, it was officially announced, will ask parliament, when it next assembles in January or February, for authority to construct additional branch line mileage. The program presented to be carried to completion within the succeeding three years.

Sir Henry Thornton, president, and E. J. Hungerford, vice-president in charge of operation and construction, have made a close study of the traffic needs of the National system and their recommendations are now being completed.

While no details are forthcoming at present it is definitely known that the extension from Aberdeen to Melfort, Sask., will be requested and it is understood that the new branch line program may be somewhat larger than that presented to parliament in April, 1927, when 506 miles of new lines were included. Due to the fact that parliament was prorogued unforthcoming in the early spring of 1927, excellent progress was made in that year and in 1928 on the lines authorized. As a consequence working forces and construction equipment will be available early in the summer of 1929 for the new construction work admittedly necessary to keep pace with agricultural and other development.

Britain Wants Penny Postage

Would Follow Example Set By Canada To Restore Cheap Postal Rate

London, Eng.—The Daily Chronicle expresses the hope that Right Hon. Winston Churchill, chancellor of the exchequer, will take note of the decision of the Canadian Government to restore penny postage, and asks why Canada should have taken action before the British Government. The Chronicle says:

"When we demand penny postage we are not asking that it should be provided at a loss to the Post Office. The surplus is in the neighborhood of £7,000,000 and reduction to a penny would only cost £3,000,000.

When Churchill says that he cannot afford it, he is using words which have no meaning. There can't get out the post office surplus he is simply levying a tax on letter postage. Such a levy on trade intercourse is a form of taxation which this country can least of all afford."

New York Making Raid On Criminals

Police Commissioner Thinks Worst Type Will Leave City

New York.—An exodus of criminals is under way from New York according to Police Commissioner Grover Whalen, who believes there is a "lot of law in the end of a night stick."

After two days of intensive raiding, Whalen said he had captured eight major criminals. He refused to reveal their names.

In addition, the commissioner disclosed that several gunmen were caught. He said that a number of the loot will be made to rid the city of that type of criminal, Whalen said.

Receive Salary Increases

Officers and Clerks In Federal Income Tax Office Are In Benefit

Ottawa.—Something over a thousand officers and clerks of the federal civil service division throughout Canada received a substantial gift on the eve of Christmas in the form of increase in salary. What is more, the increase is retroactive to the first of last—the beginning of the fiscal year.

The raises vary from forty dollars to one hundred and eighty a year, according to the position held and the responsibility attaching it.

The income tax division is not under the civil service act and those who are employed in it have not shared in the increases in recent years extended to other branches of the service.

Three Killed When Train Strikes Auto

Two Small Children Buried From Car Have Miraculous Escape

Chaplin, Sask.—Route Hammerness, and Mr. and Mrs. "Scotty" McGown, all residing in the valley north of Chaplin, were instantly killed at the C.P.R. crossing a mile west of Chaplin when an eight freight train crashed into the Chevrolet touring car driven by Hammerness.

The two children of Mr. and Mrs. McGowan, aged three and five years, were hurled out of the car and escaped without a scratch. They were found afterwards huddled together hiding in the bush near the right of way.

Union Of Escaped Prisoners

French Soldiers Who Escaped From German Prison Camps, Have Organized

Paris.—Thousands of soldiers of the world war who escaped from German prison camps have banded together to form a union of escaped prisoners. They will hold annual reunions to talk over their war-time experiences, but their principal aim will be to help the widows and the orphans of other soldiers whom they know to have been killed in attempting to escape.

Once each year they will hold a banquet at which they will toast their good luck.

Sweden's First Railway Tunnel

Stockholm.—An underground railway tunnel, first of its kind in Sweden, which includes onions, potatoes and celery, chiefly shipped to the New York market, has caused much concern and the Colonial Parliament now in session is planning adoption of the license tax to meet expenses for running the government during the next fiscal year.

Queen Appreciated Message From Canada

Governor-General Receives Thanks For Greetings To King George

Ottawa.—A message from Queen Mary, at Buckingham Palace, where King George is slowly improving from his serious illness, was forwarded by the Governor-General, to Premier Mackenzie King, at Laurier House ,Ottawa.

"On this Christmas morning," said the Queen, "my children and I thank you from our hearts."

The Queen's message was in reply to one sent by Premier King, conveying the King George Christmas greetings on behalf of the government and people of Canada who join our prayers to those of all parts of the Empire for the complete restoration of your Majesty to health and strength.

The message from her Majesty said: "Please be assured that the messages of greetings which you have so kindly sent on behalf of the King's government in Canada and the people of the Dominion will be highly appreciated by him and by me. The King's progress to recovery is sufficiently advanced for him to receive it personally."

WILL CONSIDER AMENDMENTS TO THE GRAIN ACT

Ottawa.—Amendment of the Canada Grain Act as a means of improving the existing system of grading is under consideration by the federal government, it was learned here.

Arising out of the investigation at present being conducted in the western provinces by the commission on grain grading, it is understood steps are to be taken at the coming session of parliament to overcome any dissatisfaction among grain growers over grading results.

While the details of the proposed changes have not yet been disclosed, it is learned that the government will recommend the re-drafting of clauses in the act relating to grading, in an effort to clear up misunderstandings that have arisen and make more uniform their interpretation.

The regulations would be so framed that farmers would be in a position to determine en their own accord the grade they might expect for their wheat.

Reduction of the number of varieties of wheat which would qualify for the highest grades is another suggestion for improvement of the grading system. It is pointed out by authorities that that multiplicity of varieties grown in Canada at the present time lends itself to the segregation of the problem.

Several other proposed changes are under consideration, among them the one relating to mixing. It is understood that the practice of mixing in agriculture is in favor of prohibition; mixing red and white wheat in the Kaibab district, for example, it is pointed out, has provoked considerable dissatisfaction among importers in Great Britain.

Record For Meter Car Fatalities

Chicago.—There were 13 deaths from automobile accidents in Chicago on Christmas day—one of the highest death lists from such a cause ever recorded during a holiday period. The fatalities brought the number of motor car deaths for the year to 1,051, which is a record.

Prince Asks Relief For Workless Miners

Nearly Two Million Persons In Need Of Immediate Help

London, England.—The Prince of Wales' appeal, broadcast on behalf of the distressed miners of Britain has awakened the country to the plight of nearly two million persons, who now constitute an economic burden on the country.

The Prince made his appeal on behalf of the Lord Mayor's fund for the relief of the distressed mining areas. He pointed out that 250,000 miners were workless, which meant at least 750,000 dependents, other estimates place the number much higher, and it is generally accepted that there are now nearly a million persons in the mining and allied industries idle. In addition, there are approximately another million persons receiving relief from the poor fund.

Many remedies have been suggested, ranging from a reform of the banking system on to a new credit for productive industry available at nominal interest to a great scheme for public works.

Australia's Capital Costly

Country Spent Millions Establishing Federal House Of Authority

Sydney.—Canberra, the capital of Australia, has been built on such a huge scale that it will be many years before sufficient revenue to meet the interest bill can be expected.

The total capital revenue expenditure to June 30 last, on the whole of the activities in the Federal Capital Territory, including revenue had been received and existed, was £52,750,000. Parliament House also has cost approximately $3,750,000.

Women and Children Removed

Winnipeg.—In connection with the issuing of automobile license plates, at the Legislative building, a special arrangement for the benefit of physicians has been made. Those who pay 4,000 to 5,000 cars are not required to them, no matter when the applications are received.

Disastrous Fire In Hall Hospital

Nun Fatally Burned But Patients Were Removed Safely

Hull, Que.—Thirty-seven patients, many of them mothers with babies, some a few hours old, were carried from Sacred Heart Hospital here early Christmas morning when a fire in the laundry chute spread over the entire central portion of the building. One nun died during the afternoon as a result of burns she sustained when she put out the blaze with a chemical extinguisher. She is Sister Celle, formerly Miss M. Cherrier of Cartierville, Que. She was 22 years of age.

The patients were taken to residence near the hospital and later most of them were transferred to the Water street hospital, Ottawa.

So far as could be ascertained none of these were seriously affected by their experiences.

Fire Captain F. E. Leblanc, of the Hull brigade, is reported in a critical condition from smoke poisoning.

Property damaged was estimated at $75,000.

Self-Government For India

Want Dominion Status Rather Than Complete Independence

Calcutta, India. — Self-governing dominion status for India rather than the alternative of complete independence, was the policy urged upon the All-Indian and Moslem League at the conclusion of Mahatma Mahumudshad, the president.

He declared the British connection gave India undeniable security and was a valuable asset to Indian nationalism, "which must face laborious decades before reaching sturdy manhood," he added.

BYRD ARRIVES AT POLAR BASE FOR ADVENTURE

New York.—Commander Richard E Byrd, head of an expedition to the "bottom of the world," is at the threshold of one of the greatest adventures of this adventurous century.

Before him lies the last geographical challenge to science—frigid formidable antarctic, a continent of 2,000,000 square miles which is so little known that even a large part of its glacier-fringed coast line must be mapped by guess.

Byrd commands a million-dollar expedition, equipped as few, if any, previous polar parties have been fitted out, and is prepared to spend two years, if necessary, in wrestling from the vast land of silence secrets that science has long wanted to know.

The party finds itself at The Bay of Whales—one of the gateways to the continent — virtually at midsummer, when conditions are most favorable for the flying which Byrd plans to do. Whether he will attempt an immediate aerial trip to the South Pole is regarded as doubtful; it is believed, rather, that he will postpone this spectacular part of his program until the autumn, to avoid intolerable hazards as Ross Sea.

On the South American side of Antarctic is Sir George Hubert Wilkins, himself an aviator of note, who is also known to be planning a polar flight. The two airmen have discovered any intention of racing to the pole, previously visited by Amundsen and Scott, after either of them has succeeded in so doing. It is known that each would like to be the first man to reach it by air.

Wilkins has already made at least one long Antarctic flight from his base at Deception Island near the Weddell Sea, and here finds himself with a g...d bit of South Polar flying experience.

What supplies have been swung ashore from the expedition's boats,— no small problem itself in view of the height of the ice wall—the adventurers will erect the portable houses that are to be their homes during many months. When the equipment is complete it will be a tiny town, with dwellings, a recreation room, library, kitchen, a workshop, store houses for tons of food and the gasoline, and shelters for the four aeroplanes.

Taking advantage of the slight moderation in temperature and storm which brief Antarctic summer will afford the expedition expects to make a start at laying supply bases along the 800-mile route which Byrd's big tri-motored aeroplane is to take some day to the pole.

New York Man Wins $25,000 For Best "Dry" Law Plan

New York.—Major Chester P. Mills, assistant federal prohibition administrator for the New York District, has won $25,000 because his plan was adopted the best submitted for enforcement of the prohibition laws.

The money was offered by W. C. Durant, automobile manufacturer. The $5,000 prize for the best enforcement plan submitted by a high school student was won by Malcolm D. Almack, of Palo Alto, California.

Loss From Penny Postage

Ottawa, Ont.—The restoration of two-cent postage from Canada to all parts of the British Empire instead of the present three cents will mean a loss of revenue of about $295,000, post office officials here figure. They state that about 20,000,000 letters go annually from Canada to other parts of the Empire, 90 per cent. of which go to the British Isles. However it is expected that increased volume will make up a considerable portion of the loss.

A Jolt Eliminator

This machine recently placed in operation by the Canadian Pacific Railway, is one of the many things which contribute to the smooth ride on rails. By welding a deposit of nickel steel to the worn rail surface at the joints with this apparatus and grinding a smooth surface the bump at the joint is practically eliminated. The machine which propels itself by electricity consists of a gasoline motor which runs two generators supplying power to the electric metallic-arc welding apparatus and a grinder.

Town Boys On Short End Of 4 To 3 Score

A lucky goal to break a three-all deadlock one minute from time, decided the Vermilion-Vegreville fracas on the local ice on Monday night. Twice a tough game to lose as our boys were as good a value for a win as their opponents, but two rather fortunate goals aided the western crew very materially in sailing away the encounter. However, the game was a dandy and had the small crowd of 400 fans on their toes most of the way, the score being deadlocked three times during the game.

Milligan was caught napping on the first goal as the game had barely started before Lemieux sent in a long floater which found the net. This lead didn't last long as Mason Barr went through on a lone rush to score the prettiest goal seen here in a long time. Just before the close of the first period Milligan was seated the Hon. Mr. Reid, Pr. Wallace, president of the University, the Hon. Mrs. Irene Parlby, H. C. Craig, deputy minister of agriculture, Mayor Fallow, H. R. Parker, inspector of schools for this district, and William Telford, president of the Vermilion agricultural society. W. J. Elliott, principal of the school, presided. Mr. Craig was the first speaker. He took occasion to express the thanks of the government to the people of the town and district for their unstinted loyalty and sympathy towards the school and in many fold interests. The completion of the dormitory will enable the school to do work which it would have been impossible to do under the old condition of things. He also, on behalf of the staff and school, congratulated the government for having such a magnificent building at the disposal of the young men and women of this part of the province in the furtherance of the cause of education.

Mayor Fallow reciprocated the fine words that had been said of the unwavering support given the school by the people of Vermilion and referred briefly to the outstanding position occupied by the town as an educational, commercial and industrial centre.

The Hon. Mrs. Parlby felt that these schools were playing a most important part in equipping young men and young women for leadership in this province. The great thought in all countries today was the linking up of their institutions of learning with the life of the rural areas. There was no more honorable and noble calling than that of agriculture and upon the intellectual advancement of those engaged in this pursuit depended the whole national life of the country. From these schools would be radiated all that was best in the community and all that went to make good citizens and the intellectual leaders that are long would be guiding the political and industrial destiny of our province. They had a great mission to fill.

Dr. Wallace, in his address emphasized the necessity of developing the practical side of education. This is the side that was to play the prominent part in the development of our province. Our schools of agriculture were primarily for the purpose of training our young people in everything that appertained to the basic industry of our province. The training for the professions and for research work was the province of the universities and the co-ordination of these three factors should give that mental equipment necessary to solve the varied problems that were crowding in upon us as the years rolled by. Addressing himself particularly to the students he stressed the important part they might play in helping those who came to us from other countries to a fuller knowledge and understanding of our institutions, our laws, our governments and citizenship. "These schools will have in mind the train ing for rural life which will be just much more enriched by your being here and because of the things you have got out of your education."

Hon. Mr. Reid in his address mentioned that since these schools had been established, over five thousand graduates had gone out, carrying with them that enrichment of culture and intelligence that must have a profound effect for good upon the whole life of the province. We should not, however, he said, forget the sacrifice that was being made by the men and women back on the farm in sending their sons and daughters to these schools in order that they might enjoy advantages which they did not, and to the end that their influence might contribute towards moulding a betterment of condition of things, not only on the farm but throughout the whole life of the province. The honorable minister concluded by formally dedicating the building for the purposes for which it had been designed.

The program of speeches was interspersed with solos by Mrs. Heckbert and Mr. West and a violin selection by Mr. Swindlehurst, one of the students. The ceremony closed with the singing of the national anthem, which was followed by a dance.

Earlier in the evening the distinguished visitors were guests of the student body at a banquet in the spacious dining hall. J. W. G. Morrison, chairman of the Vermilion school board, proposed the toast to the king and Mr. Goodger, Principal of the staff, F. Andrews, also of the staff, proposed a toast to the government of Alberta, which was felicitously replied to by Hon. Mr. Reid, Hon. Mrs. Parlby and Dr. Wallace. Principal Elliott presided over two hundred and fifty at tended the banquet. The guests of honor were J. W. Cameron, superintendent of this division of the Canadian National railways, the visiting members of the government, Dr. Wallace, Mayor and Mrs. Fallow, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. G. Morrison, Mr. and Mrs. Parker, Mr. and Mrs. Telford, Mr. and Mrs. Markle, Dr. and Mrs. Knoll, and E. M. Howard.

ANNUAL MEETING OF CANADIAN LEGION W. A.

The annual meeting of the Women's Auxiliary of the Canadian Legion was held at the home of Mrs. Hay on Monday, January 7th.

The annual report was read and the officers were complimented on the fine standing of the Auxiliary, both in membership and finances. The new officers for the year were elected as follows:

Hon. President, Mrs. Morrison; President, Mrs. Watts; First Vice-President, Mrs. Hay; Second Vice-President, Mrs. Ayling; Secretary, Mrs. Kirby; Treasurer, Mrs. Snape. Visiting Committee: Mrs. Gilbert and Mrs. Gill.

After the election of officers a social half-hour was spent by all, with the hostess, Mrs. Hay, serving a very dainty lunch.

BURNS' NIGHT TO BE CELEBRATED IN TOWN

"A Night W' Burns" under the auspices of the St. Andrew's society will be held in the C.N.R. Community hall commencing at 8:15 o'clock on the evening of Friday, January 25. The program will consist of a literary, concert and old time Canadian and Scotch dances. Leading artists will render vocal and instrumental music. Pipe-Major McMillan of Clandonald will play for the exhibition of Scotch dances, Highland Fling, Sword Dance, etc.

ANNUAL MEETING OF ST. SAVIOUR'S W. A.

The W. A. of St. Saviour's church met in the Parish hall for the annual meeting on Thursday, Jan. 3rd. Reports of the various officers showed a year of good work. Election of officers for 1929 resulted as follows: Mrs. Brown, president; Mrs. Williamson, vice-president; Mrs. Taylor, secretary; Mrs. Waring, treasurer; Mrs. Curtis; Doc. secretary; Mrs. Cooper, Living Message secretary; Mrs. Taylor, Superintendent of W. A.

It might be of interest to the parents to note that the Junior W. A. were able to send a bale in December to the "Anglican Cheer Fund," Edmonton, valued at $52.00, and also $1.90 in cash.

Dormitory Formally Opened

"It is my duty to declare this building formally opened and to dedicate it to the purpose for which it was designed, having every confidence that it will far exceed the expectation of all of us and more and more so as the years go by in the province of Alberta." With these words and by the Hon. R. G. Reid, provincial treasurer, did the government of Alberta in the presence of an audience of over five hundred people, set its official imprimatur on the completion of the dormitory erected in connection with the school of agriculture here last summer at a cost of $200,000.00. The ceremony of dedication which took place last night was an impressive as it was brilliant. The dedication was to the young men and young women of this province in the hope and the confidence that from it will emanate the men and women who tomorrow will be the leaders in thought and action in Alberta. The ceremony took place in the assembly hall which was prettily decorated for the occasion. On the platform were seated the Hon. Mr. Reid, Pr. Wallace, president of the University, the Hon. Mrs. Irene Parlby, H. C. Craig, deputy minister of agriculture, Mayor Fallow, H. R. Parker, inspector of schools for this district, and William Telford, president of the Vermilion agricultural society. W. J. Elliott, principal of the school, presided. Mr. Craig was the first speaker. He took occasion to express the thanks of the government to the people of the town and district for their unstinted loyalty and sympathy towards the school and in many fold interests. DOUBLE HEADER IN CIVIC LEAGUE WEDNESDAY NIGHT

Clerks Trimmed the Elks and the College Defeated Vets.

What proved to be two good games were handed out by the civic leaguers at the Arena last night, and wonder of wonders, quite a crowd was on hand to cheer them on.

The first game brought Geo. Capstan's Cabaret boys into action against the Elks. The clerks were stepping in nice style and outscored the Elks by 5 to 3 through the morris of play was much smaller. Hanson, Bell, Sharp and Chisholm scored for the winners, while Mr. Barr and Rendeck registered for the losers. The lineups: Clerks—Welsh, Hanson, Bulcroo, Chisholm, Bell, Cooper, Palmer, Mackenzie, Sharp; Elks—Milliken, M. Barr, Williams, Carroll, Fraser, McKone, Waldenberger, Corson and Donnelly.

The second game was a ding-dong battle from start to finish with the College boys winning 3-1. This game was the more exciting of the two and brought out some combination and lots of excitement. In the last five minutes the Vets stormed the college goal almost continuously without getting the necessary equalizer. Art Wiebe got the Vets solitary marker, while Bill Barr and Taylor registered for the College. The lineups for this game were: Vets—C. Barr and Hablick, Wiebe, Burns, McKee, White, and Brimacombe; College—P. Mouf, W. Mead and Boggs, Taylor, Johnston, Burch, Bespaako and Moran.

New Cottages Completed

J. Hislop has about completed the erection of the 100 cottages and barns for a further extension of the settlement.

John Hislop of Edmonton is pushing the construction of the new three-storey frame building with full basement which will be occupied by Sisters of the Benedictine order. The rest of the new building will be in the neighborhood of $14,000.00.

All the schools of the district have re-opened for the spring term, only one in the immediate district having a change of teachers, Miss Deane of Pelican Lake having left to secure a school nearer home.

The open air skating rink is being enjoyed to the fullest extent. We would hardly know how to get along without it now.

Most of the male population of the town went to Vermilion on Monday evening last to see the hockey match. All report a dandy game, with Vegreville getting the breaks to win.

A new eating house has opened up on Main Street. It is called King's Cafe and makes three cafes in the village. Mr. King is the proprietor of the new business.

Making Profit On Finished Cattle

Points To Be Considered In Buying Feeder Cattle

Many cattle feeders who purchase their stock in this condition hold the view that the animals must bring double the purchase price after they have been fattened in order to make a profit. The Experimental Farms have worked on this problem and have reached the conclusion, expressed in pamphlet No. 21, of the Department of Agriculture, Ottawa, that there are two points of importance to be considered in the buying of feeder cattle; first, other things being equal, the higher the purchase price of the cattle the smaller the margin necessary to break even. That is, a 1,000 pound animal costing $7 per cwt. and gaining 300 pounds at a cost of $12 per cwt. would have to sell for $8 per cwt. to break even. This would give a margin of $1 between buying and selling price. If the same animal was bought at $10 per cwt. and made the same gains it could be sold for $10.86 per cwt. and still break even, in which case, the margin required to break even would be only 46 cents per cwt. That is the question of the weight of the animal purchased. Other things being equal, the heavier an animal is when placed in the feeding pen the smaller the margin necessary between buying and selling price in order to have a profit; the advantage in either price being obtained for a grade or number of pounds on account of the higher initial weight. A 1,000 pound animal bought for $5 per cwt. making 300 pounds gain, and sold on a 6 months period, yields a gross profit of $34, while a 1,300-pound animal under the same conditions would give a gross profit of $46, the advantage being made up of the 2 cents a pound spread on the extra 100 pounds initial weight. This, however, does not hold true for animals that attained their increased weight through age and consequent maturity.

Covering a period of 25 years in the finishing of feeders purchased, the Experimental Farms, Ottawa, have learned that an average spread of $1.59 per cwt. between the buying and selling price yielded a fair profit. It is pointed out that it would take steers of exceptionally good quality, carefully fed, to yield a reasonable profit with a spread of less than $1. A spread of $1.50 to $2 per cwt., the pamphlet states, should be the aim of the feed.

Constructive Spending

Paying Out Money To Improve One-self Is Saving

Henry Ford is quoted as saying: "No successful boy ever saved any money. They spend it as fast as they get it for things to improve themselves."

That has a pleasantly sensible round in contrast with such adages as "A penny saved is a penny earned." Existence may be provided for by saving, but living requires constructive spending.

Mr. Ford's philosophy is directed toward preparation for work and always more and better work. To "never knew a young man that was worth five cents that wouldn't work." The young man who has more profit and spends for improving himself can not miss his share of success.

A New Excuse

The Judge (sternly)—Well, what's your alibi for spending 40 minutes an hour through the residence section?

The Victim—I had just heard your house that the ladies of my lady's church were giving a rummage sale and I was hurrying home to save my other pair of pants.

The Judge—Case dismissed.

Advice Against Using Concentrated Food

Feed Can Be Grown On Any Farm Says Expert

In the dairy district it is becoming rather common for the man to take his milk or cream cheque across the road and buy concentrated feed with it to keep up the milk flow of his herd. In too many cases, according to L. H. Newman, of the Central Experimental Farms at Ottawa, too big a proportion of the revenue is spent on feed. "On the new acreage added to the farm here by a recent purchase we are planning a number of experiments with the object of demonstrating that more concentrated feed can be grown on the average farm, so that the farmer will be able to make his purchased feeds go farther, explained Mr. Newman. "We are planning to increase the amount of the protein grown to the acre."

Peas will be used as the backbone of the experiment as peas are a highly concentrated feed, rich in protein. Oats will be mixed with the peas to balance the ration, and, what is more important, to hold up the vines so that harvesting may be conducted with the ordinary machinery and at ordinary expense, in places where there has been trouble with crown rust in oats, barley will be substituted.

In the experiments, various varieties of oats and peas, barley will be used to see just what ripens best together, and what combination gives the biggest returns in protein.

Many people who object to growing peas alone because of the excessive labor in harvesting, have no objection with another crop. Mixed with oats or barley the owner can cut the same green and have a rich legumious hay, or he can allow them to ripen and thresh out a grain which will grind up into very rich feed, which can be used to replace or supplement the imported concentrates. The main problem of the experiment will be to get oats and barley which will ripen with the peas so there will be no loss through shattering.

British Labor Plank

Rumored That Emigration Will Be Main Plank In Next Election

The recent pronouncement of British Labor leaders, notably that of Rt. Hon. Arthur Henderson, former Labor home secretary, have led to rumors that Labor at the next general election will make one of the main planks of its far-reaching scheme of state-aided emigration, to transfer at least 300,000 men from Great Britain to the Dominions, with free passages and guaranteed employment at fixed minimum wages.

Mr. Henderson, in a speech at Pontypridd, Dec. 15, said he for one welcomed a well-considered policy of state-aided emigration with special application for miners.

Responsive inquiries among leaders of the Labor party and the trade union movement in London, have not confirmed the report that the plan would be a plank in the party platform. It appears, however, to be a fact that the Labor party has had under consideration the possibilities of an emigration policy on general lines, but as far as can be gathered any scheme adopted by the party will have to be governed entirely by the machinery and co-operation of the trade unions at home and in the dominions. The proposal is at present purely in the suggestion state, and there is nothing to indicate that it will be adopted as an official policy to be put forward prominently at the general election.

Egyptian Sail Barge

Real History Of Boat—Building Began On Banks Of Nile

Shipbuilding had its birth on the banks of the Nile, according to the belief of Prof. Elliott Smith, expressed in the London Magazine.

Although, he says, at a very early period in the history of mankind logs and floats of various kinds were used by many people to cross narrow sheets of water or for paddling along coastlines, the real history of boat-building began when the earliest dwellers on the banks of the Nile tied together bundles of reeds to make floats.

These simple craft not only determined the form of the wooden ships that succeeded them, but the methods of construction for making the reed floats, i.e., tying them together with cords, were also adopted when wooden ships came to be built by adding planks to the hollowed-out logs which eventually degenerated into the mere keel of the completed ship. Thus the earliest Egyptian term for shipbuilding was the word signifying "to tie," and that at the present time we still find upon the Nile all these primitive types that are survivals of phases in the history of shipbuilding, some of them more than sixty centuries old.

Has Interesting History

Church In England Has Old Bell From Quebec

One of the finest peals of bells in England is to be found in All Hallows Church, Tottenham. To one of the bells, known as the "Saints Bell," a curious story attaches.

It was the custom bell to the garrison of Quebec when that fortress was in possession of the French, and tradition tells that General Wolfe, who succeeded Wolfe, as commander of the British forces in Canada, was leaving the city, and negotiations were in progress for its surrender, two British sailors climbed up over the walls under cover of darkness and walked off with it.

All Hallows is said to have been founded by King David, of Scotland, early in the twelfth century.

Saskatchewan Egg Pool

Largest Co-Operative Marketing Association Operated By Women

The Saskatchewan Egg and Poultry Pool with a membership of 17,000 made up largely of farmers' wives, handled 70 per cent. of the province's egg crop in the season of 1927, and about 56 per cent. of the eggs exported. The total volume of business handled in that year is stated to amount to $721,329. It is probably the largest co-operative marketing association in the world of members which is operated almost entirely by women. The president is a woman and three of the four others directors are women.

Twenty pairs of foxes were shipped recently from Quilchena, B.C., to Gothenburg, Sweden, to be used for breeding purposes on the fox farm of G. Carroll at Gothenburg. The shipment was valued at $20,000. Another 20 pairs from the same district are shortly to be shipped to France.

Meteors Seldom Fall In Civilized Places

Only Two Cases Recorded Of People Being Struck

Much is said and written regarding falling meteors. Only two known cases of persons being struck by these heavenly missiles, are on record.

From Japan comes the second reported instance of a meteoric hitting a human being. A tiny pebble of celestial origin soared the neck of a three-year-old baby girl at play near Tokio. A tremendous number of meteorites bombard the earth each day, but they seldom fall within range of civilization. There is only one fatal accident on record when a man was killed in India, in 1837 by a falling stone. The tiny stone, weighing only a few grains, that hit the Japanese girl was found in the child's dress, still warm, and proved to be a typical meteorite with a black crust, formed by melting in its flight through air.

Ranger In British Columbia Keeps Watch For Fires

There is a ranger in British Columbia who even in summer obtains his water from snow. From his lookout station nine thousand feet up on Mount Currie he can see inland to fires over an area containing 130 billion feet of timber. His is a lonely business only a few grains of water artificially by her husband; "have you ever buttoned a drum behind before?"

"No," replied the husband, also impatiently, "you never had a drum buttoned before behind."

They were guests at the recent international banquet in New York.

Preparations Suffer Hardships

Make Two Hundred Mile Trip Through Northern Quebec

The hardships and privations of north country travel before the final freeze up that were endured by a party of prospectors who reached Amos, Quebec, after a two hundred mile trip through one of the roughest and wildest parts of northern Quebec, between Matagami Lake and Amos, were told in an article published in a Toronto daily.

The party, led by Major Cunningham Dunlop, a well-known geologist and mining engineer, of Haileybury, Ont., made the journey in nine days, enduring almost incredible hardships, travelling the last three days without food and with their equipment and clothing in the last stages of dissolution. Members of the party stated that but for the skill and expert knowledge of the country displayed by their seventeen-year-old half-breed guide, they would never have reached civilization.

For fifteen and sixteen hours a day the party marched through the dismal and snow covered forests, packs themselves and helping the dogs with the toboggans. They slept in the open under tarpaulins, and as weakened were they at the end of the journey that it took them 24 hours to travel the last twelve miles to the settlement.

The reason for a party of experienced prospectors being forced to undertaking a long journey at this time of the year was due, according to Major Dunlop, to the failure of the aeroplane plans to bring in supplies and the serious condition of one of the members of the party who had contracted blood poisoning.

Hold Back Two Airplanes

Jugo-Slavian Athlete Astonishes People With Exhibition Of Strength

A Jugo-Slavian athlete recently gave a remarkable demonstration of strength, when he held back two aeroplanes that were endeavoring to leave the ground.

A passenger machine was lashed to the right arm and a sporting model to his left, and their engines were started.

Although both aeroplanes pulled with all their engine power, the athlete succeeded in holding them motionless. Spectators covered their faces in horror at the prospect of the man being torn asunder.

Electric Light For Nazareth

Nazareth, where Christ lived and worked as a carpenter, has turned to modern illumination to replace ancient methods. The town council has completed an agreement with the Palestine Electric Corporation to install a lighting system which will be completed before the end of next year. Until now the only illumination has been candles or kerosene lamps.

The Conquest Of Disease

Man First Destroyed Largest Predatory Animals Only To Fall Before Onslaught Of Microbes

"Man has destroyed the largest living creatures only to fall victim to the unaided—the microbe or germs of disease."

Dr. A. Grant Fleming, director of the Montreal Anti-Tuberculosis League made this assertion in the course of an address at a special Sunday night meeting of the Canadian Social Hygiene Council, while speaking on "The Conquest of Disease."

Dr. Fleming declared that the conquest of disease is a story of the past, the present and the future all in one and deals with the interesting and comparatively little known struggle between human bodies and their enemies. Since man's history began he has had to struggle for existence, first with the large animals so that they would not crush him out of existence, secondly with the soil to gain the necessities of life and now with diseases which cause so many ills in humanity.

Drugs are valuable up to a certain point, said Dr. Fleming, even if a small percentage of the advertised remedies did what is claimed for them disease would have long ago ceased to exist from our midst. There are no trade secrets in the medical profession, for when an important discovery is made, it is published in the press and the public receives the benefit from it. Such was the case with the discovery of insulin by Dr. Banting.

For many years disease was accepted as a necessary evil, a scourge, but unknown to man the tissues of his body were fighting against his foe—disease germs. Sometimes the tissues were successful for the man had within himself the power to overcome the disease. Then came science, seeking an understanding of what nature was and having obtained its causes and the factors which enabled man to overcome it, was able to fight on equal terms with nature. Typhoid and disease then suffered many defeats.

"The fight against disease is continuous," said Dr. Fleming, "and one that is fought without the plaudits of the crowd. It is fought for the benefit of humanity by men who give their lives to the work and whose contribution to human welfare has been the conquest of diphtheria and the discovery of vaccine and tonine which counteract many disease germs."

Civic departments of health are responsible, in many instances, for low death rates, for they spend in a wise manner the money which is provided by the people for public purposes.

Air Mail For Lethbridge

To Be Southern Terminal Of Air Liner-City Air Line

It is intended to make Lethbridge the southern terminal of an inter city air line connecting Lethbridge, Calgary and Edmonton, linking up the city with the east-west air mails from Winnipeg to Calgary and Edmonton, and probably eventually extending to connect up with the Great Falls-Salt Lake City air mail across the border. In preparation for this the Great Western Airways (Lethbridge), has been formed.

OPENING OF PARLIAMENT ON FEBRUARY 7TH

Ottawa.—Parliament will open on Thursday, February 7. Official announcement to this effect was made recently by Premier King, at the conclusion of a meeting of cabinet council.

The Prime Minister stated that no appointments to governmental vacancies were made at the sitting of the cabinet.

Hon. R. B. Bennett, Conservative leader, who is now in Europe, will return to the capital about the middle of this month. Mr. Bennett sailed for England two weeks before Christmas on a brief holiday prior to the opening of parliament.

Political prognosticators forecast that the session opening next month will be much shorter than the previous one. With occasional rumors in the air of a possible general election next fall, the Conservative and Liberals in both the commons and the senate will be somewhat more spiritedd.

No intimation has been made in official circles, though, on the possibility of an election this year. Two general elections have been held in the Dominion during the past few years, one in 1925 and the other in 1926; and there are many political observers who lean towards the opinion that no further appeal will be made to the people before 1930.

The budget, it is understood, will be brought down early during the coming session. Presentation of this document, containing as it does the government's fiscal policy with any changes it may make in the tariff, is always eagerly awaited.

Indications are that the coming session of parliament will run well into June. While the legislative program of the government has not been indicated, it is expected that set matters are definitely scheduled to come before parliament for necessary action.

Recently, Hon. Charles Stewart, Minister of the Interior, announced that a bill for the return of natural resources to British Columbia would probably be introduced in the course of the approaching session.

Negotiations for the return of natural resources to Alberta are also well advanced, Canada's new law officer, in the light of practical experience since then, so to the ability of the reich to provide the full amount of his standard contribution of the plan."

The report states that the payments and transfers during the year amounted to 1,733,000,000 gold marks (about $416,000,000).

The report proceeds to show that the total annuity of the fourth year was almost one and three-quarter billion marks, of which France receives more than one billion (about $240,000,000).

The list of creditors included France, Great Britain, Italy, Belgium, Japan, Rumania, United States, Canada, Japan, Portugal, Greece and Poland.

Monoplanes Reach Hudson Bay Coast

Carried Supplies From Cochrane, Ontario, To Fort Churchill In Winn'peg. — Two superb monoplanes of the Northern Aerial Minerals Exploration Company have arrived on the east coast of Hudson Bay near Richmond Gulf, after a flight from Cochrane, Ont., where they left on Dec. 23. The planes were piloted by Captain H. A. (Doc) Oakes and Patrick Reid, who were accompanied by two mechanics. The purpose of the flight was to bring supplies to eight prospectors who have been stationed on the east coast of Hudson Bay since early summer.

New Commander For Rangers

Ottawa.—Included in the promotions announced by the department of national defence is that of Major Gen. E. Poole to the rank of lieutenant-colonel, and to command the Rocky Mountain Rangers, with headquarters at Kamloops, B.C., v/c Lieut.-Col. T. Ashworth, who has been transferred to the reserve of officers.

New Air Marshal Appointed

London, Eng.—Air John Maitland Salmon, air marshal, has been appointed chief marshal of the Royal Air Force in succession to Sir Hugh Trenchard, who resigned December 20. Sir John Frederick Higgins, air vice-marshal, will be promoted to Sir John Salmon's rank.

Students May Change Courses

Toronto.—The scheme whereby University students may exchange from one Canadian university to another for one year of the course will come into effect in 1929, according to L. J. The Fin Scourge

Epidemic Most Severe In New Scotia and Ontario

Ottawa, Ont.—Ontario and Nova Scotia are the two provinces of the Dominion where the ravages of the fin are most severe at present, declared Dr. J. A. Anyot, deputy minister of marine, in his estimation of the scourge this winter is by no means as serious as those of 1918 1919, and 1926.

The complications which accompanied the malady in those years were not been present in such an extent in the present epidemic.

Revising Regulations On Incoming Autos

Officials At Ottawa Welcoming Opinions On Existing Restrictions

Ottawa, Ont.—Business men of Western Canada are taking an active interest in the revision of the Customs regulations in regard to the entry from the United States of automobiles.

The Department of National Revenue has been engaged for some time in the re-drafting of these regulations with the purpose of removing objectionable restrictions on importations, and such has been the interest of business men in the west that the work has been delayed unnecessarily until all representations have been received.

Many board of trades have written to the department, and its officials are welcoming every expression of opinion. Every effort will be made to frame the regulations that they will be acceptable.

Langsner Leaves Canada

Man Who Investigated Ambrose Small Case, Has Gone To West Indies

Toronto.—Dr. Adolph Maximilian Langsner, who investigated the Ambrose Small case here, some weeks ago, has gone to the West Indies and later will go to Mexico. These sections are presumably more sympathetic to his theories and methods than Canada ,whose authorities, according to his own statement, exhibited "unwarrantable hostility" to an immigration permit as a visitor in this country.

Just on his previous departure from Toronto, he promises to return, make sensational disclosures regarding the Small case, and resolve the mystery in spite of all they can do.

Influence was brought to bear by the enemies and opponents in the Small case, it is claimed, in his departure, with the object of preventing him continuing his investigation of the mystery.

Early Seeding

Marquis Wheat Sown At Indian Head On January 2nd.

Indian Head, Sask.—Saskatchewan in past years has been noted for the creation of records, some of them strange and unusual, and on the second day of 1929, another was added, that will stand for some time.

This was the seeding of spring wheat, five acres of Marquis being planted on an experimental plot at the experimental station farm. At 4 o'clock, the superintendent ordered his men and teams out, and according to information given Wednesday afternoon, the five acres were seeded before dinner.

The land, summerfallow, was in excellent shape, and the wheat was buried to quite a depth.

New Hotel Is Assured

Saskatoon, Sask.—Definite assurance of construction of a new C.N.R. hotel, consistent in size and character with the needs of the city of Saskatoon, was contained in a telegram received by Mayor G. W. Norman of Saskatoon, from Sir Henry Thornton, president of the Canadian National Railways.

British Members Nominated

London, Eng.—The British government has nominated Sir Josiah Stamp and Lord Revelstoke as the British members of the projected committee of experts on reparations. The names of the two deputy members will be announced later.

Was Pioneer Railroad Builder

Pat Welch, Well Known In West, Dies In California

Spokane, Wash.—Pat Welch, 70, member of the firm of Stewart and Welch, railroad builders, died recently at Coronado, California, a telegram to relatives here said. Mr. Welch, who had gone to California for his health last summer, had been ill for nearly four years.

Associated with Major General Sam Hughes, of Vancouver, B.C., Welch had a part of the construction of many railroads in the northwest with General Stewart, held many contracts in the United States, Canada, Great Britain and Africa.

Prisoners Help Fund For Distressed Miners

Heard Appeal Made By Prince On Christmas Day

London, Eng.—Evidence is fast accumulating of the added impetus given the lord mayor's fund for relief of families of distressed miners by the personal appeal of the Prince of Wales broadcast by radio on Christmas Day. The fund now amounts to £2,000,000 exclusive of the governmental contribution which is to double it.

The governor of a certain prison has sent along $55 "from the prisoners who heard the Prince." Many letters received at the headquarters of the fund, the Mansion House, are addressed to the Prince personally.

Canada's Trade With U.S.

Best Customer Last Year Says Bulletin Issued At Washington

Washington, D.C.—Canada literally purchased a little of everything American manufacturers had to offer during the first ten months of 1928, and may have "bought the Brooklyn Bridge" if Uncle Sam offered such a structure for sale.

This makes the substance of "our world trade," says a bulletin issued by the foreign commerce department of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States. It stated that the Dominion was the best customer of the United States during the designated period.

Famous Analyst Dead

Ottawa. — Dr. Anthony McGill, M.A., B.Sc., LL.D., F.R.G.S., former-ly chief Dominion analyst, is dead at his home in Berkeley, Calif., according to word received in Ottawa by relatives. His death occurred on Saturday, December 29. He was 81 years old. Dr. McGill was one of Canada's most prominent chemists and was an outstanding figure in scientific circles.

Two Opposite Camps

Difference Of Opinions Within the Ranks Of Salvation Army

London, Eng.—For the first time both parties within the Salvation Army have openly admitted that the high council which will meet shortly was composed of two opposite camps.

Officials at the international headquarters and at the headquarters of Evangeline Booth, head of the Army in the United States, freely made pronouncements on the probable line up of voting when the question of removal of General Bramwell Booth as commander-in-chief, and reorganization of the Army will come up.

As official of the Evangeline Booth stated that after a careful canvass the group was satisfied more than the necessary three-quarters majority of the council will vote for the removal of General Booth and subsequent reorganization.

At international headquarters those who are supporting General Booth refused to concede a possible victory to the other camp, saying that they are sure of at least seven votes, and that they believed the council would vote confidence in the general to continue his leadership.

They said, however, the method of choosing a successor, and other administrative reforms, might be affected, and that even certain of those who would support the general would favor this.

Vancouver Adds To Official Population

Suburbs Have Been Absorbed By Canal Metropolis

Vancouver. — The pandemonium which welcomed the New Year also marked the beginning of a new Vancouver. This city added some 50,000 to its official population at the stroke of 12. The suburbs and separate municipalities of Point Grey and Vancouver South merged with Vancouver proper to throw the census pofts with a population of 220,845, according to figures drawn up in a survey completed in December, 1927.

A local directory, however, places the total population at 277,650. According to the lower estimate, Vancouver brought in a population of 142,150, South Vancouver 43,500, and Point Grey, 32,225. Thus the "greater" gateway, which less than half a century ago was but a settlement, has reached a position where it lays claim to be the third largest city. The next Dominion census will officially place the writer as between Vancouver and Winnipeg.

Mayor Osborne pointed out that lighting facilities would not be required either for commercial companies or private flyers at the present time, but would be provided later by the use of aeroplanes carrying mail for the post office department.

Albert Horton Quits Office After Fifty Years' Service

Ottawa.—Contributing to the progressive transition of Canada's farming industry, one of the last pioneer labor-saving devices, the reaper-thresher, or "combine" is playing an important part, according to Dr. J. H. Archibald, director of Dominion experimental farms.

Latest statistics, compiled by the federal department of agriculture, show that more than 12,000,000 have already been invested in this new harvesting machine by farmers of the prairie provinces. It is also estimated that more than 15 million acres of grain were cut and threshed during 1928 by the new method.

Saskatchewan, the premier grain producing province of the Dominion, leads in the number of combines in use, with a total of 8,350. In 1927, 1,095 machines were in operation, while 200 were introduced in Manitoba.

Exhaustive experiments with the combine have been conducted by the fed- ral department. Data have also been collected from owners scattered throughout the Dominion. From this information it has been established that very little trouble to be ing experienced in operation of the combines and that grain kept without loss in grade or milling quality.

The survey further revealed that harvesting with combines results in an approximate saving of eight se nine cents per bushel. A number es enters reported a saving of grain averaging 2.06 bushels per acre and that better grades were received than for binder harvested grain, a few received lower grades, while the majority of users noted no difference.

The canvass indicated that weeds caused delays in some sections. Several operators, however, stated that burning of combine stubble and straw had rendered the succeeding crop free from weeds and in several instances had increased the yield from two to six bushels an acre.

EFFICIENCY OF NEW COMBINES AMPLY PROVEN

ESTABLISHMENT OF AIR MAIL IS FURTHER URGED

Calgary, Alta.—Resolutions requesting that the post office department should establish an air mail service in Western Canada connecting all the principal cities, and that the Dominion Government should help to bear the expense of lighting air ports, which would result from air mail service, were passed at the air conference held here, at which seven western cities were represented.

Tariffs for both visiting planes and those with headquarters in these cities were arranged, while the cities held down a uniform policy with regard to companies and private individuals taking leases for accommodation on municipally owned aerodromes.

Final control of all municipally-owned airports will remain with the municipal council, it was decided, even though the cities hand over the administration of the flying fields to official aero clubs.

The following were present: Mayor P. H. Osborne and Commissioner A. D. Grenon, representing Calgary; Mayor A. U. G. Bury, of Edmonton; Commissioner J. L. Leslie, of Saskatoon; T. J. Emerson, of Medicine Jaw; Mayor L. Bullivant, of Medicine Hat.

Regina was represented by George M. Bell, of Calgary, while Reid Wilson, also of Calgary, represented Lethbridge.

The conference was attended by J. B. Corley, district superintendent of the post office. Capt. Fred McCall and Capt. Frank Ahearn, of Calgary, D. K. Yorath, of Calgary Aero Club.

In discussing the possibility of regular flights of air mail and air service, Mr. Corley stated that in his opinion sight flying was necessary. Mr. Corley stated that he had accepted thing in the United States.

Conditions on the prairies were very similar to anywhere in Canada, Mr. Corley stated, and it had been shown in the test recently conducted that 24 hours could be saved in the transcontinental journey provided that planes were able to make train connections.

Since the test period had been an experiment to try out the poat'bilities of winter flying with mail, Mr. Corley stated, but should re-establishment of the service be considered it would be necessary for the cities to prepare for night flying.

Mayor Osborne pointed out that lighting facilities would not be required either for commercial companies or private flyers at the present time, but would be provided later by the use of aeroplanes carrying mail for the post office department.

Concludes Greatest Year

Production In B.C. Industries Breaks Quarter Billion Mark

The year 1928 was by far the greatest in the history of British Columbia. The production of the province's four great industries, lumbering, agriculture, mining and fishing for the first time broke the quarter million mark.

A conservative estimate, based on preliminary returns so far available by the department, would place the output at $251,205,000, an increase of $6,977,533 over the total for 1927, but final returns, especially from the lumber industry, may easily boost this a million or more.

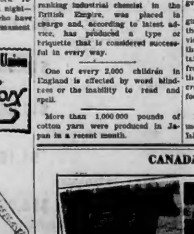
A Famous Navigator

Plans Being Made At Coast For a Monument To Capt. Vancouver

Plans are being laid to raise money in Vancouver for the erection of a statue in honor of the famous captain who gave his name to what is now the biggest sea port on the American Pacific coast. Says the Vancouver Province, "We cannot consider the imposing scheme of the Status of Liberty. We cannot hope to spend a million dollars on our Captain Vancouver as the United States has seen fit to spend on their 315-foot high lady of the torch. But our Captain Vancouver should stand a memorial and a symbol, guarding our local habitation and our name, rising out of our sea to be a witness for us that we hon or them that laid our foundations. It should stand somewhere at the entrance of the harbor, in a high place looking down upon the ships as they pass, a landmark for the mariner by day, and a beacon light by night, visible far out in the Gulf."

Mexican Reporters Wear Pistols

It is as commonplace in a Mexican newspaper office for a reporter when he sits down to his desk, to take off his pistol and cartridge belt as it is in the United States for a newspaper man to remove his coat when he starts to write, Almost every reporter here carries a pistol, as do most men whose work requires them to be abroad at night—and there is a great many who have had that excuse for their armament.



Trim Greatest Lines

A short, stout person wanted to harvest brown trees, practical for all-round work, achieves new beauty lines through denims, few of and fuffle silk crepe slipped through a band arranged at end of diagonal ne-stine and tied in front. The cr- ation effect carries out one-sided treatment in pointed cuffles attached to bigness, to give trim graceful line. The sleeves are dart-fitted. It's easily made and at an attractive cost, for the 36-inch size takes but 3 yards of 40-inch material with 1 yard of 27-inch contrasting. Style No. 329 is designed in sizes 16, 18, 20 years, 36, 38, 40 and 42 inches bust. Plain transparent velvet in brown is captivating for afternoon tarnament. Crimson red pompadour crepe is enchanting for afternoon and informal evenings. Black repp-velva is dignified for dining out. For all-round wear, select black lustrous crepe satin or navy blue wool crepe. Pattern price 15 cents in stamps or coin (coin is preferred). Wrap coin carefully.

Briquetting Plant

New Fuel To Shortly Appear On the Saskatchewan Market

After more than nine years, during which more than a million dollars was spent in plant equipment and experimentation, a new fuel is shortly to appear on Saskatchewan markets.

It was March 20, 1918, that the order-in-council was passed which gave the required authority to the setting up of the Lignite Utilization Board of Canada. That body worked for years in an effort to produce a briquette from the vast store of lignite in southern Saskatchewan, concentrating on a vast plant at Bienfait.

The original vote was for $400,-000, the federal government supplying half and the Saskatchewan and Manitoba governments supplying one-quarter each. After that fund was exhausted Manitoba dropped out and Saskatchewan and the federal government pressed on. The grand total by governments, many thousands of which went into experimental equipment, had to be discarded, was $1,036,300.

When it appeared that the whole scheme was to prove a failure the governments insisted over putting up more money. British capital became interested and the moneyed men agreed to spend another large sum in experimental work at the plant, and, if successfully, to take over the plant. Sir Richard Redmond Sury, generally considered the ranking industrial chemist in the British Empire, was brought over to charge and, according to latest advice, has produced a type or briquette of considered successful in every way.

Frontier Guards In Poland Arrest Starving Peasants Seeking Bread

Reports from the northern part of the Polish Russian frontier state that Polish frontier guards have been seizing Russian peasants who seek to penetrate Polish territory to get flour and fats in Poland.

The peasants are reported as begging the Polish guards to permit them to obtain food in the name of pity for the sake of charity in Russia, adding that they have great trouble in obtaining flour owing to the strict frontier inasmuch as the soviet authorities feel that the peasants disappear into Poland only to obtain food in a neighboring country.

Agronomists Elect President

M. J. Tinline, Of Western Canadian Society For 1929

M. J. Tinline, superintendent of the Dominion Experimental Farm at Brandon, was elected president of the Western Canadian Society of Agronomy for the session 1929. The society met in the University of Saskatoon. Dr. J. B. Harrington, of the University of Saskatchewan, was elected vice-president.

Other officers are: Secretary-treasurer, Dr. O. S. Aamodt, department of field husbandry in the University of Alberta; executive, B. M. S'monds, of the Dominion plant pathology laboratory, Saskatoon, and Dr. R. Newton, of the field husbandry department, University of Alberta. Honorary presidents are the heads of the three universities, Dr. W. C. Murray, University of Saskatchewan; Dr. J. A. McLean, University of Manitoba, and Dr. R. C. Wallace, University of Alberta.

Improvement Shown In Employment Situation

December Figures Better Than Any Previous Year On Record

The seasonal contraction in employment recorded at the beginning of December was not as drastic scale than on the same date in each of the last nine years, and the situation continued better to the December 1 as any previous year on the record.

Statements were tabulated by the Dominion bureau of statistics from 8,600 firms employing 861,723 persons, compared with 1,000,000 in the preceding month; the index stood at 116.7, compared with 119.1 on November 1, and 106.8 on December 1, 1927.

Visitor (surveying room): "This is—er—hardly what I was led to expect from your advertisement.

Landlady: "Well, you ain't the gentleman I thought you was from your letter."

CANADIAN CATTLE FOR AUSTRALIA

That Canada is one of the world's leading producers of high class cattle is well illustrated by the recent shipment of pure bred Aberdeen Angus cattle from the Glencarnock stock farms, owned by J. D. McGregor, of Brandon, Man., to the Australian Government. The shipment comprising 28 head, was selected by Mr. McGregor and Mr. Hunter, of the Australian Government. Upper right, Glencarnock Revolution, senior herd sire; upper centre, four of the prize animals. Upper left, Black Cap Ride, one of the show cows; the lower picture shows a few of the prize animals.

After a trip from Brandon over the Canadian Pacific Railway lines, there were shipped on December 4 aboard the oil burning steamer "Hurakl," sailing from Vancouver to Sydney, Australia, 28 head of pure bred Aberdeen Angus cattle from the herd of James D. McGregor, Brandon, Manitoba. This head consisted of eight bulls and comes it in only the first shipment of Aberdeen-Angus cattle from Canada to Australia. It should be borne in the equator, to Australia. The consignment comprises two lots -- one of 18 females and two bulls for the government of New South Wales, and another of 8 females and 2 bulls for C. W. Mackay, Hassoby Adominsky, New South Wales, Australia.

The idea of importing into Australia a herd of Canadian Aberdeen-Angus cattle originated with the late Sir Thomas Mackenzie, of the Australian Metropolitan Meat Industry Board. Mr. Cramsie has supervision of the breeding, feeding and slaughter houses for the Australian government and some time ago he made a trip around the world for the purpose of gathering as much information as possible that would be of assistance to him in his efforts to provide better facilities for the handling of Australian meat products. During that trip he made a visit to Glencarnock Farms, and became so deeply interested in the fine herd of cattle there as to endeavor to interest private individuals in his own country to make some purchases here. Finally however, he succeeded in interesting the government of New South Wales, and later 18 females and 2 bulls were purchased, the entire transaction being arranged by cable. When the deal was finally completed, the government of New South Wales sent Mr. C. G. Hunter, a herdsmaster, to Brandon, to inspect the consignment and arrange for its shipment to Australia.

Colin Campbell is in charge of the shipment on its long journey from Brandon to Sydney. Mr. Campbell has been in very responsible positions with leading herds for years, and he has had extensive experience in handling over-seas shipments having made two trips to the Orient, and one to South America. The services of Mr. Campbell were secured by Mr. McGregor to ensure the handling of the cattle in good condition so that they may be presented at the Sydney Royal Show, which opens early in March, 1929, following which they will be shown at Melbourne and Brisbane. To further safeguard the cattle, Mr. McGregor secured practically his entire herd to form part of the consignment to the New South Wales Government, and when C. G. Grant, head herdmaster for that government, was at Brandon on November 20th, to inspect the shipment, he stated that he was very highly pleased with the selections that had been made. In fact he ventured the opinion that the consignment would create a sensation in Australia.

Landing Device For Planes

Matter In Occupying the Attention Of the Government

The construction of an improved landing device for planes, combining skis and wheels, is occupying the attention of government aeronautical engineers, it was announced here following tested at Ottawa, but it is admitted that the problem is still unsolved.

The difficulty is one that is peculiar to Canada, air officials stated today. Airplanes frequently take off at one point, using wheels and on arrival at the end of a few hundred miles' trip find it extremely difficult to land without skis. Air mail flights between Toronto, Montreal and the Maritimes are particularly affected.

SIN

Golden Text: "If we say that we have no sin, we deceive ourselves, and the truth is not in us. If we confess our sins, he is faithful and right. to forgive us our sins, and to cleanse us from all unrighteousness." —1 John 1:8, 9.

Devotional Reading: Genesis 3:1-24; 6:5-8; Mark 7:14-23; Romans 1:18-32; 3:10-18; 1 John 1:5 to 2:2.

Devotional Reading: Psalm 51:1-10.

Explanations and Comments

What Do Said, and What We Should Be. 1:2.—The message which John has received from Christ is now (vss. 1-3), and which he now hands on, is that God is light, and in Him is no darkness (moral darkness, i.e. sin) at all. "Light, as found in contrast with darkness, means not intellectual illumination, but ethical perfection. It describes the absolute purity and holiness of God as it is revealed in Christ."—A. R. Fraser. God is spirit (John 4:24); God is light (1 John 1:5); and God is love (1 John 4:8). "Spirit, light, love are not mere attributes, they are His nature. They are probably the nearest approach to a definition of God that the human mind could frame or comprehend. They are wonder them, the more they satisfy us. The simplest intellect can erode s'and their meaning, but it cannot expound it."—A. Plummer.

It is not possible to live in sin and at the same time to enjoy the fellowship of God, John next declares. "Walk" in this verse 6, is a familiar figure of speech, meaning one's customary conduct. "Do not the truth" means do not live in harmony with the demands of truth. "The life as well as the statements of the lips are false."

"A life in moral darkness can no more have communion with God, than a life in a cell can have communion with the sun."—Dummer.

The Atonement For Sin, 1. 7.—If we walk in the light, as He is in the light (vs. 7), we have the love more through space and time; he is eternity), we have fellowship one with another (the love of God and God the closer is our fellowship with one another).

"While we walk with God in light,
God our keeper both will unite;
Dearest fellowship we possess,
Fellowship in Jesus' love."—Wesley.

A Good Commander

Who's that impressive-looking woman over there?"

"That's Mrs. Peckum. She's a remarkable woman, and they say that she commands a very large salary."

"How does she earn it?"

"She doesn't earn it. Her husband earns it, and she commands it."

"Say, pa?"

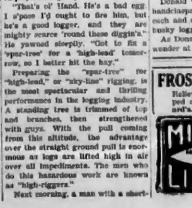
"What is it?"

"If every day will be Sunday by and by, what will every other day be?"

"Well, Jim," asked the returned traveller, "have you married that sweet girl, or do you still dara your own socks?"

"Yes."

Love is the thing that makes a fellow want to pay a girl's board bill when he can't pay his own.



"I have been all round and cannot get a car anywhere."

"Have you tried the ditches?"—Pagan Gales, Yverdon.

For hours Donald followed the expert through the mill, while the latter explained and tasted the different mixtures.

Once a week Robert Rennie came to the mill, taking a keen interest in all phases of the manufacture, and invariably he went away with a pleased smile on his face.

"Never saw the old man so worked up," commented Gillis. "Guess he's like to come up here and run her himself."

Renwick was still skeptical. For no apparent reason he had taken a dislike to Donald. "It's just 'cause you and I are such good friends," explained Gillis. "Me and him got on like a couple of strange bull-dogs."

When the huge three-storied mill with its dry kiln, lumber skids, conveyor shed and railroad spurs, was ready for operation, and each machine had been tested, Robert Rennie arrived with other officials of the company. Next morning Donald's heart thumped as the mill's big whistle sent out its first call to work and like men fled eagerly to their posts.

The logs were sprayed with huge water-jets as they came up the chain-belt and clean them of gravel and debris. The electric "nigger" spun them about and threw them in to place with a thud that shook the mill. Then in a wild crescendo of sound there rose the harsh chorus of saws: the ringing howl of the circle, the sinister, slurring sound of the gang-saws, and the staccato snarl of the trimmers.

Smiling and rubbing his hands, Robert Rennie walked through the mill. "Running like a greased pig," shouted Gillis above the clamour. The owner of the R. C. & L. Co. so far forgot his decorum as to slap the astonished Gillis heartily on the back.

Donald noticed an ever-increasing irritability on the part of the logging foremen during the next week. The erstwhile jocular Gillis became sulky and morose. Donald got an inkling as to the cause of his friend's gloom when he heard Gillis in conversation with Andy.

"What the 'ell's the matter, you big lunkus? You're like a bear with a sore foot," complained Andy.

"I guess things will have pretty soon, and I have to put up with this crowd of bohunks much longer, I won't be fit to live with," growled Gillis.

Short of Breath Smothering Feelings Choking Sensation

Mrs. H. Day, Dartmouth, N.S. writes:—"For over a year I was troubled with smothering spells and shortness of breath, and it was impossible for me to walk, even a short distance, because of the choking sensation which followed.

After trying many treatments, in vain, I at last decided to try and in a surprisingly short time they did me much good.

TOOTH EXERCISE

You have read considerable of late about the daily dozen," but other tooth setting-up exercises.

Do you know, of course, that the body requires exercise if it is to develop and keep fit.

You have been told, too, that a vigorous circulation of blood is both beneficial and necessary as the arm to the health of your teeth.

But perhaps you have never given thought to the beneficial effects of vigorous mastication on the tooth structures themselves.

In the first place, then, there is the stimulating effect on the supporting structures of the teeth, of the more proper "tissue tone."

Then, there is the child, the development of the teeth. Is impossible without adequate mastication very exercise.

Firmer generations ate hard and coarse foods, and suffered little from dental troubles.

Mastication of such tough unsoothed food gave to their teeth and jaws sufficient exercise to promote the proper development of each, and a very decided massage of the gumes. These tissues received the full blood supply to the fawes provided ample tissue nourishment for growth and development along with great power of resistance to infection.

Today, we have not the great many over-refined and pre-digested foods that our parents had to eat in their day, and in the use of which, even the mechanical effort of chewing and rubbing of the tooth surfaces are lacking through the air to flour and other foods. Nature working out her inexorable law, that what is not used will disappear, has intended, gradually loses its effectiveness, by making the tooth structure softer and less resistant to disease.

There should be, therefore, an habitual use at each meal, of foods selected so as to supply each of their nutrient qualities, but because they require the use of the teeth to require vigorous masticatory effort.

Grippe! Flu! Influenza! Raging Through Canada

Preventive measures are advisable with so much Grippe in the air. Keep the throat and nostrils clear of infection by using Catarrhozone. Breathe the vapour of Catarrhozone. By this means you send the healing and soothing properties of the famous Three Gum of Australia all through the air passages of the head and throat.

Catarrhozone stops a grippy cold. It's splendid for irritable throat, relieves hoarseness, and effectively cuts the germs of Flu, Influenza, Grippe and Bronchitis. Get Catarrhozone today. Complete outfit, $1.00, trial size 25c; smaller size 50c at all druggists.

Caught By Americans

Now we know why the fish don't bite any more. They are finding their way into the United States by the thousands.

Fishing is a big industry in Canada, and the value of the fishing industry is second only to that of the lumber industry, which is first.

Canada's fisheries are valued at $75,000,000 annually, and employ 75,000 persons.

Canada's fish exports in 1927 were valued at $49,000,000, and the United States was the largest buyer, taking $29,000,000 worth.

Canada's fish imports in 1927 were valued at $5,000,000, and the United States was the largest seller, supplying $4,000,000 worth.

Canada's fish exports in 1928 will be greater than in 1927, and the United States will be the largest buyer.

Lloyd Again Victors Over Local Team

Hanson Gets Three Goals for the A. A. A.'s

The Lloydminster Elks retained their unbroken hold on the top rung of the Board Hockey league when they eked out a hard fought win against the Vermilion A.A.A. team at Lloydminster on Friday night, the score being 6-5. Vermilion were handicapped by having only two subs, as Eddie Mooney has left for his new post at High River.

The play was exceptionally fast, featuring end to end rushes and giving a crowd of eight hundred fans their money's worth. Bentley put Lloyd one goal to the good, and then shortly after Lowick added another. Hanson, who played a wonderful game throughout, scored the scoring per former on the ice, tied up the score at three all. Towards the end of the period Lowick again scored for the border town, the final period being scoreless and inclined towards rough play. Both goal custodians gave excellent displays.

Baron Munchalsen Never Told These

Inquiring Guests Add to Wonders of Jasper Park

"The equator," said the youngster, writing his examinations, "is a mere agurie lion running around the earth."

Schoolboy howlers are always rich in humor. But the howlers are not at ways made by schoolboys.

Last summer a lady came up to the information desk in Jasper Park Lodge to inquire about the motor trip to Mount Edith Cavell and the Angel Glacier. She was very anxious to miss nothing of the wonders of the mountains. "When," she asked, "does the Glacier spout?"

Then there was the lady who thought that the Lodge would be very pretty when it was finished, when the walls were plastered and balconied. That the great peeled logs, well chinked and cunningly fitted together were meant to be as they were never covered her consciousness. She knew nothing of the beauty of mountain architecture.

The prize, however, goes to the lady who was discussing the wild life of the park with one of the wardens. "The rents and the sheep are the same species, are they not?" she asked innocently. "Which are the sheaves?"

"Oh, the sheep, madam" said the warden, without batting an eyelash.

REWARD WHEAT TO BE DISTRIBUTED

Two hundred bushels of the new "Reward" wheat are being distributed among 200 Soldier Settlement Board settlers in the southern half of the province, it is announced by W. S. Wood, district superintendent of the Land Settlement Board. Calgary. Each settler is limited to two bushels of this wheat for which a charge of $2.00 per bushel will be made. Very satisfactory results have been secured, states Mr. Woods, from the variety of farmer wheat which was distributed similarly three years ago.

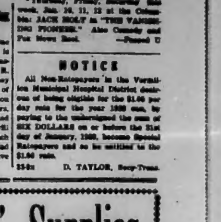
FARMERS URGED TO SECURE SEED OATS

Farmers throughout the province are being advised by the Provincial seed commissioner to make sure of the necessary provision, for securing the supply of oats for seed which they will require for their 1929 crop. The effects of frost in a number of districts are reflected in a reduction in the germinating quality of a great many of the oats threshed and in a number of cases, supplies of oats suitable for seed will have to be shipped in. Elevator companies have expressed their willingness to assist in the distribution of good seed and the farmers are advised to communicate with their local elevator agents as early as possible in order to obviate the possibility of a scarcity occurring during the seeding season

CABARET BOYS DEFEAT THE MANNVILLE ACES

The Clerks of the civic league played a return game at Mannville last Friday night and scored a three-two win over the Aces of that town. Hill got one and R. Cooper two goals for the The Lure boys, while Coates and Hollingshead scored for Mannville. The Vermilion boys line-up was — Welsh; Fallow and Chisholm; Cooper, Bell, Waldenberger, Beaudin, Mathieson and Edmonds.

ASSETS INDUSTRY



A. T. ROBLIN,

Mr. Roblin was born at London, Ont., 53 years ago, and has been with the National system for 13 years. The establishment of the new office in Saskatoon is in keeping with the rapid development of Saskatchewan and the policy of the Canadian National Railways in keeping abreast of the progress of the Dominion.

SUCCESSFUL SEASON IN SUGAR BEET INDUSTRY

Over 130,000 bags of sugar have been manufactured during the past season in the plant of the Canadian Sugar Factories Limited of Raymond, according to a recent announcement by the manager, T. Geo. Wood. It is estimated that the expenditure made yearly in this industry in Alberta averages over $650,000, the factory employing during its peak of production from 600 to 700 men. Approximately 17,500 tons of beets were harvested and growers have received an initial payment of $7 per ton which is expected will be supplemented by further payments during the winter months. A total price of $8.16 per ton was paid for beets delivered to the factories in 1927. During the past season an average yield of 7.5 tons per acre was secured, the beets having an average sugar content of 17.5 per cent. Mr. Wood in his statement expresses the belief that the acreage sown to beets in 1929 will exceed that in any previous year

HOMESTEAD RECORDS BROKEN IN 1928

Breaking all records since the office was opened, 2,569 homesteads and 134 soldier grants were filed on in the Dominion Lands Office at Edmonton in 1928 according to figures issued by A. Norquay, Dominion Lands Agent. The corresponding figures for 1927 are 1,254 homesteads and 59 soldier grants. During the month of December 1928, 400 quarter sections were filed on as compared with 107 for the same month in 1927. Similar increases have been shown in the filings at other land offices in the province, particularly marked gains having occurred in the entries made at the Grande Prairie and Peace River offices.

FREIGHT ONLY ON VILLERCHON LINE

Traffic on the new Willingdon line between that point and Edmonton is confined to freight only, and not passenger service, pointed out C. P. R. officials on Saturday morning. They said that judging by the number of inquiries, people have the impression that the line is carrying passengers, which is not the case. It is expected that early in the spring the line will be turned over to the traffic department, by the operating department and then it will be in a position to give passenger service.

AN OLD SETTLER GONE

(Logan, U.S., Observer.)

H. V. Peckenpaugh was born in Calmeron, Ill., August 18th, 1848. He came to Harrison county with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Peckenpaugh, in 1864. The greater part of his life was spent in this county, in the vicinity of Logan. He passed away at the home of his youngest son, Silas, at Kinley, Saskatoon, Canada, December 15, 1928, at the age of 79 years, 4 months and 8 days.

He was married to Marcella Pugsley in February, 1883. She preceded him in death by 13 years. To this union eight children were born. Two of these children died in infancy, and Fred passed away at Paris, Missouri, in 1911. There are left to mourn five sons: Charlie, of Perdue, Sask., Canada; Clay, of Missouri Valley; Robert of Kinley, Saskatchewan, Canada. Vermilion, Alberta, Canada, and Silas of Kinley, Saskatchewan, Canada. Two brothers, C. F. Peckenpaugh of Logan, and Douglas of Spokane, Wn.; two sisters, Mrs. Lorinda Evans of Havelock, Nebraska and Mrs. Millie Gibson of Porterville, California; 13 grandchildren and one great grandchild.

The funeral services were conducted by Rev. Sutton of Woodbine, at the Christian church in Logan. The burial was in Bethel.

Those attending the funeral from a distance were Mr. and Mrs. Silas Peckenpaugh of Kinley, Sask., Canada, Mr. and Mrs. Clay Peckenpaugh and son Merl of Missouri Valley, and Mr. and Mrs. T. V. Peckenpaugh of Omaha, Nebraska; Mrs. Lisella Lambert of South Dakota, Miss Frances Pugsley, Mrs. Marcellus Pugsley and daughter Agnes, and George Pugsley of Woodbine, and M. B. Pint of Crescent, Iowa.

Icelandic Parliament One Thousand Years Old

Western Canadians to Join Excursion to Ancient Land Next Year

Now that time has turned into 1930 and 1930 has come a step closer, the Icelandic people of Canada, 'a community with their fellow countrymen scattered in other lands away from the little island in the north, are beginning to look forward more eagerly than ever to the millennial celebration at Reykjavik a year from next June.

Iceland, the mountainland of snow, ern democracy, organized the world's oldest functioning parliament in June A.D. 930, and there is not an Iceland ic heart that does not beat high with pride at the thought of commemorating the thousand years. The Iceland ic government has planned fitting celebrations and is issuing invitations to representative bodies the world over to send delegates.

The Canadian National Railways and the Cunard line are co-operating in the transportation of hundreds of Icelanders and people of Icelandic descent and a special vessel will be put aside for the excursion, sailing from Montreal. The service on board the steamer will include Icelandic dishes of popular favor, games and sports, and a newspaper. While most of the functions will take place at Reykjavik, there will be a ceremony at Thingvalla, where the original parliament was organized a thousand years ago, and there will be excursions inland, revealing to some for the first time the rugged, austere beauty of Iceland, and bringing back happy memories to others.

AMERICAN KNIGHTS RAMSAY MACDONALD

Labor Leader is Dubbed "Sir Ramsay" at Jasper Park Lodge

If they come to hear of this in the Labour party of Great Britain, there will be murmurings afresh in the left wing. It might even have a far-flung effect in the next general election. When Ramsay MacDonald was in Canada last summer, he was knighted. Without sword or cushion, without kneeling in silken hose and breeches, but he was knighted. And by a citizen of the United States.

It happened when the former Prime Minister was a guest at Jasper Park Lodge. The man who brought him such distinction, a visitor from Cincinnati, was enjoying the Rockies at the same time. He had a movie hobby with him and was having the fun of his life catching unsuspecting beaver, deer, bear, golfers and other denizens of the park. When Mr. MacDonald appeared with his four daughters, the heart of the man from Cincinnati leapt up. Here was bigger game. A scoop! When his friends gathered before the silver screens in their drawing rooms next winter and boasted of their summer's trophies he could afford to smile. And when he unwound his own reels they would all perish of envy.

The man from Cincinnati waggled on introduction. "Sir Ramsay," said he, diffidently and firmly, "Sir Ramsay, would you mind if I took a few movie shots of you?"

The deed was done. But the man was too engrossed to be aware of it. Mr. MacDonald did not pale nor pffer resistance. He simply smiled and protested that he was no shrik. "I don't want to bother you," said the amateur movie man. "If you and your daughters just step out of the Lodge and stroll down the path along the shore of Lac Beauvert, I'll put you as you go."

So was Ramsay MacDonald knighted and starred in the movies in one day.

The Control Of Wheat Rust

Dusting, the Crop With Sulphur Proved To Be the Best Method

While the development of varieties of wheat that are resistant to Stem Rust is regarded as the most certain method of overcoming losses from this trouble, the Department of Agriculture, at Ottawa, through the Botanical and Cereal Divisions, is endeavoring to find out other and quicker means of dealing with the problem. The crossing of resistant varieties with others of high yielding and milling qualities is being pursued. Experiments are being carried on in the hope of finding treatments of the growing crop that will in some way reduce the losses that occur in seasons favourable to rust development. In a new bulletin on the subject, number 106, and entitled "Stem Rust in Western Canada," published by the Department of Agriculture it is shown that dusting the crop with sulphur offers a promising method of controlling rust. Field results for the past three years, it is stated, have demonstrated beyond question that the method is effective even under severe epidemic conditions.

The work described by the author, Dr. D. L. Bailey, formerly in charge of the Rust Research Laboratory, at Winnipeg, has been largely confined to small plots. The crop on plots treated in 1925 yielded 55 bushels to the acre, as against 15 bushels to the acre from untreated plots. Last year 43 bushels to the acre were obtained from treated plots as against 10 bushels from those given no treatment. The quality of the grain from the treated plots was No 1 Northern, while from the other plots 12 grain harvested was fit only for feed. It is pointed out that for effective control the crop must be dusted often enough to maintain a continuous coating of sulphur over the plants while they are exposed to attack of rust. For spreading the sulphur both aeroplane and horse-drawn field dusters were used. Where the horse-drawn duster was used there was a net profit of $11.80 per acre from its operation. Dusting by aeroplane was found to be satisfactory as the machinery was economical, and demonstrated that the aeroplane is well suited to this type of work.

This bulletin, which is available from the Publications Branch of the Department of Agriculture, Ottawa, deals with the subject of rust disease, its development, and its control in a most interesting way.

A Compulsory Gift

A "Tommy," lying in a hospital during the war, had besides him a wealth of curious and foreign design. The attending doctor was interested.

"Where did your watch come from?" he asked.

"A German gave it to me," he answered.

A little piqued, the doctor inquired how he had come to convey the token, etc., of affection.

"He 'ad to," was the laconic reply.

Anxious For Settlement

An official communique has been issued by Sir Austen Chamberlain, Foreign Minister Briand and Foreign Minister Stresemann, the course of which was that the ministers are determined to do everything in their power to arrive as soon as possible at a complete and final settlement of difficulties arising out of the Great War.

The Cleaning Of Milk Pails

The Importance Of the Necessity For Utmost Cleanliness In Dairying

If thoroughly clean milk is to be secured it is all important for the milkers to see to it that their pails and other utensils are well sterilized and that dirt of all kinds is prevented from falling from the cow into the pail at the time of milking. Precautions in respect to these matters are believed to be of greater, account than other minor factors contained. According to Dr. G. Lochhead, Bacteriologist of the Dominion Department of Agriculture, the condition of the utensils themselves are responsible for the majority of the contaminating bacteria. This question is fully dealt with in Circular No. 64 "The Washing and Sterilization Of Farm Dairy Utensils." Milk pails and cans cannot be kept clean by a casual washing. Carelessly washed pails are responsible for most of the trouble that arises from bacterial contamination. Even cans and pails which have been thoroughly washed and scalded, and appear perfectly clean, may add millions of bacteria at the next milking if traces of moisture are allowed to remain in them. Where steam is available the circular recommends its use in the cleaning of the utensils. Without steam the use of hot water is the commonest method of sterilization. The success of this method, however, depends on the temperature of the water and the quantity used. An eight gallon can requires at least a quart of boiling water to sterilize it effectively. Where a large number of utensils have to be cleaned these should be immersed for a minute or two in a tank of water at practically boiling heat.

Whatever method is used, rapid drying on a rack, on which the utensils should be placed while quite hot is important.

Where neither steam or hot water is readily available there still remains another system, the using of chlorine compounds in the washing water. The proper strength to use and the method of application are clearly set forth in the circular, which is available from the Publications Branch, Department of Agriculture, Ottawa.

Money Returned

A man sent a small boy to deliver a note to a young lady who lived a few streets away. He gave the boy twopence so that he would hurry.

After a short time the messenger came back and, returning the money, said: "Miss Jones says she will be glad to see you tonight, but she didn't want the twopence."

Cleaning Up Canada's Herds

Restricted Area Plan Maintains Healthful Conditions In Whole Districts

Rapid progress is being made in cleaning cattle on Canadian farms of tuberculosis. This disease is very common in practically every country where cattle are raised. For many years efforts have been made in Canada to control it with the ultimate objective in mind of complete eradication. The Department of Agriculture, at Ottawa, through its Health of Animals Branch, has made wonderful progress in this work. Two main policies are in operation: The Accredited Herd Plan, which deals only with pure bred herds, and the Restricted Area Plan, which undertakes to clean up and maintain in a clean condition whole districts rather than individual herds.

There are now approximately 85,000 fully accredited pure bred cattle in some 2,850 herds. This is under the first plan. Under the Restricted Area Plan, six districts are now reported free from tuberculosis. The total area covers some 11,300 square miles containing about 230,000 cattle. Under this plan the Provincial Minister of Agriculture at the request of breeders makes application to the Federal Minister of Agriculture, to have certain districts made restricted areas, which is done by Order-in-Council." Officers of the Health of Animals Branch then apply the tuberculin test to all animals in the area, order destroyed the reactors and disinfect the premises. At stated intervals further tests are made until no reactors are found.

Queer Chinese Superstition

Terrorized Oriental Sailors, Happy When One Has "Devil" Jump Overboard

Superstitions of Chinese sailors on the motor ship Carrico, which threatened for a time to bring on mutiny, have been satisfied by the report that one of the Orientals saw the "devil" that had brought them trouble jump overboard.

As the crew sighted the Hawaiian Islands after one of the strangest journeys in the memory of Pacific mariners, one of the Chinese yelled that the "devil" had jumped overboard and his terrorized countrymen immediately regained confidence.

The Carrico sailed for San Francisco, leaving behind the "devil" which beset Wong Ah Chung, fireman, and caused him to jump overboard.

Trapping Moles

Best Method Discovered For Saving Garden Or Green Patch

Moles frequently become serious pests in gardens, lawns, and small fruit plantations. The injury to garden is chiefly caused by the surface tunnels they make directly beneath the roots of annual or young plants. In strawberry patches the tunnelling under the plants breaks many of the small feeder roots and leaves the pockets beneath the plants which cut off moisture and prevent the roots from functioning properly. Contrary to current belief moles are active at all seasons of the year in such climates as permit of their activity during the winter season. Moles are common to all parts of Canada but they appear to be more plentiful in the province of British Columbia. At the Agassiz Experimental Farm in that province different ways of controlling moles have been tried. These are described in Circular No. 67, of the Department of Agriculture, Ottawa, which recommends trapping and shows the type of trap that has been found to work well. The trap is of simple construction and easily manipulated.

The runways are usually a few inches to one side of the centre of a mole hill. The direction of the runway can be determined by scraping aside the earth around the hill until the tunnel is discovered. The trap has to be set in the runway and a garden trowel has been found a useful tool for preparing a situation for the trap. After the trap has been set it has to be protected by sods, grass, or clumps of earth, which should be replaced as to exclude the light without interfering with the springs of the trap.

At the Agassiz Station with a dozen traps set as many as four moles were caught in twenty-four hours. With a little practice and careful observation, it is stated that the average person can become quite skilful in knowing how and where to set a mole trap.

Strawberry Culture

The strawberry is the most important of the small fruits of Canada. It is found wild throughout the Dominion from the Atlantic to the Pacific and from the International Boundary to as far north as the 64th parallel. The cultivated varieties are grown successfully nearly everywhere that wild ones are found.

Gypsum Production

At present the greater part of the crude gypsum produced in Nova Scotia and New Brunswick is exported as such and finds its market on the Atlantic seaboard of the United States.

Small Increase Shown

Increased milling capacity, extension of reserves, and the further development of new properties give promise of a continued increase in the output of gold from northern Ontario.

Young Sudbury Boy Receives Royal Canadian Humane Society Medal

When Stanley Conron, ten years of age, was presented at Sudbury with the bronze medal for heroism by the Royal Canadian Humane Society, he had the distinction of being the very first child of his age to be so recognized by the Humane Society for bravery. A few months ago he saved a baby from death beneath the wheels of a train, snatching the child from the engine's path in the nick of time. A second later he would have lost his life. His father is Sergeant George Conron of the Sudbury police force, and the boy is a native of Barrie.

British Industry Looks To Canada

Indications Point To Setting Up Of British Factories Here

British firms are looking very closely into the possibilities of setting up branch factories in Canada, and they have come to realize the vital importance of studying the market for themselves, Sir William Clark, British high commissioner in Canada, told the executive of the Canadian Chambers of Commerce at Montreal. Sir William said that Canada would see more and more representatives of British firms here every year.

Portable Elevators

Question Is Discussed At a Meeting Of Saskatchewan Wheat Pool

Among the questions discussed at the recent meeting of the Saskatchewan Wheat Pool were those of the possible use of portable elevators and covered scales as a means of serving farmers where there are no elevators and the building of second houses at heavy shipping points. These questions will be gone into and reported upon later.

Government Aid For Forest

Premier B. F. B.R. Farm Lands

Sale of farm lands made by the Hudson's Bay Company during the first nine months of 1928 amounted to 223,286 acres worth £3,725,000, as compared with 164,602 acres worth £1,950,000 in the corresponding period of 1927. Receipts for the nine months show an increase of 54 per cent.

Tuberculosis Vaccine Research

Subject Is Discussed At a Meeting Of Tuberculosis Held In Ottawa

Canadian science as represented by leading investigators who attended a session, at Ottawa, of the Associate Committee on Tuberculosis of the National Research Council has divided upon the humanizing efficiency of the vaccine known as "B. C. G." in the fight against tuberculosis. Intimation to this effect was given at the close of a meeting, which was held in private, but officers of the council declined to comment on the deliberations in any sense. "We have listened to a number of papers on experiments carried out with this vaccine," Dr. H. M. Tory, president of the council, declared, "but the delicate nature of the subject does not permit release of our conclusions without mature and studied consideration."

The vaccine, which was introduced in 1919 by the eminent scientists, Professors Calmette and Guerin, of the Institute Pasteur, has been declared by certain scientists as the most efficient and hopeful method of combating the dread scourge known to modern medical science. Experiments of the vaccine claim that tests carried over a period of years, have proved its immunizing qualities both in its effect on the human system and in treatment of cattle.

In support of this contention, it is understood that Dr. J. A. Houdquin, of the University of Montreal, has treated several hundred infants with satisfactory results. Dr. A. C. Rankin, of the University of Alberta, in a paper read to the delegates, reviewed the results of experiments he has conducted during recent years, in vaccinating more than 200 calves. He also claims to have met with encouraging results.

Dr. J. G. Fitzsimon, collaborating with C. W. McIntosh and H. Konst, of the federal department of agriculture, reports that his experiments have not proved conclusively, and in many ways were in discord with results reported to have been attained by other investigators. He is reported to have challenged the claim that the vaccine has been completely deprived of its virulence, that it is incapable of causing tuberculosis and that it is absolutely harmless and inoffensive.

Dr. Watson, who has experimented with the vaccine for more than four years is quoted as having told the conference that he regarded "B. C. G." vaccination as still being in the experimental stage and in respect to its immunity and efficiency open to question.

Following further review of expert opinion submitted to the committee, it is understood that a definite programme will be drawn up relative to future research work with the vaccine.

Better Health In 1929

A year or two after the close of the Great War, and when it was organizing its peace propositions into the improvement of health, the prevention of disease, and the mitigation of suffering," the Canadian Red Cross Society launched a monthly magazine for the purpose of arousing public interest in the matter of personal, community, and national health. With the end of 1928 publication of this little periodical ceased, and in announcing the cessation of publication, the Red Cross stated that in the intervening years the subject of health improvement and disease prevention had made such great strides, and so many organizations and publications were devoting their energies to the subject, while almost every daily and weekly paper regularly printed matter of interest to the individual, that the need for a publication of the Red Cross magazine, consequently the money it cost to produce could be devoted to other purposes.

There has certainly been a gratifying increase in public interest in health matters in the years following the war. With all its awfulness tragedy and enormous loss of life, at least served the purpose of advancing the cause of health. Today the public is more health conscious than ever before, but even so there is still vast room for improvement, and that improvement cannot be brought about alone by medical men, governments, hospitals, and health organizations. It rests largely with the individual.

In the past it has been true to a great extent that people only became actively interested in their health when they became sick, notwithstanding the fact that every intelligent person will immediately admit that prevention is better than cure. In all industry, on this age special efforts are directed at the elimination of waste and all unnecessary costs in business. Yet loss of time, loss of efficiency, [illegible] and loss of life through sickness and ill health are accepted by the employer as unavoidable, and are recognized by increased expense at the very time when income is decreased or stops, is the direct result of sickness. It is the cause of the greatest aggregate loss in money and human life. No better New Year resolution can be made, or observed, by the individual or the community than one which finds expression in a determination to safeguard health. Such a resolution finds added force at this particular time when the epidemic of influenza is sweeping the continent, although, fortunately, of a milder type than those of some years ago. Influenza is very contagious but, on the other hand, it can be easily combatted after the taking of very simple precautions. It is not to be combatted at the inception it may quickly result in serious complications such as bronchitis, intestinal trouble or pneumonia.

All health authorities are alive to the danger, so, too, are the life insurance companies, and all are engaged in extensive publicity campaigns to acquaint people of the danger and to make known to them the simple precautions they should exercise. Thousands of dollars are being spent in newspaper advertising and other forms of publicity, and it is money well spent, but it will nevertheless be largely wasted unless the masses of the people to whom these appeals and advice is directed profit by it.

This new year of 1929 cannot be a happy, prosperous year if sickness enters the homes of Canada, followed by death carrying off loved ones, or leaving members of the family confined and liable to contract other forms of disease. Good health is the first essential to happiness. Without it no person, community or nation can be prosperous.

The Canadian people cannot render better service to themselves and their country than by giving immediate and constantly continuing attention to their health. By so doing they will be laying the only sure founda tion for happiness prosperity, progress.

Canal To Count Membership Drive To Take Place In April

The weekly and daily newspapers of Canada are warm supporters of the League, it was stated at the regular monthly meeting of the League of Nations Society held in Ottawa, when arrangements were discussed for the membership drive, to take place next April. Through out the length and breadth of the Dominion, it was said, editors have shown an interest in the work of the League of Nations and in the efforts of the Society to promote it in this country. The support of the press will prove a great asset in the annual "Coast to Coast" Membership Drive due to take place on April 16th, 1929, which will be known as "League of Nations Day."

Stern Wheel Steamboats

Last Of Picturesque River Boats Has Disappeared In B.C.

The Fraser River has seen the last of its picturesque stern wheel steamers which until recently formed a link with the romantic past, the Cariboo gold stampede and other notable events in the early history of British Columbia.

The old steamer Skeena has been sold to a cannery tender, and will be used as a bunkhouse for fishermen. She will no longer navigate the shallows and treacherous canyons of the mighty Fraser, and she was the last of her line.

Many wheelers first commenced to operate on the Fraser in 1859.

WEAK, LISTLESS GIRLS

Need Such a Tonic As Dr. Williams' Pink Pills To Restore Health

When a girl in her teens becomes pale and sallow, especially if at the same time she shows inclination to tire easily, a listlessness and instability to her work or even play, she needs Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, a tonic which directly and specifically acts on the blood, making pure what she is suffering. A chemical analysis of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills will show it to be deficient in just those elements in which Pink Pills excel supply. But an analysis of the blood is not needed—the physician signs are a pallor of the cheeks and lips, a sickly wicker under the eyes, easily tired and breathless after slight exertion. Poor appetite, headaches, and sometimes fainting spells follow; often the patient is nervous and irritable. A trial of Pink Pills in all run-down conditions there is no other medicine that will help up so quickly and so surely as Dr. Wi liams' Pink Pills. Mrs. Oliver Gosse of Miss Dorothy Lindon, Bush Island, N.S., will bring hope to other girls. She says:—"I wish from my heart I could persuade every girl suffering as I was from a condition to give Dr. Williams' Pink Pills a trial. About a year ago I was a weak girl suffering from impoverished blood and a run-down system, with many of the attendant symptoms. I started at that time to use Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and decided to take them, and after using six boxes I was as well as I ever was, and every blood needs building up again, and Dr. Williams' Pink Pills is the medicine I recommend them to others."

You can get Pink Pills from your druggist, or by mail at 50 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Canadian Firm Gets Contract

Will Supply R.C.A.F. With Moth Planes To Be Assembled In Canada

The de Havilland Aircraft of Canada Limited, has received notification from the director of contracts, of the Department of National Defence that their tender for the supply of Moth aircraft for the re-equipment of the Royal Canadian Air Force had been accepted.

An order was placed immediately for thirty-four trainer Moth light aeroplanes, twenty-eight being landplanes for the re-equipment of the Camp Borden station. These machines which will replace the old "Lynx Avros" at present in use, will be used for the training of personnel of the force and for the annual flying courses for probationary flying officers who attend during the summer months. The remaining machines are Moth seaplanes for the equipment of the station at Vancouver.

It is a significant fact that all the machines are being supplied with the Handley-Page automatic safety slits which render an aeroplane so nearly fool-proof as possible.

The Moths will be of the latest metal fuselage type which has been specially evolved for Canadian flying conditions and recently passed all tests at Orfard with flying colors.

The order includes six spare Gipsy engines and approximates in value nearly $100,000.

The Moths will be partly manufactured in England, but assembled and tested at the de Havilland factory plant at Mount Dennis, Ont., Delivery is to be completed by March 31.

Two Hundred Mile Dog Derby Returns To North Country

Famous Members Will Race This Year From The Pas To the Pas Flin Flon

After a lapse of four years, the endurance dog derby, which once thrilled the north country, and, it might even be said, the world, is returning to The Pas in the greatest one-day race which brought fame to Northern Manitoba and its hardy members will be revived at the frontier town's winter carnival, March 6 to 7. This time, romance will be added to romance. The course will be from The Pas to the famous Flin Flon mine and back, a distance of 200 miles.

Two thousand dollars in cash prizes, besides other valuable awards, and the Walter Goyne-Grant Rice memorial cup, which has an intrinsic value of $1,000, will attract mushers from wherever numbers meet. The winner will have every dog racing championship of the world.

"Shorty" Rumick, veteran driver, and the youthful, though none the less noted Emil St. Godard, present world's champion, each have a leg on the memorial cup, and the event will be one of the leading contestants this year, and it is likely that Russell Gordon will also be entered. Other members are bound to make a strong bid for more fame at the derby which has come back to its original home. Seppala, Alaska's pride, has been itching for another endurance race, as have friends of other members, from both the east and the west, have already sent in their applications for entrance forms.

Drivers are already training their teams for the test in March. St. Godard's dogs are in fine shape after their rest and a fall of workouts. The team of the French-Canadian musher had been trained for the September, 120-mile lap races of the past three years, but Emil claims that the dogs have the endurance for the longer route, and have been harnessed to an auto chasis in the warm months and are in good condition for the snow trail.

Impossible To Measure Intelligence With a Foot Rule

Dr. Edward E. Free, a noted chemist, tells the American Society of Mechanical Engineers that mechanics are the most intelligent class in the nation. Second come engineers; third, business men. And how does Dr. Free measure intelligence? By the ability to recite Emil St. Godard, present world's champion, each have a leg on the memorial cup, and the event will be one of the leading contestants this year, and it is likely that Russell Gordon will also be entered. WINDOLITE

MADE IN ENGLAND

The Improved Glass Substitute

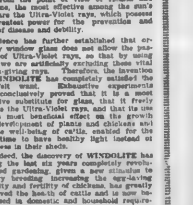
COMES WITH A MESSAGE of HEALTH

THE sun is the all-powerful life producer, Nature's universal disinfectant and germicide. Sunshine is health, strength and tonic. Important silly.

Medical research has definitely proved that from the point of view of Health and Hygiene, the most effective among the sun's rays, are the Ultra-Violet rays, which possess the greatest power for the prevention and cure of diseases and debility.

Science has further established that ordinary window glass does not allow the passage of Ultra-Violet rays, so that by using glass we are artificially excluding these vital health-giving rays. Therefore, the invention of WINDOLITE has completely satisfied the long-felt want. Exhaustive experiments have conclusively proved that it is a most effective substitute for glass, that it freely admits the Ultra-Violet rays, and that its use has a most beneficial effect on the growth and development of plants and chickens and on the well-being of cattle, and for the first time to have healthy light instead of darkness in their sheds.

Indeed, the discovery of WINDOLITE has during the last few years completely revolutionized gardening, given a new stimulus to poultry breeding increasing the egg-laying capacity and fertility of chickens, has greatly improved the health of cattle and is now being used in domestic and household requirements.



WINDOLITE stands for 100 per cent. sunlight! It makes light but strong windows for cattle sheds, dairy stables, poultry houses, brooders and all outbuildings. It is economical, unbreakable, flexible and is easy to cut and fit. It is now being successfully used for conservatories, verandahs, schools, factories, hospitals, sanitariums, hot beds, plant coverings and greenhouses. It keeps out cold —will not crack or chip—cuts with an ordinary pair of scissors and is easy to fit. WINDOLITE is supplied in rolls easy length but in one width of 36 inches only. A square yard of WINDOLITE weighs about 14 ozs., while a square yard of glass of ordinary thickness, weighs about 1½ to 1¾ lbs. The improved WINDOLITE requires no varnish. WINDOLITE is made in England.

Price $1.50 Per Square Yard, f.o.b., Toronto.

New Proposals For Return Of Natural Resources To Three Prairie Provinces

With separate bills for the return of Natural Resources, presented to Saskatchewan, Alberta and Manitoba a possibility in parliament, it can be said with assurance the Dominion government's new proposals embody the following points.

The present subsidies paid to the provinces are to be continued in perpetuity, but without further increase.

The remaining resources are to be handed over to the provinces and, in addition, a lump sum of money is to be paid in settlement of all other claims of the provinces for compensation for lands alienated.

It is not to be expected that the lump sums to be paid in lieu of lands alienated will be very large, but they would probably be big enough to enable provincial governments to organize land departments without straining their financial resources or going into debt.

These new proposals are the most generous of any settlement of the question so far proposed by the Dominion government, and there is every anticipation they will be accepted by the respective provincial governments and legislatures.

Premier J. E. Brownlee, of Alberta, already is on his way back to Alberta with the new proposals, which will be discussed at a cabinet meeting in Edmonton.

The Saskatchewan legislature now in session, is considering a resolution providing for a conference at Ottawa following the Saskatchewan session, to consider a similar proposal.

Manitoba also has its case for the return of its resources in the hands of a committee of the house of commons to report on the proposed settlement shortly.

Three separate bills will be necessary to carry out the terms of the proposals owing to the varying conditions under which the resources are held by the federal government in the three prairie provinces. For instance, in Alberta, where the natural resources of coal, gas and oil production are already highly developed, an immediate source of revenue for the province, collection of the Pine Fire area, there has as yet been no large development from which revenue to replace the loss could be anticipated for some years to come.

In the case of Manitoba and Alberta, the mining development is well advanced, and there are rich revenues from royalties to be obtained. Also the innumerable thorny issues which arise from efforts at equitable division of commissions have complicated the present system of administration and have made it desirable that the province have the administration at Ottawa, acting only with the consent of the provincial governments, and with no more efficient to let the provinces administer their own domain.

It may be said that Premier King has set his heart on achieving a settlement of these resources problems. He paved the way to such settlements by calling a Dominion-provincial conference a year ago, at which he got the other provinces to agree in the federal government assuming the present subsidy and handing over remaining resources.

This marked the problem from the federal viewpoint, and he has been able to press forward. The premier has also pledged the provinces himself, but it is only fair to say that he has been supported unanimously by all the Western ministers, particularly Hon. Charles Stewart, minister of the interior.

Right Salve One Problem

Families Or Whole Villages Mortgaging Together Would Lessen Loneliness

Lady Charles Kennedy, interestingly known yachtswoman, of Devonshire, England, has just completed her first trip across Canada, from coast to coast, and as president of the Women's and Men's Society for her native shire, professed an "overwhelming impression of the vastness of the Dominion," and what she termed the "obvious need for immigration here."

"It seems to me there should be no difficulty in getting young Britishers to come to Canada, and our society is beginning to take steps to encourage them," declared the lady emphatically. When the sacrifices are measured by these standards the prospect of Mrs. Shadlock's new arrangement to remain unchanged for the next half century is readily manifest. And after 1932 the present agreement calls for even heavier payments. New York World.

More Accredited Herds In Canada

Latest Official Report Shows 8,739 Certified As Free From Disease

According to the latest figures published by the Department of Agriculture, Canada has 8,739 tuberculosis free accredited herds, compared with 8 herds in 1921, 792 herds in 1923, and 2,065 herds in 1926. Under the "accredited herd plan, before a herd is designated a "tuberculosis-free accredited herd" must have passed two annual or three semi annual tests without reactor.

The "restricted area plan" for the eradication of tuberculosis in cattle seems to be the most practical and economical method for the Government and for the live stock owners says a Government report. Under this plan 635,862 cattle have been tested with excellent results.

Moses' Words Could Be Picked Out Of Air If Experts Knew How

"Somewhere in the vast tangled skein of ether which coils around the earth the words of Moses are still trailing, and if the experts knew how to do it, they could pick those words out of the ether," says P. A. Arnold, of the National Broadcasting Company.

That may or may not be true, but it is interesting to recall that the Chinese have an ancient proverb's which says: "The echoes of a spoken word vibrate in space forever."

Billion Paid So Far

And After 1932 Britain's Payment To U.S. Will Be Heavier

Today the British Government completes the sixth of its annual payments on its American war debt and now has only fifty-six more such payments to make. Since the funding of the debt agreement, it has turned over to the United States Treasury the sum of $984,000,000, and as $100,000,000 was paid in cash before the signing of the agreement, the grand total of payments exceeds a billion. This amounts roughly to a fourth of the original debt. Only about 15 per cent. of these payments, however, have been applied to the principal of the debt, the rest representing interest. In consequence the principal has been reduced so far by only 3.2 per cent. The extinction of the debt is thus seen to be a slow process.

It is difficult to visualize the real burden which these annuities impose on the British people. Total payments for the current year amount to $154,000,000. This sum would endow two great universities like Harvard and Yale. It would pay all the running expenses of the British army, navy and air force. It would be almost sufficient, if applied ratably, to pay the running expenses of the entire village of Nome, as to leave the usual loneliness in the setting of immigrants in Canada.

Then, that is the solution of the problem of keeping Canada wholly British," she asserted.

The greatest movement by boat in the history of Canada, was recorded as inaugural on November 20th, when 8,625,000 bushels of grain were shipped down the lakes.

James A. Richardson,

Director, Canadian Pacific Railway

James Armstrong Richardson, Director of the Canadian Pacific Railway, well known throughout the west, was born in Kingston, Ontario in 1885. In 1906 he joined the Kingston office of James Richardson & Sons, Limited, grain exporters, who have offices in Kingston, Winnipeg, Calgary, Toronto, Montreal, and other points in Canada. He was in charge of the firm's Toronto office from 1907 to 1912 and became Vice-President in charge of Western Branches at Winnipeg, from 1912 to 1918. In February, 1918, he became associated with the Allied Naval Commission and at the joint request of the Buyer for the Allied Governments and the Panama Canada Mills, took charge of wheat distribution to the 251 flour mills in Eastern Canada. He was shortly afterwards asked to become Vice-President of Wheat Export Company, Ltd., as second in charge of the purchasing and forwarding of grain and grain products for the Allied Governments in Canada. He was appointed President and General Manager of James Richardson and Sons, Limited, in 1919.

Getting Away From Fish

New Jersey Fisherman Inherits Fortune and Will Live In Brazil

Sven Petersen, an eighty-year-old fisherman, of New Jersey, who has recently inherited a considerable fortune under the will of a brother who had amassed wealth in the wheat belt, is not to be numbered among those optimists who insist that there is no fun like work. On the contrary, he believes that work is a curse and that the particular brand which has engaged his attention for the greater portion of his adult years, to all forms of labor the most irksome, unproductive and generally disagreeable, is the occupation which has come for him to retire he intends to retire. And he means to retire in a big way.

Mr. Petersen, in short, is going to live in the desert, because in the desert, he has read somewhere, there is nothing to remind a man of fish, which remind him too acutely of his life work.

Clothes and Shoes Made From Aluminum Are Being Worn In Europe

Suits of mail, not unlike those worn by King Arthur's knights, may become commonplace if the aluminum metal movement on the Continent becomes popular.

A new process of manufacture converts a thin sheet of aluminum into pliable, strong and cheap dress material.

Already Italian women are waring "aluminum brocades" and lingerie, and the smart set in London dances in aluminum shoes. A pair of aluminum "plus fours" for golfers is under consideration by experts of Burns and Company, Calgary, Tasmers' Association of Canada, Toronto, and the Canada Paper Co., Montreal.

In the process of manufacture rolling plants turn out sheets of aluminum of the required thickness and a stripping machine converts it into "yarn" for the loom.

Canada's Water Power

Hydro Electric Resources Within Reach Of All Mining Areas

Water power available for mine-mill development in Canada amounts to 43,000,000 h.p., states a review of the mining industries issued by Hon. Charles Stewart, Minister of the Interior. Of the total, 3,000,000 h.p. has so far been developed. It is pointed out that hydro-electric resources are within the reach of all the mining areas of the Dominion, facilitating the operation of the richest ores and making profitable the exploitation of low grade ore bodies.

Predicts Canada's Future

Country Bound To Progress Rapidly Opinion Of Roger Babson

Roger Babson foresees a wonderful future for Canada. He says the country has ninety per cent. of the waterpower of the continent and owing to this will attract the industrial centre of the continent to a point 200 miles north of where it now is. Canada, he declares, will eventually control the wheat markets of the world and Ontario will supply 60 or 70 per cent. of the nonferrous metals of the continent.

He predicts a population for Toronto of 2,500,000 in twenty-five years.

THE WEATHER

Following a week-end of weather hovering well below the zero mark with snow flurries, the temperature turned Monday with a chinook and melting temperatures prevailed, leading up to rainfall which started early Tuesday morning and which is perhaps unique in the history of Alberta. The wind turned to the east on Tuesday afternoon, bringing the rain to snow intermittent snow flurries continued through the evening and night followed by mild weather well above zero on Wednesday morning. Indications point to more snow.

DOUBLE WEDDING

A double wedding of unusual interest was solemnized at the home of of Mrs. P. Thompson, north of Vermilion, on Tuesday, January 8th at three o'clock in the afternoon, when Gladys Elizabeth, only daughter of James R.and the late Mrs. Thompson became the bride of William J. Peake of Acme; and Annie Evelyn Good, second daughter of Richard and Mrs. Good of Vermilion, became the bride of Ernest Thompson of Vermilion. The former bride was charmingly dressed in a dress of rosegloe flat silk crepe and the latter becomingly gowned in a dress of electric blue crepe back satin. The Rev. H. A. Boyd of Vermilion officiated.

After the ceremony a buffet lunch was served to about twenty guests.

Sunday Morning Blaze Wiped Out Livery Barn

Fire which broke out at about 3:15 A. M. Sunday completely destroyed the livery and feed stables of Alex Findlay. Fortunately no horses were in the barn at the time of the fire, all having gone out the night before. Joe Lapointe, the only occupant of the stable, escaped by jumping from a second storey window, having been awakened by smoke and the intense heat. It was not until then that the alarm was given, the barn being practically a mass of flames. Fortunately the wind was in the south-east, blowing the flames and burning debris on to vacant property.

The building was one of the oldest in the town and was the only original livery barn left standing, all other barns having fallen prey to fire at various times and being replaced by new ones or not rebuilt.

PETTY THIEVING DURING EARLY MORNING HOURS

A number of complaints have been received the past two weeks about the petty stealing of change placed in milk bottles over night. Some all the way from 10 cents to $2.00 have been taken. The matter was first noticed when true housewives used to call up the dairies and complain that no milk had been left and were surprised when told that they had placed no money in the bottles, and it was a case of "no money no milkee." One house owner, hearing noises at his back door at an early hour, got up in time to see two men beating it for the lane. He was told later in the day that there was no money left by him, although he knew he had placed some there. The money had been stolen. In another case the tenants of the house hearing a noise, got up also at an early hour to see a man disappearing in the lane. This man took the bottle; perhaps not having time to remove the coins. A reverend gentleman is out a dollar and a quarter and another prominent citizen is minus 2.00 and so on down the list. As far as can be gathered from the reports there won't seem to be two men alike at this game. Many 12 o'clock [illegible]

PRESBYTERIANS SHOW GREAT PROGRESS DURING 1928

Substantial Increase in Every Department of Church Work

The annual meeting of the Presbyterian church was held Monday evening in the church hall. The different reports submitted for the year showed substantial increase in the various departments of church work. In 1927 over $9000 was raised by this congregation, and $10,000 was raised for all purposes in 1928. The membership was increased to nearly 300. The report of the superintendent of the Sunday school indicated a big movement of over 50, while the collections were nearly $1200.00. The church has a flourishing mission band as well as a young people's society. The ladies' aid raised over $1000 and sent [illegible] to needy [illegible] missionary society, besides large contributions of clothing and literature. For the ensuing year the congregation was allocated $1500 in connection with the budget of the church. The allocation was reached before the end of the year. Over $1500 were spent in needed church improvements. The congregation has made wonderful progress since its reorganization about two years ago.

Canadians Are Most Eaters

Per Capita Consumption Exceeded By Only Three Other Countries

In cattle holdings Canada ranks twelfth among the countries of the world. There are eight countries with more swine than Canada and apparently twenty with more sheep and lambs. The Dominion is exceeded in meat consumption only by Argentina, New Zealand and Australia, the per capita consumption of these countries being respectively 346.3 lbs., 311.6 lbs., and 227.3 lbs. against Canada's 156.3 lbs. Following come the United Kingdom, 127.2 lbs., France, 113.9 lbs., Germany, 104.2 lbs., Denmark, 102.9 lbs., and Belgium 71.1 lbs. Canada's per capita meat consumption is made up of 68.3 lbs. of beef, having increased to this from 60.9 lbs. in 1910; 81.4 lbs. of pork against 66.7 lbs. in 1910; 6.1 lbs. of mutton and lamb, as compared with 8.7 lbs. in 1910; the total of 156.3 lbs. comparing with 136.8 lbs. in the former year.

Anxious To Protect Canadian Fisheries

Regulations Aim To Prevent U.S. Fishermen Selling In Canadian Ports

Possible international conference regarding the fishing treaty between Canada and the United States may come as a direct result of the allegation made by Oregon and Washington fishermen of treaty violations on the part of the Dominion on the Pacific Coast which have been forwarded through the State department to Ottawa, and to Canadian Government officials.

The department of Marine and Fisheries has issued the following statement: "There is no desire on the part of the Dominion authorities to restrict in any way the privileges of which U.S. salmon trolling boats are entitled in Canadian ports, but when these boats are carrying on their fishing just outside Canadian water or during periods when closed they are not being allowed to use such ports for purpose of comfort and convenience and so make them a huge rendezvous for practical purposes for vessels from which to operate. Reasons were made only when such action appeared necessary to protect the above fact and seizures were not made until after the boats concerned had received notification that Canadian ports might be used only for bona fide shelter or other treaty purposes."

At the present time U.S. ports charge a two cent duty on every pound of Canadian fish sold through them. The object of the Canadian regulations is to prevent United States fishermen selling their fish in Canadian ports and thus gaining an advantage of the Canadian fishermen.

Patrol Of Royal Mounted

Order Maintained Throughout Great Regions Of North-West Territories

The city or suburban policemen who is inclined to grumble about the size of the territory he has to patrol, should be given a glance at the area which has to be covered by the Royal Canadian Mounted Police. To them is given the task of maintaining law and order and administering relief among the scattered settlements in the great regions of the North-West Territories, stretching in a belt 2,000 miles wide from Baffin Island to the Peace and Athabasca River delta in the west. Posts are established along the Arctic coast from time to time and investigations are undertaken and each year by the officers stationed there. Two years is the usual term of duty for a constable in these territories, but not infrequently the call of the land proves irresistible and the members of the force return for duty again and again.

Fire of unknown origin destroyed the plant office and newspaper plant of the Territorial Recorder, a weekly building and printing plant were owned by C. R. McIntosh, M.P., and were covered by insurance. Post office fixtures, owned by A. Vingo, postmaster and editor of the "Territorial Recorder," were also burned (owing to strenuous efforts on the part of volunteer fire fighters the blaze was kept from spreading. No fire had been made in the building on the day of the outbreak, according to Mr. Vingo.

Regularity Is Essential

Live stock thrives best when fed and watered regularly. There is a strong temptation to be in on the cold mornings or to do the chores earlier then usual when the days are short and dull. Irregularities in the feeding of live stock do not favor greatest thriftiness or production. For best results "chores" should be done by the clock.

Proves Laborious Task

Editor Of Oxford Dictionary Searching For Derivation Of New Words

So many new words have been coined in the past few decades, that thirty pages of the New Oxford Dictionary are necessary to record only those beginning with the letter "A." This was revealed by Dr. C. T. Onions, who is editing the new supplement to the dictionary.

It was not only such obvious additions as automobile and airplane that are giving the dictionary staff a laborious task. The new words, according to Dr. Onion, include a "multitude of common colloquialisms, technicalities that have become public currency, and labels, discoveries, inventions, names of exotic plants, garments, terms of sport and of the new psychology.

There are, for instance, autosuggestion, auto-piano, auto-screen, autogiro, accent in art, to put or get it across, apperception, the all-round development of the individual, aquaplane, aerobatic, alpha rays, drug addict, airpath, airworthy, Anglo-phobia, acceleromotor.

In the original Oxford Dictionary, published in 1888, "adenoid" was included but there is no adjective signifying glandlike. "Aspidistra" is a plant long known in old-fashioned English parlors, but was never before achieved a place in a dictionary. On the other hand some words used in 1888 have become obsolete. The older meaning of "airplane" was a plane or wing, while autogiro was a rotating moving picture, is now dead as a doornail.

Dr. Onions is still searching for adequate definitions, quotations and word origins "A" has broken loose at the other end of the menagerie."

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

JANUARY 20

CHRIST THE SAVIOUR

Golden Text: "And thou shalt call His name Jesus; for it is He that shall save His people from their sins."—Matthew 1.21.

Lesson: Luke 2.11, 30-32; 19.3-7; John 3.14-17; 10.9-11; 14.16-27, 26; Acts 5.1-16; Romans 5.1-11; Philippians 2.5-11; 2 Timothy 1.9, 10; Universal Reading: Psalm 85.4-9.

Explanations and Comments

The Value Of a Repentant Sinner. Luke 15.3-7. To the Pharisees and scribes who criticized Jesus for receiving sinners and eating with them, Jesus said: "Is there a man among you who, if he possessed a hundred sheep and found one missing would not leave the ninety-nine in the pasture lands and search for the lost sheep until he found it?" By t- a word translated "wilderness" is meant the uninhabited lands which were the pasture lands.

"The sheep may shiver with terror and cold when it no longer sees the flock, no longer hears the guiding voice of the shepherd, but it is only the shepherd who knows all that is involved in his position, only the shepherd knows the risks. We sometimes speak of man's infinite loss through sin, and I do not know that we can exaggerate it; but, after all, we do not realize it, even in a measure, until we view from the side of God the poverty and deformity of the human soul."—Thomas Hywel.

When the shepherd finds the lost sheep, he puts it across his shoulders (the easiest way in which to carry it), and returns rejoicing. So Jesus tells joy that he must have others share it, and he calls together his friends and tells them to congratulate him.

Grief can take care of itself, says Mark Twain, but to get the full value of joy we must have some one with whom to divide it.

If you would be so careful and tender of one lost sheep, how much more careful and tender must the Good Shepherd be of the lost sheep of Israel? "I say unto you," said Jesus, "that even so in the sight of this human shepherd there will be joy with God and His angels over one sinner that repents, more than over ninety and nine righteous persons (such as the Pharisees regarded themselves). Luke 15.8, 10 (as they think) need no repentance." Dr. W. L. Watkinson points out that "each in this verse (1) the significance of the individual—over over one sinner; (2) the importance of the individual lost to his moral life—one sinner; (3) the most important event in the individual life is the restoring of the lapsed soul to God—one sinner that repenteth.

Learned From Experience

The Sunday evening Bible Class had been studying in full strength, and two of the latest recruits were discussing Bible topics.

"I think this yarn about feeding five thousand people on five loaves of bread an' two fish is all bunk," declared Bill.

"It can be did, buddy, it can be did," answered Henry.

"Aw, what's the matter with you? You goin' bugs on this Bible stuff?"

"Naw," replied Henry, "but I tend to be a mess sergeant in France."

Man was made before woman to give him time to think of an answer to her first question.

Inspection Of Vegetables and Fruit Products

Will Ensure Higher Grade Being Sent To Canner es

A thorough inspection of all fruit and vegetable products before preservation will be conducted in all canning plants of the Dominion, by inspectors of the fruit branch of the Federal Department of Agriculture. Through such a service, Mr. McIntosh, fruit commissioner, believes both producer and consumer would profit and encourage the delivery of higher grade products to the canneries. Fifteen permanent inspectors transferred from the health of animal branch, will be augmented by the full inspection staff of the fruit branch in carrying out the inspection service throughout the Dominion.

Practically Safe

Murderers have almost a 100 per cent. chance of escaping the electric chair if they commit crimes in Pittsburgh, the annual report of the homicide squad shows. Castoria is a comfort when Baby is fretful. No sooner taken than the little one is at ease. If restless, a few drops soon bring refreshing sleep. No harm done, for Castoria is a baby regulator made for babies. Perfectly safe to give the youngest infant, you have the doctors' word for that! It is a vegetable product and you can give it every day. But it's an extra urgency that Castoria means most. Some night when constipation must be relieved—or colic pains—or other suffering. Never be without it; some mothers keep an extra bottle unopened, to make sure there will always be Castoria in the house. It is effective for older children too: read the book that comes with it.

To Check Flu-Grip

Fight the Germs with Vapors Before They Can Get a Start

Treat All Colds Promptly But Be Careful Not to Disturb the Digestion With Too Much Dosing

While Flu is so prevalent everyone should take precautions to prevent its further spread. Flu is generally accompanied by a headache, burning eyeballs, and aching joints. But it begins as many times with just as ordinary cold.

Too often, the colds are neglected until they have reached the vitality and permitted the lurking germs of influenza, or pneumonia to "get a foothold."

The only safe plan is to attack a cold at the very start. A hot bath, a laxative, and a vigorous application of Vicks VapoRub on the throat and chest at bedtime, will usually break up a cold overnight.

External Treatment Best

For keeping after Vicks is applied, its ingredients, time tested remedies, such as camphor, menthol, eucalyptus, thymol and turpentine, are vaporized by the warmth of the body, and inhaled right to the inflamed air passages. At the same time, the ointment acts through the skin like an old-fashioned poultice, "drawing" the soreness and pain, and helping the vapors to break up the congestion.

Avoid Upsetting Stomach

This simple external treatment cannot disturb your digestion as too much "dosing" is so apt to do. This is doubly important when "flu" is around, for your stomach, as well as your respiratory organs, need to be kept in good condition in order to keep your body resistance at its highest level.

For this reason, too, mothers prefer Vicks for children. It can be used freely and often, even on the youngest child, with no fear of upsetting a delicate stomach.

To Help Ward Off the Flu

When influenza colds are prevalent, you can often prevent infection by snuffing a little Vicks well up the nostrils every night and morning, or before exposure to crowds.

"Whew!" whistled Gillis as he searched for his purse.

Recipes For This Week

(By Betty Barclay)

EGGS IN NESTS

To 3 cups of left-over mashed potatoes well softened with milk add ½ cup finely chopped ham or bacon 2 tablespoons finely chopped parsley, 3 tablespoons butter, salt and pepper. Cover the bottom of a well-buttered baking dish and arrange little nests into which gently break an egg. Allow an egg for each person. Sprinkle buttered bread crumbs over the top and bake in a moderate oven until the eggs are cooked, but not hard.

PRUNE WHIP DELICACY

1 package of orange junket.
1 pint milk.
1 egg white.
¼ cup sugar
½ cup prune pulp
2 teaspoons lemon juice.

Prepare orange junket according to directions on package and set away to chill. Beat egg white until stiff, add sugar gradually until thoroughly blended. Add prune pulp (prepared by rubbing cooked prunes through a sieve) and sugar Before serving heap the glasses of junket with prune whip, and garnish with sections of orange, if desired.

Little Helps For This Week

"A friend loveth at all times, and is brother is born for adversity." —Proverbs xvii 17

Yet of the brother, who slang our way,
Forgot with his burden, heart-worn in the strife,
Utters before us—how we search for his life,
Centaure and sternly punish while we rage
Oh weary are the paths of earth and man!
And living hearts alone are cure to guard;
At least begrudge not to the sore distraught
The reverent silence of our pitying thought.
Life, too, is sacred, and he best for—
Who says, "He errs," he hasn't studied "he lives."
—Mary Mapes Dodge.

Do not keep the alabaster boxes of your love and tenderness sealed up until after your friends are dead. Fill their lives with sweetness. Speak kind, approving, cheering words while they are yours, say before they go their hearts can be thrilled by them. The things you mean to say after they are gone, say before they go.

Bee Pollination Unnecessary

That bees are not actually necessary to the pollination of fruit trees is understood to be the important finding of a group of government experts whose report will shortly be delivered to Hon. W. R. Motherwell, minister of agriculture.

Letty: "She swears she has never been kissed by a man."

Letty: "Well, isn't that enough to make any girl swear?"

Ward off Flu and Pneumonia
Soothe and relieve with Vicks. Rub on throat, chest and back before retiring. Then inhale—with mouth closed—through the nose, breathing the vapor and clearing the head. Vicks relieves by stimulating the body's resistance and by acting as a positive counteractant. Try it tonight and be safe.

Livery barns in this man's town head a fiery and hot existence, no less than six of them having burned during our sojourn in the town. Fortunately damage to other buildings has been kept to a minimum with the exception of one case where the fire spread to an adjoining blacksmith shop and a residence, destroying them also. However, that perhaps will never always be the case, and the sooner livery barns are isolated the safer we will feel. Usually constructed as cheaply as possible, of highly inflammable material, they are a constant menace to surrounding buildings. On top of this there is very little need of them being in the business section of the town, as they certainly cannot be said to add to the attractiveness of a street's appearance.

Ill Luck Still Dogging V.A.A. Hockey Team

Lost At Vegreville By 5-4 Score After Being 2 Up

After being two goals up and seven minutes to go, the local boys had to swallow a 5-4 defeat at the hands o he Vegreville crew last Thursda night. According to the report emanating from Vegreville, the town boy had it all over the Elks, power beside during the first 55 minutes of play—and they were playing minus a regular player and with only one sub. The last five minutes or so was no her gruesome though, three shots, one after the other, finding the net and making the score read 5-4 for the vegetable boys. The cause of all the grief was an injury to Milligan's hand, several small bones are thought to be broken in the right member, but until the hand reassumes more of its usual shape the extent of the injuries will not be known. The report from Vegreville is herewith reproduced:

"Vegreville, Jan. 11.—The Vegreville Elks hockey team gained a victory over the Vermilion sextet when they took the Vermilion boys into camp with a score of 5-4 here last night. The game was full of thrills from start to finish and the last seven minutes will be remembered by three hundred fans as about the most hectic time they ever underwent in their lives. Hansen, the Vermilion centre, and Wiebe proved a tough proposition for the Vegreville defence to stop.

Time after time in the first period Hansen or one of his playmates broke through the defence, only to be stopped by Gordon Murray, Vegreville's custodian. The first goal of the game was scored by Wener on a pass from Lee. Hansen got through for a nice shot on Murray and Clarence Barr finally got another past Vegreville's goalie after Murray had turned away shot after shot. It gave the Vegreville fans a very anxious moment when the entire Vermilion forward line got right in front of the goal, only to be stopped by the goalie.

Second of Score

The second period started with Hansen and Wiebe getting right in on top of the Vegreville custodian, only to be robbed of a score by one on the nicest saves ever made on Vegreville ice. Murray repeated this a short time later when Hansen and Hobkirk got through. Hansen finally got the puck past Murray unassisted, but Wener retaliated by going thru and scoring on Milligan. The game looked black for Vegreville at the end of the second period, when Hansen broke through again and scored, leaving the score at four to two for Vermilion.

After ten minutes of the third period had gone by, Howard Umpirian scored on Milligan with a back-hand shot which took the Vermilion goalie by surprise. With the gaining of this counter new life was evident in the players and the centre of play shifted from the Vegreville to the Vermilion end of the ice. With only three minutes left to go before the time-Keeper's bell rang, Scotty Lee tied up the score. The crowd went wild and the players stepped into the game with renewed vigor. Play alternated from end to end until with only a minute and a half to go Milligan stopped a long shot from Pete Lemieki and Emil Wener made a brilliant dash after the rebound and poked it into the Vermilion net.

"Only stellar goalkeeping on the part of Gordon Murray kept the game within the reach of the Vegreville boys at all. This kid can handle his pads with the best of them and he certainly gave an exhibition of good keeping on Thursday night which would satisfy any fan.

The lineup:

Vermilion — Goal, Milligan; defence, M. Barr and C. Barr; forwards, Hansen, Hobkirk and Wiebe; subs, Rossbach.

Vegreville—Goal, Murray; defence Pavell and Cumming; forwards, Wenger, Hodgkins, Lee; subs, Lemieki, Chernlawski and Westberick."

Annual Meeting First United Ch:

The annual congregational meeting of the First United church was held on Monday last 14th, a splendid representation being present. The Rev. Boyd presided and Mr. Cash filled the office of secretary. Reports from all but branches of the church were read and found most satisfactory as well as gratifying, showing that in nearly ...spree the practicelessly and harmony prevailing.

During the year the church had been enlarged and renovated, making it possible to accommodate the congregation. A reception and social was also added to the year on he church proper.

The financial reports of all the different branches of the church was then given, amounting to approximately seven thousand dollars for the year.

Discussions on the business of the coming year then followed. New officers were elected and those retiring extended a cordial vote of thanks for their untiring energies in the advancement of the church's good. Special mention was made of the adult bible class and the splendid work being done under the leadership of the Rev. Boyd. All those present then joined and partake in the glorious work for Christ and His church.

The meeting then was closed with the Benediction and all adjourned to the reception room where the ladies had prepared a bountiful repast, and a most hour was spent, where the feeling of a family gathering in our Father's home prevailed.

HOCKEY LEAGUE STANDING

	P	W	L	Pts
Lloydminster	7	5	1	12
Vegreville	8	4	3	8
Vermilion	7	1	5	2

The local boys have five more games to play, as have Lloydminster while Vegreville have but four to go As far as mathematics go it is easy to see that V.A.A.A. can overtake Vegreville with a little to spare, while Lloyd. would have to lose all their remaining games and Vermilion win all theirs in order to tie it up with the present league leaders. A tie with Vegreville is all we need, however, and then a win in the playoff for second place. Given some consistent good bending and the boys would be up there looking down, but the real keeping problem is greater than ever right now.

40 Below Zero Was Official Record On Tuesday Night

The official record for Vermilion on Tuesday night was an even 40 degrees below zero, which was the cold point for the week. The warmest registered was 4 degrees below zero since last Thursday. The forecast is for continued cold weather.

Cabaret Boys Register Another Win

Geo. Capales personally piloted his Clerks hockey team to Minburn last Friday night where they registered their fourth straight victory, trimming the Minburn seniors 5-3. The Clerks have a nicely balanced team, composed chiefly of last years juniors, and there is much speculation concerning the result which they meet the fast travelling college in the civic league. Those making the trip were goaler Geo. Capales, manager H. Winters, and Welsh, Hannan, Bodgers, Bell, Cooper, Chisholm, Mathieson.

LOCALS DOWN CALDER BOYS IN EXHIBITION MATCH

The V.A.A.A. team pulled out a 3-1 victory in an exhibition match here on Saturday night against the Calder team of the Edmonton C.N.R. league. The locals were never in difficulties throughout the match, but it was a fine game to watch. The Edmonton team appeared to be a dandy bunch of good sports and had the crowd with them most all the time. Mathesonic in the first, Hobkirk in the second and Art Wiebe in the third period scored Vermilion's counters, while the visitors got their goal in the last period. Frank Hoade in Vermilion net turned in a dandy performance, while Art Wiebe, Hansen and Mackenzie turned in A1 games all-round, a new man, appeared on the Vermilion lineup for the first time.

Livestock Trucking Service Inaugurated

An innovation in livestock shipping has been inaugurated by J. Gordon Wilson, who with his fleet of three trucks is hauling livestock direct to the stockyards at Edmonton from the producers' farms. Mr. Wilson also has one truck stationed at Vegreville and is prepared to haul other freight on his trips. The move was prompted, however, by a desire to give better service to the live stock producer.

High School Now Located In Fine New Building

Classes opened in the new high school on Monday of this week. The pupils of both the Grammar and High School were busy Wednesday with those parts of the building required for classrooms use. They still have some work to do. The desks were removed there on Thursday and Friday, and Saturday was taken up with removing laboratory equipment, teachers' desks and chairs, and the library. Mostly all were in place on Monday morning but it will be a few days before everything is finally adjusted for the term work. During the Christmas vacation the heat was regulated from a boiler room in the staff in the person of F. W. Addison of Mannville. This appointment will enable the principal to utilize her close previous three "spares" which marked the three teacher system. The board took the building over subject to the approval of the architect on Friday morning.

At a special meeting held on Thursday evening the thanks of the board here were extended to the contractor, Mr. Jarrett, for his painstaking efforts to give the board value for its expenditures on the building. The architect, Mr. Storey of Regina, made his final inspection on the day previous and with the exception of a few minor details expressed himself as very well satisfied with the work. "It is one of the best built school buildings with which we have had to do" was the way Mr. Storey expressed himself. The official opening will not take place for two or three weeks yet. It will be some days before the laboratory will be in smooth running order. The removal of the contents of the old room to the new and the inevitable disarrangement of the equipment will involve an immense amount of work before everything has been adjusted in the new room. The old system of class work in the laboratory will be largely done away with and the students asked to do more individual work. Long tables with proper receptacles have been provided for this purpose. It is expected to make this a real chemistry and physics room, something which has been very badly needed and which should prove of great benefit to the students. Ceiling lights are being put in all the class rooms and corridors.

The library is another department which was badly disorganized by the removal. All the books will have to be re-catalogued. In addition to the volumes presented by ex-trustee John Wiebe, Mr. Morrison, the chairman of the board, has donated a set of 12 volumes entitled the Book of History. Mr. Markle states that these will prove the most desirable of the whole library. Mr. Morrison also has donated twelve bound volumes of the Canadian Annual Review from 1911 to 1922. This set is a valuable one in that the earlier volumes are now out of print and cannot be had at any price. It is doubtful if any school library in the West has these book on its shelves. The chairman has contributed several other volumes making his present donation to the library a most generous and valuable one and one that is certain to be highly appreciated. Harvey Genter has donated a fine set of six volumes of "Masterpieces of Wit and Humor." It may be stated that there are empty spaces still to be filled and that further contributions will be most thankfully received. Those who have inspected the building and its appointments are loud in their praises and felt that it was a decided credit to the town of Vermilion.

Former Resident Of Northern Valley Passes Away

Mrs. Otillie Hoyd passed away at her home in Shelton, Wash., on Jan. 6th after a severe attack of pneumonia. Mrs. Hoyd was born in Germany on April 9th, 1861 and for fifteen years resided at Northern Valley Alberta. In 1924 she moved with her son to Shelton, Wash. where she lived until the time of her death.

She is survived by one brother Albert Nast of Winona, Minn., and one sister of Los Angeles, Cal., and five sons; Robert and William, of Northern Valley, Alta., Henry of Duncan, B.C., George of Winona, Minn and Harry of Shelton, Wash; also two daughters, Mrs. A. E. Robinson of Elden, Wash., and Mrs. C. O. Lindbloom of Eagle Lake, Alta.

Services were held from the Willy undertaking parlors, and the remains were laid to rest in the Oddfellows' cemetery at Shelton

SCHOOL OF AGRICULTURE NOTES

Now that school has opened again the students will soon be well started on the second, and hardest, part of the term. Largely due to so much illness among students, the past term has been very unusual and students have not made as much progress in their studies as they were expected to. At present there seems to be no indication that the 'flu and other mild ailments prevailing, have been busted and these contagus to cause a considerable loss of time among the students.

The annual task of editing the school year book has been started under the excellent leadership of Mr. Hale, as editor. He has chosen a staff of assistants from the student body and if his work on the "Radio" is to be taken as an indication of his literary ability, we may expect a magazine of unusual merit.

In a hard fought game last Monday evening, the College team suffered a 6-1 defeat at the hands of the Vermilion Seniors. Unfortunately Rob Johnson, star wing man for the College, was sick and his services were greatly missed. The only goal for the College was scored by Bespalko. Considered that the boys have had but very little practice they are to be congratulated on their fine effort against a much older team. Due to adverse weather conditions earlier in the season, the open air rink at the College has not been put into operation, consequently the only practice our boys get is the occasional work-out at the Arena.

On Thursday, Professor Adam of the University of Alberta will address the student body on the subject of "Canadian Authors." The services of this speaker have been secured by the Versatile Clubs, as part of their programme in introducing prominent speakers to the students. If the student's continue to support the Club, it is hoped to make steady progress towards their objective

A new feature of the spring term's timetable is the inclusion of a 15-minute drill period every morning. As the students are confined indoors a great deal of the time it was felt that compulsory exercise was necessary to keep them physically fit. A dose of castor oil is the penalty for being absent from physical training, consequently the attendance is good. A large amount of gymnasium equipment has been supplied and a regular gym class, to meet every evening, has been started.

A house committe, to handle miner affairs of discipline among the students, has been elected. Doubtless this committee will prevent the recurrence of many annoying little incidents that sometimes occur inmost of the schools and colleges the world over.

Ambitious Organisation Formed by Local Teleph. Staff

The annual dance held under the auspices of the staff of the local Telephone Office has always been an outstanding event in Vermilion's social life, but in order to make this year's function "bigger and better" it was decided to form an organization to operate the dance on a more efficient basis.

For this purpose a meeting was held at midnight on Monday on the spacious lawn fronting on Main street in order to fittingly mark the importance of the occasion, the main building was tastefully decorated with colored electric lights, while festoons of Brooks-ki sassagne hung from the branches of the giant oak trees which surround the palatial edifice.

The entire local staff was present at the meeting, Mr. MacKinnon kindly permitting the night operator to be awakened so that she might attend. The first part of the meeting was taken up with a heated discussion on the choice of a suitable name for the new organization, many excellent titles being ruled out because they were too lengthy. The eventual choice of the members was brief but pithy, and the organization will be known as "Vermilion Telephone Employees' Association for the Advancement of Terpsichorean Dexterity."

The next item of business—the election of a president resulted in a tie, each member receiving one vote. To break the deadlock, it was decided to allot an official position to every one, the following panel of officers being adopted:

President — M M MacKinnon
1st Vice-president — A Allnutt
2nd Vice-Pres.(ess) — W Swanson
3rd Vice-President—Helen MacKay
4th Vice-President Mrs J Horne
Assistant 4th Vice-President — Myrtle McDonald
Deputy Assistant 4th Vice President — Ellean Badgero

Sub-Deputy Assistant 4th Vice-President — Alice McLeod

Owing to the fact that there would be a certain amount of work attached to the secretary-treasurership, it was decided to dispense with that office.

Other business dealt with at the meeting included the appointing of music and refreshment committees, and the setting of the date for this year's big dance—Thursday, Feb 7th.

At the close of the meeting Mr. MacKinnon kindly entertained the staff to a dainty supper consisting of hot waffles, boiled onions and Bass's Ale.

Owing to the present cold snap in the weather, the next meeting will be held on Monday next in the Safety Deposit Vault at the Royal Bank of Canada, when it is expected some ambitious scheme will be launched. A full report will appear in next week's Standard.

CHEVROLET DEMONSTRATION LAST THURSDAY NIGHT

The demonstration of the new Chevrolet chassis last Thursday night under the auspices of the Vermilion Motors proved very interesting. Many parts of the car were on display and other parts, in action and stationary, were given in close-up views on the screen. A lecture by a factory expert from Oshawa acquainted the audience with the innovations and improvements of the new Chevrolet six.

An interesting film entitled "With Chevrolet Across Canada" and prizes given away were other features of the display. Mrs. P Littlewood was the winner of the ladies' prize while Mr. F P. Kipp won the $50 equity in a new Chevrolet.

Proper Hitching Explained Well

Grout West Saddlery Issues Booklet of Use to All Horse Users

All farmers using horses to supply farm power will find some valuable advice on hitches and equalizers for teams of four to twelve horses in a pamphlet recently issued by the Grout West Saddlery Co., Edmonton office. Details of the most effective hitches for all sizes of teams are shown by diagrams and photographs.

The booklet has been compiled with the assistance of some of the outstanding university extension departments on the continent and includes comparison of horse power and utility with power machinery. As measurements are given for the lengths of equalizers so that the proper division will be made among all horses when large teams are used, the booklet should prove of great value to all farmers who employ horses.

The Edmonton office of the Grout West Saddlery Company states that it has a small supply available for those farmers interested and would be glad to mail them on request.

About Ourselves

Scanning the pages of a little farm machinery magazine the other day, the attention of the writer of this column was drawn to a short article headed "About Ourselves," and like everybody else, being interested in himself, he proceeded to read it. It appealed to him as so human, so absolutely true, so wonderfully well adapted to pass it on to the readers of this paper and thus give still wider circulation to a message which all would do well to head. Here is the article:

"We all want the things that will make us happy. We want to own things, to know about things, to go places, to do things, to work out ideas, to win the esteem and respect and affection of fellow.

The biggest our wants, the more chances we have of being worth while. The person who cares for nothing amounts to nothing. We begin wanting the day we are born. When we quit wanting, we'll be dead. If we don't want anything, we are lumpkins.

If we don't think about our wants, we let little desires crowd out the really big, worth while desires. "I didn't think," is the excuse most often given for acting foolishly, recklessly, dangerously, selfishly. Unnecessary accidents and needless griefs follow. Thinking clears the way for restful action. If we don't think, we are reckless and selfish.

In order to make our feelings and thoughts count, we must do something. The more times we put our good thoughts into action by strong feelings and do nothing, the worse off we are. Doing things tests our thinking and our feeling—enables us to do clearer thinking and work out happier things the next time. If we work, we are helpful.

A slight change in attitude may make a great change in life: ten light of a new idea may point the way to the successful working out of a problem; even when things are wrong and we can't see clearly, starting to do something may clear the way

What we feel, what we think, and what we do make us what we are."

That is the message Frank Crane has given us again, read the last lines: "What we feel, what we think, and what we do, we are."

Now read the first sentence again: "We all want the things that we think will make us happy."

This article is about ourselves. It is a sort of heart talk, a kind of personal stock-taking at the beginning of a new year. We let us ask ourselves some pointed questions.

Granted we want to be happy, were we ever happy while thinking mean, uncharitable thoughts about somebody else? Rather, have not our happier moods been those when kindly thoughts of others occupied our minds?

We will find happiness in the esteem, respect and affection of others. There are few of us but desire to be popular. But can we command those things, or do we deserve them, if, on our part, we are entertaining feelings of contempt and hatred for those around us?

We find joy in doing things and can we expect to accomplish much if we are arrogant in our attitude towards others, if we insist upon always having our own way, if we are intolerant of the views and opinions and convictions of those with whom we are called upon to work?

A person who is always suspicious of others soon becomes the object of general suspicion. Thinking mean thoughts, cultivating uncharitable feelings, doing unworthy things, many or may not be found out by those we defer or harm, but they most assuredly do hurt the one who indulges in them. They affect his or her whole character. Persisted in they will even leave their indelible mark upon the countenance with the result that the ugly inner life will be like an open book that all others may read—and shun.

The happiness so much desired is not to be found that way; rather it is as the death of all happiness.

Remember "What we feel, what we think, and what we do we are."

HOSPITAL BOARD MEETING

Minutes of the last regular meeting of the Vermilion Municipal Hospital Board held on Saturday, 12th inst.

The committee composed of Messrs McClellan and Morrison, who had waited upon the Town officials in connection with arrears of taxes of the town, made their report and recommended that an amount of $4500 be written off as uncollectable. However it was moved and adopted "that the recommendation of the committee appointed to meet the officials of the Town of Vermilion be not accepted until we get more information from the Town Council."

A communication was received from the Board of Public Utilities stating that a hearing would be held in Edmonton January 25th in connection with the detachment of certain lands from the northern end of the hospital district. Mr. McClellan, one of the committee, reported that he possibly would not be able to go to Edmonton at this time, so that Mr. Taylor was appointed as an alternative in case Mr. McClellan was unable to go. Mr. McClellan also reported that the pump rods in the well were not in very good condition so that the secretary was instructed to procure a new set of rods for the pump.

The following motions were moved and adopted:

That Mr. Sisson be given a month's salary in lieu of notice.

That the Secretary advertise in the Vermilion Standard for applications for the position of resident janitor for the hospital at a salary of $60.00 per month.

That Mr. Taylor renew the insurance on the hospital building and equipment.

The following accounts were passed and ordered paid: Town of Vermilion $1141.51; E. Gordon $5.40; Hayward Lumber Co. 106.95; Fisher Burns Ltd. $3.91; P. G. Long 40.85; S. R. P. Cooper 4.00; J. A. Formal Opening of High School on February 1st

SPEAKING, PROGRAMME AND DANCE

At a special meeting of the school board last evening, Friday, February 1st was set to hold the official opening of the new high school. Invitations are being extended to Premier Brownlee, Hon. Perren Baker, minister of education, Chief Inspector Gorman, J. F. McNally, supervisor of education, and others to attend. The proceedings will open at 8 o'clock p.m. sharp in the school auditorium the programme comprising short addresses and vocal and musical numbers, followed by an informal dance. A cordial invitation is extended to everyone to attend the function.

Refreshments will be served by the high school girls for which a nominal charge is to be made in aid of a special object they have undertaken. There is no other charge in connection with the affair.

COLD LAKE WASN'T SO COLD, AT THAT

Mild weather at Cold lake during the month of December, was responsible for the catch there being lighter than the average, according to a report forwarded by Guardian Herve Turcotte to R. T. Rodd, inspector of dominion fisheries for Alberta. The lake did not freeze over until the end of December, making it difficult for the fishermen to operate.

The catches since the season opened, on December 16, to the end of that month, are as follows: Lake trout, 5,800 pounds; whitefish, 16,400 pounds; jackfish, 6,465 pounds; suckers, 3,225 pounds; pickerel, 80 pounds.

Under the amended regulations for this lake, governing commercial fishing, fishermen are not allowed to put in their new further out than one mile from shore. Mr. Rodd explained that the "one mile limit" has been established so that mlow coarse fish will be taken.

SECOND ENGINE NOW READY FOR OPERATION

The second and smaller engine of Vermilion's new power plant is now completely installed and has been running as a preliminary limbering up before it is put to work in earnest which should be soon, as the new boiler is also finished and with the exception of a few connections the whole plant is ready for operation on the new equipment. This is what we have been looking for and means that lack of power will be a thing of the past. It is expected that everything will be in operation on Saturday. Both the engines will be connected to the new large boiler, the former boiler being used for steam heat and also as an emergency boiler.

Second Trial of Vernon Booher Opened Monday

Pleads "Not Guilty" to Murder of Four on Farm Last

The second trial of Vernon Booher, Manzville youth, opened in the supreme criminal court at Edmonton on Monday morning and has been proceeding all week.

At the opening of the trial Clerk Henderson arose and solemnly read the charges, accusing the 21-year-old Booher of murdering his mother, Mrs. Eunice Booher; his brother, Fred Booher, and two hired men, Wasyl Bozyuk and Gabriel Gaynosky, at their farm home near Manzville, on the evening of July 9, by shooting them down with a .303 rifle.

"How do you plead, guilty or not guilty."

"Not guilty," the answer came immediately in an unemotional tone.

The jury is composed of I. E. Hahn of Edmonton, C. R. Riddell of Wainwright, C. H. Chapman of Edmonton, F. E. Downey of Edmonton, George Steele of Wainwright and George Buchanan of Edmonton.

TO MEET CATHERWOOD

St. Louis, Mo., Jan. 23.—Katherine Maguire, St. Louis, national women's high jump champion, Monday announced acceptance of an invitation to compete with Ethel Catherwood, Canadian Olympic champion, and others in a special invitation meet of the Millrose A. C. at Madison Square Garden, New York City, February 9.

DANGEROUS PNEUMONIA MAY FOLLOW UNLESS A GOOD RECOVERY IS MADE

With so much Grippe and Flu about, no one can afford to neglect even a simple cold. For a real positive against "Flu" many experienced nurses advocate the following simple treatment.

Add a saucepan containing one pint water on the stove; then add 1 one-half teaspoonful of Eucalyptus and bring to a boil. Bend over the steaming vapor, wrap a tow l over your head so that it also covers the pan. Let the steam rise as you can inhale it. Breathe in the vapor deeply. The first few turns of Catarrhozone will quickly clear out your nose throat and lungs. Flu germs are destroyed.

You can prevent Grippe, Flu and Influenza by using Catarrhozone. It is healing soothing, safe and efficient. For any cold, sore throat, or Catarrh, nothing is more safe actors than Catarrhozone. Even to sit in a room with Catarrhozone Vapor rising from a pan of boiling wa er is a wonderful protection to children and over-comes all sorts of wint r coughs and colds. All druggists sell Catarrhozone, 30c. a bottle.

Platinum In Canada

With the exception of a very few small nuggets obtained from the black sands of British Columbia, all the Canadian platinum and allied metals are obtained from the treatment of the Sudbury, Ontario, nickel-copper matte. The precious metals are allowed to accumulate into over irregular periods before being treated, so that recoveries do not bear any definite relation to the quantity of matte treated in any particular year.

First American Forest Law

Was Written in Massachusetts Colony On March Twenty-Ninth, 1632

The Pennsylvania department of forests and waters at Harrisburgh, recently conducted an investigation revealing that the first American forest law was written in the New Plymouth Colony, in Massachusetts. The original American forest law read as follows:

"Orders agreed on severall times for the general good of the Colony:

"It was decreed by the Court held on the 29, of March Anno, 1632. That for the preventing of which inconveniences, as does, and may befall the plantation by the want of timber, that no man of what condition soever sell or transport any manner of works or frames, for houses, planks, boards, shipping, shalop, boats, canoes or what so ever may tends to the destruction of timber aforesaid."

WEIGHING OF EVILS

You have suffered the annoying experience of having stringy foods wedge between your teeth; and then wonder what can be done to remedy it.

Normally, teeth should be tight together with rounded contacts so when two marbles touch; but through tooth decay and from teeth "drifting" this contact is lost.

The food then "jams" between the teeth and is held there until released with what results?

Obviously, decay is liable to be invited in this area.

Also this impacted food material presses upon the soft underlying tissues until they become irritated and inflamed. These injured, they lose their "tone" and fall an easy prey to the microorganisms that cause disease.

Then follows the destruction of the wedge shaped tissue between the teeth; a "pocket" is formed, which becoming infected, results in the well known Pyorrhea. Then the supporting structures of the teeth, which are then lost.

To see then, what grave dismay can result from so simple a cause.

After eating brush not the tooth-pick, which, through its "wedging" action, may do further harm and which at best provides but temporary relief.

But, where this "wedging" is first noticed, the injury may be to one or both of the involved teeth to restore the contact, will clear up the trouble.

This may even be accomplished by several of the dainty filling already in place but far better this than to suffer the disagreeable consequences of "wedg ng" food, with its train of grave consequences, should it go unchecked.

Business Wants Short Lived

The life of modern books is much too short. When a good novel comes out it is read by almost everybody, seldom lasts beyond a year. After that it falls out of discussion, and instead of new editions of such books there are none at all. In July 200,000 people may be seeking a book that has been issued in and even reading it, and then with the first frost the matter is dropped entirely. When a popular author begins to decline it falls faster than an shiftreas.

Devotional Reading: John 14.26-31.

Explanations and Comments

What the Holy Spirit Will Do, John 16.7-11.—Jesus told his disciples that it was expedient for them, it was for their advantage, for their best interest, that he should leave them. How could it be best for them to lose the daily companionship of their Lord and Master? Jesus gives the answer: "For if I go not away, the Comforter will not come unto you; but if I go, I will send him unto you." The Greek noun Parakletos, Paraclete, is derived from (1) call, to call, to aid, then, therefore, stands for one who is called to succor and aid, who takes the part of comforter), is plead his cause (the Advocate), to help in some other way (The Helper). The word Comforter used here for Parakletos, means One who strengthens, upholds, helps. One who comforts.

The Holy Spirit is (1) the continued life and presence of Christ Himself. (2) He was present with the disciples in the body, His humanity obscured in a measure His divinity. When the Holy Spi rit took His place in the hearts of believers, it became plain all the Spiritual truth of His teachings (verse 13). They knew Him better after He had left them. (3) While Jesus was with them, they were under His care, unable to stand alone. After He went away and left them as witnesses to carry on His work, they became towers of strength, wonderful leaders of men, who continued to do all that He began both to do and to teach. (4) In leaving a few, Christ became the companion of all Why is it not by earth He was with a few men in a small land; now He is with all, everywhere, at all times. He is the universal Spiritual Presence.

Has Kept Drama Clean

Brandon Williams, English Actor, Explains Modern Tendency

"I am ashamed of the way in which the stage is being run in the United States, Canada and Great Britain," Brandon Williams, English actor, said in addressing the Brockville Rotary club, adding that, for the sake of the rising generations, the stage has got to be kept clean and the pictures "must be kept cleaner."

In speaking picture theatres, he said, boys and girls are today reading titles that are degrading the English language, and on the stage himself there appears to be no longer room for good, clean, beautiful acting. The headstrong are full of questionable fruitful matter.

Andy took the wounded bird from her hand. "Ow did it 'appen, Connie?" he asked tenderly.

Connie was open and unaffected as the wild birds of the forest. She was as capable of hating as she was of loving. Her eyes were laughing as Andy, and the meal that looked out of them a merry soul, but she had a temper. And some unfortunate circumstances her blue eyes could take on a dangerous glow.

She now turned like an enraged lioness on the foreigner. "He killed it with a stick!" she cried furiously "You brute, you cowardly brute. I—I—I hate you!" Her voice was hoarse and broken with emotion. She had a passionate love for all wild things, and the sight of the dead bird touched her to the quick.

Andy looked down on the mother goldcrest as it lay in his hand. He felt the quick throbbing of its heart grow fainter and fainter. One wing was broken and its white breast was stained with blood. Then the head drooped lower, and a film settled over its bright eyes. The beautiful wings stiffened slightly, and it gasped convulsively, sending a tiny stain of crimson from its mouth that felt warm on his palm.

Andy's face became colourless. His hand shook violently as he placed the dead bird tenderly in the grass. "Connie dear," he said, in a voice that trembled, "it ain't a whole man, but 'e's a human being. I'll 'ave to snacked reasonably on the end of his thick nose with a snap like that of a whale, and with a skilled force that brought blood.

Andy's years of training boxers now stood him in good stead. He knew that a small man would stand little chance in long range fighting, and he kept well inside the larger man's wild swings. With his blond head tucked against his adversary's body, his fists worked like pistons. He kept meeting short jolts in the body that brought heavy grunts every time they landed.

Connie was delirious with excitement.

"Hit him, Andy! Hit him! Good! Good!"

And then she groaned as the big man's hand found Andy's throat and his thumbs began to press down. Andy was up immediately, but stepped into a swing'ng fist that caught him over the eye and sent him sprawling. Undaunted, he came to his feet, writhed warily for an opening, and again sprung under the big man's guard.

Andy's fist shot up in a ripping uppercut that was judged to a nicety, catching his opponent on the point of the chin with force enough to send him rocking on his heels, and before he could recover himself the fists, accompanied by the master a tattoo on his solar plexus.

In desperation the bewilde ed man closed his arms about the little Australian and lifted him high in the air. Like a game bulldog Andy hung on. Through his fists were off the ground he clung to the big man's body like a leech.

Again the big hands felt for Andy's throat, and he was flung six feet to strike with a thump that should every bone in his body. Connie cried out in fear as he narrowly avoided a brutal blow aimed at his head.

Andy's sense of British fair play had received a rude shock. "As Mr. Chamberlain said," he panted, as he rose to his feet, "when in Bohemia do as the Bohemia do."

"Take that, Spaghetti!" he shouted, as he kicked the foreigner viciously on the shin. While the latter leaned over in pain, Andy shot a right-hander to the point of his jaw.

Miss Renzie rich, Andy?"

"An 'ole barrel o' dough."

"Is 'e she beautiful?"

"Not a patch on Connie."

A short pause ensued while she searched the pockets of her overalls and produced a small bundle, folded in papers. She extracted one, pressed it smooth, then passed it to Andy.

"Does Miss Renzie dream like that?"

It was a photograph of an actress dressed for the stage, taken from one of the magazines that Donald had given her.

"I think so, Connie."

"Oh! She must be wonderful, then!" said Connie earnestly.

She moved closer to Andy, unfolded paper, and spread it on her knee.

Andy beat his blond head close to the side of gold. A startled look crossed his features and his brows bobbed up and down. It was a fullpage advertisement of ladies lingerie The highly coloured illustration of a lady, partially dressed, achieved its object of arousing interest. The remainder of the space was occupied by articles of apparel similar to those worn by the lady in the picture.

Andy coughed. "Er—you, Connie"

Connie raised her eyebrows inquiringly.

"All at one time?"

"Sure sure," mumbled Andy

Connie stared. "Why, there must be twelve or more pieces. How is this fastened?" she questioned as she pointed with a slender brown finger to one of the engravings

Andy took a quick glance. "Fortunes."

"And this?"

"Buttons," replied Andy, gripping the bowl of his pipe and sending out clouds of smoke.

"And this?"

"Strike me blind, what a silly question," thought Andy

Connie looked hard at Andy's face, then approached desperately without looking at the paper.

Quality Of Canadian Goods Has Improved

Research And Skilled Labor Have Been Big Factors

The quality of Canadian products is steadily improving, with greater knowledge of research, scientific methods, processes, application of skilled labor and the needs of buyers. In the face of mass production competition, Canadian producers are now seeking to hold their places by giving special service, better quality or distinctive features to their products. That they are succeeding is proved by the fact that Canadian manufacturers are exported to over a hundred countries, while supplying the greatest part of domestic needs. A still greater share of the home market would result in more production, more employment and more exporting, and it is therefore important that home industry should be encouraged by stabilization and other necessary measures as much as possible

Recipes For a Man Week

(By Betty Barclay)

RICE AND SALMON SALAD

Take equal parts of salmon and cold boiled rice; stir with a fork until the bones and rice are thoroughly mixed. Pour into a salad dish and cover the whole with mayonnaise or boiled dressing.

Canned tuna fish, left-over chicken, meats, bans, or vegetables can be used in the same manner. Remember use equal quantity of rice. The addition of celery and hard-boiled eggs make a more elaborate dish.

SANDWICH FILLING

One pound of mixed nuts (be careful to keep each particular kind by themselves from clinging to the meats). One cup seedless raisins. Grind together in a food grinder, add a little salt and the juice of one small orange. Work together very thoroughly, place in a glass container and keep in a cool place. Can be used between thin, well buttered slices of whole wheat, white or brn bread. Ideal for school lunches, workmen's lunches or picnics.

Already Advised

An "accident" case, in which the patient was suffering from a wound in the head, was taken to hospital. After taking the usual particulars as to age and next of kin, the official asked: "Religion?" "Oh, never mind, I shall take immediate steps to ensure your wife being advised of your relation here, and there is no need for from anxiety." WINDOLITE The Improved Glass Substitute
MADE IN ENGLAND
COMES WITH A MESSAGE OF HEALTH

THE sun is the all-powerful life producer, Nature's universal disinfectant and germ destroyer, as well as stimulant and tonic. WINDOLITE is the sun's most important ally

Med cal research has definitely proved that from the point of view of Health and Hygiene, the most effective among the sun's rays are the Ultra-Violet rays which possess the greatest power for the prevention and cure of disease and debility.

Science has further established that ordinary window glass does not allow the passage of Ultra-Violet rays and that by using glass we are artificially excluding these vital health-giving rays. Therefore the invention of WINDOLITE has completely satisfied the long felt want. Experiments have conclusively proved that it is a most effective substitute for glass that "Feels" and "Looks" like it, and that it has the same beneficial effect on the growth and development of plants, animals and man, as the well-being of cattle, enabled for the first time to have healthy light instead of darkness in their sheds

Indeed, the discovery of WINDOLITE has during the last six years completely revolutionised gardening, given a new stimulus to poultry breeding, increasing the egg-laying capacity and fertility of chickens, has greatly improved the health of cattle and is now being used in domestic and household requirements.

WINDOLITE stands for all that is best and most sunlight. It makes the most delicate shades appear in their true colours. It is not affected by acid fumes, coal gas, sea air, or any other atmospheric conditions. It is not affected by extremes of heat and cold. It is unbreakable, and can be worked with any ordinary tool. It keeps out cold and retains heat. It is a non-conductor of electricity and is therefore absolutely safe for electric light installations

EMPRESS TO HAVE TALKING PICTURES

Total Outlay at the Capitol Theatre Will be About $90,000

With workmen employed in double shifts, interior alterations which will make the Capitol movie picture theatre, Edmonton, one of the largest and best between Winnipeg and Vancouver are being rushed ahead by the Permanent Construction Construction company, which has the general contract. The structural changes will cost some $45,000, according to the building permit, but it is expected that the total outlay will run about $90,000 by the time new equipment is installed.

When the Capitol makes its bow for 1929 business, it will be offering sound and talking pictures, now creating widespread interest among all theatre goers.

Here and There

For the first time in history, an ice-breaker has been carrying flying from the wilds of Northern Manitoba to the Winnipeg market. Forty-two years of service with the Canadian Pacific Railway system behind him, one of the oldest employees of the company is now retired from active service. He is Edward Lloyd, who has just completed 42 years of service with the C.P.R. as a conductor. His record held by Arthur W. Savage, Smithers, who has just completed 40 years. Mr. Savage who is well known throughout the Eastern Townships lived the train that held the first steel on the line between Sherbrooke and Farnham.

Carols and yuletide songs were rendered in the ancient "Book of Mysteries" staged and directed by "Mrs. Wardle's Christmas Party" was produced. The festival culminated in a ball at which some seven hundred persons participated. It is believed that plans are already being made for a larger and better celebration next year.

A change in telephone numbers has drawn attention to the new Deputy office in the great Windsor Street Station of the Canadian Pacific Railway in Montreal. The girls who are on duty there handle such an average of 700 calls an hour and as many as 900 an hour during rush times. They carry most of the information in their heads and seldom have to look up a time-table. They are asked queer questions sometimes. Recently someone asked, "When does the afternoon begin" and the old gent turned up "When I time does the hour o'clock train leave."

Steady Increase In Auto License

2,250 in First Week of 1920; 87,221 for All Alberta in 1928

Sweeping down on the squad of hunting clerks at the office of the Motor Vehicles License branch, 2,250 automobile owners took out new licenses during the first week of 1929, it was learned Tuesday.

Exemption for prosecution for failing to take out the new licenses virtually exists until January 31, although no actual provision for such exemption is made in the Act.

With a few exceptions motorists rush a point of getting in early with their applications for the new licenses and the first few weeks of the new year are always feverish ones for the clerks at the registration office.

How the yearly registration of cars has leaped ahead in the last few years is revealed by figures supplied by the Motor Vehicles branch at Edmonton.

Going back to 1926, the registrations were 61 129 in 1927 they bounded to 72,943, and in 1928 a further leap brought them to 87,221.

Motorcycles, however, do not show a corresponding increase, but the motorcycle market, it would appear, is almost static. Here are the registrations for the past three years:— 1926, 376, 1927, 300; 1928, 346.

"I do," replied Johnnie. "I have it going down the hill, and he has it coming up."

"Things Are Pretty Good in Canada" Says Hon. J. A. Robb

TORONTO, Jan. 8 — "I consider that things are pretty good in the dominion." Hon. J. A. Robb, dominion minister of finance, said during a visit to Toronto Monday.

"The only disturbing factor is that I am not sure there has not been a little too much speculation on the stock market, but happily Canada has not gone to the limit they have in some other countries in this respect."

Mr. Robb was asked concerning dominion finances and replied that he was not worrying and did not anticipate a deficit.

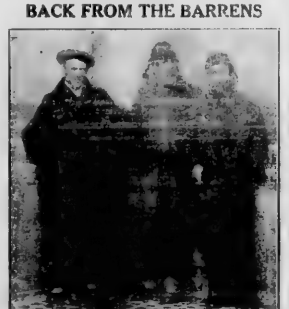
HISTORY OF CANADA

Ottawa, Jan. 22 — "The history of Canada's social, commercial and industrial development is the parable from the story of organized effort in all parts of the dominion," Premier Mackenzie King declared here last night in addressing a reception held in connection with the centenary celebration of St. Andrew's Presbyterian church. "The law is after all only a crystallization of public opinion and even the hearts of nations can only be effective by the support of the Christian people," he continued

BACK FROM THE BARRENS



Although he had not been out of the Barren Lands for fifteen years, George Yandle, trapper, maintained a fine sense of civilization. The first thing he did when he got to The Pas—he did not even wait until he reached Winnipeg—was buy himself a pair of spats with zippers. Yandle acted as interpreter when Count Ilia Tolstoy entertained the Eskimos in the far north. The photogra., which was taken outside the Canadian National Railways station in Winnipeg, just after the trio's arrival, shows Yandle; Tolstoy, in the centre; and W. J. Cassi, photographer. Count Tolstoy, who is the grandson of the great Russian writer and philanthropist, headed an expedition into the Barrens to study the migration habits of the caribou, and some unusual photographs were obtained of the immense herds. After spending a day in Winnipeg, the party, together with five Eskimo dogs, worth 50% apiece, went to Tadoussac, the Ontario forest reserve, for further study of wild animals, and thence to New York

Telephone Dance Creates Great Interest

The second meeting of the "Vermilion Telephone Employees' Association for the Advancement of Terpsichorean Dexterity" was held in the easily deposit vault of the Royal Bank of Canada on Monday evening, the full membership being present.

The meeting opened with discussion of the reports of the music and refreshment committees, after which the President (Mr MacKinnon) brought up the matter of admitting associate members. Up to the time of the meeting associate members could not be admitted, had such been desired for membership in the [illegible] and although the local [illegible] Staff did not wish to appear exclusive it was the general feeling that, in that some "wood was cut" [illegible] should be adopted.

With this object in view, [illegible] plant for membership will be [illegible] to pass a general membership resolution, the date for which will be set by the local committee.

Lloyd And Locals Play Tie Game

Leading four to two and four minutes to go, only to have the score tied up on them, was what the V. A. A. boys had to swallow last Thursday night in their league fixture with Lloydminster. Though outplayed practically throughout the game, the visitors failed to break the deadlock, and the game goes down as a tie, and as one of the most exciting staged on local ice this season. Frank Mead in the nets for Vermilion turned in a sensational game, and three times in the overtime session robbed Lloydminster of what looked like sure goals with the whole enemy forward line in on top of him. Art Weber was put out of the game early in the second period when he was struck in the eye with the puck, this leaving the town boys with only one sub for the remainder of the game. With four minutes to go and the score 4-2 for the V.A.A. boys, Lessick slapped a loose puck into the net and a second later Hamel was safe for the count, only to be followed by Hlavka, leaving the locals with only one more on the ice. The visiting forward line which had been flashing brilliant combination was all over-ing, worked the puck down to the goal to Hlavka who made the winning [illegible] the game.

Line up were as follows:

Lloydminster — Goal [illegible] Lindsay and Mahon, forwards, Lessick [illegible] Hamel, Hlavka.

Vermilion — Goal [illegible] Mead, Weber and Mackenzie, forwards, [illegible] Hamel, Hlavka.

Organization Plans Under Way For World's Grain Exhibition To Be Held In Regina In 1932

Organization plans and business for the World's Grain Exhibition and Conference, to be held in Regina from August 1 to August 13, 1932, were discussed at a meeting of the prairie provinces held in the Hotel ... Saskatchewan, Regina.

Hon. C. M. Hamilton, minister of agriculture for Saskatchewan, presided, and the members present included A. J. A. Mooney, Regina, vice-chairman; Hon. A. MacLennan, minister of agriculture for Manitoba; H. A. Craig, deputy minister of agriculture for Alberta; C. B. McKee, president of the Regina Board of Trade; F. Fleming, Dominion superintendent of agriculture for Saskatchewan; A. E. Whitmore, vice-president of the Regina Agricultural and Industrial Exhibition Association; D. T. Elderkin, manager of the Regina Agricultural and Industrial Exhibition Association.

The executive committee appointed the following officers of the World Grain Show Exhibition Conference Organization: Manager, J. A. Mooney; secretary, D. T. Elderkin; treasurer, W. O. Tate, Saskatchewan supervisor for the Royal Bank of Canada, auditors, C. C. Hooke and Co.

Prizes amounting to at least $150,000 will be offered in the regular prize list, in addition to which there will be a list of special prizes.

A committee consisting of J. A. Mooney and A. E. Whitmore, was appointed to secure contributions towards special prizes, and it is expected that between $50,000 and $100,000 will be secured by the committee.

It was decided that there should be two official languages for the conferences to be held in conjunction with the World Grain Show—English and French—and the official prize list will also be published in both languages. A preliminary issue of the prize list will consist of 85,000 copies in English and 15,000 copies in French.

A final revision of the prize list will be made when the executive committee meets again at the call of the chair early in April.

It was stated that the executive committee has received the assurance of the Dominion Government that the necessary financial assistance will be forthcoming to finance the programme of the World Grain Exhibition and Conference, which will be the biggest thing of its kind ever staged in Canada. Inquiries regarding the exhibition have already been received by the executive committee from Australia, New Zealand, India and China, although the committee has not yet undertaken any advertising campaign or distributed prize lists. It is anticipated the committee will issue its preliminary prize list, the distribution being on a world-wide scale.

In discussing the business details of preliminary organization work the members of the executive committee were unanimous on every step in a lengthy agenda, each item of which was thoroughly discussed.

Hon C. M. Hamilton, chairman of the executive committee, expressed gratification with the co-operation shown by the representatives from Manitoba and Alberta. He regretted that Senator had prevented Hon. George Hoadley, minister of agriculture for Alberta, from attending. A great deal of enthusiastic interest was already being taken in the plans for the World Grain Exhibition and Conference, particularly in the great growing provinces of Canada, he said, while inquiries had been received from Australia, New Zealand, India and China, although no official communications had been sent to these countries yet.

"At this time, when the supremacy of the grain-producing provinces of Canada in the export line of hard spring wheat is being challenged on the markets of the world, the World Grain Exhibition and Conference in 1932 should have a great influence in stimulating Canadian endeavours in the production of wheat of the high est quality," he added.

Hon. A. MacLennan, minister of agriculture for Manitoba, declared that Manitoba grain growers were already buying their plans for the World Grain Exhibition. We are very discussed at a meeting of the prairie provinces held in the Hotel ... Saskatchewan, Regina.

Big Farming Plan For Russia

American Will ... Soviet Units

Series Of Lifts Of Wheat

The Los Angeles Times published an announcement by Thomas D. Campbell, of Hemet, Cal., and Pasadena, who is said to be America's largest wheat grower, that ten million acres of Soviet Russia's plains are to be planted to wheat and flax with American machinery under his direction.

Campbell stated he would sail from New York this month for Russia to complete arrangements tentatively concluded during a recent visit to this country of a Soviet commission.

Campbell said that more, than $100,000 worth of American planting and harvesting machinery would be purchased for the work, making food to feed the Russian people.

Wishes Of the Chinese

Become Most Wonderful Blessings of Large Five Thousand Years Ago

Five thousand years ago Chinese physicians had a wonderful knowledge of drugs, their remedies had such favorite of which the physicians of the Western world are only now learning according to the findings of Chinese, qualified writer by Michael J. Hagerty, translator of the United States Department of Agriculture.

Hagerty has been working at the University of California library, making use of the numerous Chinese works available, with the assistance of Miss Wen, graduate of science.

"Shi Hwang," known to Western scientists as cyberdine sulphate, a recently developed preparation for the treatment of bronchial asthma, buy fever and rheumatism, has been used in China for more than 5,000 years, and is first mentioned, Hagerty has found, in the ancient materia medica of Emperor Shen Nung, who reigned from 2737 to 2698 B.C.

The drug is an inexpensive and effective substitute for adrenalin in the treatment of catarrhal conditions, which is its chief value to science. Numerous references to Shi Hwang, which is described as a "mineral plant," are found in ancient Chinese works collected by the Imperial Chinese Encyclopedia, together with "case histories," prescriptions, citations of its—apparently—unofficial use, and "testimonials" by physicians as to results obtained.

In the course of Hagerty's translations, the use as a cure for colds is most commonly cited.

British Death Duties

Mortality Among Millionaires Was Heavy Last Year

Mortality among British millionaires happened to be unduly heavy last year, and while regrettable on several accounts, the unusually heavy toll provides considerable relief to the exchequer. Death duties in 1927 produced $150,000,000, whereas $300,000,000 was yielded in only the last nine months.

The estate of Sir George Wills, tobacco magnate, was probated at $95,000,000 and yielded to the treasury $30,000,000 duty. This with nine other large estates paid nearly $58,000,000 to taxation. Some men whose holdings of this world's goods are large, have attempted to lessen the shock of death duties by creation of trusts or by promoting a limited company to hold their possessions. The movement, however, so far has not reached large proportions for the system has its disadvantages for those practising it.

Saskatchewan Pool Elevators

Saskatchewan Pool Elevators have now in operation 248 country elevators which handled since the last harvest an average of 122,000 bushels of all grains per elevator, with the total receipts of all the middle of December 1928, being approximately 115,000,000 bushels.

Business Was Good

"Stowaways, Inc., was the name used by a secret institute in Freemen, Germany, which reaped a harvest from foreigners desirous of entering the United States. The ringleaders have been arrested.

W. M. Gordon, newly appointed general superintendent, Western Lines, Canadian Pacific Railway Company.

The Subconscious Mind

Clear Cut Solutions Of Problems Often Come During Sleep

Everyone who has once gone to sleep baffled by a problem and awakened with a clear-cut solution in his mind knows that ideas often come and as the logical sequel to ceaseless thought, but inexplicably, in a flash of sudden insight. Experiences such as that of Dr. Banting, who declares that the idea of using insulin in the treatment of diabetes came to him before ...

Ampere, the great mathematician, used to sleep on his problems. When he woke he had not infrequently the solution in his mind. Psychologists would say that while he slept his subconscious mind continued to work, just as the subconscious mind performs feats in the case of calculating child prodigies.

The subconscious mind is never idle, and functions as well as the conscious mind. Dr. Cunningham had constructed in his own back yard.

"There are two other tanks, besides the one used as the entrance, that flank the main compartment.

"Patients will live in them ... for a week at a time under an atmospheric pressure of from five to fifteen pounds.

After living in the main sphere of one of the smaller tanks for a week, the patient spends two days at home or in a hotel, before another week in the tanks. This process is repeated until the doctor pronounces a cure.

The huge ball and the adjoining structures are furnished in the interior much after the manner of an up-to-date ocean liner. It has accommodations for 96 persons. On the first floor of the main tank is the dining room.

Three other floors are given over to bedrooms and the fifth is a spacious recreation hall.

Lighting is furnished through heavy glass portholes.

A Strange Indian Tribe

Inhabitants Of Upper Yukon Country Are Puzzle to Ethnologists

The Peel River Indians, a tribe living in the Upper Yukon country, are a puzzle to ethnologists. These Indians are often as black as negroes, but have long, straight hooked and aquiline features. They are proud of their blood and permit no mixed marriages.

Whether they are an offshoot of the Hindu race or descendants of a people who came up the Mackenzie from the Arctic, has never yet been established. Today the tribe numbers several hundred and is in prosperous circumstances. Like the Esquimoles of Florida, however, they are vanishing because of their antipathy toward intermarrying with other Indians.

Could Work Together

Jacob Epstein, the sculptor, was reproaching a London artist for his lateness. "You're like a girl sweetheart I know. You dream your work instead of doing it."

"Introduce me to that girl," said the artist. "We ought to be congenial."

"Yes," returned Epstein, "you'd make a wonderful couple. You could keep yourself busy illustrating the novels she hasn't write with the pictures you don't paint."

A Bit Mixed

Opal: Brother Congo, I hear Sis Johnson's dead. When's she gwine be interred?

Brother Congo: They ain't gwine to be no interrment. cause de family has decided she's to be incrimonated.

An optimist is a man who thinks the little fellow on the back of the car will hold all his wits will wan to take.

New Idea For Sanitarium

Cleveland Hospital For Treatment Of Diabetes Is Staged Like Health Spa

$2,000,000 Gift

The new $1,000,000 Lakeside Sanitarium, which has as its underlying theory increased air pressure as a cure for diabetes, has been formally opened at Cleveland, as a place of treatment for diabetes, pernicious anemia and other diseases heretofore ... [illegible]

The main compartment of the sanitarium is a huge steel ball, 60 feet in diameter and five stories high. It is a completely equipped hospital. Adjoining is a long, cylindrical tank, which provides the means of increasing the air compression and offers a psychological test of air pressure to patients about to undergo the cure.

This revolutionary idea in hospitals was introduced eight years ago by Dr. Orville J. Cunningham, of Kansas City, Mo. For years, Dr. Cunningham had advocated the use of compressed air for the treatment of various diseases but it was not until he had interested H. E. Thomas, millionaire steel man of Canton, O., that he was able to put his idea into effect. Thomas agreed to finance the institution after a friend had gone to Kansas City and been cured for diabetes in the air of Dr. Cunningham had constructed in his own back yard.

"There are two other tanks, besides the one used as the entrance, that flank the main compartment.

"Patients will live in them ... for a week at a time under an atmospheric pressure of from five to fifteen pounds.

After living in the main sphere of one of the smaller tanks for a week, the patient spends two days at home or in a hotel, before another week in the tanks. This process is repeated until the doctor pronounces a cure.

The huge ball and the adjoining structures are furnished in the interior much after the manner of an up-to-date ocean liner. It has accommodations for 96 persons. On the first floor of the main tank is the dining room.

Three other floors are given over to bedrooms and the fifth is a spacious recreation hall.

Lighting is furnished through heavy glass portholes.

Ski-ing in the Laurentians

Not a ripple of wide open spaces but one of long white stretches where snow piles high against snake fences and is faint blue and sometimes gold upon the hill-side. The Laurentians, north of Quebec, are a skier's paradise and the week-end mecca of the darting and the fair. It has come so now, that the Canadian Pacific must run Ski-Specials from Montreal from one season's end to the other. The enthusiasts in ever-growing numbers take train to a given point and ski down to the next station or the one beyond, as time permits or the spirit moves them. The trout streams are frozen, but the resort-owners and the Habitant are beginning to count on the revenue they derive from the ski.

Homesteading during the earlier part of Canada's western development ranked the Dominion as a nation of land entrepreneurs and held that position until it became increasingly difficult to obtain privileges to homesteads. As the prairies filled up, settlers naturally declined, dependence on climate diminished and greater attention began to be given to other branches of the agricultural industry. The industrial growth of Canada and ... and the great west ... entered on the initial stages of an organized modern community. Of late, however, as the frontier of fertility extended northward, homesteading has taken on a new lease of life, clearly disclosed in the monthly statements of homestead entries recorded by the Land Settlement Branch of the Dominion Department of the Interior. These show remarkable increase in the number of filings, culminating in the month of October when the largest gain occurred in any month of the current year. Every month, indeed, brought increases over the corresponding periods of 1927, varying in totals from 33 per cent. in October, September brought some slackening with barter ... resting in fall crops, but the harvest of settlers resumed in October, when 1,898 homestead filings were registered in Manitoba, Saskatchewan, Alberta and British Columbia. For the first ten months of 1928, the total homesteads filed more than doubles that of the preceding year, the number at 11,521 to 5,172, representing a gain of 123 per cent.

Outstanding on these figures in its publication, Natural Resources of Canada, the Department remarks that this increase is a second indication of steadily clearly indicates the northern trend of development in agriculture in Western Canada. Settlers are taking up the monthly figures by land agencies. these show that the frontier is being just as steadily pushed back in the agricultural regions of the Prairie Provinces by the homesteaders as it is in other sections of Canada by the mining, pulp and paper and other developments. While the figures for the agencies of Moose Jaw, Lethbridge, and Calgary indicate that homesteading is not over on the southern prairies, and in fact that considerable increases are recorded at these points this year, the north is where new ground the march of progress has been made. While this accords with the natural expectancy, the figures are illuminating in indicating just how great th march of progress has been this year. At Prince Albert, representing the northern half of Saskatchewan, 2,855 homesteads were filed on in ten months this year, corresponding with 1,901 in the corresponding period of 1927, a gain of 90 per cent. At Edmonton, representing central Alberta, 2,240 homesteads were taken up to October 31, compared with 1,142 to the same date in 1927, an increase of 96 per cent.

Whether they are an offshoot of the Hindu race or descendants of a people who came up the Mackenzie from the Arctic, has never yet been established. Today the tribe numbers several hundred and is in prosperous circumstances. Like the Esquimoles of Florida, however, they are vanishing because of their antipathy toward intermarrying with other Indians.

Could Work Together

Jacob Epstein, the sculptor, was reproaching a London artist for his lateness. "You're like a girl sweetheart I know. You dream your work instead of doing it."

"Introduce me to that girl," said the artist. "We ought to be congenial."

"Yes," returned Epstein, "you'd make a wonderful couple. You could keep yourself busy illustrating the novels she hasn't write with the pictures you don't paint."

Western Canada in the Spotlight

The attention of people in all parts of Canada, and, in fact, of the world, will be directed to the prairie provinces of the Dominion during the next few months in a way and to an extent probably unprecedented in the history of any country, by reason of the applications to the Dominion Parliament for charters to build railways and extensions of line of railway in the northern portions of Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta.

Both the Canadian Pacific and the Canadian National Railways are asking Parliament for power to enormously extend their lines into the north country, and both announce their eagerness to proceed with the work of construction with the least possible delay. There is the keenest kind of rivalry between these two giant systems for rights into certain sections of this territory, with the result that a battle royal will take place at Ottawa when Parliament assembles.

One thing emerges quite clearly from the situation that has developed with almost startling suddenness and that is, that, despite all former statements and predictions to the contrary, the railway managements of Canada are now convinced of the enormous wealth of natural resources in the more northerly portions of Canada and of the success of the Hudson Bay Railway and Hudson Bay route to the markets of the old world.

There had long been a suspicion in the minds of many Western people that the former opposition to Mackenzie & Mann's project for the construction of the Hudson Bay Railway was based, not on their professed scepticism as to the feasibility of the route, but because of their belief that the route would prove to be an unqualified success, with all the upheaval which the opening of this short route from the heart of the prairies to the markets of the world would cause in existing transportation conditions, rates, and routing of traffic.

Examination of the plans of the railways, as thus far outlined, indicate a reversal of formerly held views that the people of Western Canada should be served by lines running east and west, with the tremendous preponderation of the prairies moving out either to the Atlantic or the Pacific seaboards, and all our imported products coming in through the same ports. Now, both of the great railway companies appear to be determined to connect up their east and west lines by short branches here and there and the construction of great north and south main lines, all stretching hundreds of miles north of existing settlement and heading towards tidewater in the north. A veritable railway revolution is in prospect.

This declaration of absolute confidence in the northern half of these prairie provinces, and in the Hudson Bay outlet, evidenced by the willingness of the biggest financial men in Canada interested in the C.P.R. to expend tens of millions of dollars in northern extensions, will attract the attention of the whole world and will constitute be greatest publicity that this section of the Dom nion has ever received.

Regardless of the decisions reached by Parliament as to division of the northern territory between the rival systems, and the respective zones to be allotted to each, the result will be to roll back the map of Canada hundreds of miles. The old reproach and weakness of Canada that it consisted of a narrow strip of area of settled territory extending those made of miles from the Atlantic to the Pacific along the Canada-United States boundary line, is to be removed. To the Dominion will be given great added strength as well as great wealth, and what for centuries has been looked upon as barren wastes of extensive territory, but of no value, will become a storehouse of treasure, the development of which will add enormously to the population and wealth of the Dominion, providing new avenues of employment, and diversified employment at that, for the people of Canada.

Simple Precautions Against FLU Sore Throat — — The Danger Signal

Health Authorities Point Out The Necessity Of Treating The Simple Cold At Its Beginning

Nearly every case of "Flu" starts with a simple cold. At first the throat is sore—often just a little tickle—then the infection goes lower—then the chest is affected. A safe plan is to gargle the throat three times daily with "Nerviline"—then will keep the throat free from germs. If there is any sign of tightness in the chest, rub on Nerviline—every drop will penetrate deeply—congestion will be relieved—the cold will break up quickly. Many a dangerous case of "Flu" can be avoided by this simple home treatment.

Of course it is always wise to take some relaxing medicine, and for this purpose immediate results will be secured from Dr Hamilton's Pills—they purge the system of impurities and carry off a lot of disease breeding poisons.

The combination treatment of Nerviline and Dr. Hamilton's Pills is very effective for Grippe, Influenza, Bad Colds, etc., and can be relied upon to give very satisfactory results.

That the estate in which the Earl of Egmont, of Priddis, Alta., has fallen heir, will approximate one million dollars is an estimate made at Calgary with his assistance.

The bulk of the estate comprises Avon Castle, the family seat in Ringwood, Hants, and 3,300 acres surrounding it.

$40,000 has been spent latterly in improving the land and the residence, declared the new earl.

In addition, he says, there are investments in stocks and shares and in war bonds amounting to a large total.

A STOMACH RESTORER

Good Advice From One Who Had Suffered Much

Dissatisfied with the pale pains in the intestinal tract, pains around the heart, sour risings in the throat called heartburn, are common symptoms of dyspepsia. It is a condition often neglected until it has done permanent harm, yet the treatment is simple. The general condition is due to this trouble is thin blood. Good blood is pretty if it is required by the stomach to function properly. If the blood is thin, the stomach becomes sluggish, food lies undigested, the forms a ferment, and often around the heart instead of getting nourishment from the blood the system gets poison. The first requirement is to enrich the blood, and there is no other medicine to do this as promptly or as effectively as Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. The solemization of these pills is to make new, rich, red blood, which nourishes every organ and nerve in the body, and thus not only banishes indigestion and dyspepsia, but also all other troubles having their origin in weak, watery blood.

The splendid results following the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills is shown by the case of Mrs. Lucy A. Goldsack, of Lower Prospect, Co. of Kempt, N.S., but now living with her son at Wolfville, N.S. She says in telling story:—"I have no hesitation in saying that my present good health is due to Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. For years I was a great sufferer from indigestion. Always after eating I suffered from pains in my stomach and other distressing symptoms. I have occupied every organ and nerve in the body, and then not only banished the

No Increase In General Rate For 1929 States Mayor

The annual ratepayers meeting held in Memorial Hall last Friday night, drew a very slim attendance, only seventeen being present when proceedings started, eight of whom were members of the council and school board. The poor attendance for the evening reached itself in the meeting.

M. A. Brimacombe acted as chairman and called upon H. P. Long, the secretary-treasurer, who submitted the financial statements for the past year. These showed the finances of the town to be in a healthy condition.

Mayor Fellow gave a full report on the past year's work of the council. The year 1928 was a very strenuous one, the installation of the new power plant and the extensive local improvements keeping a great amount of time. The power plant, which he stated would soon be in operation, was one of the finest of its size in the province, under full M. P. It had cost $35,000—today the cost would be three to four thousand dollars more. The sewage plant for which $16,000 worth of debentures had been issued cost $30,000. The sewerage were reparable in 5 years at $5,000 a year. The steam plant today would cost at least $6000 more as the contractors had underestimated the cost of this item. The Contractor Slade wanted the work and took it. Personnel connected had run to some $10,000, accounted for by putting in the steam line to the new school $6000, connecting Nake and repairing the old system in the agricultural school $1000 and revenue loss of $2000. He had promised the ratepayers last year that there would be no increase in the municipal general rate and he was pleased to say there was no necessity for it. Respecting 1929, the mayor said he had been in communication with the C. N. R. regarding electric light and water supply. Official had been here and gone over the grounds and the company would electrify everything they had in Vermilion, and engineers agreed that a water scheme was quite feasible. If the water supply is here the revenue from the C.N.R. would amount to $7000 alone, and $6000 a year would carry the cost of the system to the town. He wished it understood that at present there was such big debts. In concluding, his worship said that with revenue from our utilities, he was very hopeful of keeping the tax rate stationary.

Chairman Morrison of the school board spoke briefly on the work accomplished by that body during the last year. The cost of operating the schools had been a little less than the year before, something like $700. The new high school had been completed at a most favorable contract price for a building of its size and accommodation, and he felt that while we would not receive a direct financial revenue the benefits accruing to those who went to be the men and women of tomorrow, was sufficient compensation for the extra taxes we would pay for providing higher educational facilities.

J. A. Rossborough, Vermilion representative on the municipal hospital board, was the last speaker. Though no financial statement had been printed, he gave a lucid description of the doings of the board during the year, its expenditures and plans for the future.

Hearty votes of thanks were passed to the different public officials for their work of the year, after which the meeting closed.

Nominations On Monday Feb'y 4

Positions of Mayor, Four Councillors and Two Trustees To Be Filled

Next Monday from 11 a.m. until 12 o'clock noon the electors of the town and school district will be afforded the opportunity of nominating candidates for the town council and the school board, notice of the meeting appearing elsewhere in the issue.

Regarding the council, nominations will be received for the office of mayor and four councillors Mayor Fellow completes another term and Councillors Clarke, McKone (P.), and J. Waring are the retiring members, while J. Gordon Wilson has resigned from the board after serving one year. For the school board, the retiring members are J. W. G Morrison, chairman, and Dr. Scott.

Just what the line-up is in the way of candidates, the Standard has no information. Surface indications point to little if any particular interest on to who are to be entrusted with the responsibilities of public office for the next two years.

FUNERAL OF THE LATE THOMAS HINDMARSH

The funeral of the late Thomas Hindmarsh, Sr. was held on Saturday afternoon last from Christ church, the Rev M. A. Boyd conducting the service. Mr Hindmarsh was a resident of the district, having lived there some twenty four years and the high esteem in which he was held was proved by the number of friends who—in spite of the most severe weather—turned out to the service. A outstanding feature was a 5 ft. artificial wreath of flowers sent by old timers of twenty years' acquaintance. In addition he lovely offerings from personal friends and the family.

Mr. Hindmarsh was pre-deceased by his wife about eleven months ago and they are now laid to rest side by side in Ottawa cemetery.

The sympathy of the community is extended the family in their bereavement.

PROF. McRAYES' LECTURE

Those who missed Mr McRaye's lecture on Tuesday night probably missed one of the best things to be given in Vermilion this winter (unless some band throws who braved the bonspiel storm weather were happy repaid by hearing a very scholastic address.

Mr McRaye first defined Canada's position in an empire and world way since the war then picked up the thread of Canada's literary effort and brought it down to modern times. An interesting part of this address was the history of newspapers in Canada. From this the speaker proceeded to deal with the development of Canadian literature, and gave extracts from various writers which indicated the character and tone of a distinct Canadian creation.

The speaker was recruiting the amount of money spent for publications from south of the line, and the resultant support given to Canadian authors by Canadian people. His statement was that for every $1.00 Canadian people spend for Canadian literature they spend $7.50 for cheap rum and candy.

The reading of many typical selections from Canadian authors brought a very profitable evening to a close.

The lecture under the auspices of the local I.O.D.E. society, and the proceeds were to go to the library of the public school. There was only a limited attendance however, for an added and effort that merited the attendance of every citizen of Vermilion.

BOOHER TO HANG APRIL 24

After a deliberation of two hours and eight minutes the jury on Thursday evening last found Vernon Booher guilty of the murder of his mother-in-law and two hired men on July 9th, 1928 at Mannville. Mr Justice Walsh immediately sentenced the slayer to be hanged at Fort Saskatchewan jail on April 24th.

The evening was spent at whist. The gathering broke up with everyone that King Mrs Watts for the good time she had provided them.

Europe Knows Canada Better

Visitor From Britain Says Investors Now Realize As Worth While

"Every year there is a more intelligent conception of Canada in the minds of the people, not only of the British Isles, but of the European countries in general," said C. J. Smith, European vice-president of the Canadian National Railways, who is visiting Canada, for the first time in two years, to discuss matters with the Canadian National officials as well as with officers of the shipping organizations with which the Canadian National has its traffic connections. He will visit the company's territory both in Canada and in the United States.

Mr Smith said it would surprise Canadians to learn how well the principal characteristics of Canada were now understood abroad. "The visit of Sir Henry Thornton to Europe, during the past year, brought Canada to the front as never before, and people at present are extremely sensible of the prosperity that exists in this Dominion, together with the opportunities available for investment here.

"There is no chance of the interest in Canada diminishing. The activities of the leading British financial houses, such as Lord Melchett and other leaders in national and industrial fields of development, are keeping their effect of assuring the European investor that Canada is really worth while and is likely to become more so."

Speaking of the traffic and business relations between Canada and the British Isles and other European countries Mr Smith stated that the work of the Canadian National Ry's can be developed both north and east, and emigration and settlement was being constantly extended over Europe. During last year, he said, the Canadian National had handled more new settlers into Western Canada than ever before, there being an increase of 20 per cent. over the figures for the preceding year "In addition to this growing emigrant traffic, there is a constant growth in the freight handled by our system between Canada and Europe via both directions, and there is also a healthy growth in the tourist travel. The Canadian National is represented in virtually every European country today, though in the matter of attempting to provide satisfactory services for the vacant lands of this Dominion, our efforts are chiefly confined to securing settlers, several of whom people generally, and getting for Canada those immigrants who are likely to become good Canadian agriculturists.

"The Canadian railways," Mr. Smith continued, "are considered models of efficiency in operation, not only in Great Britain, but in other European countries, several of which, including France, are preparing to send groups of experts over here to study at hand the principles followed in the management and operation of the Canadian systems.

The launching and placing in service of the five new vessels of the Canadian National Steamships for the Canada-West Indies trade development had aroused keen interest throughout Britain. Mr Smith said and demonstrated that the Canadian Ports, Limited, would be developed facilities for the encouragement of her trade within the empire, and also that the Dominion was keen to take advantage of all opportunities offering for improving her position.

Production Of Canned Foods

The development in the production of canned foods in Canada has shown a remarkable expansion since the beginning of this century. The principal commodities thus preserved are fish, fruits, vegetables, milk and cereals. The industry constitutes an important market for the tin and iron plate, box, paper and printing trades.

Choosing Flowers For the Garden

The Right Varieties To Cultivate With Hope Of Success

With the lengthening of the days and arrival in many homes of the seed catalogues, there come thoughts of gardening. When going through the attractive seed catalogues the ardent flower grower would like to add to his garden acreage so that he may be able to grow many of the beautiful plants pictured and described. When one cannot extend his garden boundary it becomes a question as to the kinds of flowers and the varieties of them that one may grow with some hope of success. The booklet "Annual Flowers," issued by the Department of Agriculture, at Ottawa, will greatly assist one in the choice of seeds. Only those varieties should be planted which are known to be made when ordering or planting the seed. This booklet, Bulletin No. 60, which has been written by Miss Isabella Preston, specialist in ornamental horticulture, at the experimental farm, and available at the Publications Branch of the Department, gives hints on the starting of annual flowers from seed and in growing them during the summer months. It contains a very long list of varieties of annuals that have been tested at the experimental farms most of them during many successive seasons. Many of the flowers are illustrated and all of them described as to the colour, characteristics, and season of blooming

A Queer German Law

No Case Back After Six Weeks If Man Declared Dead In Error

In Germany, when you have been declared dead in error, you can protest that you are alive within six weeks of the date of the mistake and have your case heard. The singular law is responsible for the fact that a soldier named Wothke, who was declared dead by a judicial error in 1912, is unable to enjoy the possession of his own property, which he bequeathed to his family. Since the end of the war Herr Wothke has been trying to "come back" to life, but authorities say they cannot do anything about it; he is legally dead, and they cannot, after seven years, resurrect him. The only Government department that has given him any satisfaction, it is the case, is the post office, which has been willing to receive his taxes regularly Wothke has appealed to the Reichstag, and the Deputy, Herr Biedermann, has occupied himself with the matter, but without success. It is suggested that Herr Wothke might succeed in recovering his status if he committed a murder. A dead man cannot kill a live man; therefore, Wothke must be alive

Educationists Are Alive

Systems Differ But All Have One Aim Says Hon. Vincent Massey

The realition of international affairs are nowhere better understood than in the realm of education, Hon. Vincent Massey, Canadian Minister of Washington, told the Association of American Colleges at Chattanooga, Tenn., adding that in the realm of the mind there can be no disharmony between communities.

"The educational systems of different countries may differ," he said, "but it is the habit of educationists to regard themselves less as rivals than as allies in common cause." He spoke in praise of the purely collegiate institute, peculiar to the English speaking world creation of which might be fitted for public employment both in church and state.

Reparations and Debts

The New York Times says: "Our Government has consistently argued that German reparations do not concern the United States, and have no relation whatever to the war debts owed to our treasury by England, France and the others. This contention is, of course, legally correct, as may also be mathematically. In the documents, on the treasury books reparations are distinct from the war debts. Yet everybody knows that, in fact, they are linked together and cannot in the final settlement be kept apart."

Corn For Poultry

Should Be Cracked and Scattered Through Litter As Scratch Feed

Whenever a mixture of grain containing whole corn is thrown to a flock of hens it will be seen that the corn will be quickly picked up by the birds in preference to the other grains. Unless one desires to fatten his birds quickly, corn, if fed at all, should be cracked and scattered in the litter so as to induce the exercise of scratching.

Yellow corn is better than white, because it contains fat-soluble vitamin "A," which is not present in the white. There is little or no difference in the feeding values of flint and dent corns.

Corn is rich in carbohydrates, and may be more freely used during the winter.

The new edition of Bulletin No. 1, of the Department of Agriculture, at Ottawa, "Poultry Feeds and Feeding," points out the tendency of a wet mash containing corn meal to spoil if kept too long.

War Medals Unclaimed

Not Only For World War But For Pemican Raids and Red River Rebellion

A total of 63,669 Canadians lost their lives either during the great war or died subsequently from causes directly attributed to war service. This is disclosed in the figures of plaques and scrolls that have already been issued from the department of national defence to the next-of-kin of the nation's fatal war casualties.

It is more than ten years since hostilities ceased, yet the number of plaques remains unissued, while thousands of war medals continue to repose in the department uncalimed. This situation is not peculiar alone to the great war, of 11,990 Canadian service medals not yet delivered to their owners about 10,000 are for the Fenian raids of 1866 and 1870, and for the Red River rebellion of 1870.

It is pointed out by C. J. Doherty, deputy minister of national defence, that only those who received the bounty in connection with the Fenian raids are entitled also to the medal.

Feeding Hogs in a Science

Success Assured If Supply Of Mineral Mixture Kept On Hand

Feeding pig meal, however rich it, says a leaflet issued by the Ohio experiment station, he must have also chlorine, calcium and phosphorus. If he is going to make good growth and return his owner a profit. For this reason many farmers keep a supply of mineral mixture.

Common salt supplies sodium and chlorine. Finely ground limestone or hardwood ashes furnishes calcium, while steamed bone meal provides phosphorus. This mixture, containing equal parts of salt, finely-ground agricultural lime and bone meal is recommended. It is best served in boxes. It cures the habit developed by many cows, of chewing bones and boards, accepted because the mineral content of their rations required supplementing.

The ancient Egyptian priests preserved a rigid celibacy.

Harnessing Canada

Water-Power Resources

Report Shows 5,350,000 Horse-Power Now In Operation

With world interest centred upon the efforts being put forth in almost every civilized country to secure additional supplies of low-priced power for the needs of industry, the annual review of hydro-electric progress in Canada by Hon. Charles Stewart, Minister of the Interior, is of timely significance, indicating as it does, that throughout the Dominion the greatest activity prevails in harnessing for industrial, commercial and domestic use the advantageously situated and ample waterpower resources of the country.

During the year 1928 the energy of the waterwheels or turbines actually installed and brought into operation amounted to 850,000 horse-power, thus bringing the total for the whole Dominion to 5,338,000 horse-power. In addition to this large increase, there are many projects under active construction, many of them nearing completion and others just recently initiated, whose combined installation will result in adding more than 1,300,000 h.p. to the country's total. There are also many projects of magnitude in the formative stage, some of which will undoubtedly be undertaken in the near future.—Regina Daily Post.

A Scotch widow who had lost her husband in a railroad accident succeeded in getting two of her fellow countrymen to agree to bring up her child in case she died when it was born.

It happened that the mother died giving birth to twins. One of the Scotchmen was away at the time, but he received the following telegram from his friend who had joined in the promise.

"Twins born today. Mother dead My twin also."

Kingship Is No Sinecure

Duke's Life Is a Busy One Says Famous Portrait Painter

It is discussed that there is a portrait of King George painted just before his recent illness which has not yet been seen by the public.

Frank O. Salisbury, who painted it, depicts the King making the traditional gift of gold and silver to the poor during the Installation ceremony of the Knights of the Honorable Order of the Bath. The scene, which has never before been painted, glows with color. It was sketched by the artist, who is well known for his representations of historical subjects, and later the various personages who figure in it came individually to sit for their portraits.

When King George arrived at Mr. Salisbury's studio the enormous canvas was complete except for his own picture. When the King entered he began to laugh.

"My sword," he said. "You have painted me in an admiral's uniform and have given me a Field Marshal's sword. You didn't think I would need a little of detail like that, did you?"

To remedy matters, the King sent to the studio his full admiral's dress which he has as an Admiral of the Fleet. On its beautiful blade are engraved the names of the battleships with which the King was associated with during his naval career.

Just how busy a man King George has been all his life might be gathered from Mr. Salisbury's reminiscences.

"So far as I have observed," he said, "the Royal Family is a busy one. I received an appointment for the first sitting for a war portrait of his Majesty's four years ago. It was at 11 o'clock, and during the next hour watched the King decorate soldiers, sailors and airmen with one hand and with gracious words and gestures make a number of nervous young heroes happy. He and he—doing it since 10 o'clock that morning, and had arisen at 7 o'clock to accomplish his day's work.

"Yet, he found time for his portrait which is hard work even when one is fresh. As I was leaving, he said, 'I have not yet sat down, but am not afraid, because I am sure I have shown signs of drowsiness a number of times.' At that period the King had not had more than two weeks' vacation in five years.

"The Prince of Wales is also an extraordinarily busy man. He was to sit for me at 9 o'clock one afternoon. He arrived half an hour late, from the south of England to perform some public function. In the afternoon, without any change, he came on to Aldershot, where he reviewed the troops. Precisely at 5 o'clock he arrived at my studio. Lunch, dinner, but still with much to do. He had to deliver an important address before a distinguished gathering at dinner He had his speech with him and asked me if I would mind if he went over it during the sitting.

"While I painted, the Prince studied his speech, and at 6 o'clock he left to prepare himself for the evening.

The above map shows the progress made by the Alberta Wheat Pool in the matter of elevators during the past three years

In the fall of 1926, three country elevators were in operation. With the close of the year 1928, the number of these elevators had increased to 326. Furthermore the elevator system has been paid for as built.

The capital to provide for the building of this elevator system was provided for by annual deductions of 2 cents a bushel on all wheat handled. In three years the elevator system has reached the total of $3,853,484.87.

The Alberta Pool elevator system handled 27½ million bushels from the 1927 crop, or 58.37 per cent of the total pool handlings. This year the system has already handled over 50,000,000 bushels, and hopes to handle close to 69 per cent of all wheat delivered in the Alberta Pool.

The location of pool elevators is decided on the basis of deliveries of pool wheat. Elevators are built first where the larger pool deliveries are made. This year at least one hundred new elevators will be built.

Pool members who deliver their wheat to pool elevators participate in the excess earnings of these elevators on a patronage basis. Last year close to $1,000,000 excess earnings were thus distributed after 6 per cent interest had been paid on capital and certain reserves set up.

Connie raised her head. "Oh, no. I don't think so, Andy; that must strip on," she objected.

Andy, in the performance of studying the article in question.

"Yes, you, sure! That's right! that's right!" he conceded quickly.

Andy's pipe was now sending out billows of acrid smoke. Connie moved to the smoke screen. Moved to Andy's relief, she sat for a moment silently studying the advertisement. When she raised her head there was a look of wistful yearning in her blue eyes.

"Oh, Andy," she said dreamily, "it must be lovely to feel those soft silky things next your skin."

"Yes—I'm sorry, Connie," stuttered Andy, "but I've a roast in the oven—I—"

"Just a minute Andy," she pleaded, "there is something else I want to ask you." She sorted the papers in hand for the next question.

"Ged 'oip me, what will it be now?" thought Andy, as he braced himself for the next question.

"Andy, what is a cuticle?"

A look of profound relief crossed the little Australian's face.

"A cuticle is the outer epithelial with an air of wisdom, "is a fish. It's—"

He was interrupted by Connie's peal of laughter. "Oh, Andy," she cried, "you're a funny man!" She turned and ran laughing down the [illegible]

"Strike me lucky!" exclaimed Andy as he mopped his brow, "I'm glad enough to make a blighter's 'art bleed. The poor motherless child! Connie's in a fidgit' like me to ask such questions."

He watched Connie as she slowly ascended the hill, still studying the magazine pages.

"But 'ow the 'ell can I 'elp 'er?"

He pondered deeply for a moment, but, seemingly unable to answer the question, shook his head sadly and turned to his fishing.

Fortunately for Janet's peace of mind, none of her friends had recognized in the handsome face of the new champion of Canada the handsome young man they had met at her home. They were puzzled by her decision to spend a holiday in the wilds until she casually mentioned that Mr. Mirabel was arranging for their entertainment, and she accepted with a smile the oily [illegible] that followed.

The party arrived by special train a day earlier than originally planned, and Janet stepped to the platform Donald was there to meet her, concerted by the warmth of her greeting and the softness in her eyes as they rested on him.

That afternoon Connie came riding down the hill holding in her hand an enormous bouquet of Alpine flowers. She leaped from her horse and ran blithely around the corner of the big building. Andy, dressed in a white coat and hat, came smilingly forward to meet her.

"Andy, here are some rare flowers. Dad sent for——" She caught sparkling shrapnel as Donald, leading Janet and her friends from a tour of the kitchen, came through the door.

Donald's face lighted with a glad smile as he saw Connie.

"Miss Mannie, I want you to meet Miss Wainwright.

Connie's face burned with embarrassment as all eyes turned toward her, and the mass of wild flowers held crushed to her breast quivered as though shaken by a breeze. She glanced about her quickly, strongly tempted to flee the spot.

For a moment the society belle and the girl of the mountains eyed each other silently. Janet stared at Connie as if she were some strange creature unclassified by science. Connie for the first time was gazing on a stylishly-clad member of her own sex. Janet's dress of Watts silk shimmered in the sunshine, and her broad-brimmed white hat, with its long of pale rose, gave to her beautiful face a ruddy glow.

Connie's eyes roved in admiring fascination from the neat high-heeled shoes to the sheer hose and skirt, and back to the flowered hat set jauntily on Janet's shining coils of dark hair.

The girl of the mountains, Janet knew, a native frankness, found the girl of the woods that made Jasmine appear artificial. Their eyes met, and Connie's lips parted in a timid smile revealing two rows of perfect milk-white teeth and dimples in her cheeks. Janet's dimples in her own cheeks. Her lonely heart longed for the friendship of this wonderful girl, but she smile quickly faded when she saw that Janet's eyes remained cold and disparaging.

Janet scrutinized Connie's faded blue overalls and coarse cotton shirt, which, even though loose and of a long, could not conceal the graceful lines of the childish figure. Confused by the critical appraisal of the elegant stranger, Connie's hair straining. She spurning hoofs sent a cloud of dust in their wake. The horse and rider went tearing down the hill.

Janet stood staring after the flying rider, a look of blank astonishment on her face.

Connie's visits to the mill ceased but from the highest point on the bluff she watched the merry-makers with keen interest as, dressed in airy riding costumes, they rode their horses, disported themselves in the bathing-suits on the sandy beach, paddled the lake in light, graceful canoes, or chugged about in the big white motor-boat. For two evenings she sat with a feeling of dreary loneliness while Donald and Janet floated on the placid lake in one of the tiny boats, their subdued voices and gentle laughter coming up faintly from below.

During the evenings she spent with Donald, Janet was sensible of fleeting emotions in which she tried to define her attitude toward him. She felt that the time was not for distant when some definition would be necessary. In a number of artful ways she hinted, but without success, to lead him to talk of himself. When she put a direct question she met with those about his mouth tightened, and his reply carried a tone of such unmistakable rebuke that her curiosity died and the subject was instantly dropped.

On the night before Janet's departure a dance was arranged, to which the clerical staff of the Chenhanour Mill was invited. Ollie promised a musical feature on the programme in the form of an old-fashioned square dance with his "red-shirts" as the performers.

All that day the skies drizzled continuously; lake and mountain were hidden under a heavy mist. The inclement weather did not dampen the ardour of the merry crowd, who, in kitchens and cabins of every description, gathered forces and trees to decorate the big dining room that was to be used as a dance-hall.

Guard Against FLU —
Sore Throat The First Warning.

Few families will escape. This epidemic constitutes a real danger. Health authorities everywhere warn the public of the danger of the common cold. "Flu" usually starts with "cold in the head." Neglected, it may lead to pneumonia. Then comes the call for the doctor.

A simple treatment is to gargle the throat three times daily with Zam-Buk Ointment, rubbing the throat and chest well with it. Zam-Buk's antiseptic treatment is a serious malady may develop.

A simple treatment is to gargle the throat three times daily with Zam-Buk Ointment, rubbing the throat and chest well with it. Zam-Buk's antiseptic properties of Nerviline quickly destroy the germs in the throat. Of course if the chest is sore Nervilline should be rubbed over the affected area—lots of rubbing it can't burn a blister, but will bring out the congestion and break up the cold.

To prevent "Flu" or colds from gaining headway Nervilline will prove most effective. It is hardly necessary to point out that the bowels should be stimulated, and the system purged of all waste materials. For this purpose Dr. Hamilton's Pills are recommended. They act without griping or discomfort of any kind. This combination treatment of Nervilline and Dr Hamilton's Pills will prove a very satisfactory prevention for Grippe, Flu, etc

That night, lights glanced from every window of the big room, which had undergone a sudden transformation. The walls were one mass of wild flowers, and on the beams overhead small cedars and Saskatoon stood upright. In one corner, adding a pungent odour to the air, already burdened with the sweet smell of flowers, The music of the phonograph flowed out of the open door to vibrate softly through the dripping trees.

Connie learned of the dance, and after dark she slipped quietly down into the valley. She crouched by the open window, heedless of the rain dripping from the eaves, her eyes fixed upon the enchanting scene within. She saw Donald and Janet gliding across the floor, and she marvelled at the grace of their movements. The hum of talk, the constant ripple of feminine laughter, the rustle of silken skirts, were all foreign to Connie. She felt a loneliness intense and utter loneliness, like a stranger in a strange land.

Presently Janet, who threw down aside her cloak of reserve; she brimmed over with an unrounded gaiety. She had left the expedition in the South Pole, of which Evans assumed command after Scott's death. Other Blue Ribbon Men had the power to acquire will show representative feature of British life, such as Arnatteur day ceremonies, the Lord Mayor's parade, pictures of the motor traffic in congested streets and activities of the royal family

Stature of Races Depends On Nutrition, Says Professor of Anatomy

According to Dr. R. Bennet Bean, a professor of anatomy, who has analyzed the measurements of 1022 persons, the height of the race documents, nutrition fixes the stature of races. People living near the sea get too much iodine so it tend to short stature. Inland people get more of which makes for long bones. The lack of nourishment in the equatorial and arctic zones keeps people short. People who live in the forties temperate zones have more and better food and therefore grow taller. The average height of human beings is five feet five inches. The tallest group are the Australians, six feet one inch, and the shortest the African Negrillos, four feet three inches, and the Eskimos.

TISSUE TONE

Just what does the term imply? Well, doubtless at some time or other, you have had your doctor advise "that the system needed a general toning up." This should afford a clue as to the meaning.

Under conditions of normal life, as the tissues grow and perform their functions, worn-out cells die. As bone grows, it is absorbed little by little to make room for the remodeling and growth of the larger structure. Also, bacteria, ever present in the oral cavity, gains access beneath the protective covering of the mouth tissues.

However, nature has made provision for the disposal of these worn-out fragments and foreign intruders, by the activities of certain types of organized cells known as phagocytes.

In health, these little warriors are able to perform their function of waste disposal and, as well the more militant duties of combating and destroying the invading organisms

But with a lowered resistance of the body cells, through the effects of oral disturbances, the defence is weakened, permitting in the one case, a poisoning of the body fluids by the waste materials, and, in the other, the securing of a foot-hold by such bacteria as may have gained access to the tissues.

Among those factors tending to weaken this lowered vitality of the body cells or, in other words "tone of tissue tone," may be cited, systemic diseases; influences exertion through nerve channels, and a poorly nourished blood supply.

But, possibly, in the mouth, the factors are more frequently local in nature, and generally result from oral neglect The include irritations and injuries from ragged foods, deposits of tartar and food debris and the purely negative factor, the lack of proper masticatory exercise.

Corrective measures such as the use of harder foods requiring more vigorous chewing, and more careful attention to mouth toilet, will in most cases, effectively restore the tissues to a healthy tone

Coast Radio Stations

Coast station is the term used to designate a radio station established on shore to communicate with ships at sea. In Canada there are 46 such stations. "The primary object of these stations is to provide radio facilities whereby any ship within 500 miles of the Canadian coast can establish instant touch with shore Constant watch is kept for the full 24 hours of every day in the year, 365 days of each year

About the only thing a man gets free in this world is criticism.

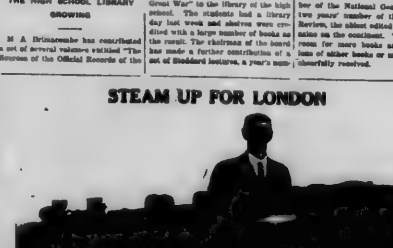
THE HIGH SCHOOL LIBRARY GROWING

M. A. Brimacombe has contributed a set of several volumes entitled "The Sources of the Official Records of the Great War" to the library of the high school. The students had a library day last week and shelves were provided with a large number of books as the result. The chairman of the board has made a further contribution of a set of Stoddard lectures, a year's number of the National Geographic, an two years' number of the Dalhousie Review, the oldest edited college magazine on the continent. There is still room for more books and courier has a loss of either books or money will be cheerfully received.

STEAM UP FOR LONDON



This model, a perfect working miniature of one of the Canadian National Railways' great locomotives, is now on its way to London, England, where it will be exhibited in the European offices of the National system. John E. Wood, of Winnipeg, constructed it in his spare time, and it took him four-teen months of diligence and skill. The main frames and some of the other parts were made by apprentices in the Fort Rouge and Transcona shops. The model is correct in all external details and will run under its own power. The boiler has been tested to 150 pounds pressure. For the purpose of exhibition a motor was placed in the cab base to drive the wheels through a worm gear on the main driving axle. The over all length of the model is eight feet, six inches, while the over-all height of the original and scale of the other parts were made by apprentices in the Fort Rouge and Transcona shops. The model weighs approximately 375 pounds and the super-locomotive 536 lbs.

CANADIAN IDEAS IN JAPAN

When K. Hoshino, superintendent of rolling stock and machinery of the Nagoya District, Japanese Government Railways, was in Canada recently studying the practices of the Canadian National Railways for the benefit of the people of his own country, he was particularly interested in the method used in steering cars from the tracks. In a letter to W. A. Kingsland, general manager of the National system's western region, Mr. Hoshino expressed his thanks for the co-operation given him by A. E. Hoger, general superintendent, motive power, Winnipeg, and A. McCowan, assistant general superintendent, car equipment. He went on to describe a new type of car-handling machine which he had devised from ideas given him by E. D. McLay, bridge and building master of the Canadian National Railways, Calgary division. The machine, which is the most successful of all the types tried out by the Japanese railways, has been patented in Japan. The plow is now in action and the inset is a photograph of Mr. McLay.

Here and There

(2191)

Boys at Red Deer, Alberta, earned Christmas pocket money by gathering 1,000 pounds of rosehips for canned chilies to make jam and jelly. Local trade includes rabbit, squirrel and cat skins.

Further experiments with superphosphate, carried on by the members of Youk, B.C., will be continued in 1929 by the Alberta Department of Agriculture, according to a report of the Dominion Experimental Farms and C. F. B. experimentalist Farms. An abundant quantity of this fertilizer was used in the Youk district.

Upwards of four millions of dollars will be expended this season by eighteen municipalities, improvements, and extensions to the electric railway system of Winnipeg, Alberta and the Dominion Power and Transmission Company, Ltd., of Hamilton, Ont., and Vancouver, B.C.

A Negro preacher walked into the office of a local newspaper and said: "Mister Editor, I'se de parson ob one of my congregation which subscribed to dis paper. Do dat entitle me to have a church notice in de Friday issue, free an' clear, and write?" said the editor. "Yes, I thank you, Jeff'son is the gentle-man minister wrote: "Mount Memorial Baptist Church, the Rev. John Walker, pastor. Preaching morning and evening. The proclamation of the gospel from both services by the pastor. The Bible, the Brass band and the church. Come to-morrow and bring all de blues."

Twenty head of bobsleigh cattle from Alberta were bred h rds have arrived at Vancouver on Canadian Pacific Railway liner for shipment to Japan. The cattle were selected from various herds in the province. Several of the animals or their immediate ancestors have records of 20 000 pounds of milk per year and all of these are from high producing dams.

A monster black bear weighing over 600 pounds that stalked up right through the woods, seeking what or whom it might devour and with bad no forepaws, has just been trapped in New Brunswick, according to Dave Ostby, well-known guide and outfitter. The beast used to rifle all the garbage dumps and refuse heaps in the neighbourhood of Plaster Rock, on the line of the C. P. R., and was caught by means of a trap hidden under dead leaves and moss and paint tins. Examination of the body showed that his forefeet were crippled, either by deformity at birth or by an accident, and that it must have walked about on its hind feet. Only tracks of the rear paws had been found and considerable mystery existed as to the marauder. However, Trailer Jack Ostby crept to the bear, whose cubs he secured over seven feet in length.

"Do you know how to make a peach pudding?"

"Sure, send her some candy."

NOTICE

* All Non-Ratepayers in the Vermilion Municipal Hospital District desirous of being eligible for the $1.00 per day rate for the year 1929 can, by paying to the undersigned the sum of SIX DOLLARS on or before the 31st day of January, 1929, become Special Ratepayers and so be entitled to the $1.00 rate.

STEP TOWARD STABILITY IN EASTERN EUROPE

Paris.—Poland's acceptance of the Soviet proposal for a protocol putting the Kellogg pact into effect immediately in eastern Europe, will yield beneficial results, it is believed in connection with the general stimulus in that part of the world.

The Russians have indicated that they are willing to admit not only Poland but also Rumania and the Baltic states to the provisions of the protocol.

Because of the Rumanian question no diplomatic relations have ever existed between the Soviet and Rumania. It is surmised that the new protocol negotiations will lead to such relations.

The protocol will also go far to quieting fears of a grand aggressive plot against Russia by the capitalist states led by Great Britain.

It is significant that Poland has waited until the United States ratified the Kellogg pact before accepting the Soviet proposal.

Sacrifices Life To Save Companion

Montreal Woman Insists on Firemen Saving Friend First

Montreal, Que.—Trapped in a top floor apartment, Mrs. Raipe refused to be rescued by the firemen unless her companion in a fire which destroyed the female apartment building, a 3 storey building, was saved. When the firemen forced their way into the Raipe apartment from a ladder, which had been erected from the lower floors, they found Mrs. Raipe near the window and started to carry her to safety, but she insisted that they first save Miss Barr, who was already overcome by smoke. They carried Miss Barr down the ladder and returned to the top floor to find it a seething mass of smoke and flames. Their efforts to rescue Mrs. Raipe were in vain and it was not until four hours later that they were able to make their way into the building and carry out her charred body.

France Seeks Payment For German Sugar

Over Three Million Dollars Worth Not Paid For by Claim

Paris.—A month after the date when $7 000,000, owing the French government, was being made by policewriter it was revealed that repercussions payments of sugar had been forced over to private concerns and not paid for.

Leon Poiier, former professor of political economy at the University of Lille, has been arrest at a ringleader in the plot against the government. He is accompanying police on their visits to various concerns believed involved in the deals.

Forty thousand tons of sugar were delivered by Germany in lieu of cash as reparations. Private negotiations turned over to the Sugar Farmers' company and the France-Monaco Navigation company for sugar consignments. The sugar was not received payment for it.

King's Condition Improves

London.—Continued improvement in the health of the King today led the court officials to begin planning the regular levees and other functions of the season. The first levee, at which the Prince of Wales will preside, will be held at St. James palace on May 7. The King's physicians have made it known that he must spend no more winters in England, and he must seek a warmer climate for several months each year.

Hoober Found Guilty

Edmonton.—Vernon Hoober will be hanged on April 26, 1929. After a deliberation of five hours and eight minutes, the jury found the accused youth guilty of the murder of his brother, brother and their two friends on July 9, 1928, at Manville Mr. Justice Walsh immediately sentenced the slayer to be hanged.

Will Urge Negotiation Of Trade Agreement

Chinese Nationalist League Would Develop Business With Canada

Vancouver.—Development of trade between China and Canada through the negotiation of a treaty between their governments and that of Canada is a major recommendation to be voted on at the annual convention of Kuomintang, Chinese national government at Nanking, by the Chinese delegates from Canada. Seventy-five representatives of all branches of the Chinese Nationalist League in Canada are now holding their annual conclave at Canadian headquarters, Gore avenue and Pender street, and will elect delegates to the convention.

An increase in the number of consuls throughout the Dominion will also be sought by the delegates from Canada. Consulates are at present maintained only at Ottawa and Vancouver.

There are 75 branches of the league in Canada, with three divisions, governing the east, middlewest and west. There is a Canadian membership of more than 10,000.

Prizes For Research

Two Will Be Given for Best Work in Cancer Investigation

London.—The grand council of the British Empire Cancer campaign announced the award of an offer of two prizes of $2,500 each, in 1931 and 1933, for the best original piece of work in the investigation of cancer carried out in the British Empire. They will be known as the Garton prizes.

The report of the Medical Research Council, summarizing the work of voluntary research centers in 1927, claims malignant growths to the early stages of cancer can be removed by radium treatment, or efficaciously as by any surgical means.

New Railway Station

C. N. R. Station At The Pas Is Officially Opened

The Pas.—Another chapter in the development of Northern Manitoba was written today when the Canadian National Railways' new $75,000 station was officially opened here.

A ceremony was held at the new station, which is situated in the heart of the town. Maj. J. G. MacLachlan, district engineer of the C. N. R., turned the station key over to V. L. Smart, general superintendent of transportation, who opened the door of the station to the public.

Believes Soviet Rule Over

Montreal.—The Soviet experiment in Russia had failed tragically and its endurance was now but a question of the patience of the Russian people, according to his imperial Highness the Grand Duke Alexander Michaelovitch, brother-in-law of the late czar, cousin by marriage to King George, who has arrived here. The grand duke was certain that his countrymen would not suffer the yoke of the communists very much longer.

New Senator Appointed

Ottawa.—Hance J. Logan, former Liberal member for Cumberland, N. S., in the House of Commons, has been appointed to the Senate, filling the vacancy in that body caused by the death of Senator W. B. Ross. Announcement of the appointment was made at the prime minister's office.

Will Take King To Sumer

London.—Preparations are going forward for the removal of King George to Bognor in Sussex as soon as his doctors decide that the time is opportune. The King will travel the 65 miles to the coast resort in a large car fitted so that he can lie as comfortably as in his bed at Buckingham palace.

Canada's Record Wheat Yield

Ottawa.—Canada's yield of wheat for the year 1928 amounted to 833,-371,100 bushels. This is the highest on record and the first time that Canada has harvested a crop of over half a billion bushels. This announcement was made in the crop report just issued by the Dominion bureau of statistics.

Is Acting Postmaster

Ottawa.—William H. Peacock, for several years assistant postmaster at Ottawa, has been named acting postmaster. The vacancy was created by the death recently of Andrew G. Aerns.

Class B Fairs

New Dates Are Set At Meeting Held in Winnipeg

Winnipeg.—The establishment of an eastern and a western circuit of Class B fairs, and the setting of dates for fairs in each circuit, was the principal result of a session of the Western Canadian Fairs association held at the Fort Garry hotel.

The Western Canada Association of Exhibitions, which comprises the Class A fairs concluded their convention in the afternoon.

Archie Wilson of Saskatoon, heads the Western Canada Association at Edmonton for the coming year, being elected president to succeed H. W. Abbott of Edmonton at the closing session. H. G. Smith, Regina, was re-elected vice president of the organization and S. W. Jones, Saskatoon, will continue in office as secretary-treasurer.

Johnny J. Jones was awarded the contract for Sidney shows at class A fairs.

Because the circuit of the Western Canada Fairs Association has become so unwieldy by reason of the large number of fairs, it was divided into two circuits, and the dates for fairs set as follows:

Eastern circuit—Carman, June 28 to July 1; Selkirk, July 3 to 6; Portage la Prairie, July 8 to 10; Dauphin, July 11 to 13; Prince Albert, July 15 to 17; Melfort, July 19 to 20; Yorkton, July 22 to 27.

Western circuit.—Weyburn, July 8 to 10; Assiniboia, July 11 to 13; Lethbridge, July 15 to 20; Red Deer, July 22 to 24; Canrose, July 25 to 27. Vegreville, July 29 to 31; Vermilion, Aug. 1 to 3; Lloydminster, Aug. 5 to 7; North Battleford, Aug. 8 to 10.

EMBARGO BRINGS PROTEST FROM RAILWAY HEADS

Montreal.—The partial embargo placed against continental European colonists by the Dominion department of immigration and colonization drew from the Canadian Pacific and Canadian National railways today a formal protest.

The decision, it was claimed in a statement issued by the presidents of the companies, will not only work untold hardship on both transportation systems but will destroy the faith the governments, whose people are affected, have in Canada.

The companies deny they are interested in moving colonists from non-preferred countries in Europe rather than those from Great Britain or other northern European or preferred countries.

The attitude of the transportation companies was outlined in a statement issued to The Canadian Press by the railway presidents, E. W. Beatty and Sir Henry Thornton.

BACK FROM THE BARRENS

Although he had not been out of the Barren lands for fifteen years, George Yandle, trapper, maintained a firm sense of civilization. The first thing he did when he got to The Pas he did not even wait until he reached Winnipeg—was buy himself a pair of spats with zippers. Yandle acted as interpreter when Count Haig Tolstoy entertained the Eskimos in the far north. The photograph, which was taken outside the Canadian National Railways station in Winnipeg, just after the trio's arrival, shows Yandle Tolstoy in the centre, and W. J. Gage, photographer. Count Tolstoy, who is the grandson of the great Russian writer, and philanthropist, headed an expedition into the Barrens to study the migration habits of the caribou and some unusual photographs were obtained of the immense herds. After spending a day in Winnipeg the party, together with Fur Taking dogs, north 500 miles went to Tunagasak, the Ontario forest reserve, for further study of animals, and thence to New York

Needs Britain's Protection

Iraq Is Not Sufficiently Prepared to Defend Itself

London.—Differences between the British and Iraq governments over the stability or otherwise of Iraq to defend itself have resulted in the resignation of the Iraq cabinet minister Premier Aaza Jafar Pasha or Askari.

The British authorities hold the view that Iraq, placed under Britain's protection after the war, is not yet ready to assume full responsibility for its defence.

A treaty between the British and Iraq governments in 1923 provides for the responsibilities of Great Britain as a mandatory power shall be terminated when Iraq is admitted to the League of Nations.

Iraq has a population of nearly 3,000,000, practically all Mohammedans. Its chief city is Bagdad and the territory is part of Arabia, comprising 150,000 square miles.

The real difficulty it is pointed out in London is that even the existing agreements between Great Britain and Iraq are not fulfilled particularly with regard to military and financial matters, including railways and ports.

South African Tourists Greeted By Snowstorm

Students Wanted Thrill and Get It in Toronto

Toronto.—In the midst of a blinding snowstorm 37 students of South African universities arrived here in the course of their tour of United States and Canada.

"Just what we wanted," one of them exclaimed heartily, when the storm troubles were explained to him.

"We were counting on Canada for the thrill of real cold weather lots of snow and the sport of ice hockey," T. Thorpe, Capetown university spokesman for the visitors said.

The students were the guests of Toronto university and left for Montreal for a visit to McGill university. Before completion of the tour the students will have been away from home for three months and will have travelled 25,000 miles.

Crosses Atlantic In Steamer's Lifeboat

Stowaway From England Had Four Frost-Bitten During Voyage

New York.—Matthew Sadderley, youthful cheese cart driver of Cheshire county, England, completed a stormy crossing of the Atlantic in a lifeboat, an uncomfortable but not a dangerous journey for the 15-year-old lad time was hanging in its davits on the stowaway stuck it out through storm and cold, living on the emergency rations in his hiding place He kept his hands warm against his body, but his feet were frost-bitten and just before the ship docked quarantine the pain drove him forth.

He collapsed while telling his story but was revived and put to bed in the ship's hospital. He will be sent back to his cheese cart.

URGES BETTER FEELING BETWEEN TWO NATIONS

New York—J. Ramsay MacDonald former premier of Great Britain in an article under his name in the current issue of The National Travel weekly, makes a plea for more understanding and more of the friendliness of mind and disposition that exists between the United States and Great Britain grow increasingly unhappy," he says. A feeling growing in the two countries which is endangering them and is encouraging a kind of squinting which is not to a mutual understanding and friendship.

"It is time to be tuned to observe and to appreciate what is going on in the world. Nothing has really public importance to be seen by any intelligent person as almost any newspaper reader does, when he takes up his paper, to be sure, then con-

This is no case for private and official action and conferences governments must act. Here is trouble ought to appeal five or six outstanding men to discuss our differences. Maybe fresh air would clean our minds of them."

CANADA'S CLAIM APPROVED BY RADIO MEETING

Ottawa.—Canada's claim to 40 per cent of the available wave-bands for broadcasting purposes was approved by the International Radio Conference at its meeting in Washington, according to a message received here by the Department of Marine and Fisheries.

The message continued that the allocation of wave-lengths to be operated by private interests in Canada and the U. S. was approved in principle. Cuba and Mexico will operate certain channels in common with Canada as transmitters.

Although the percentage is eventually allotted Canada will have a number of waves with which to use in case the United States and no difficult will occur. In the same way certain channels in common with Canada as transmitters.

The broadcasting section of the conference is one of only four to be held by the International Radio Conference since it was organized in 1906. The last one was held in Washington in 1927. At the time the United States was seeking a much larger share.

There are 630 channels in the band with approximately 250 channels available for distribution after allowing for amateurs and dot-and-dash stations.

Ratifies Kellogg Treaty

Action of Lithuania May Affect Dispute Between Russia and Poland

Kovno, Lithuania.—The Lithuanian government ratified the anti-war Kellogg pact.

Ratification of the Kellogg pact by Lithuania is significance in its bearing upon negotiations between Russia and Poland for a special protocol applying the pact in a localized sense to the states that touch the western frontier of Russia. Poland and Lithuania have been at odds over frontier questions and over the ownership of Vilna, a city which Lithuania claims as its legitimate capital but which is now held by Poland.

Plan Air Endurance Test

Flight to Prove Claim Made for New British Plane

London.—The Mail says that a non-stop flight from Capetown to England is planned to test the claim made for a new British aeroplane that it is capable of flying further without refueling than any other in the world.

The plane, which has tanks for three and one-half tons of gasoline for its non-stop flight, is now being put through trial flights. Two pilots will fly it to Capetown by easy stages and attempt the return flight without a stop.

THE STANDARD
VERMILION, - ALBERTA
ESTABLISHED 1909
Published every Thursday Afternoon at the Office, Main St.
C. S. P. COUPER, Editor

Vermilion, Alta., Jan. 31, 1929.

The following is a short summary regarding changes in rural education in Alberta with proposed solution as submitted by the Hon. Perren Baker, Minister of Education

At present there are 2,500 rural schools practicing individualistic education.

1. The inability to hold really the more ambitious and able teachers. Seven hundred teachers annually leave the profession, their places to be filled by seven hundred recruits. Rural teaching offers little promotion. Ten years' experience furnishes little extra recognition. Many children receive their entire training from inexperienced youth.

2. It is impossible intelligently to collect the ideal teacher for a community from a school of sixteen applications. The tragedy of a round peg teacher in the wrong type of school is frequent

3. The present system lacks supervision Much money is wasted to ratepayers, through the lack of a little intelligent guidance to the youth of teachers who lack merely experience

4. There is no effective means of eliminating the inefficient. Teachers are too often merely shuffled round the inefficient finding a position regularly in another district

The proposed changes to remedy some of these faults would establish large consolidate units. Approximately 2000 rural districts into 20 divisions of 150 schools each. Each division to have a board of five directors elected by ratepayers by wards. These boards will engage, place and dismiss the 150 teachers in their division, in other respects the local boards will function as before. Each division will have a superintendent and two assistants for supervision, the superintendent sets advising the board

The local district will retain its financial responsibilities except that of paying the teacher

For the payment of the teachers' salaries, the money levied in the units all the twenty divisions in one taxing area, with a general board consisting of the chairman of each division board. The general board fixes rate of pay, draws up its budget and fixes a minimum mill rate for the area. Pay cheques would be issued from the general office

The advantages of this are

1. Greater financial stability. Regional crop failures, etc affect single areas, but not the general province

2 A more general distribution of cost.

3. The appointment of a general salary schedule, adequate to the responsibility of the profession.

6-3 Win For Veg. Monday

Twas the same old story last Mon day night in the hockey fixture that brought the locals into contact with the Vermilion Elks, and incidentally which the visiting team won by a 6-3 score. Seven men on a team are not enough to play against a nine or ten man team, and this is what the locals have been up against all season. Monday night saw the score tied in the third period at three all, the strain was too much, however, and the boys wilted in the final 15 minutes and the Vegreville crew ran in three goals to clinch the encounter Every man on the Elks' team with the exception of the goalie was relieved several times during the game, and their forward line was changed several times each period. Along with this they worked a smooth combination which netted them four out of their six counters

Vegreville got away in the first period with a two-goal lead Every Lee dashing the hoop and Weber getting the second on a pass from Hum phries after a face-off Hansen broke through early in the middle canto and scored a pretty goal, only to have Lee get a soft one which was nobody's fault. The period ended three to one

Fireworks started in the third stanza. Hansen proved another star of the mid Hashirk had tough luck in a fine try, but turned the trick a minute later and tied up the score at three all Lark of some began to tell on the locals, and the Vegreville Elks were by a smooth combination, were there for three goals in the final ten minutes Humphreys got the fourth goal for the visitors and Furtl, on a pass from Lee got another, while Lee finished off the scoring on a pass from Humphries

The game was clean, only one penalty being handed out. Bert Williams handled the game in his usual efficient style.

4. A lessening of responsibility for much teaching.

The results expected are:

1. Full time operation of all elementary schools.

2. Better provision for secondary education. The large scale co-operation would make possible rural high school centres especially adapted to the needs of rural young people.

3. A fairer distribution of educational cost.

4. The retaining of more of the experienced teachers, through more attractive condition, thorough supervision, greater stability in holding teachers, the elimination of the ineffici ent.

5. Greater harmony in rural district through the removal of the source of champion neighbor quarrels, the choice of a teacher

6. A simplification of tax collecting

Third Coldest Day In Eighteen Years

The 40 degrees below zero registered at Edmonton on Sunday morning was the third coldest day experienced there in 18 years, and only three degrees warmer than the cold record for that city According to the capital city statistics, in January, 1927, 50 below was reached and in January, 1911 47 below were not the low record So when you hear old timers talk of the good old days of 70 below winters, you can take it with a grain of salt Edmonton official records during the present cold spell have been consistently higher than the temperatures of this district.

Lloydminster Enters Provincial Play-Off

Game Here is Postponed

The final league game scheduled for Vermilion to meet Thursday night has been indefinitely postponed, as the rest Lloydminster crew have entered into the provincial play-offs, and are to play their opening game on the following Friday evening, with the prospects of a hard hockey week in store for them.

The Lloyd boys are entered in the intermediate section of the Alberta play-downs and are scheduled to meet the Edmonton city winners to start with. The winners of the intermediate section then meet the senior Alberta representative for the right to play for the Allen Cup

Burns' Concert and Dance A Big Success

The annual concert and dance given in honor of the immortal memory of the poet Burns under the auspices of the Saint Andrew's Society on Friday evening of last week in the Commercial Hall was a most enjoyable and successful occasion The programme rendered at the concert was all a very fine one indeed, among the talent taking part as soloists being J. W. E. Markle, Mrs. Nowlove, Myrtle McDonald, Mrs. Herbbert and Mrs. Strachorn. Exceedingly fine violin selections were given by Messrs. Swindlehurst and Hale of the agricultural college orchestra. Little Margaret Jones rendered a piano selection. Pamela Johnston, the well known youthful singer of Scottish song, drew hearttimed applause in his numbers Mr. W. R. Sifford gave several comic sketches. Pipe Major McKinnon and chairman and also gave an inspiring address on the life and works of the great poet.

The programme of dances included several exhibition Scotch dances and the Kilties Pipe-Major McKinnon supplied music on the bagpipes. The music for the dancing was by the Three Star orchestra. Refreshments under the directions of the refreshment committee were served at midnight, although the night was hilariously cold there were 300 in attendance all had "the time of their lives."

In his address on Burns, Mr. Boyd made mention of the fact that it was on the evening of January 5th, 1909, that the first Burns anniversary was held in Vermilion—just twenty years ago that night. The dinner was held at the pioneer hotel "on relation" tendance all had "the time of their lives."

BURNS BUYS CREAMERY AT LLOYDMINSTER

One of the big business deals that have taken place in Lloydminster recently was the purchase of the Producers' creamery by the Pat Burns Co. Ltd. A. F. Lucas, H. Hansen is the new manager of this plant and has already taken up his residence in the town.—Lloydminster Times.

Dr. J. A. Moss President Western Canada Fairs

Winnipeg, Jan. 26th. — Dr. J. A. Moss, Carman, was chosen President to head the Western Canada Fairs' Association, at his annual convention just concluded. Other officials named were: Ralph Patterson, Red Deer, 1st vice-president; S. Rabel, Weyburn, Sask., 2nd vice-president; J. Hodge, Lloydminster, secy treasurer. Winnipeg was selected as the venue of the next meeting.

Boots and shoes manufactured in Canada for the first ten months of 1928 totalled 17,180,229 pairs, an increase of nearly a million pairs over the similar period of 1927. Of the total, 66 per cent were for women, thirty-one per cent for men, and the balance of twenty-three per cent for children.

ISLAY ITEMS

Mr. Jelinch, an old-timer of Dewberry, died at the Wainwright hospital on Monday.

Ernest H. Moore worked his stump out early at cutting last week and got a heavy and which nearly caused him double pneumonia, had not Dr. Kosco ordered him up to the hospital where he could get proper treatment.

Miss Smith, whose home is north of Manawille, is the new postmistress at the end of the hospital.

Ernest Johnson has put in a plant line charging wet batteries in the Scrivo garage.

The new lights are a great advantage, as we now enjoy a 24-hour service at a cheaper rate.

Messrs. Urva McFadyen, W. G. and W. L. Roebuck, J. W. Shaw, H. D. Hampton and Chas. Mooney attended the tractor school at Vermilion last week. Good-bye, hereon.

Two big sleigh loads of young people went up to the dance at Morrison school last Friday night. The orchestra, "Islay Night Hawks" consisting of Chas. Shaw, Chas. and Harry Young, and Claud Underwood furnished the music Some of the young people got slipped with frost.

A dance is to be held at Kessell-worth next Friday evening.

Islay Municipal Hospital ratepayers are called to attend the annual meeting at Dewberry, Feb. 8th at 2 p.m.

The annual meeting of the United church is called for Monday evening, Feby. 11th. A full attendance is requested.

J. E. Miller put a coal oil heater in the basement of his store, which filled everything with smoke. The hotel had an overhead heater which also gave caused a serious fire had it not been discovered in time

Mr Arey, lodger keeper at the bank has been transferred to Camrose

Thos. Graham had his foot frozen last winter and had to have the toe amputated at the hospital the week.

A delightful entertainment was given by the Riverside, dance and with colored comedians, who had a good audience considering the cold weather

There are about a dozen candidates looking for the position of the representative for the Wheat Pool in this constituency on the Provincial organ ticket

Two errors in my report last week: Mr. Demuth, Sr. is still at the hospital, not Mrs. Demuth. Also I do not want to offend a young gentleman lately at bed and attended to by calling him "baby" instead of Bobby Ennis. (Will it help any if the compiler takes a certain amount of the blame for the above?—Comp.)

Berry we missed the hockey game in Vermilion Monday night, etc. Nuff ced

MOOSOWA RESIDENT DIES FROG LAKE — George Henry, of Moosowa, died at the R's Point hospital last week from pneumonia, contracted after a stroke of paralysis. Mr. Henry, who was about thirty-five years of age, was well known here, having lived on the Saddle Hill for several years. He had just completed building a hotel in the new town of Lindberg a few weeks ago. Sympathy is extended to his wife and two small children, his parents and brother. — (Edmonton Journal.)

Remarkable Programme Arranged for the Telephone Dance

The third weekly meeting of the Vermilion Telephone Employees' Association for the Advancement of Turpsichorean Dexterity was held on Tuesday on the roof of the Imperial Block, kindly lent for the occasion by Mr. Harry Armstrong.

As this was the last meeting before the big dance on February 7th, the greater part of the evening was taken up in discussing the various items of programme in connection with the big event. It was unanimously agreed that all the expenses of the dance should be borne by the Alberta Provincial Government and a delegation was appointed to visit Edmonton and interview Premier Brownlee with the object of getting the necessary grant. This delegation will leave Vermilion on Monday next. Another item was the full membership of the association, as small we envy in-phone subscriber in Vermilion and district.

Miss MacKay pointed out that there would be considerable expense connected with the dance, and it was agreed that a committee of four members was appointed to interview the Vermilion Board of Trade with a view to arranging for a grant from that body to cover this very necessary initial expense.

A timely reminder by Mr. MacKinnon brought to light the fact that the members of this committee would likely be out of pocket through loss of time spent in interviewing the Town Council, and he did not think they should be expected to bear this loss person ally. Mr Allnutt was therefore appointed a committee of one to attend the next Vermilion school board meeting with instructions to collect enough cash from the trustees to meet any financial loss likely to be entailed.

Free from financial worry, the association next discussed the program for the evening of Feb. 7th.

All were in favor of serving prizes for the dancing events, and all agreed that novelty should be an outstanding feature of the program. Mrs Herne, in a stirring speech, said that, although it was customary to carry on the dancing from 9 p.m. till 3 a.m., many people found this unnecessary She was strongly of the opinion that the dancing events should be interspersed by musical and novelty items, and suggested that these should be provided by members of the association, all of whom possessed marked talents in various forms. Mrs Herne's proposition was eventually adopted, and the following tentative programme was drawn up. It should, however, be noted that the promoters reserve the right to change the program without notice

PROGRAM

1. One-legged Waltz Ladies to dance with left foot, and gentlemen with right Unused legs to be held pointed toward back. (1st prize: 1 cent glass pyrex cambiole.)

2. Soprano Solo, by Mr. Alfred Allnutt, entitled "I never look for trouble, 'cause trouble looks for me."

3. Novelty One-Step Ladies to dance with both feet on front floor inches from the door, and gentlemen to dance on hands, keeping the elbows pointed toward back. (1st prize: 1 cent glass pyrex cambiole.)

4. Recitation, by Miss Alice Mc Lean. Miss Mabel Will recite the first four chapters of the "Telephone Directory."

5. Kneeling Match, between Mac Eater MacKinnon and Miss Mantor Macdonald. First three out of five falls to decide winner Catch as-catch can rules

6. Biz Special Event. $100 in cash to any person who can reveal the following formula five thousand times in one minute "The most popular dance of the year will be held in the Community Hall on Thursday, February 7th, under the auspices of the Vermilion Post of the Alberta Government Telephone. I should go! I should go! I want to go! By gosh, I'm going!"

Proposed School Act Considered

Number of Districts Ask That Vote Be Taken

A public meeting called for the purpose of considering the proposed changes in the school act, was held in Vermilion on Saturday. The school board of Vermilion, Vermilion Heights, Island Hill, Pelican Lake, Kendrewth, Campbell Lake, Bonvalet, Silver Edward, Vermilion Centre, Turkey Hill and Gap Lake.

W J Castorton was moved to the chair and J. L. Bridgey appointed secretary.

The chairman called upon Mr. Parlour to explain the proposed act. Mr Parlour read the proposed solution, which was followed by questions and a general discussion, resulting in the passing of the following resolution:

N. McClellan—H. A. Searle: That this meeting go on record as not voting in favor of the legislation as has been passed until a vote of the people be taken at the next annual meeting of the rural districts of the province and the vote sent to the Minister of Education.

A. E. Searle—Geo Sheppard: That a copy of the resolution passed at this meeting be forwarded to Mrs. A. M. Hooper, secretary of trustees convention and also to the Minister of Education.

—Carried

It was the general opinion of all present that each school district should send a delegate to the trustees convention at Lethbridge, if at all possible.

After votes of thanks had been passed to Mr. Parlour and the Town of Vermilion for use of hall), the meeting adjourned.

FIRE BRIGADE HAVE RUN IN 46 BELOW WEATHER

The chimney of the old Arrowsmith house, now occupied by Mr. Smith was the cause of an alarm at 6 p.m. last Saturday The fire boys made a quick run to the scene of the blaze and soon extinguished it, with very little damage done.

AUTO INSURANCE RATES ARE INCREASED

Winnipeg, Jan. 26.—Automobile insurance rates were raised by 27 per cent Saturday at a meeting of the Western Canada Insurance Underwriters' Association. Maximum rises were made in public liability and property damage coverage where an advance of fifty per cent is provided. Under these changes the insurance now payable by they suffered the most serious losses during 1928

In the color scheme of life it is almost as easy to blacken a man's character as to whitewash it.

THE GIRL GUIDES

We take this opportunity to thank those who have supported the Guide movement during the past year.

We have been especially indebted to J. V. Bedington, Lyle Robinson, Bob Ball, and Rev. F. J. Sorensen for sacrificed time and money in assisting the Guides in Edmonton.

Whether the Guides undertook to raise money by means of a concert, they were most generously assisted by Miss M. Hanson, Mrs. J. W. Newlove, Mrs. H. C. Heckbert, Miss G. Bury, Mrs. L. McLean, T. Watts, R. Rowsell, J. W. E. Markle, W. B. Ford, Marwood and Gilbert Brimacombe.

May I thanks are due to the editor of the Standard who has been a splendid friend to the Guides from their inception in Vermilion, and we must not forget our constant and valued friend Dr. J. J. Knell, who is at present giving us instruction in First Aid

Our company is at present at the tent of sixty-eight dollars. As many as were from the financial statement, the Guides have this year been equipped with uniforms, badges, etc., an expense which will not be necessary next year. The Guides are very thankful to the people of the town to turn out strongly in support of the dance in the Commercial Hall on May 24th, in aid of the Girl Guides. Refreshments will be served and a six piece orchestra will be in attendance Admission one dollar Parents please note that the dance is not for Guides, but in aid of the Guide movement.

Lloydminster Has Disastrous Fire

Sub-Zero Blaze is Fought By Firemen

Five buildings were totally destroyed, one badly and seven less or in a $50,000 fire which started in the Empress theatre building on Broadway last Wednesday night in Lloydminster

The buildings destroyed are the Empress theatre, Mrs. Coyne's candy store, Telford and Hodgins hardware store, Jayne confectionery and bakery, and the City rooming house operated by Chinese Benton's meat and grocery market was badly damaged but was saved from becoming a total loss by the heroic efforts of the fire brigade and citizens generally Miss Mary Coyne's candy store was the hardest hit, the Telford grocery and men's furnishing store also suffered damage to stock.

The damage is partly covered by insurance. The exact cause of the fire has not yet been ascertained.

Fire Swept Area to be Rebuilt

Messrs Coombes and Hudson are going to re-build their theatre, this time a solid brick structure on the old location Telford and Hodgins, and Mrs. Coyne are also commencing re-building.

Vermilion Loses To Lloydminster

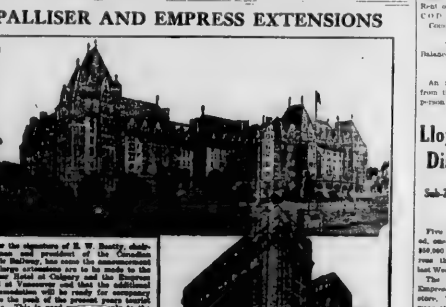
Borderites Win Rough Game by 5-4 Score

A fight which started between Hanson and Lesetick and which spread among the players until it threatened to become a free for all, featured the border league game at Lloydminster last Thursday night, when the Lloyd team won victory over the V.A.A.A. bunch by a 5-4 score. A perfect goal was scored by Vermilion and everyone of the goal judge behind the Lloyd nets saw it, he evidently didn't—at any rate it wasn't counted and the game gone down as a win for the border town boys. Only seven men made the trip, Geo Scoabeck is still out with an injured leg and Jack Mackee who was on the sick list. Chas Shaw-Welch was in goal for the locals and turned in a good game The report of the game emanating from the border town is as follows:

"The Lloydminster Elks, leaders of the Border hockey league, defeated the Vermilion team here last night 5-4 in a game that was inclined to be rough Neither team played their regular systematic game, but it was interesting from the spectator's point of view Hanson scored the first goal on a pass from Hicks and Lesetick Lawlor retrieved the puck from behind the Vermilion net and played on the skate of a forward pass to Hanson and it rebounded in the goal to even the score. Before the period ended Wicks caught a pass from Nelson behind the goal and scored, giving the visitors a one-goal lead The locals scored two goals in the second period, R Bradley scoring on a long shot from the blue line Murray took the puck down the ice and passed to Lee who returned and Murray scored. The locals scored the prettiest goal of the evening in the third period when the Bentley brothers and Lee with went down three abreast, R Bentley penetrating the lamp. Lee with and J Bentley scored a pass to easily in the next goal on some pretty combination The last two goals of the game were scored by Vermilion, Hansen and Hashirk getting one each

Extraordinary Fox News Reel At The Columbia Theatre Vermilion, Last Week End

A Fox News reel, shown at the Columbia theatre last week end, was outstanding in that it depicted the actual eruption of Mt. Vesuvius and the horrors of which followed during the past summer. A Fox news man was right on the ground and took the actual unloosing of the lava, the crushing of buildings and general destruction of everything in the road of the liquid rock

PALLISER AND EMPRESS EXTENSIONS


Over the signature of E. W. Beatty, chairman and president of the Canadian Pacific Railway, has come the announcement that large extensions are to be made to the Palliser Hotel at Calgary and the Empress Hotel at Victoria, and that the additional accommodation will be ready for occupancy before the peak of the present years tourist traffic. This is good news not only to the two cities more directly concerned where a total of more than four million dollars will be spent in the work, but to the whole list of centres of the north to whom the Canadian Pacific is a landmark.

When Calgary read of the four storey frame which will add 200 rooms and baths to the city's hotel accommodation, there was a thought of Hampden rook, and the thousands who come in from all points of the compass, clamouring for accommodation and joining the roll of Cowboys, Indians and old timers who for one week drop back to the color, romance, gaiety and sport of the early days.

Calgary is a steadily progressive city. Its trade and commerce continue to expand. It is a great city of the plains and the Palliser will be no spacious and beautiful as to flatter to city and the times.

The "Chinese" addition of $70 rooms with bath above above will also be appreciated by an ever increasing number to whom the quiet English city of the Pacific coast holds unusual appeal. The new wing will be a beautiful structure carrying out the chateau type of architecture exemplified by the old building. When, however, its walls become ivy clad and its stone lines and turnstiles are covered by the foliage it will lose nothing and fit still more with the background of holly hedges and box-wood trimmings.

When these two extensions are completed Canadians may take still more pride in a chain of Canadian owned and operated hotels which extends from coast to coast and in point of view of service, comfort and appointments is second to none in the world.

Time For Expansion In Sheep Industry

Can Be Greatly Developed In Canada Says Expert

In a review of the sheep industry, A. A. MacMillan, chief of the sheep division of the Dominion livestock branch, says the time seems opportune to gradually expand the industry in keeping with consumptive demand provided the marketing of lambs can be organized on the basis of regulated marketing extending over the whole period.

The sheep industry can be developed from the range standpoint alone in practically every province in the Dominion, but from the standpoint of British Columbia, while in eastern Canada many thousands of sheep are kept, the average one per cent of the number they should carry, the report states.

CHILDHOOD AILMENTS

Can be Quickly Banished With Baby's Own Tablets.

The ailments of childhood are many but nine-tenths of them are due to disorders of the stomach and bowels. Indeed nearly all of the minor ailments that afflict little ones are directly traceable to some disorder of the digestive organs and by keeping the stomach and bowels regular and the stomach sweet and pure these troubles may be prevented.

Baby's own medicine for little ones has had such success as has Baby's Own Tablets. They banish colds, teething troubles, break up colds and simple fevers, correct diarrhoea and colic and promote healthful sweet sleep by regulating the functions of the stomach and bowels. Concerning them Mrs. E. M. Brown, Walton, N. S., writes: "I cannot speak too highly of Baby's Own Tablets as I have found them excellent for childhood ailments."

Baby's Own Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box. The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Inventor Of Many Electrical Devices

J. W. Legg, Who Died Recently, Was Wave Scientist

The death occurred in Wilmington, Pa., of Joseph Willard Legg, inventor and one of the foremost authorities in the field of oscillography, or wave phenomenon. He was 61 years old. A member of the meter engineering staff of the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing company, Mr. Legg developed many electrical devices, his greatest invention being the "vibrator," a small portable oscillograph extensively used in many branches of study. The instrument is now being used in St. Louis in experiment to help deaf persons to speak by making visual records of their voice waves.

One has been taken by Commander Richard E. Byrd on his Antarctic expedition, where it will be used in the study of radio "dead spots" and the reflection of radio waves. Its other uses include measurement of nerve responses, measuring intelligence, for the study of speech, especially for the hearing of wells, measuring ship and train vibrations and, one of its most important phases, its use as an electric cardiograph to make a complete permanent record of the action of the heart.

"Flu" Is Here In Dead Earnest

SICKNESS IN NEARLY EVERY HOME IN WESTERN CANADA.

Watch your little cold—beware of everyone who is coughing or sneezing—avoid crowded places, above all stop your grippy cold at the beginning.

Doctors and nurses who have had long experience in handling grippe cases advise Catarrhozone vapor as an effective means of protection.

It is very simple to use Catarrhozone, and the whole family can enjoy its germ-killing protection at the cost of a few cents.

Put a teaspoonful of liquid Catarrhozone in a pot of water. Place this on a stove or lamp and bring the water to a boil. The vapor which rises contains the most powerful disinfectants. As you breathe this healing vapor, you kill the germs that cause colds, grippe, throat and grippe. Splendid for children, equally good for the parents. Far better to protect the whole family in this way than to have a household of sickness. All druggists sell Catarrhozone in 50c. bottles.

THE HOLY SCRIPTURES

Golden Text: Open thou mine eyes, that I may behold wondrous things out of thy law. Psalm 119:18.

Lesson: Nehemiah 8:1-8; Psalm 19; Jonah 1:1, 2; 2 Kings 22:8-20; Nehemiah 8:1-6; Psalm 19:7-14; Luke 24:25-32; Acts 17:10-12; 2 Timothy 3:14-17.

Devotional Reading: Psalm 119 105-112.

Explanations and Comments

The Value of The Scriptures. Psalm 19:7-11—The law of Jehovah, the testimony of Jehovah, the precepts of Jehovah, the commandment of Jehovah, the ordinances of Jehovah —all of these expressions are terms for the Scriptures of the Old Testament, especially for the Sacred Law which they contain. "The Christian Church has legitimately extended the words to the larger body of Scripture which forms the Bible." Thus the Psalmist declares, is perfect, restoring the soul; sure, making wise the simple; right, rejoicing the heart; pure, enlightening the eyes—"imparting refreshment and vigor to the soul, giving new life and hope; dying eyes are glazed, a sick man's eyes are heavy and dull, health brightens them"; true, and righteous altogether.

The fear of Jehovah is clean, enduring for ever. "When among the Jews," says each clearly significant of the Scriptures, the Psalmist introduces the abstract expression 'the fear of the Lord,' he must mean the awe, the obedience, the discipline and inspiration of the Book whose praise is the burden of his song" (George Adam Smith).

More to be desired are they than gold; yea, than much fine gold. The Word like a deep, deep mine, And jewels rich and rare Are hidden in His mighty depths For every searcher there."

Then with heart aglow, the Psalmist cries, "More to be desired are they than honey, and the dropping of the honeycomb"—the purest of the honey. "Moreover by them is thy servant warned; in keeping them there is great reward."

"If only we would obey the leadings of Christ, as the planets or the sun, our lives would be full of light and health and liberty. We should be restored to perfect health; our simplicity would make us wise, our desires would be gladdened; our eyes would be enlightened; our poverty enriched, and our dispositions sweetened" (F. B. Meyer).

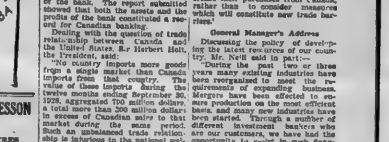
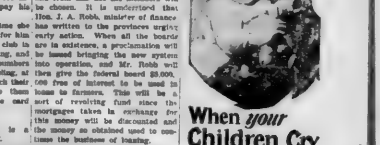
Wives Of Gamblers in Budapest Have Organized Union

A strange society has just been formed in Budapest. The wives of gamblers have banded themselves into an anonymous union, with the new leaning organization will be functioning before the spring break up.

The most important job now is to get the provincial boards appointed, the provincial boards appointed, and, therefore, six separate boards are required. The system to be followed is that the provincial governments will submit a list of names of suitable men to the federal board and from this list the members will be chosen. It is understood that Hon. J. A. Robb, minister of finance has written to the provinces urging early action. When all the boards are in existence, a proclamation will be issued bringing the new system into operation, and Mr. Robb will then give the federal board $8,000,000 free of interest to be used in loans to farmers. This will be a sort of revolving fund since the mortgages taken in exchange for this money will be discounted and the money so obtained used to continue the business of loaning.





The King government has undertaken to erect a huge grain elevator two and one-half miles from Prescott. This structure will seat 2,000,000 bushels and will be operated in connection with the present Lawrence river route at the same speed. In times of congestion railway cars can be loaded on four tracks at the same time.

Royal Bank Annual Meeting

The sixtieth annual meeting of shareholders of The Royal Bank of Canada marked the close of the most successful year in the history of the bank. The report submitted showed that both the assets and the profits of the bank constituted a record for Canadian banking.

Dealing with the question of trade relationship between Canada and the United States, Sir Herbert Holt, the President, said:

"We country's exports more goods from a single market than Canada receives from that country. The value of these imports during the twelve months ending September 30, 1928, aggregated 700 million dollars, a total more than twenty million dollars in excess of Canadian sales to that market during the same period. Such an unbalanced trade relation is ship is injurious to the national welfare of this country.

"In spite of the fact that the present trade relationship between the two countries is disproportionately favorable to the United States, there is active discussion of further tariff reductions by that country. We set out the few competitive items which Canada has legitimately extended the words to the larger body of Scripture which forms the Bible." Thus the Psalmist declares, is perfect, restoring the soul; sure, making wise the simple; right, rejoicing the heart; pure, enlightening the eyes—"imparting refreshment and vigor to the soul, giving new life and hope; dying eyes are glazed, a sick man's eyes are heavy and dull, health brightens them"; true, and righteous altogether.

The fear of Jehovah is clean, enduring for ever. "When among the Jews," says each clearly significant of the Scriptures, the Psalmist introduces the abstract expression 'the fear of the Lord,' he must mean the awe, the obedience, the discipline and inspiration of the Book whose praise is the burden of his song" (George Adam Smith).

More to be desired are they than gold; yea, than much fine gold.

The Word like a deep, deep mine,
And jewels rich and rare
Are hidden in His mighty depths
For every searcher there."

Then with heart aglow, the Psalmist cries, "More to be desired are they than honey, and the dropping of the honeycomb"—the purest of the honey. "Moreover by them is thy servant warned; in keeping them there is great reward."

"If only we would obey the leadings of Christ, as the planets or the sun, our lives would be full of light and health and liberty. We should be restored to perfect health; our simplicity would make us wise, our desires would be gladdened; our eyes would be enlightened; our poverty enriched, and our dispositions sweetened" (F. B. Meyer).

Training For The Blind

Need For More Varied Occupation Says Major Thomlin

Fifty per cent. of the blindness in the Dominion could be prevented if proper measures were taken by those liable to suffer injury to their eyes while at work or play, declared Major A. N. Thomlin, general manager of the Canadian National Institute of the Blind at a meeting of provincial field officials at the offices in Regina.

Major Thomlin is touring the country to observe the work of the institute and in his short talk pointed out the need of an intelligent and intensive training for the blind. He declared that with such training the blind could work at almost any occupation besides the standard basketwork, reed work and broom making. In Saskatchewan alone, he said, some 150 blind persons would thus be enabled to earn their own living and not be a burden on society.

He said that over $100,000 worth of goods made by the blind had been sold in this province in 1924 by the sales department through women's organizations. Of this sum the broom mine accounted for $25,000. The total sales for the Dominion and Newfoundland totalled one million dollars.

Germany Buys Douglas Fir

Canadian Product Seems to Meet Requirements for Special Purposes

Douglas fir because of its superior quality in clearness and strength, is the leading Canadian product to find a sale in the German market. It is increasingly substituting for spruce pipe, because of the latter's gradual increase in price, while at the same time it has to compete against supplies from Washington and Oregon. It appears regularly to fill requirements for special purposes, being used for interior finishing, decking and deck boards, while plywood and logs are also imported when price is competitive.

Help for Asthma. Neglect gives asthma a great advantage. The trouble, once it has secured a foothold, fastens its grip on the bronchial passages tenaciously. Dr. J. D. Kellog's Asthma Remedy is daily relieving cases of asthma of long standing. Years of suffering, however, might have been prevented had the remedy been used when the trouble was in its first stages. Do not neglect asthma, but use this preparation at once.

When your Children Cry for It

Baby has some special at times. But you can't prevent them. But you can be prepared. Then you will do what any experienced nurse would do—what most physicians would tell you to do—give a few drops of plain Castoria. No sooner done than baby is soothed; relief is just a matter of moments. Yet you have exactly your child without use of a single doubtful drug; Castoria is vegetable. So it's safe to use as often as necessary. Not any little pain you cannot put away. And it's always ready for the regular pangs of colic or constipation, or diarrhoea, effective, too, for older children. Twenty-five million bottles were bought last year.

WHEAT POOL NEWS BULLETIN

T. Cleveland of Dalesmay, who raised over 50,000 bushels of wheat last year, has signed a Wheat Pool contract. He will seed 600 acres this year.

When the 3c per bushel farm storage payment came into effect on January 16th, the receipts at Alberta Pool elevators almost doubled for a considerable period. 300,000 bushels a day were received for some considerable time.

Scores of meetings have been held by Alberta Wheat Pool field service men throughout the Province. Every phase of the Pool movement is open for discussion at these meetings.

Great interest was taken in the hearing held by the Grain Commissioners on the question as to whether or not Pool members can direct their grain through line elevators to Pool terminals. A. A. MacQuarrie, solicitor for the grain dealers, held that a Pool member had relinquished this right when he signed a Pool contract. H. M. Porter, Alberta Pool solicitor, maintained that the Pool farmer had not deprived himself of this right given under the Canada Grain Act.

E. R. Ramsay, manager of the Canadian Wheat Pool, was in Calgary for several days conferring with the directors of the Alberta Pool. Mr. Ramsay addressed a Pool meeting at Olds on the night, of Friday, January 16.

Agricultural Short Course at Olds

Announcement is made of a special agricultural short course which will be held in the Olds School of Agriculture from February 11 to February 23. This will be given by the teaching staff and organization of the College of Agriculture and will provide an opportunity for the farmers of the province to obtain in a short time first-hand knowledge of the work being carried on at the University for the betterment of agriculture in the province. The course is designed to meet the needs of farmers and others who are anxious to secure this information without spending the time or the money involved in taking a complete winter's course. Lectures and demonstrations will be given in connection with soils, field and garden crops, common insect and disease pests, farm engineering, live stock, poultry and common diseases of animals. It is made clear in the announcement that there will be no fees, no entrance requirements and no examinations imposed on the candidates. Those interested in attending the course are asked to communicate with Dean E. A. Mowes of the College of Agriculture at the University.

Alberta Has Large Park Areas

Out of the 11,574 square miles devoted to national parks throughout the Dominion, Alberta has 5,364 square miles. There are seven park areas in the province, the largest being Jasper National Park with an area of 1,380 square miles. Rocky Mountain National Park is next in size with 1,761 square miles and the remainder is made up as follows: Buffalo Park, 197 66 square miles, Elk Island 5! square miles, Nemiskam 8 96 square miles, Waterton Lakes 54 square miles and Waterton 270 square miles.

Work Continues on Highways

The graveling of section of the Red Trail between Macleod and Lethbridge has been completed by the contractors, McDonald & Foster and their gravel-crushing outfit has been moved to within a few miles of Pincher Creek from where work is being started on the graveling of the section of road between that point and Macleod. On the completion of this work, Leth bridge will be connected by free and weather roads through to Crow's Nest on the west and Edmonton on the north.

Dairy Association Holds Annual Meeting

The annual convention of the Alberta Agricultural Dairy Association will be held in Calgary on February 24 and 25. At this gathering approximately 125 delegates will be in attendance representing agricultural fairs in all parts of the province. Arrangements for the meeting have in charge of V. E. Forster of Camrose, president of the association, H. Huxley of Lloydminster, secretary and S. H. Ferguson, Superintendent of Fairs and in attendance for the province.

Dairy Industry Rapidly Growing

A new high mark in the value of the poultry industry in Alberta has been set during the 1926 year, according to the annual report of the Poultry Commissioner, J. H. Hare. Figures arrived at by the Commissioner and the Canadian Bureau of Statistics show that the numbers of the various kinds of poultry in Alberta during the 1926 were as follows: 1,396,214 turkeys; 2,945,32; geese; 99,265 ducks; 5,696,156 other fowl; a total of 4,213,706 as compared with 3,463 men in 1925. The total valuation increase in the value of poultry is shown in the fact that the value of eggs sold in 1926 as against $1,521,-in 1927

Short Course Given for Wood Workers

The attention of farmers and others interested in wood control and scaling is drawn to the fact that a short course specially designed for wood inspectors will be offered at the University of Alberta by the provincial Department of Agriculture from February 28 to March 1. Instruction will be given during the course in the interpretation of The Noxious Weeds Act, in the identification of weeds and all other subjects having direct bearing on the question of weed control. The candidates who satisfactorily pass an examination at the termination of the course will be given a diploma by the Minister of Agriculture, qualifying them as weed inspectors, and will be there to prescription for those districts requiring such services. Applications for attendance at this course should be received at the office of Field Crops Commissioner W. J. Stephen before February 22nd

Combines Numerous in Alberta

Some 1,096 combine harvesters were purchased in Alberta in 1926 being of the total number in operation in the province up to 1,514 according to a survey recently conducted by a weekly farm paper. Purchases in the three prairie provinces during the year totalled 3,857 of which 2,354 were in Saskatchewan and the remainder 206 in Manitoba. The sales in the three provinces are in 1926 exceeded those of 11 p.c. over the sales in the previous year

Tuberculosis Stamped out in Cattle

Supplies of anti-toxin have been sent by the provincial Department of Health to Bellevue and Fort Smith in order to combat any possible outbreaks of diphtheria in the territory reported. Fortunately, however, Smaller quantities have been supplied than in the recent deliveries by air to Red River Settlement; 300,000 units having been sent to McMurray, and 100,000 to Fort Smith for dispatch from there points to Hay River and Chipewyan.

This Changing World

Annual stock-taking is a wise procedure on the part of every individual and nation; it is absolutely essential in the case of the man in business if he is to make a success of the enterprise in which he is engaged. This is true whether the man be the manager of a large industrial concern, or the owner of a small country store. It also applies to the man who is engaged in the business of farming because to succeed he must know where he made money and where he lost it; he must find the leakages before he can plug up the holes.

Any such stock-taking should include a study of the trend of business throughout the country and the world to the extent that such study is possible. Especially, in view of the close commercial relations existing between them, and the fact that they do a larger business with each other than with any other country, the people of Canada and the United States should understand not only what is taking place in their own country, but also in the neighboring country. For these reasons recent analysis of United States business in 1928 as compared with 1927 are of value to Canada.

These comparative studies reveal some startling developments and trends in business. For example, coal output decreased 6.1 per cent. and petroleum production 0.9 per cent., while the output of electricity increased 9.2 per cent., thus indicating the rapidity with which electric power is overtaking steam power. Railway carloadings dropped 0.6 per cent. and gross tonnage became by millions of dollars. Despite the increased freight movement by motor trucks progressed over a larger mileage, and mail and express movements were heavier, while the output of automobiles increased 24 per cent., thus showing the latter country's trend to road transportation of commodities.

Department store sales increased 1.1 per cent., mail order sales jumped 14.9 per cent., and chain store sales 17.1 per cent. On the other hand wholesale trade fell off 1.5 per cent., indicating steady progression in more direct selling from producer to consumer, a movement of great value. The effects of this development is found in the increase of 1.3 per cent. in the number of commercial failures, notwithstanding the year was one of great production, large construction and prosperity.

The modern trend in the larger use of electricity, more and still more and efficient machinery, and more direct and rapid transportation is emphasized by the fact that, in a year of amazing growth in production and construction, employment decreased 3.5 per cent. In contrast with this is the fact that union wage rates were 0.4 per cent. higher, indicating that workmen have been decreased employment, those in employment were paid slightly higher wages.

The buying power of United States farmers rose 6 per cent., revealing an improvement in the agricultural situation, while profits rose 11 per cent., savings bank deposits 8.9 per cent., life insurance sales 5 per cent.

The above figures would seem to indicate certain factors and lessons deserving of earnest consideration by all business men. The fact that business profits rose 11 per cent. but business failures increased indicates that the business man who keeps himself informed of, and adjusts his operations in accordance with, changing conditions succeeds while the uninformed and ultra-conservative loses out. To the artisan, clerk and working man the figures seem to say that in this machinery age the man with knowledge and initiative, in a word, the efficient man, is in demand and at even higher wages, while the inefficient finds increasing difficulty in securing work.

The same economic forces are at work in Canada as in the United States, and the same tendencies may be noted, the only difference being that this country is not so highly industrialized and has much greater natural resources still in an undeveloped state calling for upward labor. In the commercial world, especially in the retail merchant class, the problem of the mail order house, the chain store, the consolidation of merchandising in the hands of great concerns, and the allied problems of transportation and marketing are becoming quite acute, and will be but to go under the small dealer must meet these changing conditions. He cannot do it alone, single-handed, but his chances of success are good through co-operation.

In the past few years, and particularly in 1928, a great change has taken place on our western Canada farms through the introduction of the combine—the motor truck. And the building of good roads. Through these means production will be increased on the one hand, while less human labor will be required—that is, there is the same tendency in agriculture as in manufacturing industry. This means that, large as western farms are on the average compared with other countries, they will, as operating units become larger, with all the changes involved. Here, too, the further application of co-operative principles and methods will make for success.

The world will not stand still. It is moving forward at an ever faster pace and he who would stay in the procession be he merchant, mechanic, farmer or clerk, must be capable and equipped to move with it. The basis foundation of such equipment is to be wide a knowledge as possible of the current trend of events, and the accepted methods of coping with the changes and developments so rapidly taking place.

"Blue Blood" Defined

"Blue blood," designating an aristocrat, had its origin in the peculiar belief that the veins of the high-born carried blood of a purer deeper hue than those of a plainer people. This misapprehension probably arose from the fact that sheltered, leisure-loving nobles had a quantity of thin blood which showed their blue veins through which the blue invisibility of the veins was more clearly seen.

What Farming Is

Not Merely A Business But Building A Home

When a buyer goes hunting a farm his first question often is, "What is the location of the property in relation to schools, churches, highways, markets and shipping points?" Farming is more than a business. Farming is living, building a home, rearing children and educating them.

Here is where community life comes into the picture. When people take an interest in neighborhood affairs; when they help to improve their schools, their churches, their roads, they are improving their own surroundings and adding to the value of their farms.

He is a very calloused buyer indeed, who recognizes not only a farm in a district where the community life is dull, and where schools and churches, physically and spiritually, are in a state of bad repair.

NEW HEALTH FOR TIRED-OUT WOMEN

Found in the Rich, Red Blood Dr. Williams' Pink Pills Often Restore Vigor

Anaemia comes on gradually, beginning with loss of interest—indisposition to mental or bodily exertion, breathlessness and a feeling of fatigue after the slightest exertion. Palpitation of the heart, headaches, frequent backaches, a disturbed digestion and nervousness and inability to obtain rest at night, follow. Then the pale, tired girl becomes more serious but if taken in time, no need to worry. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, which are free from any harmful drug, are just the tonic needed to restore the enriched state of health. These pills actually make new, rich, red blood that stimulates and strengthens every tissue and nerve in the body. Thus strength and activity return, the step becomes buoyant and restful sleep is had. What Dr. Williams' Pink Pills will do for you, is shown by the case of Mrs. D. B. Hall, Bay du Vin, N.B., who says:—"I was in a badly run-down condition. My blood was very watery, my appetite was very poor, and the least thing would leave me completely tired out. In fact I was hardly able to do much work about the house. I decided to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and after taking a few boxes can truthfully say that I am fully restored in health and strength and I was able to go right on with my work with no sign of the former weakness. I cheerfully recommend these pills to all others who may be in a run-down condition."

You can get the pills from your druggist or by mail at 50 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

The Architect's Sweet

Strange Memorial Has Been Fought For Three Hundred Years

In an ancient city of India stands what is often called the most splendidly poetic building of the world. It is the Taj-Mahal. The Taj Mahal, which was built by the Emperor Shah Jehan as a fond resting place for his favorite wife, Mumtaz Mahal. One of the princes of India some years ago told the following story regarding it: When the mausoleum was being built the architect was authorized to embody in the structure some memorial to himself. He kept his own counsel and when the edifice was completed it was found that he had succeeded well in this—that whenever it rains from high up in one of the domes three drops of water fall in succession to the floor below. No matter how hard it rains or for how long, three drops and only three descend to bear testimony of the architect's wisdom. Consequently three hundred years more have puzzled in vain to learn by what method this result was accomplished, and the secret still lies hidden within the marble masonry of that dome.

Recipes For This Week

(By Betty Barclay)

BAKED ORANGE CUSTARD

3 egg yolks
1 egg white
½ cup sugar
Few grains salt
Grated rind 1 orange
½ cup orange juice

Farm Machinery Purchases

Farmers Of Southern Alberta Made Heavy Investments Last Year

According to an estimate appearing in "The Lethbridge Herald," some $7,226,000 was spent in Southern Alberta during 1928 for new motors, trucks, tractors, combines and other such farm machinery. The classification is as follows: Automobiles and trucks, $2,500,000; Combines, $1,000,000; tractors, $1,350,000, and other machinery, $2,500,000. As harvest time a survey showed there were 501 combines and 2,250 trucks in operation on the Lethbridge railway division.

It Testifies for Itself.—Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil needs no testimonial of its powers other than itself. Whatever tries it for coughs or colds, toe cuts or contusions, for sprains or burns, for pains in the limbs or body, will know that the medicine proves itself and needs no guarantee. This shows why this Oil is in general use.

Good and Poor Crops Cost About the Same, But Profits Come From Use of Good Seed

Outside of a little extra expense in harvesting, the cost of producing a good crop and a poor one is about the same, but the profits to the grower of the two vary greatly. Usually an average crop barely pays the cost of growing, and a poor one registers a loss. On account of the overhead, which remains fairly constant, despite the yield, it is of prime importance to the producer to get the very highest returns possible from his land. In this connection the seed used is one of the most important factors. Farmers have no control over sunshine, moisture or storms. They have little protection against early or late frosts, but they have very definite control over seed.

It is to get protection by means of this control that the Provincial and Federal governments are co-operating in putting on better seed campaigns. "Clean, sound, plump, well graded seed will produce from 10 to 100 per cent. more per acre than unselected, ungraded seed," states Hon. John S. Martin, Ontario's Minister of Agriculture. Seeds are the most increased crop yields lower the cost of production and that the lowering of this cost is the best way to increase farm products. He advises the purchasing of the seed supply from reliable seed houses or carefully growers, from which, incidentally, the seed houses purchase their supplies, which are cleaned up by them and properly graded before being offered for sale.

Not only does dirty seed produce a smaller crop, but it is more costly because the poor grain will not yield as high an average as plump, clean graded seed, but there is a direct loss from the growth of the weeds in the supply. Weeds occupy a considerable portion of the land that should be occupied by the grain, and, in addition to this, going to seed usually before the grain crop is ready to harvest, they pollute the land for another year.

The cost of the seed is a minor factor. According to the Dominion Bureau of Statistics, the average yield of oats in Canada for the last ten years runs slightly under 31 bushels per acre, which at current prices may be worth $16. The extra cost of good, clean, graded seed over the commercial variety to seed one acre of oats would not amount to more than a dollar, but where this good graded seed is used, the return should give an increase of hundreds of figures, at the very least 40 bushels to the acre. In other words, for an expenditure of only one dollar the returns in dollars and cents would be increased by over $5 per acre.

The Purser's Reward

Received Two Half-Crowns From Millionaire For Special Attention

This story is told of a remarkable case of self-control on one of the largest liners on the Atlantic service. The name of the ship has been given instructions that a certain millionaire who was a passenger should receive special attention, and that everything should be done to make his trip thoroughly enjoyable. The purser saw to it that these instructions were carried out to the letter and the favored passenger was treated like a royal personage. He far so good.

At the end of the voyage the purser received a visit from him. He just wanted to tell you that I'm very grateful for all you have done for me," he said. "This has been the most delightful trip I have ever made, and I feel I'd like to make you a little present." With these words the millionaire pushed through the grill of the purser's office two half-crowns.

Without the flicker of an eyelid the purser picked up the coins. "Thank you very much, sir," he said "it is very kind of you." Then passing the money over his shoulder to a very subordinate member of his staff, he added: "Ded, I think this present should be given to Mr. Bond So, here, sir. You see, he's a married man."

Slaves To Ambition

Men Not Wholly Successful Who Cannot Enjoy Leisure

How much of your time and vitality should you give to business? This eternal question is raised afresh by the death of George M. Jones, chairman of Standard Oil of New Jersey, at 56, a victim of overwork. A poor boy, he early determined to prove helpful to his family. He became devoted to his job, made progress, found more and more to do, did it with zest and enthusiasm, took no time off for play. By the time he had won financial independence he had lost all taste for recreation. He was a chronic addict to work, more work and still more work. He was reversed by election to the chairmanship of the greatest Standard Oil company of them all. Devoted associates and friends strove to induce him to relax. But his love for work had become insatiable, and now he is dead, 20 years before his time.

Other men, not a few, are heading similar lives, shutting out all but their daily tasks, their single aim. Ambition enslaves them. They find satisfaction only in achievement. But achievement is a relative thing, and stepping stone to a fresh achievement. Only sickness, then death, can stop them.

Theodore Roosevelt declared he would rather wear out than rust out. Many men do both. Which would you the rod? In my humble judgement that man is not wholly successful who cannot enjoy leisure as well as to permit of a rational amount of leisure, relaxation and enjoyment of social pleasures.

Fertilizing Strawberries

Subject Studied By Treating Plants With Different Fertilizers On Different Dates

Unless crop growers who use commercial fertilizers make a study of the effects of applications to crop much valuable material may be lost. A study of the subject by the horticulturists of the Department of Agriculture, at Ottawa, leads to the conclusion that the season of application is a highly important factor where there is a deficiency of any particular plant food. The usefulness of spring applications of nitrogen, it was found, is largely dependent upon the growth habit of the plant in the previous fall. In a study of the subject the strawberry was used and treated with different fertilizer at different dates. The work was done by M. B. Davis and H. Hill, of the Horticultural Division of the Experimental Farms, and is described in a new pamphlet numbered 96, of the Department of Agriculture, which shows in coloured plates the appearance of the foliage of plants grown separately under conditions of deficiency in nitrogen, potash and phosphorics. It was clearly brought out that plants have been starved during the fruit bud formation period for either element, very early spring correction of the deficiency results in increased flower production and consequent yield of fruit.

Arranging For Speed Tests

British Auto Racer Expects To Travel at 240 Miles An Hour

Preparations are under way by the contest committee of the American Automobile Association to arrange for Major H. O. D. Segrave, British racing driver, to conduct speed tests at Daytona Beach, Fla., where he expects to travel 240 miles an hour.

Segrave's machine, the "Golden Arrow," is constructed on the principles of streamlining, the association announced, and is expected to reach a maximum speed design rather than brute strength.

The machine is powered by a 12 cylinder Napier airplane engine with the hood fitted over the engine like a glove. The length of the car over all is 25 feet, and its width six feet. It weighs two and one-half tons.

In first gear the machine is said to make 90 miles an hour, 160 miles an hour in second gear, and more than 240 miles an hour in top gear.

Ivy may be used to cool the water used in the engine.

Speed tests at Daytona Beach are expected to start in March, the association said.

The present record of 207.552 miles an hour is held by Ray Keech, American driver.

Flower Guide For All Canada

A New Edition Of a Most Useful Work Is Now Available

The bulletin "Annual Flowers," issued by the Department of Agriculture, at Ottawa, although published in large editions has had to be repeatedly reprinted to meet an extraordinary demand for it. A new edition of this wonderful useful work by Miss Isabella Preston, specialist in ornamental horticulture at the Experimental Farms, Ottawa, is a very attractive booklet, which not only describes the thousands of varieties but shows many of the blooms arranged in vases as well as general views of flower beds and borders.

This bulletin is useful as a guide in all the provinces, as it gives the names of twelve varieties that have done best at each of the twenty-one Experimental Farms and Stations distributed over the different provinces.

The booklet, which is Bulletin No. 60, and available at the Publications Branch, Department of Agriculture, Ottawa, is a trustworthy guide to one when studying the seed catalogues that arrive in the homes at this season of the year.

Land Production In Canada

Greater Part Of Land Produced In Canada Mined In B.C.

Much the greater part of the land produced in Canada comes from the territory of Tadanac, British Columbia, which treats land concentrates from the Sullivan land mine mine of Kimberley. The output of the mine far exceeds that of all other Canadian land mines put together. There is also a considerable production from numerous silver-lead and silver-lead-zinc mines in the Kootenay districts and other parts of British Columbia. The Yukon output is silver-lead ore from the Mayo district, that of Ontario is derived from galena, at the Galetta mine, in Carleton County; and Quebec's output is lead concentrates from the Noranda - Dame - Aunt - Angus lead-zinc mine.

Keeps Things Shining

United States Ships Shine Polish To Many Nations

Uncle Sam is one of the world's busiest boot-blacks. He helps shine the shoes of other nations.

This became evident when the Department of Commerce announced that 2,711,529 pounds of shoe polish valued at $766,326 was shipped by American firms to other countries during the first ten months of 1928.

The greater part of this went to provide glittering shoes and boots for Canada, Canadians in the South Americans. Europe, the report said, takes most of her polish at home.

On of the most striking statements issued recently by the British government in relation to the burden of debt entailed by the Great War, was the announcement made by the Minister of Pensions who said that by March, 1929, $1,300,000,000 would have been expended in pensions to injured and disabled ex-service men. This is an astounding statement, and speaks convincingly of Britain's gigantic effort in the terrible struggle of a decade ago. The number on its pension roll totals 970,000 comprising with dependent wives and families, 1,500,000 persons. Paid awards on life pensions were granted to 270,000 officers and men.

In the 11 years of its existence the department has spent a total of treasure, $750,000,000 in special allowances to patients and families during treatment $172,000,000 and in approving yearly grants which if work $10,000,000 since 1922 the Ministry of Pensions and the Ministry of Labor expended $240,000,000 in the training of ex-service disabled and other men in finding employment in all fields of activity, under all the various schemes in force.

Moreover the policy adopted of persuading employers to give work to disabled men has led to the employment of 300,000 men. The expenditure of the Ministry of Pensions for the current year is $243,000,000 and a further $2,500,000 for Germany $1,750,000,000. One credible feature of the statement is that the savings of unexpended money by the British Treasury, as well as providing for the recovery of the nation from the economic impoverishment caused by the war. It is a record of which the people of the British nations everywhere may well be proud.

Official Opening New High School Brilliant Function

"I regret that owing to the demands upon me consequent upon the impending meeting of the Legislature, it will be quite impossible for me to take advantage of the opportunity or participation in the ceremonies in connection with the official opening of your new High School at Tuesday, as I note with satisfaction the high level of interest maintained by the people of your district in the cause of education. The provision of adequate and up-to-date teaching facilities is one of the most important duties entrusted to local authorities. The provision of a well-equipped high school entails upon the district a very real financial burden. Happy indeed is the community which is ready to make cheerful sacrifices for the advancement of learning and the bettering of ideals of those who will in the coming years be called upon to take their part in controlling and shaping and guiding the life and destiny of our Province." —Premier Brownlee.

"I am glad to take this opportunity to express to the school board and the people of Vermilion my gratification at the enterprising spirit they have shown in meeting the educational needs of their growing community. To the school board, the teachers, the pupils, and the ratepayers I extend my hearty congratulations on the successful completion of this splendid undertaking." — Hon. Perrin Baker, Minister of Education.

"When one looks back over the last ten years at the difficulties that at one time confronted Vermilion, and the splendid way in which they have been met and surmounted, it speaks volumes for the ability and application of those who have been charged with the conduct of public affairs in the town. The new central heating system that you have installed is something that has been watched with keen interest by the people of Alberta generally and particularly by those in official positions in the Province. All credit must be given to the people of the town for the sound progress that has been accomplished in the last few years."—Hon. R. G. Reid, Provincial Treasurer and member for the Vermilion constituency

These messages were read at the commencement of the proceedings in connection with the formal opening of the new high school on Friday evening last and at which J. W. G. Morrison, as chairman of the school board, presided. The function took place in the assembly hall of the building and was attended by nearly 60 people. The hall itself was crowded and scores stood outside in the hallway unable to gain entrance.

The program opened with the singing of O Canada with Miss Jean Craig at the piano. The piano is a hand some new instrument recently purchased by the board of the school. Following a few brief remarks by the chairman and the reading of the let ters of regrets from the honorable ministers, short addresses were made by his worship Mayor Fallow and inspector Parker, both of whom spoke in terms of high praise of the fine facilities provided by the board for the higher education in the community. A solo by Mrs. Heckbert with Miss Edyth Lipsey as accompanist was most acceptably received by the audience. Mrs. Heckbert was prevailed upon to reply to a generous encore. Principal Elliott of the school of agriculture further complimented the board and the people on the splendid building that was about to be dedicated. He could find no fault with it anywhere. Every detail and every facility appeared to have been provided. The people were to be congratulated. He did not know of any better and more up-to-date building for high school purposes in the province of Alberta. Miss Jean Craig followed with a piano selection, which was beautifully rendered Mrs. Newton as regent of the local branch of the I.O.D.E. then presented the board with a valuable collection of books for the library on behalf of that organization. The presentation was graciously accepted by Dr. W. H. Brett, a member of the board, in which he thanked the donors and declared also the many others that had made similar presentations. The program was again varied and the people had the great pleasure of hearing for the first time the Vermilion male quartette, comprising Messrs. A. West, T. Waits, Constable Dixon and Mr. Mackie. The quartette had to reply to a most hearty encore The numbers were most pleasingly given and received unstinted applause from the gathering.

The formal dedication of the building was carried out by G. F. McNally, supervisor of high schools for the province and representing the minister of education and the government of Alberta. In his address Mr. McNally referred to the cost and value of education and the important part each played in the up-building of good citizenship and a great nation. He spoke also of the cause of education from the investment point of view, claiming that immaterial what the sacrifice might be there was no interest that gave all round greater returns. Mr. McNally concluded his speech with [illegible] building to the cause of education in the town and district. He called upon the pupils who tomorrow would be starting the destinies of the province. They to have here a responsible [illegible] all the modern facilities and appointments and pay special heed to the [illegible] for the noble work on building up great people in this province and in this Canada of ours. Some indeed a great heritage and a great opportunity."

After the close of the dedicatory the lady students of the school provided refreshments after which a program of dancing was carried out.

The architect of the school was Mr. W. H. Brett, S. R. P. Cooper, John Welsh and M. G. B'macombe

The high school staff comprises J. W. F. Markle, principal, J. W. Turner, vice-principal F. W. Addison and Miss D. Pendington.

From the hundreds of people that wandered through the building for the first time that evening not one word of complaint or criticism was heard. On the contrary all were loud in their praises of the fine appointments and arrangements of class rooms. The building as at present comprises six class rooms, an assembly hall, two office rooms and the hall are on the first floor and the remaining four rooms on the second floor. Here also are the library and the principal's office. The latter is on a raised floor over the main entrance. Safety Device For Miners

Copper Diggers in Mexico Wear Steel Hard Protection

A United States bureau of mines engineer reporting, following a recent visit to one of the big Mexican copper diggings, that the latter concern permitted no one, miner, manager or visitor, to go underground unless he wore a steel head protection. The company furnishes the helmets to the men at 50 cents each and replaces all damaged ones free of cost on one occasion a bomb of ore weighing 37 pounds fell through the top tagging, a distance of four feet and struck a miner squarely on top of the head. The steel hat was badly dented, but the man was uninjured, save for a slightly sprained neck. The company has on exhibition at the mine head a collection of several hats, all badly dented, that represent such a miner's life saved

Young Englishman Struck Fortune By Collected Large Sum Daily

In the opinion of G. K. Chesterton, complete social equality in England will not be achieved until a costermonger may wear a monocle without exciting remark. It would be interesting to have his comment on the discovery by the police of a professional beggar with a fortune. A woman, only 29, he was busily engaged in putting Mr. Ford's doctrine into practice and spending his easy earnings in ways which he thought to his own advantage when the authorities pounced on their curiously concerning the source and extent of his income. A country house, with costly equipped billiard room, is the other of his luxuries. His income produced by simulating palsy, has amounted to as much as $100 per day. Subway travelers, observing his pathetic figure, have been deeply touched, but few could guess his reward. The interruption of this engrossing occupation's activities, just at the threshold of the prosperous holiday season, must have been especially bitter.

Searching For Sunken Island

California Man Starts Fantastic Cruise Because of Dreams

A "dream island," sunk in the Pacific ocean off the California coast, is the destination of a fantastic cruise headed by R. M. Bransby, paving contractor, who has bought the steam yacht Peary from Donald B. MacMillan, explorer, for the expedition.

Bransby's island lies under 30 fathoms of water, which was first revealed to him in a dream while in Cleveland. So vivid was his dream and so haunting was the prospect of 20th century exploration and discovery in seas sailed for centuries by ships of every nation that Bransby set out in search of his island's grave in California.

A ship was chartered and he made soundings for days without success. He gave up the idea and was about to return when persistent prompting led to find his "dream island" caused him to charter an aeroplane for further search. He found it, plainly visible from the cockpit, he said, in 15 or 30 feet of water.

Now he means to build a breakwater about the place, pump the water from the bottom of the sea to make new land, and erect thereon a fishing and outing pavilion.

How Best to Use Vicks VapoRub After the Flu

Late Winter Colds Are Doubly Dangerous This Year; Don't Let Them Get a Start

AVOID PNEUMONIA OR A SERIOUS ATTACK OF FLU!

If you catch a fresh cold, don't keep it overnight. If possible, go home and go to bed. Take a hearty meal of hot food, apply hot wet towels over throat and chest until the skin is thoroughly reddened. Then rub vigorously with Vicks VapoRub. Use plenty and cover with warm flannel.

Leave the bed-covering loose, so that the vapors, released by the body-warmth, may be freely inhaled. At the same time, Vicks acts through the skin like a poultice.

Repeat this treatment every four hours, eat lightly, and stay in bed until the cold is broken. Complete rest helps the body throw off the cold more quickly.

Mothers especially appreciate Vicks VapoRub for the reason that it is applied externally, it can be used freely and often, without disturbing the digestions, an too much "dosing" is so apt to do.

Shipping Motor Age

China Is Now Turning Her Attention to Aviation

China, if the signs are read aright is about to "jump" the automobile age and pass direct from the bullock cart and railroad to the aeroplane and all that it embraces. This is the opinion of that motor car manufacturers may not find a lucrative field in the 18 provinces which comprise China proper, for the automobile is making inroads there; but it is almost certain that before the motor vehicle can become to the east what it has become to the west, aviation will have found acceptance as a common means of conveyance.

Miller's Worm Powders will eradicate the worm, and that bears severally on children and is believed to cause many fatalities. They are an acceptable medicine to children and can be fully relied upon to clear the food channels thoroughly of those destructive parasites and restore the inflamed and painful surfaces to healthfulness. They are an excellent remedy for these evils.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

FEBRUARY 10

REPENTANCE AND FAITH

Golden text: Repent ye, and believe in the gospel. Mark 1.15.

Lesson: Isaiah 1.10-20; Ezekiel 18.20-23, 27-32; Mark 2.1-12; Luke 7.1-16; 13.31-34; Acts 2.23-39; Hebrews 11.1-16.

Devotional reading: Psalm 37.3-6.

Explanations and Comments

Jesus Is Sovereign and Messiah. Acts 2.14-36—Peter is speaking to Jews, and his first object is to prove that Jesus fulfilled Old Testament prophecies and expectations in regard to the Messiah, hence he tells them (verses 15-21) that the events of Pentecost which had so amazed them are but the fulfilment of Joel's prophecy (Joel 2.28-32), that at the coming of the Messiah God's Spirit would be poured forth, and old and young, men and women, should be free, would see visions and speak divine truths.

Then Peter takes up his great theme that Jesus is the Christ, and gives three proofs. First, there are the miracles which his hearers had themselves witnessed. Second, there is the resurrection, of which they all were witnesses. God had raised Jesus from the dead to higher life and wider power. Third, there is the pouring forth of the Holy Spirit at Pentecost, which they have seen and heard: Jesus still lives and cares for His followers, for it is He who has sent the Spirit. Furthermore, the resurrection and exaltation fulfill a prophecy of David, as given in Psalm 110.1:

The Lord said unto my Lord, sit thou on my right hand.

Till I make thine enemies the footstool of thy feet.

Two different Hebrew words for Lord are used in the first case, and the meaning is, Jehovah said unto the Messiah. David could not have been speaking of himself, for David did not ascend into the heavens. "Sit thou on my right hand" means, Be partaker of the divine glory and dominion. "Till I make thine enemies the footstool of thy feet" is an expression denoting complete victory, which originated, no doubt, from the ancient custom of conquerors putting their feet on their enemies' necks.

Then comes the climax of Peter's sermon: "Let all the house of Israel therefore know assuredly that God hath made him both Lord and Christ, this Jesus whom ye crucified."

Germany's Latest Ship Makes Freshest of Other Countries Obsolete

According to the description which Hector C. Bywater, the Baltimore Sun's special correspondent gives, the new German armored cruiser Ersatz Preussen is a triumph of concentrated power. Keeping within the narrow limit of 10,000 tons for armored ships imposed upon her by the treaty of Versailles, Germany has succeeded in actually making the fighting effectiveness of a dreadnought, the speed of a cruiser and the big armament of a battleship in tons of 10,000 miles. In addition, the new cruiser has other novel features which will immensely to its strength, and altogether it represents a production that tends to make the latest models of other countries immediately obsolete.

NO MEDICINE LIKE BABY'S OWN TABLETS

For Either the Newborn Babe or the Growing Child

There is no other medicine to equal Baby's Own Tablets for little ones—whether it be for the newborn babe or the growing child the Tablets always do good. They are absolutely free from opiates or other harmful drugs and the mother can always feel safe in using them. Concerning the Tablets, Mrs. John Armour, R.R. 1, South Monaghan, Ont., says: "We have found them healthy children, to whom, when a medicine is needed, we have given only Baby's Own Tablets. The Tablets are the best medicine you can keep in any home where there are young children."

Baby's Own Tablets are a mild but thorough laxative which regulates the stomach and bowels; banish constipation and indigestion; break up colds and simple fever and make teething easy. They are sold by medicine dealers or direct by mail at 25c a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Alberta's Farm Wealth

The Calgary Herald says that in 1906 the Province of Alberta had a farm wealth which was estimated at $50,000,000, while in 1927 it had jumped to $338,181,455. And while the Province has about 8,000,000 bushels of wheat in the former year, in the latter it yielded 162,000,000 bushels. We wonder what 1947 will show!

Vancouver, the Pacific Gateway

Vancouver Coming in Importance As Outlet To Orient

The opening of the Panama Canal some years ago meant a great deal not only to the port of Vancouver, but to the people of the western portions of the prairie provinces as well, who now ship large quantities of their produce out by way of that port. Water transportation is the cheapest form in existence and the fact that both as regards imports and exports the port of Vancouver permits of the movement of large quantities of goods to and fro, not only to the Far East, but to Europe as well by way of the Panama Canal, is important. In this connection the interesting comment on situation is contained in the following extract taken from the "Port of Vancouver News," which says: "Canada, as one of the world's greatest producers of foodstuffs is vitally interested in the Far East. Across the Pacific lie Japan, China, India and other countries, where teeming millions are being converted more and more to western ideals and habits of living which have increased enormously and themselves witnessed. Second, there is the resurrection, of which they all were witnesses. God had raised Jesus from the dead to higher life and wider power. Third, there is the pouring forth of the Holy Spirit at Pentecost, which they have seen and heard: Jesus still lives and cares for His followers, for it is He who has sent the Spirit. Canada's Record Mineral Output

New Banks Third in Importance In Canada Among Primary Industries

The mineral production of Canada in 1926 reached a new high record with a total value estimated at $271,000,000, a gain of nearly 10 per cent. or $23,644,000 over 1927.

Canada's mineral industry, third in importance among the primary industries of the country, being surpassed in output value only by the great basic industries of agriculture and forestry, brings to the nation a prestige far beyond the monetary measure of the mineral output. First in nickel, first in asbestos, second in cobalt, third in gold, third in silver, fourth in lead, and sixth in zinc among the world producers, Canada presently enjoys an enviable position in the mining world. In the light of the progress that has been made, Canada's future in mining seems brighter than ever before.

In few previous years has Canada's mining industry shown such phenomenal growth as in 1926. Advances were registered in all metals, metallic and non-metallic, and structural materials. Reflecting the aggregate value the mineral products yielded new output records for all time. These were: cadmium, cement, coal copper, gold, gypsum, lead, lime, natural gas, petroleum products, silver, sand and gravel, salt, stone, talc and soapstone and zinc.

Cadmium, produced at Trail, British Columbia, during 1926, was a newcomer among Canada's mineral products. It is a bluish white metal used in alloys for plating and other purposes.

Among the metals produced in Canada in 1926, gold heads the list with 1,860,548 fine ounces valued at $38,500,000, copper next valued at $26,913,000; then nickel, value $21,394,000; lead, $15,484,000; silver, $12,400,000 and zinc, $10,089,000. The non-metallics coal was the leader with an output of 17,780,365 tons valued at $83,000,000.

Would Be Good Investment

Special Prize List For World's Grain Show Would Aid West

Mr. J. A. Mooney, who has been appointed manager of the world's Grain Exhibition and Conference, to be held here in 1932, has offered some suggestions why there should be a liberal response to the appeal for a special prize list, running from $50,000 to $100,000 in connection with this project, and among them is this one: "If, through the grain exhibition, we are able to increase the amount of products grown here we will naturally increase the West's purchasing power. By so doing we will simply cultivate the field in which they (banks, business houses, etc.), are already operating.

The World's Grain Exhibition and Conference not only will further stimulate production in the West but will add to Western Canada's fame as a grain growing area and also create stimulus agricultural throughout the world. All will support the special prize list which is being sponsored will be helping to add to the West's productivity and thus will be either directly or indirectly benefiting themselves. A more productive West will mean a still more prosperous West. The special prize list for this big exhibition would seem to be a good investment. — Regina Daily Post.

The scene was around a Christmas tree. The youngsters of an advertising man had been up since dawn. Gifts were scattered about the room. Dad and mother were nearly worn out with the festivities. "All right," said one of the youngsters, "we'll just pretend we don't advertise."

Sheep Raising In B.C.

Sheep raising is developing into an important industry in British Columbia. In 1924 there were only 50,000 sheep in the province. In 1928 the total had increased to 158,000. It is expected that by the end of 1929 there will be 200,000 in British Columbia.

No Cause For Bashfulness

Bishop Brent Of New York, On Port U.S. Played In the War

Bishop Brent, whether in an individual or a nation, is a hateful thing if, for example, America can rejoice in the transportation of 2,000,000 soldiers to France without loss of life it adds rather than detracts from our joy if we give the credit to the British navy which "so safeguarded the seas as to make it possible."

If America congratulates herself that her army knew no setback or defeat in the brief time that she was a combatant, she rounds out the truth, by paying tribute to those men that fought the nation's battle for the three heart-rending years before, and so prepared the way for victories made by them. She emerged from the welter of battle with appalled manhood and resources unshaken by the nation of the world, and to aid in the reconstruction of Europe, she adds to her honor by generous recognition of the services rendered those nations which bled themselves white in the common cause. If she has cause to be proud, she is bashful, incurring a debt of fabulous proportions, she should thank God that her territory was free from the incommensurate with her resources.

Ought my country to boast that she has brought us no occasion of territory when other countries, even when extra-continental possessions are already our Achilles' heel? We cannot deny that blessing when we have needed it, and when we have secured it, and when we wanted territory, we controlled it. Nor may we ever forget that we were offered and refused a mandate.—From a sermon by Dr. Brent, Bishop of Western New York, in Canterbury Cathedral.

Airplane May Solve Problem

How To Use Them For Fighting Farm Fires Is Possible

Something might be done and is being done by the farmers themselves in installing fire extinguishing apparatus of one kind and another and also in the building of houses which are more nearly fireproof than the older ones. But there is a need of something more and it is possible that the aeroplane may solve the problem. It is impractical for a country or even a township to maintain a fire department like that of a town or city, but it is perfectly feasible for a number to buy an aeroplane for fighting apparatus which could be quickly on the scene of a fire in any part of the country.

Some System

A firm of manufacturers in the West Riding of Yorkshire having written to one of their creditors, claiming settlement of an account long overdue, are said to have received the following reply:

"Every month we make a pile on our table of all accounts to be sent, and from this pile we draw at random six statements, which we pay to any person of your description. All who support the special prize list which is being sponsored will be helping to add to the West's productivity and thus will be either directly or indirectly benefiting themselves. A more productive West will mean a still more prosperous West. The special prize list for this big exhibition would seem to be a good investment. — Regina Daily Post.

Children Were Wise

The scene was around a Christmas tree. The youngsters of an advertising man had been up since dawn. Gifts were scattered about the room. Dad and mother were nearly worn out with the festivities. One youngster naked, "Dad, can we play at keeping store?" From behind the morning paper came, "Yes if you promise to keep quiet." "All right," said one of the youngsters, "we'll just pretend we don't advertise."

Sheep Raising In B.C.

Sheep raising is developing into an important industry in British Columbia. In 1924 there were only 50,000 sheep in the province. In 1928 the total had increased to 158,000. It is expected that by the end of 1929 there will be 200,000 in British Columbia.

Iron It Worked Out

A rector whose income was exceedingly small was one day asked by a friend of his, "Why, Mr.—, what in the world do you live on?"

"I live on faith," replied the rector, "my wife lives on hope, and my children on charity."

Philip Does your father object to my staying so late?

Phyllis—No, he says it serves me right for being in when you call.

Ministers Edited Mount Clemens Leader According To Their Own Ideas

Nine ministers of Mount Clemens, Mich., representing every creed with a church in that community, at the invitation of the Chamber Commerce of Mount Clemens Daily Leader, recently wrote and edited a special edition of the newspaper according to their conception of ideal journalism.

They eliminated banner lines, substituting one-column heads. There were 23 stories on page one, nine of which dealt with the battery of crimes from assault and battery to murder. Three snappy divorce cases and two political articles were given front page space. A cartoon depicting the necessity of liquor law enforcement occupied the lower half of the page. Letters ruled that an illustrated Sunday school lesson should go inside. Thirty-eight per cent of the news on the inside pages was devoted to religion.

The nine ministers were in agreement that "news is news," and as it serves a social and political function it must be printed, whether pleasant or unpleasant. They held that if newspapers were to eliminate crime stories and publish only the good things of life, they would become mere volumes of printed matter which would bore readers to distraction with monotonous accounts of the virtues of mankind.

First In Per Capita Trade

Though only twenty-eighth in population among the countries of the world, Canada is first in per capita trade balance, second in per capita exports, third in absolute trade balance, and fifth in total exports. In six years Canada's export trade has risen from $754,000,000 to $1,349,000,000.

A Fascinating Mystery

Great Scientists Have Not Yet Discovered Age Of World

At the meeting of the American Association for the Advancement of Science, attention has been paid to that fascinatingly elusive subject, the age of the world. Dr. Berkey, of Columbia University, reported the discovery of tools used by human beings in the Gobi region of Asia indicating an age of 40,000 to 200,000 years. Fossil remains go back to an "extinct bronk" about a million years ago. Professor Lane, another delegate to the Association's convention, reasoning from the proportion of salt in the sea and from geological evidence, said that these physicists who estimate the age of the world at 900,000,000 years are nearer the truth than those who set its age at 300,000,000 years. According to these estimates, taken together, a dead and decaying world, a world without animal life, existed a thousand years for every single year since the development upon it of the lowest forms of animal life.

And far in back of both estimates lies the age of the world as matter, merely, without regard to form. If matter is indestructible, though proven in form to change, then the subject of the origin of matter is made must have been in existence an infinity of time to match the infinity of space that surrounds it. And the future existence of our earth matter in some form, in some phase of activity, some orbit of existence, must be as incalculable. Is it any wonder that great scientists are men of humble mind in the presence of the much they cannot know? Intensive study of astronomy upon a basis of chemistry and geology may be recommended as a corrective for too heavy burdens of self-esteem. The little life of man upon his planet seems not enough ranged beside the eternities. —Regina Daily Post.

Experiment Was Encouraging

Alberta Will Again Try Out Fertilizer From Trail Smelter

It is announced following a recent conference held at Trail, B.C., that experiments to determine the value of super-phosphate fertilizer on Alberta farm lands will again be carried on by the Provincial Department of Agriculture during 1929, at various points throughout the province. The results of the experiments along this line conducted during the past season are considered sufficiently encouraging to warrant further tests. Free supplies of the fertilizer will again be furnished by the Trail Smelter and will be used for seed grain by the Canadian Pacific Railway. Special attention will be paid during the coming year to the effects of this commercial fertilizer when applied in some of the areas of lighter soil in Central and Northern Alberta.

Students Attending Universities

The total number of students attending the 23 universities of Canada as at June 30, 1928, was 44,000. The total teaching staff in these universities numbers 3,077, of whom 2,-172 are men, and the gross annual costs of the universities are placed at more $87,000,000 with an income of nearly $11,000,000.

NORTHERN MAIL

In this picture is seen the recently re-painted building at the Dominion Government Air Service Base at Winnipeg, from which the first aerial mail service in Canada will be inaugurated on the middle of October, was started by George M. Figures Are Impressive

Prairie Provinces Show Great Increase In Production Of Manufactured Goods

It will come as a surprise to many people to learn that no less than $239,000,000 represents the value of manufactured goods produced in the Prairie Provinces during 1928.

Yet this is the information offered by J. W. Ackland, chairman of the Prairie Division of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association in a message to the people of Western Canada. Manufacturing, it is set forth, now provides employment for more people in Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta, than either transportation or construction and shows an increase in persons employed of over 33½ per cent. since 1925. These figures suggest that the prairies are becoming industrialized at a rate which is not realized by the average citizen. The advantages which accrue to the whole community from this development, the chairman of the prairie division of C.M.A. points out, will be readily appreciated, and they are enumerated as follows: "Steady employment for steadier employment, a growing home market for agricultural products, and a better balance of economic structure. The year just closed," says Mr. Ackland, "has been one of achievement and progress. We are now looking for a boom in 1929, but we may confidently hope to continue the permanent rate of progress."

The figures which the chairman of the prairie division of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association quotes will be even more impressive, probably very much more so, at the end of the present year. For then some important new industries which Regina has acquired will have added their figures to the already impressive production list. The value of industrialization which has entered into the economic life of the West is one of those which experience of the past few years.—Regina Daily Post

Anti-Pneumonia Serum

Experiments Being Carried Out In Toronto May Prove Of Value

Experiments are being carried out in Toronto at the school of hygiene with the object of developing a serum to determine the value of a new anti-pneumonia serum. For several months Prof. J. T. Fitzgerald, a director of the school, has been working with Dr. W. H. Parks, of the New York health department, on the serum.

Many horses have been inoculated but the experiment is a lengthy one and it will be several months yet before the result is known.

The bloody serum, on which they are working, is known to be effective only in type No. 1, and type No. 2 of the disease, Fitzgerald stated. Types three and four do not seem to be affected by it.

In order to make the serum, after thorough testing, it will be available for any practitioner who cares to use it. The doctor determined what type of pneumonia his patient is suffering from." Prof. Fitzgerald stated.

May Aid Surgery

Professor Ennis, who has been experimenting with ultra short radio waves in surgery, claims to have discovered that they will kill small animals upon contact, and will destroy bacteria cultures. This has led to the hypothesis that they may be put to surgical purposes.

A Good Reason

"We have the safest railway in the world where I come from. A collision on our line is impossible."

"Impossible" How do you make that out?"

Why we've only got one train."

The aeroplane was introduced from Austria about 100 years ago

JUNIOR HOCKEY SERIES STARTS FRIDAY NIGHT

The McLean cup, emblematic of junior hockey supremacy on this portion of the C. N. line, will again be up for competition beginning on Friday night at Mandville. There will be the first of a six-game series to determine the holders of the cup for the coming year of which Vermilion is the host by the Vermilion contestors who made a clean sweep of the games last year

The present series will be a city-game affair with two games a week Friday night the games will be at Mandville and Monday evenings will see the games in the Vermilion arena —as the first game on home ice will take place on Monday, Feb 18.

These juniors are the same bunch that played a tie and then defeated the seniors last year, so some good hockey should be seen The local lineup will probably be: Walsh, goal; Rudgers and Palfrey, defence, with the pick of Bell, Cooper, Sharp, McKenzie and perhaps some of the younger fans for the forward line. Art White, although well within the age limit, has been barred on account of playing senior hockey all winter.

In the case of a tie in the games in this series a sudden death game will be played to determine the winners

The sewers and water pressure put during the week and the weather is much more congenial The days are lengthening out and sun warming up

Last League Game Played by V.A.A. At Vegreville

The local V.A.A.A. team travelled to Vegreville on Thursday last and took a 5-1 trimming at the hands of the western Elks, although the report states the Vegreville team did not have the margin indicated by the score.

This was the last scheduled league fixture of the Border town league and leaves Lloydminster leading in points by a comfortable margin, with Vegreville in second place. According to the rules of the league a play-off between the two top teams is in order to determine the league championship, but the Lloyd boys entered the provincial play-downs early in the season as their time, if they continue on their winning ways, will be well taken up. The dates for the play-offs have not for the middle of this month.

Busy Time At The School Of Agriculture

This is a busy time for the V. S. A. as the mid-term tests are upon us and require a good effort before they are over with. After many weary hours spent preparing for chemistry test, that subject is finally over with and we will soon know our fates. There are other subjects still to be written but compared to chemistry they cause but little worry.

There's always a silver lining to the black cloud of examinations however, and last week this proved to be the whist drive and dance put on by the social committee Friday night. The whist drive was a tremendous success, for the apathy that has been divided at previous dances was not to be noticed at the short dance following the drive. Everyone enjoyed the evening and all admitted that the variety of entertainment did much to relieve the dull monotony that seemed to have settled over the students.

The Third Year Girls put on their competitive Lit. last Friday in the form of the motion picture "Miss Manager." As their numbers were not considered sufficient to put on the usual kind of entertainment at the Lits, they obtained this picture from Edmonton. The girls are to be complimented as the picture was excellent and held the attention of the audience from beginning to end

The regular Sunday afternoon service was held last Sunday and was well attended. Following the usual practise of having someone not connected with the school address the students, Dr. Scott spoke on "Success." This topic was particularly well suited to such a group of students as are assembled here and it was listened to with a great deal of interest. He reminded those who are inclined to judge the success or failure of people by the amount of material things they possess and gave as outstanding examples of success the names Florence Nightingale, Henry Ford, Dr. William Saunders and others. The success of each of the people was measured by their service to the public rather than by any other standard.

At last the V. S. A. has a motto, an ideal to live up to and one that should keep every girl busy from one everyday life when they leave here—"Ever to Excel." The need for a motto was felt by members of the student body, so a "motto competition" with a silver cup for the best motto, was advertised and contributions from the students were requested. A total of 26 mottos were submitted and out of these "Ever to Excel" was chosen as most suitable for the V.S.A. Certain it is an excellent motto and one that should inspire students to better things in days to come. Jim Allanach submitted the motto and is the winner of the cup.

"EVER TO EXCEL"
(Byron Kiernan)

Onward and upward the motto leads on
Our the rough rocky road we're travelling upon:
Fit guidance for youth as we enter the strife,
And the love, and the sorrow that makes up this life.
With "Ever Excel" our shield is in scrolled,
And the head of no page more win be cowed,
That that which concealed in the motto above,
Bids us "Ever Excel" in work, play and love.
"Ever Excel." It gleams like a star
Guiding us up to the realm and afar;
Show be the pace and hard fought the hill
But that's for the shadows it's light our way.
Then, it's "Ever Excel" on the V. S. A's shield,
That gleams in the distance o'er river and field;
That shines through the fog of deep and despair;
That beckons us on to the victory there.
Then it's "Ever Excel" with a passion-ate zeal
For the best in this life that we see.
For the best indeed,
Through the false drag us down to the black gates of hell,
We will rise and will conquer if we "Ever Excel."

JUVENILE HOCKEY TEAM WINS

Vermilion's juvenile hockey team appears to be an up and coming bunch; the boys foisted their own ex pectations when they journeyed to Mandville last Saturday and although outweighed by a husky crew of that town, administered an 8-4 defeat to the Mandville boys Norwood Brimacombe is the goalie, with Stan Waldenberger and W. Fraser on defence, while Art Corman, Jimmy White, Gilbert Brimacombe and Maurice Fallow alternated on the firing line

PUBLIC NOTICE

Any person desirous of taking advantage of the one dollar a day rate in the Islay Municipal Hospital, may do so by purchasing an agreement for the sum of $6.00 from the undersigned at any time during the months of January, February and March

Provincial Legislative Session Opens

Formal opening of the third session of the fifth legislature of Alberta took place on Thursday afternoon, January 31st. The Speech from the Throne read by His Honour Lieutenant Governor Egbert, received the satisfactory progress in many lines of activity made by the province during the past year and referred to a number of important questions on which legislation will be introduced at the present session. The personnel of the legislature is unchanged from that of last year with the exception of the addition of Hector Lang, newly elected Liberal member from Medicine Hat.

In view of the numerous important pieces of legislation to be considered it is announced that evening sittings will be commenced at an earlier date than usual in order that the session may not be unduly prolonged This has been made possible by the change in the end of the fiscal year and the fact that the budget is now available for consideration at an earlier date in the session than in previous years

Marked Increase in Coal Product'n

Coal production in Alberta in 1928 reached a new high level when 7,250 000 tons were mined throughout the province, according to figures recently announced by the Mines Branch Good answers to attaining the record 7 m tons by the end of the year of the Canada market and some 30 000 tons have already been shipped east under the 2476 Crow rate which has been in effect since January 15th. This coal is being well distributed in Eastern Canada as a large number of repeat orders have been received from dealers who state that the Alberta product is in good demand. An extensive advertising campaign is being carried on by Alberta coal operators through the Trade Commissioner's Office in Toronto, and it is expected that this market will be still further extended.

The Noxious Weeds Menace

This is an age of conventions. They are a natural growth and outcome of the more complex and highly organized development of modern life. They are, too, a recognition of the fact that the principles and methods of co-operation are, in many ways and to a large extent, replacing the old individualistic views and effort of the past. This is not to say that the value of individual responsibility and initiative has been, or is to be, discarded rather, that in this age of rapid transportation and communication the old isolation has disappeared and people and nations are brought close together. They must, therefore, act as units rather than as distinct and separate entities

The best way of introduction to a reference to a recent gathering held in Saskatchewan at the call of the Provincial Minister of Agriculture, namely, the first Saskatchewan Weed Conference. It was not a large and spectacular convention as many present-day conventions are, but in the importance of the problem it met to consider, it took second place to none. And while it was a Saskatchewan conference, its deliberations and findings were of equal value to the other provinces

The conference was called to consider a fact of the fact that weeds are making tremendous headway in Western Canada and that some action must be taken, over and above the preventive policies of the past, if the hordes of weeds and the ever increasing losses they threaten are to be overcome and as a whole is to be checked

The conference was attended by officials of the Saskatchewan Government, municipalities and farmers' organizations, but by Dominion Government officials representatives of the railways, mortgage and loan companies, manufacturers, business men, merchants—in a word, every organization having a vital interest in the productive capacity and prosperity of Western Canada

It was frankly and unanimously agreed that the whole country must be aroused and organized in a campaign of education and elimination of weeds The only alternative is a rapidly decreasing agricultural production both in quantity and quality, smaller returns to the farmer, and decreased business activity in every line of trade

The duty and responsibility of the individual farmer in the matter of keeping his own land free of weeds was in no sense minimized, but it was recognized that, human nature being what it is, some men will neglect their duty, and while they themselves suffer as a result of such neglect, they also inflict loss upon their neighbors who are doing their duty, and upon the community and country as a whole.

The need, therefore, for concerted Government and municipal action was emphasized, and the absolute necessity, in the interest of all, for more drastic control recognized.

It was realized that not only must existing methods be brought under control and eradicated but that much more efficient measures must be taken and greater precautions observed to put a stop to the sowing of weed seeds and the propagation of the present plants.

It is not possible in this article to discuss all the phases of this intricate problem, but at this season of the year when farmers are beginning to think about and plan their work for the spring one factor may well be stressed. That is, the importance of sowing good, clean seed and not a mixture of grain, good and bad, and weeds.

The astounding discovery was made by the seed drill survey conducted in Saskatchewan that 70 per cent. of the seed sown in the province was lower than No 3, due largely to the inefficient operation of farm fanning mills. In other words, while farmers and governmental authorities on the one hand are fighting weeds, the farmers in the sowing of their crops are planting thousands of bushels of weed seeds.

The first step towards victory over the weed enemy is to put an immediate and definite stop to the planting of weed seeds in prepared soil. If the propagation of weeds is continually carried on and assisted in this way, it must be recognized that the weed menace will grow, and that final victory will rest with it and not with the farmer.

The spring slogan for all Western farmers in 1926 should be: Look to your seed grain. See to it, above everything else, that it is good, clean seed. If weed seeds are sown, it is inevitable that weeds will be harvested. Remember, it is still ever-straightly true in farming as in all the activities of life that, whatsoever a man soweth that shall he also reap.

Needs Some Exercise

The idle farm horse is better to rough it a little. Heavy feeding is unnecessary, and standing day after day in a warm stable unfits the horse for spring work. A few hours in the yard or field every day keeps the muscles hard.

To Check "FLU," Grippe

Fights the Germs in the Throat Before They Invade Other Parts of the Body.

EFFECTIVE PREVENTIVE MEASURES EXPLAINED

Simple precautions taken now will enable you to fight dreaded "Flu" which is sweeping rapidly through the whole country The germs of Influenza gain access to the body through the mouth and throat. Keep the throat healthy and you get a long way towards stopping the trouble. An effective means of prevention is to gargle the throat three or four times daily with Nerviline. Hold a teaspoonful of Nerviline in water makes a most efficient gargle The germ-killing properties of Nerviline quickly destroy any bacteria in the mouth or throat If the chest is sore, if the throat is hoarse, if you have a cough, be sure, to rub the neck and chest with Nerviline. Every drop of it will rub in, and out will come the congestion.

Of course it is absolutely necessary to house-clean the system with Dr. Hamilton's Pills which stimulate the eliminating organs, and rid the system of disease-breeding wastes. The combination treatment of Nerviline and Dr. Hamilton's Pills will give prompt and entirely satisfactory results.

Lieutenant-Governor Appointed

J. D. McGregor, Brandon, to Succeed Late Hon. T. A. Burrows

J. D. McGregor, Brandon, has been appointed lieutenant-governor of the province of Manitoba, Mr. McGregor succeeds the late Hon. T. A. Burrows who died in Winnipeg recently Announcement of the appointment was made by Premier W. L. Mackenzie King at the conclusion of a meeting of the cabinet.

The lieutenant-governorship was offered Mr. McGregor several days ago and from his home in Brandon he announced acceptance of the post, stating that he considered the appointment as a compliment to the agricultural interests of the province rather than to himself personally.

WAS ALWAYS AILING NEVER FELT WELL

Health Restored Through the Use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills

"I am one of the many who have found new health through the use of Dr Williams' Pink Pills," says Mrs. Everitt Down, South Nelson, N.B. "For some years I have been far from well and at times was so weak that I had to consider if I was able to do my work. I was in a run-down condition, very pale and had little desire to do my housework. I was subject to headaches, p or appetite, breath-less at the least exertion, and very pale Before Dr. Williams' Pink Pills were recommended to me I had tried several medicines, but without any good results. I had become completely discouraged and felt that I never would get well. One day a friend strongly urged me to take Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and finally I consented to do so, but without much hope that they would help, where other medicines had failed. But to this, to my joy, I was mistaken. In a few days I felt that the pills were doing me good, and before I knew they were helping me. I felt that I had their use for several months, when I again found myself a well woman, and I believe that I owe my present health to Dr. Williams' Pink Pills I would to-day be a helpless invalid, but for the good they have done them by others in our family, who have used them beneficially, I strongly urge every weak woman to try this great health-building medicine"

You can get these pills through any medicine dealer or by mail at 50c a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Advances New Theory

Baltimore Physician Says Lack of Lime Makes People Irritable

More lime in the diet as a preventive for divorce was urged by Dr. Royal S. Haynes, president of the National Housewives, Inc., at Baltimore. Absence of lime, he declared, makes women irritable and a man cruel—hence family troubles result.

When there is every appearance of a home being wrecked Doctor Wallace suggested that lime, in the form of milk, be added to the diet of a couple daily for two weeks as all probability would adjust matters, restore amicability and keep the home intact.

He also would add two oranges a day to the diet and a quart pound of cold slaw at least three times a week.

Hydro Power Shows Record Development

Dominion Now Has Total of 3,331,000 Horse-Power

With world interest centered upon the efforts being put forth in almost every country to secure additional supplies of low-priced power for the needs of industry, the recent official review of hydro-electric progress in Canada is of particular interest, indicating, as it does, that throughout the Dominion the greatest activity prevails in harnessing for industrial, commercial and domestic use the advantageously situated and ample water-power resources of the country.

During the year 1926 the energy of the water-wheels or turbines actually installed and brought into operation amounted to 650,000 horsepower, thus bringing the total for the whole Dominion to 3,328,000 horse-power. In addition to this large increase there are many projects under active construction, many of them nearing completion and others just recently initiated, whose combined installations will result in adding more than 1,500,000 horsepower to the country's total. There are also many projects of magnitude in the preliminary stage, many of which will undoubtedly be undertaken in the near future.

After the actual development, transmission, and distribution of the power capacity installed in 1926, together with that under construction, is estimated that not less than $230,000,000 will be required. This amount had become completely discouraged and felt that she never would get well. A friend strongly urged me to take Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and finally I consented to do so, but without much hope that they would help, where other medicines had failed. But to this, to my joy, I was mistaken. In a few days I felt that the pills were doing me good, and before I knew they were helping me. New Oriental Silk

Japan and China Have Invented Mixed Fibre Product

To combat American artificial silk manufacture, Japanese and Chinese manufacturers have invented a new mixed fibre product, which is half fibre and those of spruce wood in a combination, the sheen of which is expected to revolutionize the present market, according to a Yokohama exporting firm.

Artificial silk has seriously affected the production of cocoon skeins in the Orient during the last two years. The new product is expected to reach world markets in the early spring.

For Scalds or Burns.—Dr. Thomas

Eclectric Oil is a standard remedy for the prompt treatment of scalds and burns. Its healing power quickly soothes the pain and aids in speedy recovery from the injury. It is also an excellent remedy for all manner of cuts, bruises and sprains, as well as for relieving the pain against inflammation of various kinds. A bottle in the house and stable saves many a doctor's and veterinary's fee.

A Peculiar Timepiece

Clock Made in Switzerland Looks Like Sun-Dial

A curtis tells you the time in a unique timepiece produced in Switzerland. At first glance the clock appears to be a sun-dial with a circular tray, filled with water, set in the face. In the tray is a small imitation turtle Soula, carrying a piece of steel in its back. As the hour hand advances under the face it contacts the turtle by means of magnet. If removed from the water and the magnet replaced, the turtle immediately swims across to the point on the tray directly above the hand indicating the time. The ordinary clock mechanism is wound to the usual way, and regulated after the tray and the face of the timepiece are removed.

Weapon Appears Harmless

Pistol Found in New York Looks Like Fountain Pen

A "fountain pen" that spurts 38-calibre bullets was picked up near a street corner in New York City recently and turned over to the police. The tiny weapon, little longer than the width of a man's hand, is shaped like a fountain pen and has a hammer-striking instrument. A few feet away, it would be mistaken for a real pen Only when it is examined closely can the open mouths at one end reveal its dangerous character. The pistol measures in the middle to insert the cartridges. It is fired by pressing a small button about the size of a pinhead, in the end of the weapon. This releases a spring that operates the firing pin.

Three Hundred Years To Prepare Grammar

Immortals of French Academy Still Working on Book

"The world of letters moves slowly. Witness the speed in action of the "immortals" of the French academy: 283 years ago the body began the perennial of which remains numerically fixed at 40, although its component individuals change with decided and new sections. Now it is that it was going to publish a grammar of the French language.

Now the permanent secretary of the academy promises that the book will actually go to the printer soon —probably in 1928.

At the time of its foundation in 1635, the French academy was privileged to undertake important work. Ten years later it was announced that one of these, the long awaited grammar, was "nearly prepared." The "immortals," to whom two or three centuries are of slight import, have been preparing it, ever since.

Protect Your Children From "Flu," Grippe

A WARNING TO PARENTS!

Flue germs are everywhere today. They reach the lungs through the nose and throat. Mothers can protect their children in a very simple way.

Take a saucepan of water, place it on a lamp or stove. Add a half teaspoonful of Catarrhozone for a pint of water, which is brought to a boil. Let the steam from the bottle fill the room so that the medicated air is breathed by the child. This germ-killing vapor disinfects the child's breathing organs and kills the "flu" germs.

Catarrhozone Vapor stops cold, prevents Grippe, relieves Sore Throat, prevents Flu. Safe and effective. Just as good for adults as for children. If you keep the air in your home disinfected with Catarrhozone Vapor you are well protected from dangerous Flu, Influenza and Grippe Colds. All druggists sell Catarrhozone in 50c bottles.

More Purchasing Power

The purchasing power of the people of Canada increased by $46 million dollars during 1926, when revenue from productive industries reached the record total of $4,843,278,986, an increase over 1927 of almost $500,000,000.

Shipping Sets New Mark

New Westminster Exceeds 1927 Record by Forty-Two Ships

A new mark in shipping was set at New Westminster during 1928, exceeding by 45 ships the 1927 record of 155. The figure does not include the coastwise shipping, which is handled through the Department of National Revenue. The net tonnage of the ships handled through the harbor commissioners' office was 629,271 tons and the gross 964,268 tons, compared with 483,803 and 776,239, respectively, in 1927.

Built To Auto Design

First British Tiene of This Type Put on Market

Britain's first car to be built to automobile design has been placed on the market under the name of Simmonds Spartan light plane.

The craft has four wings, which are interchangeable. It is claimed that the four wheels of an automobile are interchangeable. There also is a folding wing which is carried for emergencies

The new machine is fitted with a four-cylinder air-cooled engine of 30-35 horse-power. It recently was tested on a non-stop flight from London to Berlin, 670 miles, in six hours.

Blame for Mrs. Pankhurst

"Isn't it beautiful?" He indicated with a sweep of his arm the lake, the wooded hills and the glittering glaciers lifting their heads high in the sparkling firmament. He turned to find his companion standing with downcast eyes.

"Don't you like it?" he asked, a trifle resentfully.

Janet raised her head slowly. The limpid depths of the big blue eyes were soft and languorous in the half-light; the full red lips were dewy and tremulous; the powerful light of the moon shone upon her radiant upturned face, giving it an ethereal glow.

"It is wonderful," she breathed.

Involuntarily he moved closer. What was this inner urge? Love feeling—emotion, or, it might be passion?

Laughter and voices came from the trail above. Douglas with several of the visiting party emerged into the white light of the moon Douglas called his sister's name and Janet and Donald moved up the hill to join them.

Indigestion

What most people call indigestion is usually excess acid in the stomach. The food has soured. The instant remedy is an alkali which neutralizes acids. But don't use crude helps. Use what your doctor would advise

The best help is Phillips' Milk of Magnesia. For the 50 years since its invention it has remained standard with physicians. You will find nothing else so quick in its effect, so harmless, so efficient.

One teaspoonful in water neutralizes many times its volume in acid. The results are immediate, with no bad after-effects. Once you learn this fact, you will never deal with excess acid in the crude ways. Learn—now—why this method is so good.

Be sure to get the genuine Phillips' Milk of Magnesia prescribed by physicians for 50 years in correcting excess acids. Each bottle contains full directions—any druggists.

The whole world knows Aspirin as an effective antidote for pain. But it's just as important to know that there is only one genuine Aspirin. The name Bayer is on every tablet, and on the box. If the name Bayer appears, it's genuine; and if it doesn't, it is not! Headaches are dispelled by Aspirin. So are colds, and the pain that goes with them; even neuralgia, neuritis, and rheumatism promptly relieved. Get Aspirin—at any drugstore—with proper directions.

Physicians prescribe Aspirin; it does NOT affect the heart

Aspirin is the trade mark (registered in Canada) indicating Bayer Manufacture. While it has become generally accepted as meaning the well known Bayer product, the public should note that the Tablets will be stamped with their "Bayer Cross" identity.

on the next train. An hour later the agent brought Donald a telegram:

"Donald McLean,

"Summit Mill.

"You are promoted to position vacated by Hamilton. Refuse strikers' demands. Ship at Squamish Oriental order white pine. Utmost importance lumber loaded this week. Use every means in power to keep plant operating.

"Robert Rennie."

He passed the message to Gillis. The big man turned and grasped Donald's hand in congratulation.

"We'll get that strike settled on time or bust," declared Gillis grimly.

Donald distributed firearms among his loyal men, and the guard of the mill property was doubled. Then he patrolled the plant while the others slept.

Donald had been up the greater part of the night, and at Gillis' earnest request he went to his cabin and snatched a few hours' sleep behind him. Connie, with her rifle resting in the hollow of her arm, stood sentinel on the cabin steps in the darkness of the hillside and listened noiselessly on moccasined feet for any surprise attack through the camps. Railroad construction in the interior had been seriously interfered with and in many cases there had been violence and bloodshed

Two agitators arrived at the Summit Mill, and the next day several more appeared—including Hand and Blackie—did not appear when the whistle blew. Gillis found them in their cabins in a half-drunken condition. That afternoon Renwick ordered the two strangers off the premises and discharged Hand.

Hoop-la begged successfully for leniency but when he came down to a fervent "Where have you been, Blackie, Jack," he pleaded.

Donald became aware of a change in the whole tone of the camp. Even Rullenese had fallen upon them; discontent manifested itself in a dozen different directions. The tension spikes driven in the logs wreaked havoc with the saws and forced a general shut-down.

A committee of four men waited on Renwick and presented an ultimatum. They demanded a flat increase in wages, or they would call for an immediate cessation of work on the part of the men they represented. Renwick promptly refused in 15 minutes every man in the mill except the clerical staff, the mechanics and the engineer, walked out. In the woods only Gillis' "redskirts" remained at work

The strikers moved up the track and made camp on a point of land on the lake shore. That night the first act of sabotage was perpetrated Some one or more broke into the mess house and a quantity of food stolen, and the night watchman put out a fire of incendiary origin.

Renwick, while returning from the mess house, was shot at twice from an ambush. He wired his resignation to Robert Rennie, and in terrible haste packed his belongings and left on the next train. An hour later the agent brought Donald a telegram:

CHAPTER XIV

A week before Dominion Day men began applying for leave of absence until the exodus depleted the camps to such an extent that it was deemed advisable to shut down for a week Donald ordered all the men to leave the whole crew of "redskirts" pile tumultuously on the train.

"How long are you off your jobs this?" he asked rather irritably.

"Every holiday," replied Gillis. Donald pondered a moment.

"That means that we may lose a week for Labour Day."

"Very likely."

"Jack, do you think we could keep them here if we held some sort of celebration at the lake?"

"I believe we could," responded Gillis warmly.

"We'll do it then," declared Donald. "We've got to keep the men in that they lay-off may force us to run a night crew."

"Did you spread all your dough, Blackie?" asked Gillis when the "redskirts" arrived back from town.

"Sir—I'm ashamed to say I squandered bucks, but we had three hundred dollars' worth o' fun. We ain't got enough money to buy a hornswoggled a pair o' legrin's, and we sure had a helluva good time, so we ain't worryin'."

"I guess you brought them new boots?" inquired Gillis.

Blackie forced a laugh. "Gosh' to git them next time, Jack," he continued moving closer to his big boss; "way, Jack, you know that I send twenty dollars to my mother back east every month. I—I——"

"All right, Blackie," said Gillis gaily, "I'll advance it to you."

"Thank Jack, you're a good pal," commended Blackie in a relieved tone.

Donald and Gillis walked down the hill to inspect the logs in the boom, and as they walked Gillis indulged in some confidential observations. "You know, Donnie, that these loggers are game guys to come back after they've had their money and easy. We had a good time, so we ain't worryin'. The man ain't human that won't worry after spending a few days the money it's taken him six months to earn swingin' an axe an' draggin' a saw. Still, they hide their courage under a grin and tell of what a good time they've had. So many people think that loggers spend all their money for booze. Tain't so. That gang of mine give away about half their money to bums and hangers-on that flock to camps. Blackie give away twenty bucks at a time.

All they passed the high-rigger's little cabin, Gillis poked his head through the door. Blackie was absorbed in the task of sewing a button on a pair of worn boots. A mournful wind blew querulously around the eaves.

"Say, Blackie, do you know what that wind is saying?"

Blackie paused a moment.

"Here's what it's sayin'," said Gillis as he pocketed his lips' "Go-o back! Where has your summer's wages gone! Oh, where has your summer ..."

Gillis dodged back as a boot came whizzing past his head.

Midsummer brought an epidemic of labor disturbances throughout the province. A radical organization seized on a time when work was plentiful and labor scarce to spread its doctrines of propaganda through the camps. Railroad construction in the interior had been seriously interfered with and in many cases there had been violence and bloodshed

Two agitators arrived at the Summit Mill, and the next day several more appeared—including Hand and Blackie—did not appear when the whistle blew. Gillis found them in their cabins in a half-drunken condition. That afternoon Renwick ordered the two strangers off the premises and discharged Hand.

Hoop-la begged successfully for leniency but when he came down to a fervent "Where have you been, Blackie, Jack," he pleaded.

Dairying In Holland

Industry Governs Exports—Little Says Canadian Trade Commissioner

The dairying industry is the backbone of Dutch economic life, writes J. C. Macgillivray, Canadian trade commissioner in Rotterdam, in the Commercial Intelligence Journal. There are 160,000 hands employed in milch cattle breeding alone. In addition to these figures there are the employees of over 900 butter and cheese factories and the persons engaged in the distribution of the yearly production of 2,500,000,000 kilos of milk and its derivations.

Holland is the largest exporter of cheese in the world. The Dutch dairy factories may be classified as co-operative and non-co-operative Of the former there are 617, divided as follows, Butter factories, 343; butter and cheese, 140, cheese only, 80; milk products only, 17; butter, cheese and milk products, 17. In the non-co-operative factories these figures are, respectively, 17, 48, 4, 8; and 157, making a total of 235.

Recipes For This Week

(By Betty Barclay)

2 cups left-over beef roast, cupped fine.
1 cup cooked pumpkin
2 tablespoons sugar
½ teaspoon salt.
Small crackers rolled fine
1 egg.
½ cup milk.
½ teaspoon cloves
2 tablespoons butter

Mix all together and heat. Pour into a buttered baking dish, dot with butter and brown.

Chicken in Its Ring

½ green pepper, shredded
½ pound mushrooms
2 table spoons butter
1 table spoon flour
2 cups evaporated milk
2 cups chicken broth
Salt.
Pepper.
3 cups cold chicken, diced
½ pimento, shredded.

Cook pepper and mushrooms in butter 5 minutes. Cover while cooking. Remove mushrooms and pepper from pan, add flour, milk, broth and seasonings. Cook 5 minutes over a low flame, stirring to prevent lumps. Add chicken, mushrooms, pimiento and pepper and reheat in double boiler to prevent curdling. Yield 8 servings

Amateur Discovers Comet

Find Was Confirmed by Cape Town Union Observatory

An amateur astronomer living at Rosebank, a small community near Cape Town, South Africa, distinguished himself recently by the discovery of a new comet. His find was confirmed immediately by officials of the Union Observatory in Cape Town. The comet could not be seen with the naked eye. It travelled slowly, and had no tail The astronomers of the observatory plan to name it the Forbes comet, after its discoverer, and as encouragement to amateurs

Canada's Silk Industry

Latest Report Gives Gross Value as About Two Million

In the past 11 years the silk industry of Canada has increased 53½ per cent. in the number of establishments, 251 per cent. in number of employees, 696 per cent in salaries and wages, and 303 per cent. in gross value of products. Since 1924 the capital investment has increased from $5,744,206 to $22,227,815 in 1927. The annual gross value of the Canadian silk industry is nearly $10,000,000, according to the latest available figures

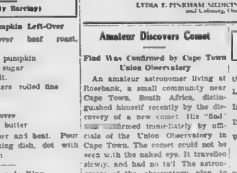
MADE IN ENGLAND

The Improved Glass Substitute

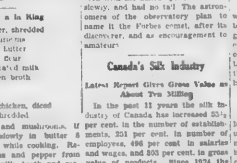
COMES WITH A MESSAGE OF HEALTH



THE sun is the all-powerful life producer, Nature's greatest disinfectant and germ destroyer, as well as stimulant and tonic. WINDOLITE is the sun's most important ally

Medical research has definitely proved that from the point of view of ill-health and Hygiene, the most effective manner the sun's rays can be used is through WINDOLITE. Ordinary glass prevents the greatest power for the prevention and cure of disease and debility

Science has further established that certain wave lengths are not active the power rays of sun-light rays so that by using glass we are artificially excluding these vital health giving rays. Therefore, the invention of WINDOLITE has completely satisfied the long felt want. Extensive experiments have conclusively proved that it is a most valuable substitute for glass, that it freely admits the Ultra-Violet rays and that its use has a most beneficial effect on the growth and development of pets and chickens and also on the well-being of cattle, stabled for the first time to have healthy light instead of darkness in their sheds.



WINDOLITE stands for it's pure rays. WINDOLITE admits sunlight, with tonic for cattle sheds dairy stables poultry houses, and invalid rooms. WINDOLITE is easily cut and fits. It is guaranteed for many years. WINDOLITE will not discolour, and is unbreakable. It keeps out cold draughts and rain, and excludes all harmful germs and dirt. WINDOLITE will not splinter. It is supplied in sheets of 24 square feet, 36 square feet and 48 square feet. WINDOLITE

Local Dealer Displays Chev Sixes

The first 1929 model automobiles to arrive in town are the new Chevrolet Sixes, the Vermilion Motors receiving a car load last week and These are now on the showroom floor. The shipment comprised five cars.—three coaches, a sedan and a Landau let Sedan. The Chevrolet of 1929 is a greatly improved car over its predecessor; they have retained the same wheel base and powered by the bigger six-cylinder motor giving greater acceleration and power motor to be throttled at and can only be fully operated when in the car. Besides the different engine the body lines have been completely changed, with the result is very little to differentiate from the Sixes of last year. The new colors are also in keeping with the higher priced cars and the value is in fact a little more than those of last year

OLD TIMER PASSES

To See Beauty Of Old Europe

WINNIPEG, Man., Feb. 6.—Pensioners are being saved, and history and French are being brushed up by scores of Western Canadians who are looking forward to a tour of Europe this coming summer. Early as it is in the season, the Canadian National Railways have already announced the completion of arrangements for their fourth annual personally conducted European tour. The Chancellor, Andrew, will leave Montreal on July 5 and from the word "Go" it will be like a holiday for the school teachers and other lucky ones who are on board.

Motor jaunts through England and Scotland will take in places drenched with history, places whose names make the imagination quiver—Melrose Abbey, Holyrood, Abbotsford, Warwick, Kenilworth, Stratford on Avon, Oxford, Stamp on Court, Stonehenge—there will be a stopover too, on Loch Lomond, a visit to the Trossachs, and days in Glasgow, Edinburgh and London. Then there will be a long stay in Paris and a jaunt to Versailles and to the battlefields.

Those who stay in Europe longer will visit Brussels and Cologne and Switzerland, and the travellers with even greater leisure will have the joy of a visit to the Italy—Milan, Venice, Florence, Rome, Genoa,—and to Nice and Monte Carlo.

Returning on the steamer, the Aurania, will depart from Southampton on August 3; the second, the Ascania, from Cherbourg on August 10; and the third, the Alaunia, from Cherbourg on August 24.

LLOYDMINSTER OUTCLASSES EDMONTON NAVY

The Lloydminster Elks showed a marked superiority over the Edmonton Navy team in the first round of the inter-mediate play-off last Friday night when the Borderites ran up a score of 6-1 against their opponents from the city. The game was played at Lloydminster before a crowd of 1000 fans. The Lloydminster Elks now meet Ponoka who defeated the Red Deer outfit in the initial encounter. It is likely that the Border City team will find a little stiffer opposition in the boys from Ponoka.

OPEN LETTER TO HON. MACKENZIE KING

THE RAILWAY AGREEMENT

The presidents of both the railway companies of Canada having issued their appeal to the public against the judgment of the Department of Immigration, the whole question must necessarily come before you as President of the Privy Council. It is essential Canada to such an extent that the Department of Immigration cannot stand by its decision unless they are strongly supported by public opinion. I feel-re that opinion has been strongly forming in the Dominion during the year 1928 and is now ready to support the Department on the two steps they have taken recently (1) to open the ways from the British Isles and (2) curtail the irrational privileges granted to the railway companies commonly known as the railway agreements."

The railway Presidents say their first appeal was entered into on September 1st, 1925 by which they were permitted to gather immigrants in the "non-preferred" countries and so increase the gains of their traffic departments, in other words dividends to their shareholders.

But that agreement was not an immigration judgment of this country. It was only a temporary expedient because of the political necessities of the time to create traffic by dumping into this country hundreds of undesirable "non-preferred" Europeans. That is, the two railway companies have already partially destroyed the public character of the Canadian Pacific for the sake of the private interests of their shareholders.

Should the Department now stand as ground it will take the next 20 years to overcome the damage already perpetrated in the West by the Immigration activities in "unpreferred" countries by the railway companies alone.

After having had warning from the Department that the stream of "non preferred" Continentals was unsuitable history, the railways increase their aggression and in 1926 brought in 21,618. In 1927 the figure increased to 36,000. In the eleven months of 1928 they brought in 43,148, and were preparing for a flood in 1929.

The letter from the Department to the railways requires this number to be cut down to 50 per cent. for the year 1929. This is about the number of "unpreferred" Continentals actually put on the farms last year. To this is the line "Presidents' reply that the notice is too short.

But surely, Mr. Premier, both Presidents have something of the dissatisfaction in the country expressed by the evidence given before the Investigation Committee of the House of Commons last year. Surely the railway presidents read the whole of the report on immigration as issued by the King-Tolmie advertisement. If so, they could not have been very much surprised when the Department laid letter requiring them to reduce the number of the "unpreferred Continentals" they were to be permitted to bring into this country.

What is the Immigration Department for if it is not to protect the country from a flood of undesirables brought in for the purpose of smashing wages.

The real point of the railway protest appears to be in the "labour supply section" in which the Presidents do not hesitate to declare that the Continental and those from the "preferred" countries in order to make an argument in favor of importing a huge crowd of cheap labour for railway construction purposes.

But, Mr. Premier, we join with the Trades and Labour as well as those made of others, in strenuously objecting to the railways being allowed to permanently pervade Western country with thousands and thousands of these "unpreferred," that is, undesirable people in order that they may get a yearly supply of cheap labour for railway construction. If the rail ways cannot afford to pay a white man's wage they had better curtail their building plans.

In three years they acknowledge to have brought in 116,795 of these thoroughly unsuitable people for permanent settlement. Quite evidently but that 50 per cent have gone on the land, so there are 73,000 of them still to be had. If three people have been in this country long enough to demand a proper wage, then let the railways offer a proper white man wage and get permission to bring in the 73,000 shiploads of miners and railway builders from the British Isles. If they are put to work under proper Canadian fore-men instead of Bohunks the work will be done and well done at that.

We shall look to you Sir, to support the Minister of Immigration in this his second real step to prevent what is still left of the Western Provinces being made into a new Balkan State.

Yours faithfully,
GEORGE EXTON LLOYD,
Prince Albert, Sask. 2p.

ADVANCE IN HAIL INSURANCE RATES FOR WEST

Montreal—Substantial increases in hail insurance rates in Alberta and parts of Saskatchewan were decided upon at the annual meeting here of the Canadian Hail Underwriters' Association. Details of the increases remain to be worked out at a further meeting, but it was understood that for most of the province of Alberta the increase in rates will be confined largely to the extreme south, although not to all parts of that district. The increase there would be five per cent.

Reductions will be put in force in many parts of central and northern Saskatchewan. Manitoba is not affected.

This information was given to the Canadian Press by John Wilcox, president of the organization for the coming year. Mr. Wilcox said the association was not basing its new rates upon the excessive damage through hail last year, but two years but was taking an average for the last 15 or 16 years' operations.

Forty delegates are representing hail insurance companies in Canada, with some members from Chicago and New York, attended the meeting. The decision to raise rates followed study of a report of a committee of which he was chairman over a period of 15 years losses have been so heavy that hail underwriting has been far from profitable.

Accorded Privileges Of Press Gallery

Each Dominion Now Has Press Representative in British Isles

London.—As a means of facilitating the despatch of British parliamentary news to Canada and the other dominions, the principal dominion press representatives in London have now been accorded the privileges of the press gallery in Westminster, similar to those accorded writers for the London papers.

Previously there was only one press gallery ticket for all the dominions together, the principal dominion representative now receives an individual ticket. It is understood Rt. Hon. C. M. S. Gordon, secretary for the dominions, personally had a hand in securing this improvement.

Bombay, India.—Mahatma Gandhi Nationalist leader, who hopes to achieve home rule for India within a year, has abandoned his idea for a visit to Europe this year. Writing in the current issue of the newspaper "Young India," he says: "I dare not think of next year. A Danish friend writes me that I could usefully go to Europe only as a representative of a free India. I felt the truth of this remark."

World's Largest Theatre Sold

New York.—The 11 pcodrome, the world's largest theatre, has been sold for approximately $6 000 000 Although the purchaser, Frederick Brown, a real estate operator, would not disclose his plans, it was indicated that he had a new project in mind for the site, and that the theatre might be razed.

Aid For Civil Aviation

Flying Clubs Will Be Given Thirty-two New Planes This Year

Ottawa. — Thirty-two aeroplanes will this year be given flying clubs by the government it is announced by the department of militia in the national defence department.

Besides these, two machines to each newly-formed organization, one extra machine is given for each one which the club members purchase themselves. The 16 clubs already in operation are each expected to buy a machine this year.

There are over 150 flying pilots in Canada with seven years' experience in the air, according to figures compiled by the national defence department in connection with applications now being received by the civil service commission for two positions as inspectors of civil aviation.

There is one vacancy at Ottawa and one at Regina. These are additions to the staff occasioned by the increased activity of aviation. At present there are three inspectors. Their duties include the examination of aerodromes, the testing of machines for airworthiness and choice of locations for airdromes.

Doukhobors Found Guilty

Ringleaders In Clash With Police Receive Jail Sentence

Grand Forks, B.C.—Eight None of the Doukhobor religious fanatics, were sentenced to serve six months each for obstructing police officers who were found guilty by John A. Hinton and John M. Donaldson, justices of the peace. The fanatics offered no defence.

The fanatics were arrested and charged following a clash with 11 provincial police officers and 15 Canadian who sought to arrest Stepanikoff and Wolken, wanted for infringement of the School Act. The Sons of Freedom attempted to prevent the arrest of their leaders, but were overcome by tear gas bombs. At their Vancouver, B.C. community head, reported to have testified in these actions, was engaged in a matrimonial act trial. He did not figure in the case.

Coast Wants Orient Trade

Would Gain Larger Share for Canada, Says T. R. Dixon

Ottawa. — Canadian boards of trade from the Atlantic to the Pacific have unanimously agreed to seek an increase immense benefits for national commerce and fruitful results from their co-operative labor, said T. R. Dixon, president of the Vancouver Board of Trade in an address at the 72nd annual meeting of the Ottawa Board of Trade.

Within the next two years, Mr. Dixon declared, Vancouver would send an expedition of Canadian business men into the Orient in an attempt to secure larger trade for the port of the Dominion in the Far East and gain a larger share of Oriental trade for the manufacturers and producers of Canada.

Submits Request To League

China Wants to Protect Her People Against Opium Evil

Geneva.—The opium evil was made the occasion for another plea by China for the right to police its own territory irrespective of the nationality of offenders.

Wang King-Kyi, chief representative of his country at Geneva, submitted that it was impossible to separate the narcotic and political questions so long as China was not free to protect her own people against the acts of nationals of other powers.

Plans Branch Line in B.C.

Nelson, B.C.—Notification to the public of its intention to apply at the coming session of parliament for a charter rights to build a railroad link from Kootenay Landing to Procter, B.C., is announced by the Canadian Pacific Railway in a statutory notice. Plan Being Endorsed

National Day of Thanksgiving for Recovery of King Is Urged

Winnipeg.—A movement emanating in the province of Quebec to hold a national day of thanksgiving throughout Canada for the recovery of his Majesty King George from his recent illness, and which it was stated has the endorsement of Premier Taschereau of Quebec and other prominent men of that province, was whole-heartedly supported by Mayor W. E. Mallbis and the Vancouver city council.

Winnipeg.—Endorsation of the plan to hold a Dominion-wide day of thanksgiving for the recent recovery to health of His Majesty King George was given by Mayor Dan McLean of Winnipeg.

Studying Aircraft Device

Dominion Government May Establish Direction Finding Apparatus Service

Ottawa.—For the purpose of ascertaining what the United States is doing in the field of direction finding for aircraft by radio, Maj W. Arthur Steel, one of the staff officers of the signals service, department of national defence, has gone to Washington, New York and other points, to obtain information for Canada. Direction finding apparatus has been used to advantage in the operation of aircraft in several countries and the Canadian government is considering establishing such a service in the Dominion.

RIVALRY SEEN BETWEEN ITALY AND FRANCE

Toronto.—The Mail and Empire publishes the following special cable from Paris:

"A factor in the world naval situation which hitherto has been obscured by Anglo-American discussion of the limitation of naval armaments is the growing rivalry between France and Italy in the Mediterranean, as reflected in their building programs. For the first time much prominence is being given to this subject here and it may fairly be suspected that the British "big navy" party is preparing to counter any suggestion for a naval holiday with the United States by pointing to the danger to British interests in Mediterranean waters as necessitating more cruiser building.

Hector J. Bywater, well known naval expert in a column article in the Daily Telegraph analyzes in startling terms the French-Italian building race and speaks of the Mediterranean as "one of the main asteries of our empire."

"No neutral can hope to conduct business as usual in a zone of active warfare," he finds proceeding to pile up statistics intended to prove his contention. "That France and Italy are now in open rivalry for strategic control of the Mediterranean is the only possible inference to be drawn from recent developments.

CANADIAN IDEAS IN JAPAN

When K. Hashima, superintendent of rolling stock and machinery of the Sapporo district, Japanese railway system, was in Canada recently studying the operations of the Canadian National Railways for the benefit of the people of his own country, he was particularly interested in the methods used in cleaning snow from the track. In a letter to W. A. Kingsland, general manager of the National system's western region, Mr. Hashima expressed his thanks for the courtesy thus given him by A. H. Engur, gen eral superintendent motive power and car equipment Winnipeg and A. McCowan, assistant general superintendent, car equipment, Montreal. He describes a new type of snow fighting machine known as "rotary" used from which particularly effective work is done. The machine, which is the most successful of all Canada's exports travel through the United States ports while only five per cent of United States exports travel through Canadian ports

Plans Show Slight Increase

Twelve Per Cent. Advance in Immigration to Canada Last Year

Ottawa.—Immigration to Canada continues to show a moderate increase over that of a year ago, the total for nine months of the fiscal year up to and including December being 144,113 compared with 128,927 for the same period in 1927. The increase is 12 per cent.

The total immigration of December amounted to 5,510 compared with 4,566 in December, 1927, an increase of 71 per cent. The month's immigration included 1,478 British, 1,544 from United States, 24 Belgians, 80 Danish, 99 Dutch, 204 Finnish, 31 French, 434 Germans, 61 Norwegians, 75 Swedish, 15 Swiss and 1,496 of other races.

Of the 144,113 immigrants who came to Canada in the last nine months 82,557 were of the farming class and 14,199 were female domestic servants.

London Awaits News

Announcement of Duke of Gloucester's Engagement Expected Shortly

London.—The Daily News said it understands that the engagement of the Duke of Gloucester, formerly Prince Henry, third son of King George, would be announced shortly.

The newspaper said it was believed the duke was engaged to Lady Angela Scott, daughter of the Duke and Duchess of Buccleuch.

The Daily News understood that the announcement had been delayed because of King George's illness.

Winnipeg. R. S. Law, formerly of Clarenchion, Alta., has been appointed to the board of directors and to the position of first vice president of the United Grain Growers Ltd. He succeeds the late Hon. T. A. Crerar, president of the company. Mr. Law succeeds Henry Wise Wood the position he held for the last 11 years and who resigned to enter business in his own right

Spectators Thrilled By Parachute Jump

Two Winnipeg Airmen Brave Wind and Below Zero Weather

Winnipeg.—Braving a high northwest wind and 15 below zero weather, Flight Lieut. A. Carter and Sergt. Joe Maskell, of the Royal Canadian Air Force, thrilled 800 persons at Stevenson Aerodrome by jumping from aeroplanes with parachutes at a height of 2,500 feet.

The feat is unique in Manitoba and perhaps in Canada, considering the weather conditions.

Carter landed in a clump of trees two miles east of the point where he jumped, and a group of airmen had to rescue the parachute from its branches. Maskell also was carried far afield.

Carter's jump was the 36th of his career. He holds the record for parachute jumpers in the British Empire, having made a leap of 70,000 feet at High River, Alberta, in November, 1925.

Secures Desired Land

Veteran of C.E.F. in Siberia Files on Peace River Homestead

Peace River.—After waiting from Friday, January 18 until Monday morning, January 28, G. Turcotte Falher, was successful in securing the land of his choice when agents for the Falher district that had been under lease but recently was thrown open for filing. Ten days of bitter zero were weather with the thermometer ranging from 30 below during the day and down to almost 60 during the long nights he endured.

Turcotte did not have it all his own way for Corporal McDonald of the mounted police was on hand to prevent disorder. He ordered Turcotte to remove his hand from the door knob so that the door could be opened. Another man named Trudeau was on hand and secured a claim while the door was opening, but Turcotte was in the most favorable position and squeezed in first

Parley On Import Preference Likely

Text Reports Presented by President Coolidge Not Yet Received

Ottawa.—At the department of external affairs, it was stated that the reports presented by President Coolidge to congress on the subject of customs preference and other matters through Canadian ports have not yet been received. No diplomatic representation based on them have yet been made. The United States minister in Ottawa, however, brought the general situation to the attention of Premier Mackenzie King some weeks ago.

Mr. Calvin Coolidge informed the United States senate that diplomatic negotiations would begin with Canada on the matter. It is anticipated that there will be representations in the near future.

TRAFFIC VIA CANADA'S PORTS NORMAL FACTOR

Washington.—Discriminatory tariffs against goods imported into the United States via Canadian ports is recommended by only one out of three committees of congress which reported to the senate on the question of United states commerce through Canadian ports. The majority found that the movement of United States freight and exports through Canadian ports was "normal" and that the natural factors of international trade and transportation were responsible for the fact that a greater proportion of United States imports and exports move through Canadian ports than through United States ports with which they compete. The majority report was made by Senator Walsh of Massachusetts, democrat, and Senator Capper, republican, Kansas. The minority report was made by Senator Smoot, republican, Utah, and Senator Heflin, democrat, Alabama. The majority report said that 25 per cent of all Canada's exports travel through United States ports while only five per cent of United States exports travel through Canadian ports.

CANADA STILL RETAINS HIGH TRADE POSITION

Ottawa.—Canada's position among the leading commercial nations of the world in international trade continues to rank very high. World-wide statistics are not yet available for the calendar year 1928, but for the calendar year 1927, Canada occupied fifth position in import and export trade; second position in exports and total trade per capita, third position in favorable trade balance, and first position in favorable trade balance per capita.

Inasmuch as Canada's trade for 1928 shows an increase of $270,548,000, imports $135,200,000 and exports $135,348,000, her position in international trade in 1928 was well maintained.

During the calendar year 1928 Canada's total trade amounted to $2,586 448,000, compared with a similar trade of $2,325 900,000 for the same period in 1927, the increase, 1928 over 1927 amounting to $270,548,000 or 11.6 per cent This increase was greater than Canada's total 30 years ago.

The outstanding feature in Canadian trade in 1928 was the enormous increase in her wheat exports. For the calendar year 1928 total exports of wheat reached 387,426,561 bushels, valued at $435 767,876, the largest 12 months' period on record. The increase in 1928 over the previous largest wheat export year, equalling 71,370,000 bushels, value $182,110,-894.

During the year ended December 31, 1928, the duty collected on imports amounted to $192,386,000 as compared with $168,253,000 for the same period in 1927. The duty collected for 1928 exceeded that collected for any calendar year period, except for the year 1920, when it amounted to $203,029,000.

Manitoba House To Open February 11

Will Proceed to Take Up Business Without Usual Adjournment

Winnipeg.—The Manitoba legislature will go into session Monday afternoon, February 11, at 3 o'clock. An order-in-council fixing this date was signed by Hon. J. D. McGregor, shortly after being sworn in as lieutenant-governor.

The house will proceed with the business before it immediately after the formal opening ceremony and the reading of the speech from the throne by the new lieutenant-governor. This will be a departure from custom previously followed.

Will Not Compete

Toronto, Ont.—The ladies' high jump which was on the program of the Olympic games at New York, February 9, has been cancelled, according to a wire received by Miss Myrtle Cook. The wire and exhibitions were not permitted at these games and that Miss Ethel Catherwood has been notified to this effect. The means that Miss Catherwood will not compete in New York.

Lloydminster Advances Another Notch in Play-Off

In the second round of the intermediate play-off, Lloydminster ran against Lacombe. The first game was played at Lloydminster last Friday night and resulted in a 6-1 win for Chas. Ivy and Co. The second game was played Monday night at Lacombe and the Beachville league boys were defeated 4-3, total goals counted on the round as the Elks were up by 2 goals on the total. This gives the advantage to the next round of the play-downs. The Lacombe team won the intermediate championship last season.

After the strenuous game at Lacombe Monday night the Lloyd team journeyed down to Red Deer and played sixty minutes of the fastest hockey ever seen in that town with the Red Deer team, to end at 6-6 deadlock. The second game will be played at Lloydminster on Monday night and will determine the winners of the Northern Alberta Intermediate championship, and the right to meet the southern winners in the play-off series

Superintendent Vermilion Municipal Hospital Resigns

Minutes of the first regular meeting of the Vermilion municipal hospital board held on Saturday, 9th, all members with the exception of S. P. Jarvis being present;

In connection with the hearing by the Board of Public Utilities on the detachment of the northern end of the Hospital district, Mr. Morrison and Mr McLellan who were the delegates to attend hearing were unable to go with the result that Mr. Taylor, the Secretary, was the only representative at the hearing. He reported having stated the case of the hospital district to the board of Public Utilities but that no decision was handed down pending receipt of information on the assets and liabilities of this hospital district. It was moved and adopted "That the report of the delegate Mr. Taylor, on the hearing before the Board of Public Utilities be accepted".

In response to the advertising for the position of Janitor the Secy. presented 37 applications which were thoroughly checked over and it was finally moved and adopted that Mr. W. F. Mussen be accepted as janitor at a salary of $60.00 per month, duties to commence Feb. 16th.

Miss Keith submitted her resignation as Supt. to the meeting which was received with regret, as during the nine and one-half years that she has occupied the position she has always carried out her duties to both the satisfaction of the board and patients. The Secy was instructed to advertise in both Edmonton and Calgary papers for applications, salary to be $100.00 and duties to commence March 1st. Miss Kobrynz (undergraduate) also submitted her resignation, she having secured a better position. This the board accepted with regret and the secretary was instructed advertise for applicants at a salary of $40.00 per month, duties to commence March 15th.

To deal with the applications for the position of superintendent, it was moved that a special meeting be held on Wednesday, Feb 20th to consider applications received.

JUVENILES WIN FOURTH STRAIGHT GAME; TRIM MINERS 6 GOALS TO 3

The Vermilion Juveniles walked away with their fourth straight victory last Saturday afternoon in the local arena, trimming the Misburn young stars by a score of 6-3. All the local boys with the exception of the goalkeeper 15 years or under. The class of hockey these lads serve up was a revelation to the onlookers.

Line up for the local boys: Brimacombe, goal; Fraser and Maidenberg on defence, Cowan, White, Brimacombe and Fallow.

Lloyds Win Second Game 8-3

The first period of the Vermilion vs Arva game here on Monday last, a decided Manville line to it home. It did not take Chance to White on the Red and White boys to get started, he started for the visitors in the first whole game speed-ing the scoring with several shots that were just a little to by Welsh, but White-Arva's goal keeping going over big with the Juniors to it up. This period brought out some real good wrestling by both Milligan and Welsh.

The second period found the Vermilion boys getting the range for the throw of them decidedly and goals that should never have found the net. Art White got the first one in the period quickly followed by McKenzie on a soft shot from a pass from Cooper Stan notched the next one on a pretty individual effort and Fallow finished the scoring for the period

Art White scored twice in the last canto with Burch and Parker on each for Manville. Bert Williams handled a rough game. Ade Fallow and Leitch getting the only penalties

SCIENTIFIC BATTERY CHARGING AT VERMILION MOTORS

The constant potential battery charger now only installed by Vermilion Motors not only restores your battery in nine hours, but it restores your battery of longer life because it charges it efficiently. The battery is on a charging line by itself, and takes just the right amount of current required to bring it up to the highest standard mark. The Vermilion Motors battery man can show you just how this is done, how the charge entering your battery gradually grows smaller as the battery is charged, and how it automatically cuts out when fully charged. Take your battery to the Vermilion Motors for scientific charging for the cost of the time wasted at elsewhere, and get a longer-lived charge. Adv

Moved Large Tree

White Oak At Wellesley, Mass., Was Lowered Six Feet

An unusual feat of tree moving has been performed at Wellesley College, Wellesley. A large white oak observed the Christmas vacation by lowered six feet. The cause of this descent was the necessary lowering of the hill on which the new dormitory, Stone Davis Hall, has been erected.

A large excavation was dug under the tree, which previously gave the appearance of being on a pedestal, and then powerful jets of water undermined the pedestal, and the tree dropped six feet to its new location.

Sets Fractured Arm By Radio Instructions

Operator in Arctic Gets Medical Advice from Ottawa

Receiving medical instructions flashed 1,700 miles into the Arctic by wireless, and setting a fractured arm by bone in the accomplishment of G. Hudson, radio operator at Hope's Advance, in the Hudson Strait. The story is told in a series of cryptic messages between Hudson, at the range-finding station on the north and the department station of the Department of Marine at Ottawa.

Preceding his first message by "Rush Medical," Hudson said that R. Hall, a fur trader, suffering from an elbow injury, had succeeded in reaching the lonely station on the Dunaza Bay by dog sled. First aid had been supplied, and he asked that a diagnosis and instructions for treatment be rushed back.

Within 80 minutes F. Woodrow of the Trail Radio Station had obtained the required help from Dr. J. E. Hagarty of the Department of Health. In the lonely station in the north the operator succeeded in bandaging a contusion and setting the arm in accordance with instructions indicated that his patient was progressing satisfactorily.

Does Not Always Require Intelligence

Astonishing Feats in Mathematics Accomplished by Ignorant Persons

The gift of computation does not necessarily, or even usually, of necessity indicate a high order of intelligence. A famous example, writes "Englishman," was that of Zerah Colburn, a Negro slave born in Virginia, who though he could neither read nor write, astonished 18th century investigators by his feats in mental arithmetic. Jacques Inaudin again was a simpleton, but could tell the four figures in his head as rapidly as a skilled operator could perform the feat with pencil and paper, and he imperfectly educated peasant from Piedmont. He could also give the product of still larger numbers, with the advantage then lay with the mechanic. Some eminent mathematicians have, of course, also been simpletons, and Euler must have had marvellous powers of what Binet called intuition, since he was able to pursue his mathematical researches after the loss of his sight

To Prevent "Flu"

INFLUENZA GERMS FIRST ATTACK THE NOSE AND THROAT

Dangerous germs which lodge in the breathing give you Grippe, Flu, or Influenza. You can destroy these germs if you cleanse your nose, mouth and throat with Catarrhozone. When the healing vapor of Catarrhozone is inhaled it carries powerful antiseptics which destroy every vestige of germ life.

Protect yourself against "Flu" by using Catarrhozone; it stops a cold in a few moments, cleans the air-cells, takes soreness out of the throat. All the healing matter in the nose and throat that smells so bad, that gives you a headache and causes you cough — Catarrhozone clears it all away.

For Influenza, Catarrh, Nose Colds, Irritable Throat, you will get prompt and effective action from Catarrhozone. Sold by druggists or your purse or pocket, etc., use it frequently. Complete outfit $1.00, Smaller size 50c. at all dealers.

Preparing For Air Service

Aerodromes Are To Be Built In South African Jungle

Jungs aerodromes are being laid out in Africa in preparation for the air service from Cairo to Johannesburg. Thousands of trees have had to be felled and their roots dug up to provide landing spaces. Ant-hills have been, in many places, removed by hand, as no other means were available. Some of them were over 20 feet high. Flamingo and other flights are to be made next summer as a preliminary to the regular service. The white journey of 5,000 miles will take five or six days instead of two months by existing means of transport.

Mothers Warned Of Colds That Follow the Flu

Attack Weakened System and Pave Way for Pneumonia or Now Case of Influenza

BEST TREATED EXTERNALLY

Physicians advise that the chief danger in the influenza is the after influenza. Then, more than ever, cold attacking the weakened system may lead to bronchitis, pneumonia, or a second and more severe case of flu This is especially true of children.

Flu nearly always leaves the stomach upset. Internal medication should, therefore, be avoided, as it so often further disturbs the digestion and thus retards recovery.

But if a fresh cold comes, don't let the child keep it overnight. Just rub Vicks on throat and chest at bedtime. As it is applied externally, Vicks can be used freely even on the youngest child, with no fear of upsetting a delicate stomach.

Vicks's two ways at once (both absorbed and inhaled) to check the cold and avoid serious complications And, of course, it is just as good for adults.

Four European Tours

C.N.R. Complete Arrangements For Personally Conducted Trips This Summer

Pensions are being saved, and Hitler and French are being brought up by scores of Western Canadians who are looking forward to a tour of Europe this coming summer. Enquiry as it is in the season, the Canadian National Railways have already announced the completion of arrangements for their four annual personally conducted European tours. The Cunarder, "Andania," will leave Montreal on July 3, and from the word "Go!" it will be high holiday for the school-teachers and other lucky ones who are on board.

Motor jaunts through England and Scotland will take ten places Ireland will take in places hitherto made the happy hunting ground—Melrose Abbey, Holyrood, Abbotsford, Warwick Kenilworth, Stratford-on-Avon, Oxford, Windsor, Court, Stoke Pogue—there will be a steamer trip on Loch Lomond, a visit to the Trossachs, and stay in Glasgow, Edinburgh and London. Then there will be a long stay in Paris and a trip to Versailles and to the battlefields.

"Those who stay in Europe longer will visit Normandy, and Cologne, and Switzerland, and the travellers with even greater leisure will have the joy of going down into Italy—Milan, Venice, Florence, Rome, Genoa—and to Nice and Monte Carlo.

The first return steamer, the "Australia," will depart from Southampton on August 3; the second the "Ausonia," from Cherbourg, on Aug ust 10; and the third, the "Alsatia," from Cherbourg, on August 24.

PRAYER

Golden Text: "If ye abide in Me, and My words abide in you, ask whatsoever ye will, and it shall be done unto you."—John 15:7.

Lesson: Genesis 18:23-33; Exodus 32:31, 32; Nehemiah 1:4-11; Daniel 6:10; Matthew 6:5-15; Luke 18:1-14; John 17:1-26; 1 Thessalonians 5:17; 1 John 5:14,15.

Devotional Reading: Psalm 121. 1-8.

Explanations and Comments

Prayer Should Be Sincere, Mt. 6. 5-8.—And when ye pray, ye shall not be as the hypocrites: for they love to stand and pray in the synagogues and in the corners of the streets, that they may be seen of men. It was the appearance of righteousness that the hypocrites coveted, not the righteousness itself.

"To be seen of men is after all, one of the most influential incentives to human conduct. Some people go into radical extravagance in order to be seen of men as rich; and the average person would rather be seen to have certain qualities than actually to possess them."—H. S. Brewster.

"Verily I say unto you. "They have received their reward," said Jesus in regard to the hypocrites. The Greek word translated "received" means "received in full," and is the one used in drawing up receipts. They have received the full reward which they sought, they have been seen of men, and this was what they desired, they have no claim whatsoever to any further reward.

"Nor will be to those lips attend Whose prayers are lip-prayers."

—John Buxton.

But thou, when thou prayest, enter into thine inner chamber, and having shut thy door, pray to thy Father, who is in secret. The inner chamber with closed door stands for any place where we are alone with God. For Nathaniel it was under the fig tree, for Peter, it was on the housetop. Jesus himself chose the mountain-side and the garden. He He communed with His Father's. When you pray shut out the world and shut yourself in with God. "Dew fails, we are told, only when the atmosphere is still." So the flow of prayers will fall abundantly on souls only when we are all alone. Jesus is not disparaging public prayer, which He elsewhere commands, but He is emphasizing the test of sincerity which private prayer affords.

And thy Father who seeth in secret shall recompense thee.

The Liniment That Relieves All Ailments

MINARD'S "KING OF PAIN" LINIMENT

Necessity Of Sowing Pure Seed If Grower Expects To Secure Highest Returns From His Farm

While admitting the importance of high fertility and good cultivation as essential for a good seed-bed, let us not forget the importance of sowing good sound seed, pure as to variety, free from weed seeds, of high vitality, and which has been treated for smut.

The time never was more opportunes or more ripe for the necessity of sowing pure seed than it is today.

With the ever-increasing weed problem, and the multiplicity of varieties that are on the market, the time is at hand when we must now pure seed, if we expect to reap the highest returns from our farms.

The wide-awake farmer does not wait until the last minute to prepare and clean his seed, and will always be found ready when seeding time arrives, to sow seed that has been cleaned, of good germination, and which has been treated for smut.

The practice of the Morden Experimental Station, in regard to seed grain, is to clean all grain intended for seed purposes shortly after harvest and to germinate two-hundred samples to the Dominion Seed Branch, Winnipeg for grading and germination tests.

With the long winter days, when the farmer has ample time to spare, why not make the little jaunt and start the fanning mill going, get the seed grain ready, and be prepared for the big rush in the spring.

For those farmers who are intending purchasing seed grain, now is the time to get busy. Don't delay, but secure your seed early, then you will have no worries about seed grain when spring opens up.

In a recent survey made in Manitoba, one farmer was sowing seed supposed to be Marquis, but upon sampling it, found it to contain Marquis, while the other 40 per cent. consisted of weed seeds, and other varieties of grain.

We cannot hope to produce grain that will maintain our high standards on our markets if more attention is not given to the seed we sow.

Experimental Farm Note.

Canada's Northland

Department of Interior Is Exploring Northwest Territories

Much is being done by the Department of the Interior to organize and explore the great territories lying to the north of the prairie provinces. It is fully realized that development of the northland will depend largely on a robust native population and an abundance of wild life. In conformity with this assumption game preserves have been set aside for the sole use of the natives; expert investigations of the migratory birds' ranges and report on wild life conditions; experiments have been conducted with a view to the introduction of new species of animal life, and regulations have been enforced with regard to the destruction of predatory animals.

"Let's play you're the little girl and I'm your mamma."

"Very well, agreed her mother. "Now you eat the spinach!" commanded Shirley.

Influence Of Sunlight

Experiments Show Pigs Eating Oats Take Less Feed

In recent lowa swine feeding tests one of the important summarizations issues was the effect of sunlight on nutrition. Those pigs that were fed out in the open made about the same daily gain as the ones fed inside. But they did it on less feed, states -s writer in Live Stock Markets.

The pigs fed inside required an average of 425 pounds of feed for each hundred pounds of gain to reach a weight of 225 pounds, while those fed in the sunlight reached the same weight with only 391 pounds of feed for each hundred pounds increased weight. The outside fed pigs made $1.62 more per head over feed costs than the inside fed lambs.

John M. Evvard, in charge of the experiments, thinks sunshine was responsible. He is convinced of this because the outside fed pigs did not do nearly so well during the early part of the winter when the sun's rays were short and cold. After the days became longer and more mild, there was a marked improvement in gains.

The conclusion is that probably in midwinter, it is well to feed pigs inside. They should, however, have a little exercise in order to get the best results. Pigs fed outside because more mild feeding outside will pay.

Best Peas For Canning

Experiments Show Alaska Variety Even Richard Tiny

The canning of peas has grown into an industry of considerable extent in many parts of Canada. In the province of Nova Scotia it has become an established industry. To find out the best varieties of peas to grow for this purpose a series of experiments was carried out at the Experimental Farm, Nappan. The important factors looked for as described in the report of the superintendent, were the effect of sunlight on nutrition. Those pigs that were fed out in the open made about the same daily gain as the ones fed inside. But they did it on less feed, states -s writer in Live Stock Markets.

The pigs fed inside required an average of 425 pounds of feed for each hundred pounds of gain to reach a weight of 225 pounds, while those fed in the sunlight reached the same weight with only 391 pounds of feed for each hundred pounds increased weight. Artists' Blunders

Many Mistakes and Paintings Very Glaring Errors To Observant People

Not one person in 10,000 probably, who passes daily under the famous "Bootleus" statuary on the Embankment, in London, England, has ever observed the gross blunder made by the sculptor. The group represents the early queen in a chariot driven by Druid Magnus. The two horses are attached to the chariot by traces. But there were no such things as traces when the Queen of the Iceni went forth to battle.

In front of Westminster Hall a few hundred yards away, is the statue of Oliver Cromwell. The Protector is in riding costume, but experts allege that he is wearing his spurs upside down.

Many other blunders of the same kind were indicated in a lecture given in London, England, by C. H. B. Quennell at the Royal Institute of British Architects.

There are in the hall known picture of the Pilgrim Fathers which contained an anachronism. The sailors were holding a Union Jack, which did not come into existence until 1601, a century and a half after the Pilgrim Fathers left England.

Copley's famous canvas "Death of Chatham," in the National Gallery, has many glaring errors. But the great minister died in the House of Lords. He was in a very weak state when he was led down to the House of Lords to make his great criticism of the Government's policy in the American War. He had a bit, but recovered, and did not die until five weeks later at Hayes. In Raphael's picture, "The Miraculous Draught of Fishes," sung at South Kensington, were fish never caught in the Sea of Galilee. No one had seen the skate there.

Words And Wisdom

Getting of Gold Does Not Require Exception Ability

"And where shall wisdom be found?" Mr. Julius Rosenwald, a man of great fortune, replies in a pamphlet that it is not in the stock exchange. Most people, he says, believe that because a man has become rich he must have in any subject are valuable; but he holds that most large fortunes have been made by men of mediocre ability who "tumbled into a lucky opportunity." The friend of Job who came to comfort him said that wisdom could not be "gotten for gold." Mr. Rosenwald's 20th century corollary is that the getting of gold does not imply special wisdom in the getter.

Canadians Saving Money

At the end of 1928, savings deposits in the chartered banks of Canada stood at $1,080,000,000, which represents a per capita deposit for the Dominion of about $140.

First Wife—"How long had you known your husband before you were married?"

Second Ditto—"I didn't know him at all. I only thought I did."

Mere Letters with Fancy Postage

Penny postage, inaugurated at Christmas, is working well and bringing about a notable increase in letter mailings, Sir William Mulock, Postmaster General of Canada, would be such as to offset the $200,000 estimated reduction in revenue by the penny rate.

Fine Farming a Success

The Great West River Pox Farm, located about four miles from Princeton, B.C., made a shipment of 1,000 silver foxes to Fur Westminster the other day. There are now more than 100 foxes on the local farm. This is the meeting with pronounced success in the commercial breeding of foxes.

Practical Results Are Obtained From Research Work Done In The British National Museums

Make Good Hay Crops

Tests Made With Oats and Barley Were Successful

Oats and barley, when the varieties are carefully selected, make very good hay crops. At the Rosthern, Saskatchewan, Experimental Station five varieties of oats and one of barley were tested and the results of the test have been published in the report of the station for 1927, published by the Department of Agriculture at Ottawa. The varieties of oats tested were Banner, Victory, Gerlach, Gold, Rain and Liberty. Each variety was cut at the time of heading out, then two weeks later, and again when turning. The crops cut at the turning period made the rich hay on account of the high percentage of herbal. The straw at the stage was also quite palatable. The crop cut at this stage also gave the highest yield of cured hay. Banner gave the best returns, though Victory, Gerlach and Gold Rain were also high. In the average of three cuttings, Gold Rain, Victory and Banner showed good returns and proved their suitability for annual hay purposes. In a three-year average of all cuttings Gerlach was the highest yielder, though the difference in its favor was only slight. Liberty, though a light yielder, produced the finest quality of hay. The barley used is known as feeder barley, an awnless variety, the straw of which remains green until the grain is nearly ripe. The yield from this is small and harmless and towards finding out the weakest point in the life history of the pest which measures may be taken with most chance of success. Advice is sought from the staff of the Natural History Museum. The whaling industry is recognised to be in grave peril from reckless exploitation and the Museum decided to collect knowledge on a sufficiently broad basis for the devising of ecological remedies. It was decided that the Natural History Museum was at once called on. The scientific staff of the Discovery expedition has gone at work at the Museum examining the results of their inquiries in southern seas.

One example is sufficient to prove the practical advantage to the Empire and the world of the Royal Botanic Gardens at Kew. The cultivation of rubber and the industries dependent on it represent a outlay of hundreds of millions of pounds, and have become possible through the agency of Kew. In June, 1876, F. S. Wickham arrived at Kew with 70,000 seeds of the Brazil nut rubber tree, which he had been commissioned by the Indian Office to collect. These were sown in a wire of 300 square feet. Some 2,000 germinated, and in August 1900, were sent to Ceylon in charge of a skilled gardener. About 1,700 reached Peradeniya at the Peradeniya Botanic Gardens in excellent condition. The plant's were established in Ceylon, and the plantations of Para rubber in India, Burma, Malaya, and elsewhere are the result.

At the Museum of Practical Geology the expert staff are constantly giving advice and information on ores and minerals of economic value and on gems and ornamental stones. The Science Museum is designed to illustrate and aid the application of science to all branches of industry, and these functions it performs by a magnificent library and by loan collections and apparatus.

A Sad Reminder

Mrs. Smith, just back from Europe, said to Mrs. Jones:

"I just couldn't bear looking at the ruins in Italy. They made me so homesick for my husband."

"Homesick for your husband!"

"Yes, you know, Henry has fallen arches."

Your work would not be complete if you put more than one drum if you put more than one.

New School Act Goes Before The House Unchanged

Will Go to Legislature as Originally Drafted by Government

The new school act, providing a radically different method of administration for the educational system in rural Alberta, will be introduced in the legislature exactly as it now stands and as drafted by the government. No changes are proposed in it that is to say, as the result of any representations or criticisms that have yet been offered, though opportunity has been given for its examination by all interested. The bill will make its appearance in the house next, probably next week.

Hon. Perren Baker, minister of education, says that the recent trustees' convention in Lethbridge started a full discussion of the proposed legislation, but without any new light being produced that will affect its essential principles. The trustees were agreed on the desirability of increased supervision of the schools but wanted such supervision to be under local control.

The minister is more firmly convinced than ever of the necessity of having a larger unit of administrative control than the local school district. It is recognized, he says, in all the other provinces and in other countries, and numbers of educational surveys have established the point, recommending that larger units be made compulsory. This is the most important feature of the new act now proposed for Alberta and will put this province in line with educational tendencies elsewhere.

An advantage that the Alberta act has over the proposals in other provinces is that while the latter do away with the local school districts as governing authorities, the change proposed in Alberta will leave autonomy to the school districts and will still recognize them as working parts of the larger unit. At the same time, the local districts will have the benefits of group action in such details as salary schedules and assessments.

WHAT IS A BOY?

He is a person who is going to carry on what you have started.

He is to sit right where you are sitting and attend to those things you think are so important when you are gone.

You may adopt all the policies you please, but how they will be carried out depends upon him.

Even if you make bonfires and trenches, he will have to manage them.

He is going to sit at your desk in the senate, and occupy your place on the supreme bench.

He will assume control of your cities, states and nations; your policies, churches, schools, universities and corporations.

All your work is going to be judged and praised or condemned by him.

Your reputation and your future are in his hands.

All your work is for him, and the fate of the nation and of humanity is in his hands.

Be it might be as well to pay him some attention.—Boys' Club News.

Steel Cars Now for Freight Service

Steel is replacing wood in freight service and seventy-five hundred of the new freight cars now on order for the Canadian Pacific will set a new standard in grain and general freight service. These cars are not in replacement but in addition to the wood cars already in use, and will furnish a greater margin of safety, more speed and longer service while eliminating leakage.

They will have a capacity of 2,000 bushels of wheat and will considerably speed up the movement of grain. Riveting of all joints and connections will reduce to a minimum possibility of loss of grain and the car itself will be more solid and will possess greater rigidity. The roof of the car will be steel as will also the whole structure, but the sides will be wood lined inside.

Additional safety will be provided by a new type of truck having a cast steel frame. These truck side frames which represent a new standard of Canadian Pacific equipment, are one integral casting. Elimination of parts in the car proper is another noteworthy feature.

Dimensions of the car are 40 feet 9 inches in length, 9 feet 7 inches high, and 8 feet, 7½ inches wide. They will have 5 foot side doors and a capacity of 120,000 pounds.

The new cars represent an important advance in railway freight transportation on this continent and they have been developed more directly to keep pace with the development of the west. In recent years crop acreage has increased. Car loadings have increased in like measure. Improved harvesting machinery has speeded up delivery to the rails and necessitated still more efficient handling on the part of the railway companies.

Delivery of the new cars will be made in ample time for the harvest of 1929 and the Canadian Pacific may be expected to again break the record of crop handling.

Here and There

1233)

Large cargoes of wheat are being shipped to Japan and the Orient through Vancouver these days. It seems like sending coal to Newcastle to send flour to "The Flowery Kingdom."

Some foundation for the old nickname "woodsy" seen is found in the report that Alberta's wood output for 1928 amounted to 9,000,000 181 pounds. Altogether the Dominion produced over eighteen and a half million pounds.

Steel is replacing wood in freight service on the Trans-Canada Pacific Railway as 7,500 box cars were on order for the company will be of steel construction. They will have a capacity of about 2 tons' baskets of grain and a load of 120,000 pounds.

Fur-farming is developing many branches one of the most recent being the organization in Manitoba of the Manitoba Muskrat Breeders' Association. The body plans to study muskrat breeding conditions and to investigate all phases of the industry.

In a recent speech at Kitchener, Ontario, E. W. Beatty, chairman and president of the Canadian Pacific pointed out that the average freight rate per ton per mile in Canada is about 5½ per cent lower than in the U.S. and that the average of Canadian grain rates is 60 per cent lower.

The Trans-Canada will cross the continent in an hour and a half less time eastbound and an hour less westbound than it did last year. This does not mean that Canada has got any smaller but that the Canadian Pacific Railway is running the famous Dyer on an improved schedule.

Penny postage, inaugurated at Christmas, is working well and is bringing about a notable increase in letter mails from Canada to the British Isles according to federal postal officials. It is estimated that the increase in the course of a year would be such as to offset the $700,000 estimated reduction in revenue by the penny rate.

In Manitoba, there is one tractor for every 46 farms; in Saskatchewan, one for every 47 farms; and in Alberta, one for every 7.5 farms. If all the tractors were hitched together, how long would it take a garage mechanic to reach his room?

For the sixth successive year Dean Malcolm Laird of Macdonald College, Ste Anne de Bellevue, Quebec will conduct an all-expense tour across Canada starting from Toronto on July 22 and lasting for 21 days. The party travels in a special train with a baggage car filled up as a well-stocked drinking-room.

Equipped with a new rudder, a new device that will act in navigating the harbours of Victoria and Vancouver and the waters of the British Columbia coast, the Princess Norah has arrived on the Pacific coast to join the fleet of the B. C. Coastal services of the Canadian Pacific Railway. She is the eighteenth ship to be built for this work and has just been completed at the shipbuilding yards on the Clyde in Scotland.

WOLF CUB NOTES

A PACK of twenty one starting Wolf Cubs headed by Akela, the showmaster, raided the basement of Mrs. Hugh Knell's residence last week with the hours of four and six last Tuesday afternoon, and ate all the wolfers rolls and cakes in sight. Even then they were not "too full for words" but were just able to set up and give three cheers" for Mrs Knell and their host of the day, which almost lifted the roof off the Parish rooms, and others were stationed to add the party ended with the Pack singing "God save the King" most Cubs standing at attention but a few forgetting the correct way to stand. Remember hers always at attention when singing the National Anthem.

We were glad to see so many out to the "do" and would like to see more at the Tuesday meetings. The Old Wolf is the leader of the Pibble ville Cubs are showed in this winter, but hopes to see them out soon.

VETS TAKE CIVIC LEAGUE LEADERSHIP FROM CLERKS

College Too Much for Elks

In the first civic league game play last night the College boys took the lone end of a 2-0 count from the Elks this feature that team's appearance in the lead and boosting themselves up to within one point of second place. The College and the Clerks clash next Wednesday night when second place in the standing will be at stake. Mead in road for the V.A.S. boys was the star of the game with Vets Tom Curtis 2-0.

The Vets broke the ice for the head of the league by taking the Clerks into camp by a 6 to 4 score in the second game last night. Previous to this these two teams had been tied with six points. The game looked like a walk-away, being four at one time but Cooper and Bell pulled some high class combination and scored three goals, the former doing the scoring and Mackenzie added a fourth Orange Burns counted four times, and Tomski Brimacombe and Hubbard once each to clinch the encounter.

The reception to Miss Keith which is stated elsewhere in this issue to be held on Wednesday, February 20th, has since been changed to Thursday, February 21, from 3 to 6 p.m. at the home of Mrs. Dr. Scott. Those interested please note the change.

Theory About Sun Spots

Are Believed by Some to Affect Weather, Crops and Health.

Few scientific meetings seem able to slip by nowadays without reference to sun spots. Two years ago, when the American Association for the Advancement of Science met at Philadelphia, a Russian correspondent disconcerted his scientific colleagues by ascribing to the ebb and flow of these solare blemishes the majority of social misfortunes from epidemics to wars. Last year at Nashville the same association listened to less spectacular but sounder accounts of relations between the sun spot curve and such things as yields of crops and weather and the proportion of ultra-violet rays in sunlight.

Now comes Dr. Alfred J. Lotka with his suggestions that traces of the same sun spot fluctuations are discernable in vital statistics, the records of births and illnesses and deaths. Of Doctor Lotka's own remarks there can be no criticism. Substantial mathematics underlies it. The only fear is that persons less coldly logical may read into the data something both more definite and more mystical than present knowledge justifies.

The characteristic of the sun spots is their periodicity. It is probably not yet safe to speak of a cycle, for that word implies regularity, and the numbers of sun spots apparently wax and wane at intervals varying between about seven years and about 15 years. Eleven and a half years, commonly called the cycle is merely a term for the arithmetical average. Nevertheless, there undoubtedly is periodicity, although somewhat complicated in many cycles instead of one. There is no doubt that this affects human life, probably in the main indirectly. Solar heat unquestionably varies slightly in amount, increasing roughly with the number of sun spots and decreasing when these wane. This presumably affects plant growth. It has been detected, indeed, in the growth rings of trees. Perhaps it affects also such things as potatoes and vegetables or the vegetables which such foods contain.

It has been proved that fluctuating seasons of Canada increase and decrease in number according to the same cycle, and wild animal diet is a more probable cause for this than weather. About the possibility of cycles of illness roughly corresponding to those of sun spots scientists are receptive, but there is no reason to imagine these agreements either simple or direct.

Vital statistics are average. About a single individual they mean nothing. Only when normal variations of diet and infection and all other health factors cancel out may an expert in small numbers detect a solar change. No one need fear, therefore, to be sicker individually in sept spot years than in others, or need the world give credence to mystical relations tying our weekly activities with occasional items from Father Sun. Against conclusive mysticism there need be of course no objection, except when it is confined with science. Self-boiled eggs are good enough diet if one likes them. Accidents happen only when one tackles them believing that they are hard.

No Satisfaction Gained

Taking Revenge for Wrongs Fancied or Real Does Not Pay.

Revenge, whether vicious or otherwise, doesn't pay. This was demonstrated in the case of a Chicago traveller who waited and watched for five long years to return to a porter a phoney half-dollar which had been given him in change. The world would regard this as harmless revenge; in fact, would probably look upon it as "justice," as did the victim.

But it didn't pay, just the same. The other day, the man who had received the phoney half-dollar for five years met the man who gave it to him, but instead of returning it he gave him a $10 gold piece in mistake. In other words, he got by far the worst of the deal.

It is ever thus with those who harbor the spirit of revenge or cultivate the desire to get even. They lose. It may not always be money; often it is something more valuable, the gold of nobility of character. No one man can nurse a grievance without losing much that is worth while. It mitigates against that contentment of mind and of conscience which are so essential if one is to live a full life. It begets meanness, smallness and secretiveness. They are so detrimental to a happy, useful, manly life.

No man should revenge his own wrongs. If they are serious he should, as a protection to society, let the law inflict proper punishment. If they are petty, he should forget them, but profiting by his lesson, take a determination not to be imposed upon again. For a victim himself to resolve to even up a bad score is a short-sighted policy, as he will do himself will be the far greater than the satisfaction that will come to him when he revenges for fat. Revenge may be sweet, but it certainly does not sweeten the man who indulges in it.

Life's Dividends

We Get Nothing More Out Than We Put In

We get out of life what we give it. If we trust it as but the means of gaining wealth, reputation, or pleasure, we shall obtain nothing more from it, though we may gain much loss. Success in these things may lead to a sense of distinction in the consciousness that, after all, what we have gained is a poor return for life's investment, since it must all be taken from us at the last.

If, however, we put love of goodness, desire of truth, an ambition to serve others into our time, we shall find that it renders more than adequate return. The consciousness of a life identified with virtue and an influence which inspires others to like attainments for them selves and others.

Most Farm Produce Consumed in Canada

Exceptions Are Wheat, Rye, Barley, Cheese and Apples

What becomes of all that vast volume of grain, meat, milk and other products produced each year upon Canadian farms? With few exceptions, almost every commodity is finally eaten per cent. consumed at home. Conspicuous among these exceptions are wheat and rye, cheese, bacon and apples. The official figures show that during the crop marketing year 1927-28, just over one-third of the wheat crop, just under one-quarter of the rye, approximately the same of cheese, two-thirds of the wool, and two-thirds of the apples were used in Canada and the remainder exported. Barley is the only exception, though not to any same degree; slightly over one-quarter of the crop was exported last year and the year before that about two-fifths.

In most other lines home consumption looks by for the greater part of the production. The figures show Oats, home consumption, 95 per cent.; peas, 94; beans, 66.3; potatoes, 92, turnips, 96; hay, 99; butter, 99; fresh beef, 96; fresh pork, 92.5. Canada last had a million dozen out of a total of over 250,000,000.

Some Queer Superstitions

The Windsorman trudging to market with a basket of eggs takes every precaution to avoid a mishap. If two people carry the same number of eggs each taking hold, they will never either to love or to hate each other.

The Indians believed that a maple twig at the bottom of a full basket would bring fair weather

To keep good luck with you, pick one on the right side of a brook if it runs north and south, on the left side if it runs east and west.

Should heaven, unto or twigs fall on you from the trees, you may expect a letter.

If you are at tea and there are not enough spoons to go around, then those who share will bring each other luck.

A white star in the center of the forehead of a horse is a sign of good luck.

Tables Slowly Tell

In the building of a railway line in French Equatorial Africa 17,000 negro laborers have died from disease, privation, and exposure. At only 87½ miles of single track line have been laid. This works out at nearly 200 lives a mile. In the Belgian Congo 750 miles have been laid out at a total cost of not more than 5,000 lives

Land Sound But Head

At Certain Pitch It Is Just Fab, Says Professor

When a sound gets too loud it ceases to be heard and gets into the region of feeling, a strange tickling sensation being felt in the ear.

This was one of the many interesting facts revealed in a lecture on "The Ear and What It Does," delivered by Professor Alexander Wood, tutor of Emmanuel College and lecturer in physics, University of Cambridge, at the Institute of Electrical Engineers, in London.

The tickling sensation, said Professor Wood, could also be felt in the tips of the fingers if held near the origin of the sound. The normal ear could hear about 300,000 tones varying in loudness and pitch.

"We still hear the expression, 'pricking up one's ears'," he said, "although only animals can do that, now that humans have grown out of the habit of their ancestors.

"I have seen people who still boast that they can move their ears up, but it would advise them not to boast of the fact, since it becomes a close resemblance to their hairy forefathers." The ear was chiefly a wonderfully sensitive and costly damaged.

"By a merciful dispensation of Providence," he continued, "people get less sensitive to shrill, high-pitched sounds as they get older, so that by the time they come to enjoy such noises they cease to hear them."

Referring to vibrations and acoustic resonance, Professor Wood said that any army walking over a bridge might cause the bridge to collapse if the men did not break step, "because," he explained, "their steady tread might fall in the natural period of the bridge."

"In the same way, a singer is quite capable of shattering a glass vase by the resonance of his voice.

An Important Discovery

Many Fitzroy Hicksteds Made Strong by New Process

Discoveries and inventions are so numerous in these latter days and so much prose-spouted, that sometimes it is necessary to take constant, even revolutionary, character have almost ceased to be regarded. Experience has reached the stage of washing up, and it is now possible to obtain a mink tidy in rubber that is quite sanitary, being easily cleansed with boiling water. It will not spoil or chip the surface of the sink, as enamel has frequently done.

A rubber soap-dish that acts upon the suction principle is useful for both bath and sink. Slight pressure on the suction cup, and the dish is fixed firmly to the side of the sink. Even this cuts out a little noise, as you may observe next time you have a bath: a cake of soap in an enamel holder.

Rubber stops and wedges for rattling windows and banging doors are more effective than their kinds and just as cheap. Wooden wedges invariably get shaken out; rubber does never.

Rubber household gloves give protection in more senses than one. No one need fear electrocution arising from leakage in electric cleaners and irons if a pair or good quality rubber gloves are worn when handling any such electrical domestic appliances.

"Foreigners" in Canada

English Speaking People Could Learn Many Things from Them

J. Bruce Walker writing in London Opinion says: "There are those who attempt to stir the foreign people of Canada, and some of them do it under the guise of a great religious fervor. I am not anxious to see an undue proportion of foreigners in Canada—no Britisher is—but I am equally prepared to say that the foreign population of Canada has added much to its art, its music, its crafts and its efficiency. Some have been built up by the recognition of the rights of people who are other than British. She is a bi-lingual country, set solidly upon the rock-bottom of an English and French foundation, as solid as the bedrock of Quebec, and those of us who know the so-called "foreigners" at close quarters have been struck by a few things that even our English brother could afford to contemplate with advantage, namely, thrift, cleanliness, loyalty to the British flag."

Loaded Expensive

The Scotsman was doing his best to make the groom brace up. "Where's your purse old man?" he asked. "Why, you're shaking like a leaf."

"I know I am," said the groom. "But it's not with fear. It's with love for me. I've got some excuse to be frightened, haven't I? I've never been married before."

Of course you haven't," soothed the host man. "If you had you'd be good deal more scared than you are."

Fewer Animals in 1963

The number of animals in Canada in 1763 was shown as 12,352 oxen, 14,732 young cattle, 22,748 cows, 28,032 sheep and 28,502 swine. Governor Carleton in his report on manufactures mentions the wool industry as one of the most important.

Importance Of Rubber

Tyrolienne in Lumbering Makes It Worth a Good Deal

Rubber is one of the most common and useful commodities of the present day.

The quiet home is the rubberized home. Rubber seals of all sizes and kinds prevent draughts. Rubber pad the soft pedal on every thing from footsteps to pianos. The rubber tyre has reduced the labor of washing up, and it is now possible to obtain a mink tidy in rubber that is quite sanitary, being easily cleansed with boiling water. It will not spoil or chip the surface of the sink, as enamel has frequently done.

A rubber soap-dish that acts upon the suction principle is useful for both bath and sink. Slight pressure on the suction cup, and the dish is fixed firmly to the side of the sink. Even this cuts out a little noise, as you may observe next time you have a bath: a cake of soap in an enamel holder.

Made In Canada Goods

People Should Support Home Industries That Pay Taxes

If every Canadian, as the Labor leader says, could be induced to express a preference for Canadian made articles and to put it in practice, unemployment would by an unknown condition in this country and there would be room in Canada industry for many more workers than it now supports.

How about practising such a preference for Canadian goods during the new year? There may be some Canadian articles that are unobtainable except by import from other countries that are large purchasers of our own products, but the chances are that they are not made or grown in Canada itself, but there can be no doubt that many of these are manufactured by branches of firms themselves and others.

Biggest Per Capita Income

According to the "Financial Post" survey, British Columbia has the highest per capita income of any province in Canada, at $626. This is the first time that any province has passed the $600 mark. The figures are given as follows: Ontario, $606; Alberta, $732; Saskatchewan, $641; Quebec, $417; New Brunswick, $436; Nova Scotia, $372; Prince Edward Island, $344.

To Produce Registered Seed

Method Explained by Professor T. J. Harrison of Manitoba Agricultural College

An experiment station or individual farmer selects from an approved variety one or more plants that are typical of that variety. The seed from these plants are increased and tested at some approved plant breeding station to determine that they are true to variety. The seed from this is then sold as Elite stock seed. It is quite evident therefore that the supply of Elite stock seed is very limited. The grower must depend upon a supply from the experiment station or from the product of hand selected heads. The Elite stock seed produced first generation registered, and this in turn second generation registered, and so on. The generation number indicates the number of years the crop is removed from the pure Elite seed. Consequently the lower the number the purer seed will be and the higher will be the price.

In the production of registered seed the field must be inspected by a member of the Canadian Seed Growers and certified pure as to variety and free from weeds and disease. When the seed is threshed, cleaned and ready for sale the seed branch again inspects the seed for purity and tests it for germination, and seals it into the sack.

Not every farmer has the desire or the ability to become a registered seed grower, but every farmer can have the advantages of registered seed. It will be purchased from an registered seed, the most valuable is that nearest to the Elite seed; so if registered seed can be had over the whole farm, it would not be long until it were again polluted with weeds and other grains. If every farmer would buy sufficient registered seed this spring to sow five or 10 acres of each of the main crops—grass—wheat, oats or barley—he would have sufficient seed from this to sow all his crops next year. The next year buy sufficient of registered seed of another kind of grain of another variety and sow 10 acres and the following year repeat with the third kind of grain. After this he can again use registered seed of the crop that he started with. In this way he would have his seed always within three years of his registered seed.

Britain's Largest House

Rounds of Having a Room for Every Two Days of Year

The largest residence in Great Britain is believed to be Lord Fitzwilliam's Yorkshire seat, Wentworth Woodhouse. It said that the three principal entrances are so far distant from each other that visitors are advised to take with them three hot meals, one to be kept at each point of egress.

The house, which is 600 feet long, had a hall in which two average suburban villas could comfortably be placed, and it boasts of a room for every two days of the year.

Hints and Helps

The Calgary Herald says: "The Dominion stands to benefit from the re-establishment of friendly relations between Great Britain and China. We have a large and growing trade with the new republic, including wheat supplies, and are in an excellent position to supply Chinese needs in many lines of trade. If the new government succeeds in unifying China and replacing banditry by civil law and progress, this country will be the gainer."

Reduce the Acid

Sick stomachs, sour stomachs and indigestion usually mean excess acid. The stomach turns sour or over-acidulated. Too much acid makes the stomach and intestines sour.

Alkali kills acid instantly. The best form is Phillips' Milk of Magnesia, because one harmless, tasteless dose neutralizes many times its volume in acid. Since its invention, 50 years ago, it has remained the standard with physicians everywhere.

Take a spoonful in water and your unhappy condition will probably end in five minutes. Then you will always know what to do. Crude and harmful methods will never appeal to you. Go prove this for your own sake. It may save a great many disagreeable hours.

Be sure to get the genuine Phillips' Milk of Magnesia prescribed by physicians for 50 years in correctives doses acids. Each bottle contains full directions—any druggist.

"To hell mit him!" shouted Hand. "He don't dare do it. Rush him."

But the mob did not obey their leader's rash command. Donald's pale face and burning black eyes were sufficient evidence to have made no idle threat. Donald saw that the big hand of his former friend Gillis lay on the heavy Colt that hung at his side. "Keep back, Jock," he begged; "don't start anything."

For days Gillis had been without sleep. He turned bloodshot eyes on Donald. "By G——! I would like to take a crack at him," he said in a voice thick with rage.

The hostile crowd did not advance; neither did they disperse. Scattered in groups, they lay or sat on the hillside to shout occa sonally words of derision at Donald's faithful crew.

Donald's nerves were on edge. At any moment there might be a pitched battle with guns and fists. He studied the faces of the strikers to see how many were from his crew and was relieved to find that only about 40 of his men. He saw "Blackie" in the rear of the crowd of strikers. When their eyes met Donald's he turned away shamefacedly. All the men from his camp refused to meet his gaze openly. "These men are ready to come back right now," he said to Gillis. "Hand has bullied them into this. Don't you think so?"

"I don't know," answered Gillis. "I never liked Blackie myself. I'd back on me. I'll wring his d——d neck when I catch him in town!" he added bitterly.

Donald heard a slight movement behind him, and turned to see Constable Hand with her rifle in the crook of her arm.

"Good heavens! Connie, you shouldn't be here!" he exclaimed.

Connie's face showed signs of weariness and sleeplessness. For three nights she had stolen softly away from her cabin on the hillside to the hidden coulee that of Donald. By night she had kept up a weary vigil, ever on the alert for the step of the man she had lain behind a stump on the hill with eyes on Donald's tall figure which would become in sight her rifle ready for instant action. Hand did not know that death had nearly claimed him when he stepped forward to urge his men to charge. At that crucial moment Connie's rifle was aimed at his heart.

"She away from here at once, Connie!" said Donald, firmly, but kindly.

Connie lowered her eyes to her moccasined foot, that was waving

FLU Germs Breed In the Throat.

First Appear As A Common Cold, But Gain Tremendous Headway In Six Hours

SOME SIMPLE PRECAUTIONS AGAINST INFLUENZA

Simple precautions taken now will enable you to fight dreaded "Flu" which is sweeping rapidly through the whole country. The germs of Influenza gain access to the body through the mouth and throat. Keep the throat healthy and you go a long way towards stopping the trouble. An effective means of prevention is to gargle the throat three or four times daily with Nerviline. Half a teaspoonful of Nerviline in water makes a most efficient gargle. The germ-killing properties of Nerviline quickly destroy any bacteria in the mouth or throat. If the chest is sore, if the head aches, if you have a cough—be sure to rub the neck and chest with Nerviline. Every drop of it will rub in, and out will come the congestion.

Of course it is absolutely necessary to house-clean the system with Dr. Hamilton's Pills which stimulate the eliminating organs, and rid the system of disease-breeding germs. This combination treatment of Nerviline and Dr. Hamilton's Pills will give prompt and entirely satisfactory results.

(By Betty Barclay)

GRAPE MOLD

8 tablespoons quick-cooking tapioca.
½ teaspoon salt.
1 pint hot grape juice.
½ cup sugar.
1 cup shredded pineapple.
1 cup quartered marshmallows (if desired).
2 egg whites.
Cook tapioca and salt in the hot grape juice in a double boiler 15 minutes, stirring frequently. Stir in sugar. Remove from fire and add pineapple. When partially cooled, stir in the marshmallows (if desired), and fold in the stiffly beaten egg whites Arrange cut lady fingers around sides of a glass bowl or around individual sherbet glasses. Pour in mixture and chill. Serve with whipped cream. Lady fingers or sponge cake may be omitted.

MACARONI WITH OYSTERS OR FISH

6 ounces macaroni.
½ teaspoonful salt.
1-4 teaspoonful pepper.
2 tablespoonfuls butter or a substitute.
1 pint oysters.

Cook the macaroni until tender in boiling salted water, drain, then season with the salt, pepper and butter. Oil a baking dish and put a layer of the macaroni into it, then a layer of oysters which have been carefully picked over, more macaroni, more oysters, and on until the dish is full. Pour the liquor from the oysters over the top—there should be a cupful of the liquor—and bake in a moderate oven—350 degrees F.—and serve with tomato catsup.

Cold left-over fish may be substituted for the oysters if desired, and left-over sauce or milk for the moistening in place of the oyster liquor.

Prosperity Helped in Canada Should Make People Generous

The following appeal for a supporting under a burden of taxation never before borne by any other nation in the history of the world, will that was humanly possible in the way of providing state safeguards against unemployment, which must in the end be the most expensive of all forms of social insurance and elsewhere largely be met by voluntary effort. Donald walked back to Connie's side. The man had not interrupted his speech.

Hand turned to the wavering crowd. "To hell mit him and all capitalists!" he shouted. He started to shake a huge fist at Donald. "You thrasten us, do you? You d—— succeasted fool, that was wrong

How He Understood It

One day, in the third grade reading class, the teacher was telling a story of a dog and a fox. When she came near the end of the story she said, "And the cunning fox jumped up on the stone wall and ran along it, and the dog lost his scent."

When she finished the story she called on little Tadlow boy in the class to repeat the story.

Joe stared all right, but as he came to the end of the story he said "An' de cunning fox, he jump up on de stone wall an' run along it, an de dog, he lose his penny!"

The Carnival Of Noise

Much of It Is Unnecessary and Could Be Eliminated

The constant high pitch of street noises has been reached so gradually that many persons have not fully appreciated what they are allowing others to inflict upon them and have not stopped to consider whether, in fact, the various components that make up the existing pandemonium are really necessary and unavoidable. Each new addition has been accepted with astonishing complacency. The unsilenced motorcycle, the blatant, the heavy truck, the airplane, the steam tractor and the pneumatic drill, have been tolerated in silence. Examples of the necessities of life. It is also the nourishment of truth which Thou givest each day in the market at them or to woo her what diabolical invention and ingenuity science will thrust upon them next.

When you notice any sign of callous on the feet or toes—that's the time to paint on a few drops of PUTNAM'S CORN EXTRACTOR. Do this, and you prevent corns. No matter if the corn is hard or soft. A Clever Idea

The Durham Chronicle tells of a young man who visited a store in that town, purchased three dozen eggs on credit, took them to another store and sold them and used the money to buy gas for his car. There is probably the first instance of a thirty-six horn-power automobile.

Little Helps For This Week

"Give us this day our daily bread."—Matthew vi. 11

Matter, help! From hour to hour, Lord, I need Thy saving power. Not to soothe it anywhere's woes Not to bless tonight's repose. Now I hunger to be fed, Give today Thy daily bread.

Every moment sun by hand; Without Thee I stand. Bless today the place to tread: Step by step I must be led. Go before me all the way; Give me daily bread today!

—Rose Terry Cooke.

What is this bread, O my God? It is not merely the support which Thy providence supplies for the necessities of life; it is also the nourishment of truth which Thou givest each day in the market at them or to woo her what diabolical invention and ingenuity science will thrust upon them next.

Sore Corns Drop Off If You USE "Putnam's"

Let it be on top or between the toes. Putnam's will remove it without pain. Insist on PUTNAM'S CORN EXTRACTOR. It does the work—and costs not the corn, quickly and without pain.

A steadily increasing group of Canadian roads are now in the dictionary to that of dialectal, provincial and local words and expressions

MADE IN ENGLAND

The Improved Glass Substitute

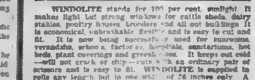
COMES WITH A MESSAGE OF HEALTH

THE SUN is the all-powerful life producer, and Nature's universal disinfectant and germ destroyer, as well as stimulant and tonic. WINDOLITE is the sun's most important ally.

Medical research has definitely proved that from the point of view of health Hygiene, the most effective amount the sun's rays are the Ultra-Violet rays, because the great-est power for the prevention and cure of disease and debility.

Science has further established that ordinary window glass does not allow the passage of Ultra-Violet rays, but that by using glass we are artificially excluding these vital Health-giving rays. Therefore the invention of WINDOLITE has completely satisfied the long-felt want. Exhaustive experiments have conclusively proved that it is a most effective substitute for glass, that it freely admits the Ultra-Violet rays, and that its use has a most beneficial effect on the growth and development of plants and chickens and on the well-being of cattle, enabled for the first time to have healthy light instead of darkness in their sheds.

Indeed, the discovery of WINDOLITE has during the last six years completely revolutionized poultry farming, given a new stimulus to poultry breeding, increasing the egg-laying capacity and fertility of chickens, has greatly improved the health of cattle and is now being used in domestic and household requirements.



WINDOLITE stands for 100 per cent. sunlight. It makes light. Let strong windows for cattle sheds, dairy stables, poultry houses, hoardings and all out buildings it has no equal. Unbreakable Roofing. Easily cut and easy to fit. It is now being successfully used for sunrooms, verandahs, arbors, factories, hospitals, sanatoriums, hot beds, plant coverings and greenhouses. It keeps out cold —will not crack or chip—cuts to a ordinary pair of scissors and is easy to fit. WINDOLITE is supplied in rolls any length, but the standard width is 76 inches only. A square yard of WINDOLITE weighs about 14 ozs., while a square yard of glass of ordinary thickness weighs about 175 to 196 ozs. The improved WINDOLITE requires no varnish. WINDOLITE is made in England.

VICTIM OF CARBON MONOXIDE POISONING

Mr. Waring reports to us the tragic death of one of his business friends under circumstances rather similar to that of Andy Law a short time ago. Mr. C. W. Gibbard, of Nagasaki, Ont., one of the most respected of high-class furniture manufacturers, went into the garage on Saturday morning, started up his car. It would seem that while he was warming up the car the garage door blew shut with the result that he was overcome by the deadly carbon monoxide fumes and expired while making an effort to reach the door.

This is only another instance of the need for special care when cars are started up in a small garage.

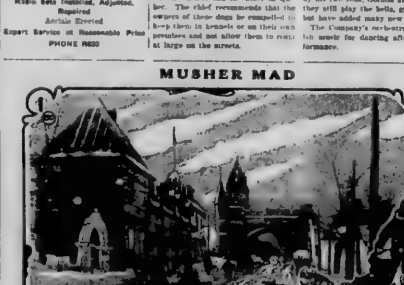
German Police Dogs Vicious

May Be Curbed

Following four reports of persons being attacked by German police dogs in Edmonton recently, the city council will consider legislation curbing the freedom of these animals At a meeting Monday night Chief Sharpe reported that a child in the Highlands was severely injured by a German police dog recently and referred to the danger from temper of this type of dog which recently killed two children, one in Ontario and the other in Quebec. The chief recommends that the owners of these dogs be compelled to keep them in kennels or on their own premises and not allowed them to run at large on the streets.



MUSHER MAD

"Quebec", says Sara Hamilton Birchall, in "Country Life", "goes number mad". It is, in fact, every year, and this one more than ever. Go to Quebec between February 15th and 23rd. All you will hear is dog, dogs, huskies, mushers, St. Godhard, Nolan, Chevrier, Spendid's a course of plain sailing. You will look at the big board in the Chateau lobby whereon the odds are shown, and you will wonder what it is all about. And then, perhaps, an enthusiastic soul will put you in a corner and tell you how on the third day of the last heat, the man who was considered in the running only for second place was held up by a freight train on the Transcontinental and began to stiffen, but won the 120 mile three day grind by a short minute or so; and how it was planned and chalked, and how they came, these members, from all parts of the North Country with their dogs and kennels and huskies. You will joke your dogs, Siberians, Alaskans, or just plain dogs, and before the last contest has started on the first day, the fever will have caught you. You will see the first team start pacing here, the next and the next; the bosses of Nome, the trail dogs from Le Pas, Fanny animals who know the Quebec woods trails and teams of the third, fourth, second and finally the first. Then the great derby, dogs you wouldn't trust, worth hundreds, dogs you could love, but who only give allegiance but to him; dogs in fours and fives and sixes, straining eager, pacing dogs with forty miles behind them and eighty before. Then you too are number nine, and the rough, sleepy interval in fur and wool, whose accumulated foot had not yet fitted into your own boots of Mingo hide, nothing. Inverted in the seat of a bus and a bough. You cannot his name or his number post. You will be lucky if you remember his colour. Then, suddenly, a gray-bearded tick before the next arrival. A team of malamutes, greyhounds or mongrels, outrace round a corner into sight. Their leader is close. They have one minute in which to reach the goal, and win the first lap. You too, are number nine. You watch the bulletin boards with excitement or cruelly envisage the gaunty of the racing stables. Then, when the great exhibition of strength and endurance is over, you are perhaps asked down to enjoy Quebec herself and those parts of her that stick to you are permitted to take a personal if not keen interest pool.

Georgian Singers Are Coming To Vermilion

Something different, something out of the ordinary, is scheduled for an appearance at the Columbia theatre Vermilion, Friday, Feb. 22nd: th Georgian Singers and Players, who will present their New York and successes, old songs all have never been, humorous monologues an dialogues, interesting innovations.

The artists appearing are all western Canada artists, including the following: John Edmondson, native Canadian baritone and comedian; Gloria Wilton, talented pianiste and contralto; Horace Chapman, Devon's at our valued lyric tenor, and Isobel Jolliffe. This company played at the Pantages Tuesday and Wednesday of this week.

With such an attraction, Manager Pibble is to be congratulated on having secured such talented artists, surely an innovation for this province Vermilion house of entertainment.

CANADIAN NATIONAL EUROPEAN TOUR

Marvelous! Different! What You've Been Waiting For

Never before have the opportunities for seeing Europe, in comfort, been better presented than in the Canadian National 1929 All Expense Tour through Great Britain, France, Belgium, Germany, Switzerland and Italy.

From $1445.00 up (Limited-overseas and return to Montreal) you get a 56 day to 59 day sightseeing tour—visiting the old world—the cradle of civilization—of seeing world-renowned cities and beauty spots, historic sites and monuments. Sail from Montreal July 5th, on the Canard Line S. S. "Andania." Everything along the way is arranged with an attention to detail necessary on your part. The assurance of desirable steamer accommodation and choice berths on the other side—the elimination of the wrangling with taxi-drivers, porters, transportation men and dealers—the avoidance of the confusion of the customs, Lts. of the season. The program was opened with "O Canada" by all the students, followed by a medley of songs, some 12 to 14 girls taking part. Next was a monologue by Frances Perrin: a Spanish senora dance, then an imitation orchestra, brought on pairs of laughter by their clever imitation of the band members. However, the best of the whole program was the play "Either or Either." The plot centering on the propagation of the word either. A petit a waits the year putting on the best Lit., and these girls have done a long way towards earning it.

A very successful hard times dance was held Friday night and a good crowd attended. Many were the evidences of hard times, especially a among the boys, but Peter Willie took the prize for being the most disreputable character there. A good time was had by all and all agreed that it was the best dance for some time.

On Sunday, Feb 17, Mr. Gordon Lapp, Secretary of the Boys' Work Board of the province, will address the students at the 2:15 chapel service.

Eminent Authority on Co-operation To Speak at V. B. A.

The Provincial Department of Agriculture has made arrangements for a visit to the province of Dr. James P. Warbasse, President of the Co-operative League of the U.S.A., member of the Central Committee of the International Co-operative Alliance, and also noted as the author of "Co-operative Democracy." He will arrive at Vermilion on Tuesday, February 19th and will leave for Edmonton on Wednesday, 20th. During his stay at Vermilion he will address the students of the Agricultural school on "Co-operation" on the evening Vermilion it will go to Edmonton where he will lecture to the University students. Then to Calgary, Lethbridge and other agricultural schools in the province. This visit of Dr Warbasse certainly will provide an unusual opportunity for the native born people of farmers and townspeople of the district to become better acquainted with this important problem

Alberta Man Driven Up Again Stated Premier

Warns Hotelkeepers They Must Change Ways or Action Coming

Increased liquor sales for 1928-30 are included in the estimates now before the legislature, but after that the tables may turn. Such, at any rate, is the belief voiced by Premier Brownlee by way of comment on that particular item in the budget

"In my opinion," said the premier when asked for an explanation of the liquor estimates, "the hotelkeepers will have to adopt a more rational attitude toward the law, especially in the smaller rural places, or another year may see a serious demand for changes in the legislation

"There have been evidences during the past year of a growing feeling of dissatisfaction throughout the province in regard to the beer situation," Mr Brownlee declared "Our legislature the local option plebiscites reflected this feeling, but the government has received many complaints

Not Government Policy

As to the increased amount that government experts to get from the beer profits in the coming year, the premier explained that this expectation is based on the experience of the past few years and it is not to be interpreted as a part of the government's policy to increase sales of liquor. Year by year, he pointed out, sales and profits have been growing, and with growing population and increased tourist traffic, it is natural that there will be a further increase this year Mr Brownlee is disposed to attribute a large part of the increase in the past year to the tourists, who have been coming into Alberta in greater numbers and are likely to come still more freely as time goes on

"But this liquor profit estimate was not the result of any deliberation of the cabinet or the calculation of any policy in respect to liquor sales," Mr Brownlee declared. "The figure used in the estimate is simply a rough calculation based on past experience. If it does not result that the government is encouraging or proposing to encourage the drinking of intoxicating liquor. I feel, I shall be very glad to see the final amount of the province's profits from this source fall short of our estimate."

But the premier suggests that if the hotelkeepers don't look out there may be a change by and by Alberta may dry up again.

Here and There

A shin game.—Two young boys living 30 miles northeast of Edmonton started a craps game in 1927 by digging young coyotes out of the ground and confining them in pens. They got 100 young animals and when their skins were matured sold them for $12 each

A southern packing plant specialized upon horse meat for shipment to parts of Continental Europe where it is very popular. It has been suggested that the nondescript range horses straying about Northern Alberta be herded for packing purposes. It is a pity economy could not figure out a number way of consuming some of the old motor cars that are loons on the highways.

Twenty oil burners measuring overall 97 feet in length and weighing 725 000 pounds have been ordered by the Canadian Pacific Railway and will be in passenger and freight serv ce through the mountains this summer Each of these will do the work of two or more of the lighter locomotives. They are the largest in the British Empire and will revolutionize transportation in the west. It is predicted.

Victoria is having a mid winter golf tournament open to members of the local clubs and to guests of the Empress Hotel, and the players won't have to play in mittens and ear muffs, either. In the east they have a game called winter golf that they play with bow and arrows on snow or snowshoes, but the golf of Victoria is the legitimate article. The game is played the year round in the equable climate of the Pacific coast.

Unique and hazardous cars, differing from anything operated in this country before, will be served by the two great trains of the Canadian Pacific Railway, the Trans-Canada Limited between Montreal, Toronto and Vancouver, and the Mountaineer, from Chicago to the Pacific coast, it has been announced. The cars will have drawing room, valet service, lounge and smoking compartments, a solarium with five-glass windows.

The sun is constantly productive of talks of adventure and romance and many is that about Commander S. S. Robinson, O.B.E., of the Canadian Pacific liner Empress of France, who himself has ship here in face of a hurricane and went 200 miles out of his course in order to succor distressed seamen on a storm tossed Japanese freighter. The great liner waited beside the freighter, which had been badly battered by the mighty waves and some members of whose crew had been injured, but found it impossible for boats to pass between the two ships to convey a doctor. After waiting for half a day the master of the Japanese ship reported that he would make port, and the Empress of France continued on her interrupted voyage.

SCHOOL OF AGRICULTURE NOTES

Mr. A. B. Claypool, M.L.A., manager of the Alberta Livestock Pool, will speak at the School of Agriculture on Saturday, February 16th at 2 o'clock. This meeting will be free to all farmers of the district who wish to attend and it will provide an opportunity for them to become acquainted with this phase of co-operative marketing.

On Tuesday and Wednesday of last week we had the pleasure of hearing Mr. Halsall, manager of the Farmers' Co-operative store at Killam, lecture on the history of the problems of that store. He outlined the conditions that give rise to the organizing of the co-operative buying movement, and discussed the problems that confront and the store from time to time, showing how each problem was overcome His lecture was very interesting and the whole course of us will profit from his experience.

Last Friday afternoon the first year girls put on their competitive Lit. which proved to be one of the best Lits. of the season. The program was opened with "O Canada" by all the students, followed by a medley of songs, some 12 to 14 girls taking part. Next was a monologue by Frances Perrin: a Spanish senora dance, then an imitation orchestra, brought on pairs of laughter by their clever imitation of the band members. Education and Leisure

It has long been the boast of Western Canada that its people are intensely interested in education. With pride the people have drawn attention to the fact that in towns and villages the most outstanding structures are the schools where the vast expanse of prairie has been dotted with rural schools the number of which in the three prairie provinces now approximates 4,000 to ten thousand. Visit these small rural and village schools and larger public and high schools in the towns, still larger schools, collegiate institutes and colleges in the cities, and the three Provincial Universities and in every one of them is evidence of the determination of the people of the West that the children of this and future generations shall not only thus be prepared for life," but that they shall come to realize the value of education as it is both the accompaniment and the experience of life.

It is said that school life is entering upon a new era. No doubt it is, because in this changing world we are always entering upon new eras and education must do likewise. The fundamentals, the great objectives of education abide. Methods change and the setting varies, but it remains true that health is the basis of life and the ideals of learning are the every friendship an unchangeable service as a radiant star, home is and a great joy, nature is beauty and character is humanity's highest good.

Education is a matter of mind and character. It does not even begin there, and certainly does not end there. School is but a means to an end. Through it we are assisted and impelled but if that were all our education would be a failure. At best, while it imparts knowledge, gives discipline and some exercise of the mind, it is but the various countries will be [illegible] of the attainment of degrees, honors and [illegible] equipment to enable us to [illegible] and resources, the palms and [illegible] the treasures of the [illegible] and [illegible] them all to the [illegible] use.

An educated person is he who has learned to purify his motives, to broaden his culture, to penetrate the shams and prejudices until it has come at truth, and to discover that every man has a contribution to make to the great society in the service of which he attains to freedom.

Five conferences upon the National Council of Education held a great and noteworthy conference in Toronto, the theme of which was "Education and Life. In April next, it will convene in Vancouver, when, in connection with the general scheme of the programme "Education and Leisure." The subjects for discussion by noted speakers and authorities from all parts of the world include: Literature, The Moving Picture, Music and the Drama; The Radio Organized Play, Recreation; Hobbies and Handicrafts; Health in Relation to Leisure.

Life is divided into hours of work, and hours of leisure It has, however, become customary to consider education almost wholly in terms of work, and little thought has yet been given to education in its relation to leisure. The Lord Chief Justice of England, recently said that "success only to think the real cause of civilization is the right use of leisure, recreation and innocent amusement for the young." The free hours of a large proportion of youths and adults are occupied with harmful and trifling pleasures. We must realize that in the leisure hours the young are like that they form the habits which may later ruin their lives.

Modern machinery which is steadily displacing man in the production of mans material needs, is providing an ever increasing number of leisure hours. Education in the present and future must concern itself with the provision and enhancement of interests to occupy the leisure of the child and the adult. There is no reason why the school and college alone can give if men are to gain the faculty of using leisure easily, happily and fruitfully.

Many subjects can be found in good literature, in music, in useful hobbies and handicrafts, in organized health-giving play and recreation. Organized games provide education in self-control. To "play the game" is destined to teach development in fullest, this natural gift becomes an asset of great national worth and importance in the evolution of a high type of citizenship.

Labor unrelieved by recreation produces fatigue, and fatigue produces hate, lawlessness and despair. Recreation undirected, unregulated, furtive, produces vice, degeneration, and help-lessness. Play is the natural expression of all the inborn instincts. When a man is natural and at his best, it is his spirit that plays.

Parents and teachers may well give greater heed to the trend of these modern days, and devote greater and close attention to the encouragement of proper use of the leisure hours of the children under their care.

Using Radio To Send Fingerprints

Experiment Tried At Scotland Yard by a Success

Experts at New Scotland Yard are carrying out experiments in the transmission by wireless, of the photographs and fingerprints of criminals.

Remarkable success has already attended their efforts, and Viscount Dyrog of Vimy, the commissioner and various high officials who have seen the results, have expressed their approval of the venture.

This application by the police of the latest outcome of electrical research, will, in time, have effects of far-reaching importance in the prevention and detection of crime, and the thwarting and capture of criminals.

At present the description of a wanted man is sent over by post or telegraph, to various police forces, and frequently the details are of a most earbled vague character; but, however informative a description may be, it obviously lacks the conviction of a reliable photograph, and it does not convey the vivid mental picture which is so helpful in identification.

One photograph with which an experiment was made, was that of a criminal named Thompson, wanted for Dead Police Constable Cattebridge and the transmission was so good that the wirelessed picture was easily recognized already two criminals have also been transmitted with equal success

It is not the first time before there is a chain of police wireless stations in England, but officials are certain that the supporting instruction stations in America and on the continent and thus supply the authorities in various countries with the photographs and fingerprints of fugitive gangs of international thieves and others whose arrest is desired

Radio Staff Puzzled

Discovered Bonds Worn By Pianist Were Cause Of Vibrations

The mysterious reverberation in the KGO radio studio at San Francisco which puzzled the staff for days has been found.

After an expert piano tuner tried for hours to remedy the trouble, and of the station's pianists were summoned to appear and Eva Carlile was found guilty.

Miss Carlile was "wondered" to have her bonds at home when she played at the studio. Sensitive microphones picked up a note in pizzicato with the bonds and sent the vibrations over the air.

Boys Kill Timber Wolf

Animal Attacked Them In Woods Near North Bay

Marshall King and William Hall, two pupils of the Chapleau Indian school, are in proud possession of the carcass of a large timber wolf which attacked them when they were driving through the woods with a sleigh-load of hauling wood.

Infuriated by injuries sustained in the jaws of a steel trap, the beast sprang upon the sleigh.

The boys halted the horses and belabored the wolf with slabs of wood. Unable to make their blows prove effective, they jumped to the ground and continued the fight Finally a well-directed blow caught the animal on the head, killing it.

Tooth Weighs 850 Pounds

The largest tooth in the world, 11 feet 2 inches long and weighing more than 850 pounds, has just arrived at the Harvard Dental School Museum. It came from the jaw of a mastodon, and scientists estimate that it is more than 50,000 years old before the tusk was found in Alaska, the largest known specimen was the 8-foot one in the Carnegie Museum, Pittsburgh.

Blood Continued Weeping

Public Seem to Forget Menace of Level Crossing

While the ideal thing would be to eliminate every level crossing in the country—and steps toward that end are being taken—it will be many years before this menace to public safety is a thing of the past. In the meantime the public must be continually warned.

If every person would get it firmly fixed in his mind that each level crossing is dangerous and that no one must be so regarded when approaching it, the death toll from this source will be materially reduced. Motorists cannot afford to feel with level crossings.

RHEUMATIC PAINS DUE TO THIN BLOOD

Relief Comes Through the Use Of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills

The most a rheumatic sufferer can hope for is relief from the wrenching of the swollen, aching joints is a little relief, and all the while the trouble is becoming more firmly settled. It is now known that rheumatism is rooted in the blood and that all the trouble goes on the blood becomes still further impoverished. The gradual of rheumatism, therefore, you must get to the root of the trouble in the blood. That is why Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are so successful in curing this trouble. They make new, rich blood which spells the driving out of the uric acid which causes the pain.

There are thousands of former rheumatic sufferers in Canada, now enjoying health strength who thank Dr. Williams' Pink Pills that they are now free from the pain and misery of this dread trouble. One of these, Mrs. W. J. Tait, McNair, Ont., who lives on the various countries will be [illegible] photographs and fingerprints of fugitive gangs of international thieves and others whose arrest is desired

Mrs Tait, in giving her experience for the benefit of New Liskeard readers, said: "I felt you of the great benefit I received from the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. After lying in bed for seven weeks suffering from rheumatism with inflammatory rheumatism, which baffled the skill of three physicians, I could not move in bed or even turn over without help. I was told that my whole system was poisoned and that I would never get relief. After taking six or eight boxes of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills I was advised to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and soon began to get relief. After taking six or eight boxes the rheumatism was banished and I have never felt better in my life. It is several years since this happened and I have had no return of the trouble since. I may add that I recommended the pills to two of my friends who were suffering with rheumatism and the pills were equally effective in both cases."

Try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for anaemia, rheumatism, neuralgia indigestion or nervousness. Take them as a tonic if you are not in the best physical condition and sufferers are assisted to lung-continued and repeated irritations, a mild inflammation is set up, progressing, leads to more serious disease. Just as a cold becomes a menace both to the teeth and to the health of the individual.

Western Canadians To Tour Maritimes

Principal Towns and Beauty Spots To Be Visited

In an effort to bring closer together the East and the West, Dr. F. W. Fallis, editor of the "Over the Teas look," the official periodical of the United Church in Canada, is organizing a tour, co-operation of the Canadian National Railways, a tour of the Maritime provinces for the benefit of Western Canadians. The tour will leave Winnipeg by special Canadian National train on June 17 visiting Ottawa, Montreal, Quebec Province, the Saguenay River, Prince Edward Island. More than 80 persons from Winnipeg and the west are expected to take part in the tour, which will be personally conducted.

Extensions To Hotels

C.P.R. Increasing Accommodations At Calgary and Emerald Lake

Extensions to the Palliser hotel at Calgary and the Empress hotel at Victoria, involving an expenditure of over $4,000,000 by the Canadian Pacific Railway, have been decided upon. At the Palliser there will be an addition of four floors with 300 rooms and a large extension to the ballroom —which enlargements are expected to be completed by September week. The Empress will have an entirely new wing with a 300-foot frontage to the water and a 220-foot frontage on Humbolt street. An addition of 270 rooms with baths will bring the total number to 550.

Teeth and Health

Issued By The Canadian Dental Association With The Approval Of The Dominion Council Of Health

THE GINGIVAE OR GUMS

Nature is a watchful Mother and so it is that she has clothed the teeth about with tissues that in a great way about each tooth snugly like a protective garment.

These tissues, then, that so ably protect the delicate tooth membranes and supporting structures are the gums, and injury, are spoken of as the gingivae or gingiva.

Among the tissues of the mouth the gingivae stand out in importance because of the fact that while in health they are barrier that stops, yet when injured they become the portals of entry to infective processes that may seriously affect body defences.

For this reason the maintenance of the gingivae in health, is of utmost importance.

These tissues have no direct attachment to the teeth at its neck, being simply fitted around closely. And they are so designed that when crushed between the teeth pile along their sloping surfaces with which they are in contact, all evidence of debris which in their decomposition, would give rise to irritation and disease producing compounds are prevented.

Countless numbers of tiny fibres embedded in the gingivae pass over and fro in all directions and rely them their strength and firmness. Where suffering through injury, or other cause, these fibres become weakened the most important feature of the gingivae exhibiting a lack of tissue tone.

The gingivae are particularly rich in blood supply as is evidenced by their color By this means there is provided the rapid repair of tissues following upon the frequent minor injuries and scrapings that they are subjected to in the chewing of food

Firm and resistant as are the gin givae to minor injuries, yet where subjected to long-continued and repeated irritations, a mild inflammation is set up, progressing, leads to more serious disease. Just as a cold becomes a menace both to the teeth and to the health of the individual.

Wonders Of Suez Canal

Business Has Grown Enormously Since Waterway Was Opened in 1870

Advices from Port Said express the opinion that the passing through the huge Singapore Dry Dock in two sections is the greatest feat ever accomplished by that waterway, although transits of large vessels through the canal in 73 hours. In 1870, the year after the canal was opened, the average time of passage was 36 hours, and the largest ship accommodated was one of 4,414 tons. Today ships of 27,000 tons pass through the canal. Last year 5,845 ships with a total net tonnage of 28,062,014 passed through with transit receipts amounting to $47,909,000. In 1870 the number of vessels was 486 with a tonnage of 436,609, while the receipts amounted to $1,564,000

FOR NEURALGIA

BAYER ASPIRIN

You doubtless depend on Aspirin to make short work of headaches, but remember that it's just as dependable an antidote for many other pains! Neuralgia? Many have found real relief in an Aspirin tablet. Or for toothache; an effective way to relieve it, and the one thing doctors are wisely prone to advise when a child—of any age. Whether to break up a cold, or relieve the serious pain from neuritis or deep-seated rheumatism, there's nothing quite like Aspirin. Just make certain it's genuine; it must bear the Bayer on the box and on every tablet. All druggists, with proven directions.

Physicians prescribe Aspirin; it does NOT affect the heart

Aspirin is the trade mark (registered in Canada) of Bayer Manufacture of Monoaceticacidester of Salicylicacid

NEW LEGISLATION ANNOUNCED IS NOT EXTENSIVE

Ottawa, Ont.—The speech from the throne with which His Excellency the Governor-General opened Parliament, consists largely of a review of the legislation and the accomplishments of the Government since the close of the last parliamentary session.

New legislation announced is not extensive. Amendments to the Dominion Elections Act, to the Companies Act, the Fisheries Act, the Narcotic Drug Act, and the act respecting technical education are pieces of new legislation to be forecast.

The speech also states that Parliament will be given an opportunity to approve the multilateral treaty for the renunciation of war as an instrument of national policy, and the treaty providing for preservation of the scenic beauties of Niagara. An amendment to the Railway Act, which will grant to the railway commission powers of investigation of safety devices for the protection of railway employees, is announced. Legislation concerns and with respect to the issue of capital stock will be introduced.

One of the most important announcements connected with the speech is that legislation to provide for a general pensions scheme for the benefit of Canadian National employees will be brought down.

For this reason the maintenance of the gingivae in health, is of utmost importance.

Seeking Right To Control Property

Shareholders Of Grand Trunk Railroad Lodge Petition With Government

Ottawa, Ont.—The shareholders of the Grand Trunk Railroad are seeking the recovery of their right to control the railway property, now an integral part of the National Railway system, or fair compensation for their shares.

To this end they have lodged a petition of right with the government at Ottawa, claiming a fait to use the Dominion of Canada for the restoration of their property.

The par value of the shares held by the shareholders amounts to about $160,000,000, and presumably the alternatives before the government, if the law suit was successful, would be either to pay these shareholders $160,000,000 or to surrender the Grand Trunk lines.

At the moment none of the ministers or deputy ministers concerned in this matter will discuss it.

Not Delaying Treaty

Suggestion That Canada Is Holding Up Arbitration Fact Is Denied

London, England.—The suggestion that Canada is delaying the arbitration treaty between Britain and the United States, was stated is authoritative quarters here to be groundless.

The reason for the delay is that Britain and the United States are anxious to get the Kellogg pact, upon which they have been concentrating all their time, out of the way first, but the conclusion of the arbitration treaty is expected before long.

Observations were received from Canada a few weeks ago, and the other Dominions have also sent their views.

It is admitted that the question of setting up the arbitration machinery is a matter of some delicacy and discussion, but no great difficulties are anticipated, and there is no particular hurry.

Nurses Called To Paris From England

Fin Epidemic Has Reached Serious Proportions In France

Paris. — France's influenza epidemic has become so serious that it has been found necessary to import nurses from England.

This procedure ordinarily would be attended with endless red tape, but much of this has been dispensed with in the present instance to facilitate treatment of cases in Paris hospitals. In some cases doctors have been able to get needed assistance by telephone within twelve hours from London.

One hospital authority estimated that about one-fifth of the Parisian population was affected.

Thus far most of the cases have been mild, but later reports show there has been an increase in pneumonia and bronchial symptoms following influenza. There has been a corresponding increase in the death rate.

Paying Visit To Japan

London, England.—The Duke of Gloucester will leave London at the end of April for Japan, to lunch Emperor Hirohito, of Japan, with the Order of the Garter. Determination of the date of the Duke's mission was stated to have been made possible "in view of the improvement in the King's health." The Duke's party will arrive in Japan early in May.

New Experience For Italy

Rome.—Ice boats and skiis may be necessary to replace Venetian gondolas if the winter in the Italian city does not moderate soon. Ice has clogged up the canals and lagoons which serve Venice as streets and traffic there by means of gondolas has become most difficult. The temperature has been as low as 15.5 Fahrenheit.

Alberta Keeps Own Police

Province Prefers Not To Make Change In System

Edmonton.—The Alberta Government will not accept the offer of the Dominion Government, that the Royal Canadian Mounted Police shall take over the policing of the provinces from the existing Alberta provincial police forces.

This much was made evident by Premier Brownlee in the legislature, when he made his remarks in the same reason that the Federal Government gave when they refused to remove the R.C.M.P. from the provinces—that they intended to have their own statutes enforced by their own police.

Radio For Peace River

Premier Brownlee Outlines Year's Plans For North Country

Edmonton, Alta.—Short-wave radio stations to link up isolated points in Alberta's north, pending the carrying of telegraph communications to such points; an intensive search for water in areas where water is scarce; three survey parties on soil surveys, and a survey party to examine the pre-Cambrian Shield to determine its [illegible] and mineral possibilities, are among plans for the Peace River country this year, Premier Brownlee told the Alberta legislature.

FRANCE WILLING TO RENOUNCE PENSION RIGHTS

Paris.—A determined effort to insure the economic rehabilitation of Europe will be made when the first international committee of experts on reparations begins its sessions here on February 11, Premier Poincare believes nearly $6,000,000,000 in pension rights granted her by the Versailles Treaty, indicates that a conciliatory spirit will be shown to provide solution of the tremendous financial problem that the committee will participate in the underwriting of new issues of securities

Copenhagen.—The Greenland Administration Department reports that the country was enjoying an unusually mild winter There was virtually no fall of snow, it was said, and the temperature was equivalent to approximately 48 degrees Fahrenheit.

FORMS FINANCIAL BUSINESS

C. Rice-Jones, who, until recently, was vice-president of United Grain Growers, has gone into the financial business in Western Canada and has established his own company, C. Rice-Jones and Co., Limited. To devote himself to this business he has resigned from the Vice-Presidency and from the Board of United Grain Growers, thus severing a connection which has continued during many years.

Prior to 1917, he was President and General Manager of the Alberta Farmers' Co-operative Elevator Company. He helped to bring about the amalgamation of that Company with the Grain Growers' Grain Company to form United Grain Growers Limited, and since 1917 has been first vice-president of the amalgamated company.

He has many friends in all the Western Provinces, and in addition to his Head Office in Calgary centres Mr. Rice-Jones has established connections with financial houses in Toronto, Montreal and New York and is completing an organization of representatives in western towns and cities.

C. Rice-Jones and Co., Limited will be located in the Curry Block, Winnipeg, where a complete financial service will be given on stocks and bonds, and, in addition, the company will participate in the underwriting of new issues of securities

Starving Crowds Raid Food Stores

Hunger Caused People In Bessarabia Attack Emergency Stores

Bukhrest, Roumania. — Starving crowds of men, women and children attacked the emergency food relief stations here and crushed wood we wrecked furniture and seized the small remaining supply of food To appease the hunger-crazed people the government relief committee has promised additional food supplies.

The government of Bessarabia which has been the victim of a desperate famine because of crop failure, held a special meeting of officials to discuss further measures for relieving the situation which has been greatly aggravated lately by the migration of food trains which are marooned in heavy snow between Bessarabia and Bukarest

Injuries Proved Fatal

Workman For Paper Company Caught In Gear Of Machine

North Bay, Ont.—Despite the effort of a gang of men armed with acetylene torches who cut through gears and shafts of huge machinery in an effort to release him, and the transfer of a special train to take him to hospital, William Aubercrft, an employee of the International Paper Company, died from shock and loss of blood

Aubercrft's leg was caught in the gear of the big machine and crushed to the nature of the mechanism, the gears could not be removed, and the torches were immediately employed and the machine literally cut to pieces. A special train made record speed in hospital in Mattawa, where his right leg was amputated The shock proved too severe and he died a few hours later

Friedrichshafen, Germany — The dirigible Graf Zeppelin is to start the end of February on a round trip to Egypt and Palestine.

AIR SURVEYS FOR LAST YEAR BREAK RECORD

Ottawa The preference of aerial surveying for mapping Canada on account of great speed combined with a saving of time, has been shown in the increase of the report of the Aerial Surveys Committee for the year 1928 which has been issued by the annual convention of Dominion Land Surveyors. Although aerial photography has been employed in this work seven years ago this method is by using a most popular method of mapping in the statement of the committee.

During the season which was a record for operations, the aerial survey parties of territory were the provinces in central and eastern Canada. 17,000 Manitoba 7,000 Saskatchewan 14,000 Alberta 4,000 and British Columbia 1,000 altogether 143,272 photographs were taken, said Mr Waugh.

To Trap the World's Melodies!

The world will soon have another symphony! Rudolph Friml, the noted composer of Rose Marie, The Vagabond King and other musical successes is circling the globe in search of inspiration for a new work. With his wife and folding baby-upright, he joined the Empress of Australia at Montreal. He will make the world cruise on her, searching India the Orient and other points in the mystic east, for new and haunting melodies which will later be sung and hummed and whistled the width and length of the globe.

TOWNSITE PLANS FOR CHURCHILL ARE DISCUSSED

Winnipeg Man. Townsite plans for the Port of Churchill on Hudson Bay it is understood were considered when Col A. E. Dolphin, D.S.O., chief engineer of the department of railways and canals Ottawa and H. H. McLean, C.M.G., provincial secretary and minister of mines and natural resources here

Colonel Dolphin arrived on what he said was a trip to the east and shortly afterwards was joined at the conference by Hon. Dr. McKenzie Neither Colonel Dolphin nor Mr. McKenzie would state what their purpose was but it was authoritatively stated that the subject of the discussion was the terminus at Manitoba's seaport.

It is understood that the question of the port's location has been under consideration at Ottawa and Winnipeg for some considerable time.

While the last official pronouncement in this regard came from Major Graham A. Bell, the late deputy minister of railways, in August, 1927. At that time he said: "I wish to warn all prospective purchasers that there is no land or town lots for sale in the vicinity of the proposed harbor site"

To Protect Gold Reserve

Bank Of England Raises Rate One Per Cent

London, Directors of the Bank of England have raised the bank rate 1 per cent, lifting it to 5½ per cent. from the 4½ per cent. level at which it had stood since April 21, 1927.

The step, nearly a nine measure to protect the bank's gold reserve from inroads through the operations in the Paris market, had it has been recognized in the money market, but it had been hoped that a working agreement between the central institutions here and that in the U.S. would have obviated some measure of assistance to the latter.

The net outlay of gold from the Bank of England in one week was more than $10,000,000, reducing the bank's stock to less than £150,000,000, and the higher rate was imposed in the endeavor to raise the sterling rate of exchange and to check the outflow of gold

Autos Take Heavy Toll

Vancouver, B.C. Thirty persons were killed in automobile accidents in Vancouver during 1928 and 725 others were injured in a total of 1029 accidents reported, according to figures compiled by the city police department but not published. Automobile accidents for the entire province of British Columbia during 1928 are numbered 87,500 against 22,000 in 1927, and an average of three persons were killed for each 1,000 automobiles operated.

The Standard this week has printed 1500 circulars which are being mailed out by our local furniture man, Mr J Waring If you do not get yours, ask for one, for they are good reading and show that Vermilion stores are more than equal to the town competition or city houses.

During the coming spring the town will proceed to survey more lots in the east cemetery, and Councillor J Waring is making an effort to get the opinion of the ratepayers as to which or it is better to fix up the old site or open up another—and easier look ed after—site near to town. Considerable work would be necessary to make the old site even presentable, and a level place —which could be beautified at less expense— has been suggested as more in keeping with the progressive trend of the district. If you have a suggestion, let Mr Waring know.

School Board Prepares Budget

District Required to Levy for $28,300

A special meeting of the Vermilion Centre School Board was held Tuesday evening Chairman Morrison and Trustees Scott, Brimacombe, Welsh and Cooper present. The principal business to engage the attention of the board was the preparation of the estimates for the carrying on of the town schools for thenarrowal year. As it is the intention for the future to keep separate costs of conducting our public schools and the high school, estimates were consequently struck accordingly. The board as a body felt that only absolutely necessary expenditures should be provided for this year owing to the extra liabilities incurred in the erection of the high school building and adding of a fourth teacher to the staff during the past year.

Regarding the high school, after the deduction of government grants and students' fees, it was found that $12,000 would be required, and for the public schools $16,300 — making the total requisition to be levied for at $28,300. This is an increase of $1,200 over last year, but when it is considered that in this increase the board is taking care of an additional high school de-benture payment of $2000, and salary of fourth teacher, $1200—a total of $3700—they have accomplished all that could be expected.

It will be imperative to have considerable repairs made in the east end school as much of the old plaster is badly cracked and a lot has fallen. The boilers are also in need of attention and it is the intention to instal a septic tank system in the basement before another winter sets in. The spiral fire escape is another important matter.

After the midsummer holidays it is quite possible that a full commercial course will be added to the high school classes.

Two Great Games Staged By Civic League Last Night

Elks and Clerks Were Winners

The Elks did themselves, and last donnally the Clerks, a good turn last night when they lopped the league-leading Vets 6-4 reverse in a close and fairly contested game. This win brings the Elks up with the College in the matter of points and the Clerks' win gives them the edge in the standing, but all the teams are close enough together to make it a merry battle for Bill White's handsome trophy.

The youngsters in the Elks-Vets fracas were much in evidence last night and did most of the scoring For Cm Vets "Dash" Scrimscombe got two. While one and Burns one. while the Elk counters were young Ken Corsan who grabbed off three goals and starred throughout the contest. MacKenzie and Reinbeck who got one each.

Clarke Drew College 3-2

One of the most exciting games yet staged was the Cabaret - College encounter which ended in a win for the latter after 20 minutes of hectic hockey. Two hundred fans were on hand to witness this game.

Bill Meade opened the scoring in the first period, but the lead was shortlived when Fallow followed in on Sharpe's shot and slammed in the rebound to tie the count. Towards the end of the period the referee swore-off ed the foul judge and gave the College a goal which was hotly disputed and hadly cracked and a lot has fallen. The boilers are also in need of attention and it is the intention to instal a septic tank system in the basement before another winter sets in. The spiral fire escape is another important matter.

After the midsummer holidays it is quite possible that a full commercial course will be added to the high school classes.

HIGH SCHOOL NEWS

The Vermilion district finals for the Journal Provincial contest were held in the school auditorium last Thursday, Feb. 13th After the singing of "O Canada" Miss Mabel Hall played a piano solo The next item was the Oratorical contest, the contestants being Miss Mary Hooper, Miss Marion Alison (who won the local contest) and Mr. Ernest Hall. The judges were from Islay. The speeches were worthy of praise, the first by Miss Caroline Hall, "The Hall from Ireland," Mary Pitts on "Hail Columbia" and Mr. Hall on "Canada." All of these contestants spoke well considering the short time they had to prepare. It is anticipated that Miss Caroline Hall will represent Vermilion at the zone contest. Mr. Hall, who had to represent Islay, was unfortunately ill with the flu and could not be present. Gilbert Brimacombe read the essay entitled "A Round" entered "Three Blind Mice" was sung in some of the students. A song from Carl Rosa Opera Co., introduced by Margaret Weaver, was put on by some of the Grade XI students.

After a comment on the contest from one of the judges, the audience entertained closed with God Save the King."

The High School wishes to thank the public for its wonderful response on Thursday evening

More books have been received for the Library Lucille Irwin, Margaret Galloway and Lila Brown presented their books last week.

The T. Eaton Co. and R. Simpson Co., upon request, donated quite a number of books

The High School will entertain the College this Friday, Feb 22 Preparations are being made to make this a great success. A good time is expected.

TROOP — ALERT!

Scout Rally to be Held Tuesday Next

A rally of Scouts in the Community Hall on Tuesday, the 26th inst. A real Rally is to be conducted under the leadership of District Secretary Mowat, of Edmonton.

The purpose of this rally is for Scouts, Cubs, organizations, with boys' to hear what the Scout movement has to offer for our town, and what it offers the community. Be carried in connection with its work in our western towns and cities

At 7 o'clock, the local Troop will meet at its troop headquarters (the Methodist parish hall) and will move over to the community hall at 7:30, sharp at 8 p.m. a social evening will commence. The programme will consist of various musical items by the scouts and talks on the Boy Scout movement in District Secretary Mr. Mowat and by our own local men in business and others locally interested. It is hoped that a large number of adults will come to realize the tremendous importance of either the Cub or the Scout movement in the community. Members and fathers of town are busy, as well as those members of the Elks' lodge who have so lately volunteered their support to the boys' organization, and members of all other fraternal lodges members of all religious denominations are cordially invited to the evening's entertainment. Please rally with the boys in order that with them you may show a profound and responsible interest in their organized department of physical and educational instruction which they are asking for week by week.

Those who are behind this movement feel there are many boys who would be Scouts themselves if they knew more of it They now feel the fate of many parents who would lend their sympathy and their aid if they, too, had information on the movement.

The rally is free to all to attend and it is hoped many will take hold of the opportunity of hearing an organization which has been instrumental among the boys of all lands to-day. Inviting for years past in our town Scouts please be on hand at your headquarters at 7 p.m. sharp

Suggests Fire Insurance Pool

Prairie Provinces May Carry Own Risk On Schools

Suggestions to the school trustees organizations of Saskatchewan and Manitoba that a fire insurance pool be undertaken on the three provinces covering insurance on school buildings will be made as a result of the adoption of a resolution by the Alberta School Trustees' Association at its annual meeting in Lethbridge

A report was received from W. E. Turner of Calgary, delegated last year to investigate the possibility of the schools of the province organizing their own fire insurance scheme His report showed that, on the insurance premiums paid and losses of the past two years, the Alberta boards could build up a half million insurance fund in five years and it was felt that if Saskatchewan and Manitoba would come into the un certaking the plan would have good chance to succeed.

Calgary was chosen as the convention city for the 1930 convention.

CRIDDLE CAKES

Who doesn't like griddle cakes? From father to the youngest member of the family, every one clamors for more—when they are tasty! Here is a tested recipe:

1 cupful Borden's St. Charles Milk.
1 cupful wat-r.
2 tablespoonfuls melted butter.
1 egg, well beaten.
3 cupfuls white flour.
1 teaspoonful salt.
2 teaspoonfuls baking powder.
2 tablespoons sugar.

Combine the milk and water, add the shortening, sugar, and the egg and heat in the dry ingredients which have been sifted together. Heat thoroughly and fry as usual on a slightly oiled griddle, or on an unoiled aluminum or soapstone griddle. If very thin cakes are desired, add two more tablespoonfuls of St. Charles milk and water. For further interesting recipe write for the Borden Cook Books, addressing the Borden Co., Ltd., Dept. Another British Stronghold

Harbor At Malta One Of World's Greatest Naval Stations

The island and harbor at Malta, under British management has been converted into one of the greatest naval and coaling stations in the world, in strength and impregnability it is said to now rival the famous rock of Gibraltar.

The old fortifications were useless against attack of modern aircraft and the British have completely altered the naval batteries and land defenses of the islands. Today they are among the most formidable in the world.

A large military and civil airdrome has been constructed at Hal Far, making another link by Britain's world-wide system of air communication. A floating dry dock, capable of accommodating the largest vessels in the world, as well as new refitting yards, large magazines and many other improvements, have been completed.

Malta is the headquarters of the British Mediterranean fleet, probably the most powerful flotilla of warships afloat, and is also one of the most important ports of call in the world. It lies midway between Gibraltar and Port Said. Although in area Malta is three times the size of Manhattan Island, it has only one-tenth the population of the Borough of Manhattan. The last census showed less than 225,000 inhabitants.

KEEP YOUR BABY HAPPY AND WELL

Every mother wishes her child or children to be well and happy; for bright-eyed, rosy-cheeked boys and girls No mother, though, can expect her children to escape all the ills of babyhood and childhood, but she can do much to help them fight off the battle for health.

Many prudent mothers constantly keep at hand the means of aiding their little ones when sicknesses come suddenly—as it generally does in the case of children. In every home where there are infants and young children there should be found, and kept ready, a box of Baby's Own Tablets. They are a wonderful medicine for little ones.

Baby's Own Tablets are a mild but thorough laxative which regulates the bowels and sweetens the stomach and thus break up colds and simple fever, relieve constipation and indigestion and allay the irritation accompanying the cutting of teeth. They are absolutely safe and are pleasant to take. The Tablets are sold by all medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Good Market For Whitefish

Calgary Man States U.S. Favors Great Since Lake Product

People in Chicago may soon be eating Canadian whitefish purchased on their home market for 15 cents and, according to W. J. Madden, of Calgary, Alta., who was in Montreal recently making necessary railway arrangements for the shipment.

The fish will be caught in Great Slave Lake, a lake which provides fishing in virgin waters, according to Mr. Madden. He stated that it abounds in whitefish, a food that is looked upon with favor throughout the United States. He plans to operate a number of five-ton trucks over the ice of the Slave and Athabasca rivers to Waterways, and then to Chicago by rail, taking about four days in all to complete the journey.

At present, however, the open season for whitefish in Canada ends in February, and Mr. Madden went to Ottawa to seek an extension of the season to the end of March. He believes that if this extension is granted, Chicago will provide an active market for whitefish during the Lenten season.

Persistent Asthma. A most distressing characteristic of this dreadful disease, is the persistence with which recurring attacks come to sap away strength and leave the sufferer in a state of almost constant exhaustion. No wiser precaution can be taken than that of keeping at hand a supply of Dr. J. D. Kellogg's Asthma Remedy, famous as the most potent remedy for relieving this disease from the tender air passages.

CHRISTIAN GROWTH

Golden Text: "But grow in the grace and knowledge of our Lord and Saviour Jesus Christ."—2 Peter 3, 18a.

Lesson: John 1.40-42; Matthew 16, 15-18; John 21, 15-19; Luke 2.40, 52; Ephesians 4.11-16; Philippians 1.9, 9-11; 3.12-16; Colossians 1.9-11; Hebrews 5.1-3.

Devotional Reading: John 15.1-8.

Explanations and Comments

Becoming a Follower Of Jesus. John 1.40-42.—After a day in the company of Jesus (read verses 29-39), Andrew sought his brother and told him that he and John had found the Messiah. Messiah (Hebrew, and Christ (Greek), mean "The Anointed One." Hebrew kings were anointed with oil when given their office, and the Spiritual King was thought of as The Anointed, The Chosen One of God, until The Anointed, the Christ, became the name by which he was designated. Then Andrew brought Peter to Jesus.

The nearer another is to us, the greater our responsibility for him. Our own brothers and sisters know us better than do those outside the family circle; they know our faults and failings, and therefore we shrink from talking to them about our spiritual experiences. It may require courage to do this, but our Christianity is shallow if we cannot do it.

As He looked upon Andrew's brother, Jesus saw: Thou art Simon the son of John; thou shalt be called Cephas. Cephas, like Messiah and Christ, and Peter, the Greek name, mean "a stone," a detached piece of rock. Jesus knew Peter was too impulsive to be reliable; but he also knew that he would become a rock on which he would one day build His church (Matthew 16.15-18). In a gallery in Europe there hang side by side Rembrandt's first picture, a simple sketch, imperfect and faulty, and his great masterpiece which all men admire. And so in the two names, Simon and Peter, we have first a crude fisherman, the man as he was before Jesus began his work on him; and, second, the man as he became after the friendship of Jesus and the teaching of Jesus and the discipline of life had wrought the transformation in him."—J. R. Miller.

TAX RATE FOR 1929.

At a meeting of the town council last night the tax rate for the current year was struck. There is no general municipal rate; debenture redemption rate is 18 mills and the school rate 24 mills, thus making a total of 42 mills as against that of 43 5-10 mills for last year. The rural school rate is the same as formerly, namely 15 mills. The business tax is entirely separate and is raised on a percentage of assessment on floor space—this is estimated for 1929 at $6000, which goes into the general fund, as do also license fees, dog tax and proceeds from property sales. Profits earned by our public utilities will as well be available, payments on debenture accounts for central heating and the power plant being provided for in the debenture rate.

Supplementary revenue rate, which goes to the government, is set at 3 mills and Hospital District No. 2 rate at 3 mills.

REV. C. G. STONE ASKS BOYS' WORK BOARD BE SET UP

Would Control Various Enterprises in Juvenile Interests

(From Edmonton Journal)

This is the second of a series of interviews with churchmen and leaders of boys' organizations touching on the interests and welfare of Edmonton's boyhood.

Formation of a boys' work board to control the various enterprises in juvenile interests here is urged by Rev. C. G. Stone, B.A. of the First Baptist church.

"No more important activities, looking toward the building of sound national life have been carried on during the last ten years than those in connection with the development of youthful character," Mr. Stone said. "Edmonton in particularly fortunate in the present time in its leaders of boys' work."

Paying a tribute to the leaders of the boys' movement here, Mr. Stone said that these men were making a great contribution to the city's betterment and that splendid results were being achieved.

Hold Boys in Church

"This work is responsible for holding the boys in the church for longer periods than has frequently been the case," he said, "and means much to the community in the preparation for leaders in church and civic life."

These programs for the betterment of the boys have made possible an all round development in hundreds of lads, Mr. Stone declared, and have given them confidence to participate in public activities and given them also a wholesome outlook on life generally.

"Even at this early stage," he said, "there are many instances where young men who are taking prominent places in leadership in church and civic activities received their training and their point of view as members of boys' work clubs in some Edmonton churches."

"It seems to me that the great majority of us are making at present is that we are not pressing a united front to this important work."

Mr. Stone said that the Boy Scouts, the C. S. E. and other organizations had grown up side by side. They had the same aims. They had substantially the same calibre of men was represented.

Representative Board

"Decision in a given church as to what program will be carried on in the interests of the leadership of that can be found," Mr. Stone declared. "What we need is a representative board of strong men who will charge themselves with the responsibility of promoting all boys' work in a city."

Stressing the need for greater enthusiasm on the part of adults, Mr. Stone said that the problems of finding leaders who were capable and willing to carry on the work was a perennial one.

While there were some churches in the city where remarkable results were being achieved due to the work of a number of enthusiasts, there were others, he said, where boys' work was at a standstill due to the failure of men to come forward and devote a few hours a week to the cause.

"In the First Baptist church the Boys' work is promoted under the Boy Scout association, the troop being No. 22 of the city of Edmonton," he said.

Paying a tribute to W. A. Bagley for his enthusiastic work in connection with the troop, Mr. Stone declared that much good work was being done.

Helping Young Boys

"It's being done all over the city by men with a desire to help in the development of the character of the young," he said.

Don't forget to attend to that renewal before you received last week. It is much easier to pay $1.50 at a time than an accumulation of several years' subscription all at once

Miss Bell Leaves For Japan

Miss Patricia Bell, daughter of Postmaster J. H. and Mrs. Bell, left on Saturday afternoon for Vancouver en voyage to Japan where she has been appointed as governess at the British legation at Yokohama. Miss Bell remained in Edmonton with friends over Sunday and will spend a day or two in Vancouver before sailing for the Orient. A large number of people gathered at the station to see her off.

Miss Bell has been in charge of the Girl Guides here for the past few years. They lined up in double file at the train and gave her a rousing send-off. Miss Bell will probably remain in Japan for at least two years returning home by way of the Suez canal and England where she will visit Mr. Bell's sister, Mrs. Harding, resident there. Miss Bell is the first Canadian to receive an appointment as governess at this legation.

ISLAY ITEMS

A sad event took place in the local hospital Sunday morning, Feb 17th at one o'clock, when William Robert Taggart, one of the best known young men of the district, died from cerebral meningitis at the age of 21 years. Mr Taggart came here as a boy with his parents and two sisters. They took up land and were among the first settlers of this district. Robert took up farming and was known as an honest, obliging, upright young man. His sad passing was a great sorrow and shock to the whole community. We extend our deepest sympathy to his sister, Mrs. W. H. Barnes, and Miss Annie Taggart of the post office staff, to the aged mother, and brother Mr. James McLellan. The United church was filled with a large number of friends of the deceased at the funeral service Tuesday afternoon, conducted by Rev. T. A. Bowen. Mr. Waring of Vermilion directed the funeral.

Mrs. J. T. Fyfe, and her daughter Joan, returned from Edmonton this week. Joan will not return to her school for a month or more after her previous operation.

The bonspiel has attracted several outside teams from Lloydminster (2 rinks), Vermilion (2 rinks) and Kitscoty (1 rink). Kerr's rink from the latter town was the Grand Challenge cup in a 13 end game from McEachern — a local rink. The Merchants' Cup at time of writing is a struggle between the two Vermilion rinks Rae and Sutton. The Consolation draw is still in the struggle Some of the names were keenly contested.

Mr Mitchel returned from Wisconsin, Tuesday, where he attended the funeral of his late father

We wish to rectify a mistake in that Mr Kenworth's deal last week for a tractor, plowing outfit and car was with the Islay Hardware Co. They have informed us that their first car load of tractors was sold and that the year looks good in the future for large sales of farm implements

Mr. Tim Wallwork and Mr. Burkhan are among those who are taking in the use of the iron horse and the latest plows, seeders and other farm implements.

The tractor school of instruction in Moore's Hall Monday was well attended, considering the bonspiel was on at the time.

CARD OF THANKS

Mrs. Taggart and all members of the family wish to thank their many friends for kind expressions of sympathy during their recent sad bereavement Also for beautiful floral tributes

Progress Made In Development Of the Hudson Bay Route Shown In Report Recently Published

Up-to-date information on the progress made in the development of Canada's Hudson Bay route is contained in a report recently prepared by the Natural Resources Intelligence Service of the Department of the Interior in co-operation with the Department of Railways and Canals. The objective set on the extension of the Hudson Bay Railway during 1926 was Mile 400, thus bringing the steel within 50 miles of Churchill. Actually the steel reached Mile 462 thus accomplishing all that was expected and leaving only 16 miles to be constructed during 1929 to reach the tidewater terminus.

The mobilization of men and materials and equipment necessary to accomplish the work planned for 1926 on the railway and at the port, is dealt with in the report. At the peak of operations during the season it is stated that 2,200 men were employed on the railway. At Churchill the preliminary operations in support development employed 439 men during the season and a feature of the operations was that the work was materially expedited by the use of airplanes which operated between Churchill and the end of steel.

The report points out that the visit to Churchill of Frederick Palmer, eminent British journalist which resulted in the selection of that port as tidewater terminus, was made in August, 1927. It is now more than a year from the date of Mr. Palmer's report, the railway has been advanced 100 miles from the point at which the Churchill extension leaves the original line to Telnon at Mile 396. In the operations of 1928 the equipment used on the Hudson Bay Railway work included three steel shovels, a trackbuying machine and 12 locomotive cranes.

The past summer was a very busy one at Churchill in the construction of temporary docks and the commencement of permanent construction. During the navigation season some 16,000 tons of material sent in by ten from Halifax and Sydney were unloaded at the new port and the dipper dredges, "Churchill No. 1" and "Churchill No. 2," built at Montreal especially for the work, appeared on the scene as well as the hopper barge "Chesterfield." A second hopper barge was also towed from Port Nelson to Churchill and added to the equipment. The arrival of the dredges clears the way now for an early commencement of development this year and large supplies of materials are now on hand for prosecuting the work.

Up to March 31, 1928, there had been expended on the work at Churchill, $997,800 and during the present fiscal year to Nov 30 there had been a further expenditure of $3,561,000 making a total of $4,558,-800 The expenditure on the Hudson Bay Railway up to March 31, 1928, is given as $20,760,000 since that date up to Nov 30, the report states, an additional $2,806,-000 had been expended, a total of $23,386,348 The expenditures on the railway and port during the 1929 season alone exceeded five million dollars. The cost of the railway, exclusive of steam terminals, when completed it is estimated will be in the neighborhood of $30 000 000

The development of the ocean terminals will account for an expenditure of many millions more and other work in the development of Canada's northern transportation route includes the establishment of modern aids to navigation in Hudson Bay and Strait. The work of equipping established by the Department of Marine and Fisheries at three points on Hudson Strait in 1927 continued its reconnaissance until late in 1928 and much useful information bearing on navigation was secured. As a result strategic locations for aids to navigation are being selected and these will include direction-finding devices which will be of invaluable assistance to navigators in treacherous waters.

The report on "Progress in Development of Canada's Hudson Bay Route" is the work of the Development Intelligence Service, Department of the Interior, Ottawa.

Canada's Vast Territory

Hard to Visualize Because One May Travel Within Borders

The Free Press of London, Ont., says: "It is really staggering when one contemplates what immense distances one may travel in one direction and still remain on Canadian soil. Consider, for instance, the distance from London to Prince Albert and from Prince Albert to Peace River—and the sparsely-settled territory. The country is naturally eminently suited to agriculture, particularly to the growing of Canadian hard wheat, for which there always will be a greater demand than supply. Experiments are now being conducted that will produce a newly ripening wheat to beat the early frosts. Immense mineral resources also has the northwest; it is rich in minerals and has great undeveloped water powers in fact, ready at hand are the materials for a new section of Canada.

Pool Legislation

Full Protection For the Grower Must Be Assured

Following a protest by C. S. Gregory, who attended a meeting of the private bills committee as legal representative of "a group of farmers," Hon. T. C. Davis, attorney-general, announced in the Saskatchewan legislature, that it was his intention of the government not to declare law that part of the Wheat Pool incorporation bill that would limit the time for legal action to one year after the adoption of the report of the pool delegates on any one year.

Mr. Davis said that the provisions would be included in a measure to be acted upon until such time as it had been referred to and approved by a meeting of the Pool delegates. Other sections that being put in retroactive legislation will be in the original amending measure. By a later clause in the amending bill and one considered by the private bills committee, the retroactive clause would not in any event apply to actions for accounting and for damages that might be before the courts pending.

Mr. Davis admitted the Pool should not be subjected to a series of vexatious legal actions. Said he declared, too, that while as full protection as possible should be afforded the pool, the government also intended to just as full a measure of protection. The legislation asked for, he claimed, was "dangerous." Nowhere, he said, could there be found in law a limitation to the time such action for accounting could be brought against a trustee and the Pool in handling the farmers' wheat properly acted as trustee for the farmers. If the Pool handled the property properly there was nothing to fear, and no need to place a limitation on time an action could be started.

The Careful Ones Pay

Higher Car Insurance Rates Prompted by Reckless Motorists

Motorists throughout the prairie provinces will learn with interest, perhaps with amusement of a feeling of dismay, of the 27 per cent. increase in motor car insurance rates in these provinces.

The increase does not apply to fire or theft, but has been prompted chiefly by the growing number of collisions or accidents of other sort, and is due to representations of the insurance agencies that they have either been losing money or else have been making inadequate profit There is no law that motorists must insure their cars—and the great majority of them do—to do but to pay the premiums. The increase is because of careful motorists being made to pay for the carelessness of some of their fellow drivers. The announcement of the Western Canada Underwriters' Association should add much to the safety for safety in the streets and on the roads and highways. Many of the accidents in which motorists figure are wholly inexcusable.

Combined Dandelion Forage

Mixture of Peas With Oats a Success If Properly Sown

(Experimental Farms Note)

Pea and oat mixtures are commonly grown and considered desirable forage in the older parts of Canada. In the west, however, they are grown very little, partly because stock is raised and partly because many attempts to grow a mixture have proved failures. Various cultures and methods of sowing have been tried out at Dominion experimental stations and the striking deductions resulting derived from these tests during the last five years.

The varieties of peas and two of oats have been used in mixtures and the most desirable combinations have been found to be Victory oats and Mackay peas. Both are strong, tall growing, and mature at about the same time. This allows for harvesting at the best stage for forage, which is when the oats are turning color and the pods are well filled with peas.

Mixtures and methods of sowing used were: 70 lbs. oats and two pecks mixed with oats hail sown together. Peas and oats were also sown in alternate strips—sometimes the peas being seeded one, two and two weeks before the oats. Where mixtures were sown the drill was set at four bushels of oats per acre, Mackay peas and Victory oats were also sown alone for purpose of comparison.

Peas were one week and two weeks before the oats and the 70 per cent. mixture gave a heavier more cured hay than either peas or peas alone. Where 70 per cent. of peas were sown with the oats the percentage of pea vine at harvest was about 60, where peas were sown one week earlier than the oats the percentage of pea vine was 60, and where two weeks earlier, 70 per cent. The latter mixture yielded less than peas or oats alone and contained a small percentage of pea vine at harvest time. Sowing peas one week before the oats is possibly the best method of insuring a crop with a fair amount of pea vine each year. If the peas are sown two weeks previous to the oats, they get too strong a start and are likely to lodge before harvest, making cutting difficult; and where sown together the oats will overcome the peas and a small percentage of pea vine will be the result.

Where a pea and oat mixture is desired, we would recommend using Mackay peas and Victory oats. Sow two pecks about once each bushel of oats and set the drill for each at two bushels of oats. Cut when the oats are commencing to turn in color to get the best quality of feed.

Hard to Wash

The raw recruit was 30 seconds late on the morning of his first drawn parade, and later on had to report at the orderly-room.

"I am exceedingly sorry, sir," he apologized, "but I woke rather late, and there were only 10 minutes for me to dress."

"Ten minutes!" roared the angry officer. "Why, I can dress comfortably in less than 10 minutes!"

The recruit shifted his weight from one leg to the other.

"Yes, sir," he said innocently. "But I had to wash, sir."

Machines Cover Same Miles in Search for Minerals

After an epoch-making flight into the Arctic regions whereby air trails were blazed across the black wastes of the sub-Arctic in an aerial search for gold, two cable navigators of the Dominion Explorers, Ltd., were brought to Winnipeg from The Pas on C.N.R. Mr. Stronich and Capt. S. McMillan.

While in the north the "planes were in charge of Capt. Charles Sutton, former Royal Air Force aviator and mail pilot on the Calgary-Regina route, and Captain Stronich, pilot of the air trails of the frontiers of Canada. They made their base at Mistake Bay, about 120 miles north of Churchill on Hudson Bay.

The planes were taken into the north country by Captains Sutton and Stronich early in June supporting the machines in a load hop from New York to Hudson Bay, two Moth planes now form the fleet of the exploration party in the north lands.

During the season the cabin machines covered more than 8,000 miles between them without mishap. Many of the flights were the heaviest ever bent with dangers, but the pilots dared the hazards of an unknown country, Immediately aiding in the quest of rich minerals.

The main party of the expedition came north over the Pas line and will return by the same route.

Jap Living Standard Low

Large Per Cent of Workers Receive Less Than Fifty Dollars Monthly

That the living standard of most Japanese is still far below that in western nations is emphasized in a report by the ministry of finance. These figures show that 93 per cent. of the wage earners of Japan receive less than $50 a month. There are 13,000,000 registered families in Japan, and in only 6 per cent. of these is the total income between $50 and $200 a month. The percentage of those getting more than $200 a month is 1.3.

The contrast to the American standard may be appreciated when it is realized that the absolute minimum for a family of four or five, according to western custom, is in the neighborhood of $200 a month. Living expenses in Tokio for the foreigner are acknowledged to be as high as any place in the world. The Japanese, however, live largely on rice, fish and a few pickles. There can be very little expenditure for even such luxuries as heating.

Plenty of Weeds

When thinking of next spring's crop supply, the Farmer's Advocate says it is well to bear in mind that there are already millions of weed seeds slumbering beneath the snow —no need of sowing more.

Hand stripped to the waist, Connie's eyes rested on the mighty frame of this huge blond; the bunched arm muscles, covered with great chest covered with a mat of thick hair, and the enormous limbs. After glancing at his opponent he rose to the man still was to fight for his honor. Donald's eyes were like burning coals. His face had regained its color, but was contorted with a passion that made him seem unnatural Yet he appeared a mere stripling in comparison to his burly antagonist.

For a moment Connie became a primitive woman. She felt as though she could rend and tear. Her eyes darted blue lightnings of wrath toward the man who had insulted her, and her small hands clinched in impotent fury. Her male cut into her breast as she exercised every ounce of self-control to keep from screaming aloud. Donald was fighting for her. She caught her breath in a quick stab. Her face was white, but with alternate throbs of joy and fear. A sudden fit of trembling seized her and her head felt light and giddy.

Hand's reputation as a rough and tumble fighter was well known throughout the province. It was his proud boast that he never had been whipped. His advanced age, a shorter leer on his face, Andy ran to Donald's side.

"Beat 'im, Donnie," he whispered. "Don't let 'im get old on you."

"You gola' to vip me? Do dude gola' to vip me? Ach!" scoffed Hand in guttural accents.

He came slowly forward with arms spread wide, his thick fingers working convulsively. Donald released slightly forward and waited. As he neared him, Hand tore in, ears of himself in the rough and tumble. Donald side-stepped the big man's first rush and shot his left to his face. It was a good punch and for the blow, but it stung Hand to madness.

"Ach!" he grunted, "stand and fight you d—— coward!"

He came on, his arms swinging wildly. Leaping aside, Donald's heel struck a stump, and before he could regain his footing the giant's arms were around him in a bone-crushing grasp. His head was pressed against Donald's waist, and the big head was pressed suffocatingly against his throat. Donald was forced slowly backward to strike the ground with a thud, the big man on top.

"Now I got you!" panted Hand as he released his hold on Donald's waist and aimed a blow at his face. With a quick movement the smaller man turned face down. Hand struck him viciously as he lay prostrate under him.

Connie's eyes were wide with horror, and a scuffled scream escaped her lips as the blow fell.

With a quick, convulsive movement of his lithe body Donald threw Hand from his back and sprang to his feet. Whirling quickly as the foreigner came toward him, he sent in a volley of blows to his opponent's face. Hand staggered, but did not fall. His face was cut and bleeding, his nose was broken; and he spat out several broken teeth. Any one of the blows landed was sufficient to send an ordinary man down for the count, but still the gargantuan giant came on.

In and out Donald flashed, his arms moving like steel pistons. Hand could not keep away from the punishing left hand of his lighter opponent. Men not trained in the art once of boxing have no punching power in the left hand, but depend solely on their right. Such was the case with Hand. His style did not call for any of moment. WHE Hand received fearful punishment about the face he would bore in, swinging wildly in the hope of landing a lucky punch, or striking a foul blow on his adversary. Donald's hand kept beating a tattoo on his rock-like jaw, but still Hand came forward, slowly and relentlessly as a steam-roller.

Crowding Donald back to the fence of the corral Hand rushed him into the scattering crowd and seized him in a rib-cracking embrace. Donald broke his hold, but not before the brute had butted him over his eye. With the blow Donald's senses reeled and the blood gushed from a wide gash on his brow. A blow from the foreigner's big fist then caught him over the heart and sent him staggering back to his knees. A curse the big man came after him.

Andy shouted hysterical words of advice.

Donald came slowly to his feet and mechanically side-stepped as Hand rushed blindly toward him. One left hand jab evaded him until his head cleared, and then summoned his remaining strength into one mighty blow that landed flush on his opponent's midriff. The blond beast came to his knees with a dull grunt.

"Go after him!" yelled excited voices from the crowd.

Donald stepped forward with fist drawn back to strike the kneeling man, but his arm fell to his side and he turned his head. "Get up!" he commanded hoarsely.

Even the strikers gasped their appreciation of this honorable act. A number of eyebrows came down back sides. The foreigner shook his shaggy blond head and came unsteadily to his feet and the sanguinary battle went on. Both men were tired Hand's breath was coming in short, choking gasps from his overtaxed lungs, and his face was one smear of blood. Donald's left eye was closed; his face was puffed, and the gash over his eye had covered his body with blood. His arms were numb from punishment he got from his adversary. The big fighter's strength was waning; the pounding administered by Donald was beginning to tell. But Donald was too weak to avoid his rushes. In a clinch Hand again butted him with his head.

Blackie, his eyes blazing, leaped forward with a heavy handle in his hand. "I'm fight fair, d—— you, or I'll brain you!" he shouted. One of the strikers attempted to arrest the heavy handle from his hand. Blackie felled him with a blow of his fist. It looked for one tense moment as if there would be a general melee. There came sullen mutterings from the crowd of strikers.

"Back!" John Hillne's voice rang out sharp and clear. "I'll kill the first man that interferes!" The eyes blazing over the long-barreled Colt held a dangerous glint. The men who had moved to the centre backed away hurriedly.

Back and forth the combatants struggled, neither gaining any decided advantage, each trying to land a blow that would end the battle. Reeling, gasping, striking, failing to their knees from sheer weakness, the men fought on under the burning sunlight.

No knight of old ever fought more nobly for a fair lady's honour than did Donald McLean that day by the bale-shore. His undershirt was torn to tatters, leaving his white skin blotched with welts and bruises. He was losing his sense of distance and judgment, and his left, his wiriest struck Hand's outstretched jaw and the onlookers saw his face contort with pain as the arm fell helplessly to his side.

"It's broken 'is 'and," groaned Andy.

"Oh, stop it, Andy, please stop it!" sobbed Connie, her arms held out in supplication.

Donald's face turned a sickly grey and as the well-nigh sightless foreigner rushed forward, slowly and relentlessly as a steam-roller.

ALKALINE ANTISEPTIC

About two hours after eating many people suffer from sour stomachs. They call it indigestion. It means that the stomach nerves have been overstimulated. There is excess acid. The way to correct it is with an alkali, which neutralizes many times its volume in acid.

The right way is Phillips' Milk of Magnesia—just a teaspoonful does the trick. It is pleasant, efficient, and harmless. It has remained the standard with physicians in the 50 years since its invention.

It is the quick method. Results come almost instantly. It is the approved method. You will never use another when you know.

Be sure to get the genuine Phillips' Milk of Magnesia prescribed by physicians for 50 years in correcting excess acids. Each bottle contains full directions. Any druggist.

Teeth and Health

Issued For The Canadian Postal Education Service And Published By The Saskatchewan Dental Society

GINGIVITIS

Meaning what?

It is—a suffix, implying inflammation and gingivitis, the root tissue immediately encircling the teeth.

This, then, is an inflammatory condition of the gum tissue, adjoining the teeth.

Consult your mirror: Notice how ruggly these tissues hug the tooth surfaces in health, filling the interstices and guarding the supporting structures from injury and disease.

Now you will have observed that the gingivae are not attached to the tooth surfaces for a short distance down and hence, are "free"; sure, that their color in health is a shrimp pink.

But the inflammation appearing, you have a rush of blood within—and soreness develops, so that you readily perceive that they are far from the state of health.

Now what might cause this?

It may be that some body disturbance is responsible. General ill-health, diseases of organs or glands (according to Nature's welfare chart) diabetes, or run down nervous system—any of these may cause trouble.

Among the more positive causes, filth and tartar or dental stone a prime, the wedging of food between teeth with finely pointed instruments, and producing organisms are all bold responsible.

As for any reason, there is a slight opening between two teeth, food which is lodged between them is crowded into the spaces and cause irritation, pain and soreness follows. A single such occurrence may do but little harm, because it will soon be promptly removed, but where there is constant pressure and irritation, the tissue is forced away and in the time, Similarly the crowding of tooth brushes is a cause of repeated injuries from whatever source, that set up inflammation.

It is in these gingival tissues then, that the blood may become impure which, if neglected, frequently leads to the infective process known as pyorrhea. So that any inflammatory condition or tenderness of the gums should receive prompt remedial treatment at the hands of your dentist.

Has Increased Crop Area

In Manitoba there is one tractor for every 4.6 farms; in Saskatchewan one for every 4.7 farms and in Alberta one for every 7.5 farms. The mechanical equipment has been greatest in the large irrigation areas where the land is level. Practically 8,500,000 of this increase has taken place since 1920.

Magistrate (dealing with New Year's Eve episode): "Who was the fellow when you collided with the other car?"

Merry Motorist (triumphantly): "None of us, we were all in the back seat."

Recipes For This Week
(By Betty Barclay)

PINEAPPLE JELLY

1 tablespoon gelatine.
¼ cup cold water.
¼ cup boiling water
½ cup canned pineapple syrup.
2 tablespoons lemon juice
2 eggs
3 tablespoons pineapple cubed.
3 tablespoons Maraschino cherries
3 tablespoons cut walnut meats.
3 tablespoons cubes of cream.

Soak gelatine in cold water, dissolve in boiling water, and add pineapple syrup, lemon juice and sugar. When gelatine is beginning to get stiff, stir in the fruit and nuts, of which there should be, in all, three fourths of a cup. Turn into a mold, and chill.

MOCK DUCK (Norwegian)

2 pork tenderloins
2 tablespoons butter.
1 cup sweet cream or very rich milk
5 boiled prunes
1 cup thick sour crean
2 apples.

Sun is Ordinary Star In Scale Of Brilliancy Says Astronomer

The sun is a very humble unit amid the great stellar population according to A. S. Eddington, the astronomer. It is, he says, a very ordinary star about midway in the scale of brilliancy. We know of stars whose give at least 10,000 times the light of the sun; we know also of stars which give 1-10,000 of its light. But those of inferior light greatly outnumber those of superior light.

In mass, in surface temperature, in bulk, the sun belongs to a very moderate class of star; its speed in motion is near the average: It absorbs none of the more conspicuous phenomena such as variability which excite the attention of astronomers in the community of stars the sun corresponds to a respectable middle class citizen.

It happens to be quite near the centre of this class of star stands; but this apparently favored position is discounted by the fact that the star cloud itself is placed very unfavorably in relation to the galactic system (the Milky Way), being in fact near the confines of it. We cannot claim to be at the hub of the universe

Little Helps For This Week

"Strengthened with all might, according to His glorious power, unto all patience and long-suffering with joyfulness."—Colossians i. 11.

I longed to give the harness on To work with might and will; Short was the voice that said to me, My child, wait and be still.

He only knoweth how to serve, Who knoweth how to wait; Then let I all who seek to work Within my vineyard gate.

—Mary Frances Butts.

Working or waiting, our souls will hang on Him. And waiting, as we must recognize and remember, is a sacrifice of self, a real martyrdom no less than working. To win the soul in patience, to bear the trial of spirit by which for the time knowing the chill hours which precede it, to keep fresh and unsullied the great hope that Christ will come, is a witness to the powers of the unseen world, which the Spirit of God alone can make possible

—Brooke Foss Westcott.

Simple Precautions Against FLU Sore Throat — — The Danger Signal

Health Authorities Point Out The Necessity Of Treating The Simple Cold At Its Beginning

Nearly every case of "Flu" starts with a simple cold. At first the throat is sore—often just a little hoarse—soon the infection goes lower—then the chest is affected. A sore pain is to gargle the throat three times daily with "Dioxogen" which serves in the mouth and throat. If there is any sign of tightness in the chest, rub on Nerviline—every drop of penetrate deeply—congestion will be relieved—the cold will break up quickly. Many a dangerous case of "Flu" can be avoided by this simple home treatment.

Of course it is always wise to take some relaxing medicine, and for this purpose nothing is more beneficial than Dr. Hamilton's Pills—they purge the system of impurities and carry off a lot of disease—breaking colds.

This combination treatment of Nerviline and Dr. Hamilton's Pills is very effective for Grippe, Influenza, Bad Colds, etc., and can be relied upon to give very satisfactory results.

WINDOLITE
The Improved Glass Substitute
MADE IN ENGLAND

STORIES WITH A MESSAGE ON HEALTH

THE sun is the all-powerful life producer, Nature's natural disinfectant and germ destroyer, as well as stimulant and tonic. WINDOLITE is the sun's most important ally.

Medical research has definitely proved that from the point of view of Health and Hygiene, the most effective among the sun's rays are the Ultra-Violet rays, whose presence the greatest power for the prevention and cure of disease and debility.

Science has further established that ordinary window glass does not allow the passage of Ultra-Violet rays, so that by using glass we are artificially excluding those vital health-giving rays. Therefore, the invention of WINDOLITE has completely satisfied the long-felt want. Exhaustive experiments have conclusively proved that it is a most effective substitute for glass, that it freely admits the Ultra-Violet rays, and that its use has a most beneficial effect on the growth and development of pigs and chickens and on the well-being of cattle, enabled for the first time to have healthy light instead of darkness in their sheds.

Indeed, the discovery of WINDOLITE has during the last six years completely revolutionized pig and poultry farming, given a new stimulus to pig breeding increasing the egg-laying capacity and fertility of chickens, has greatly improved the health of cattle and is now being used in domestic and household requirements.

WINDOLITE stands for 100 per cent sunlight. It makes light! Let it shine in your dairy, stable, cattle shelds, dairy buildings, poultry houses, sun-decks and all out buildings. It is economical, unbreakable, flexible and is easy to cut and fit. It is now being successfully used for sunrooms, verandahs, screens, fire-guards, conservatories, hot beds, plant coverings and giving it uses. It keeps out cold —will not crack or chip—cuts with an ordinary pair of scissors and is easy to fit. WINDOLITE is supplied in rolls 40 inches wide by 25 yards long at 7/6 inches only. A square yard of WINDOLITE weighs about 14 ozs., while a square yard of glass of ordinary thickness, weighs about 125 to 130 ozs. The lowest of WINDOLITE requires no varnish. WINDOLITE is made in England.

Band Concert Drew Capacity Attendance

A capacity audience attended the Columbia Theatre on Sunday evening last, when the Vermilion Citizens' Band, assisted by vocal and instrumental artists, presented a program of exceptional merit.

Every item was well received by an appreciative audience, and Sunday night's concert was undoubtedly one of the best ever given under the auspices of the Band. The performance of the individual artists reached an unusually high standard.

Miss Edythe Lipsey gave a finished rendering of a "presto movement" from a Beethoven sonata, in which she displayed a fine sense of interpretation.

A tenor solo by Mr J W E Markham met with marked approval His song was well chosen and suited his voice to perfection. Possessing a rich voice of very pleasing quality, Mr Markham has the added gift of being able to "put a song over" to his audience, and his singing on Sunday was most artistic

One of the outstanding items on the programme and one which evoked unstinted applause was the violin solo by Mr E. Scudamore, whose rendering of Ries-ma's Souvenir de Lubeck" revealed a remarkably fine technique and interpretative powers of a high order.

Miss Myrtle McDonald added to her enviable reputation as a vocalist in a delightful rendition of Lohr's "Song of my Heart," which displayed her exceptional ability to advantage. She was equally effective in a charming encore song.

Another vocalist who added to his laurels was Mr F. Olsen, whose bass solo was marked by power, and he was obliged to respond to insistent demands for an encore.

A humorous duet by the Misses Clara Bothwell and Lila Bowser was greatly appreciated. These two young soloists played Schawenka's spirited ring "Polish Dances" in a very artistic manner, their regard for the dynamics being especially good, while changes of tempo were invariably executed with perfect synchronization.

A recently-formed male quartette composed of Messrs J. W. E. Markham, A. M. West, T. Watts and P. Olsen made a first appearance at a Sunday evening concert and were accorded an enthusiastic reception. Their voices blend admirably, and their work on Sunday night was effective in the extreme.

The Vermilion Citizens' Band under the leadership of Bandmaster W. B. Elford ably sustained its reputation as a high-class musical organization, their playing of a difficult programme meeting with unqualified approval.

A feature of the band selections was the commendable work of the Junior cornet section, consisting of Hugh Craig, Alberta Durnan, Laird Kearns

TAKE YOUR CHOICE

Although the opportunities for diversion and amusement are always many in this town, this Friday night's line-up of entertainments probably surpasses any other single night's program to suit a while. The first item on the list to be advertised, is the Geo nian Singers, who are billed to appear at the Columbia Theatre. The Community Hall has a company of versatile artists presenting a concert — the Musical Eckardts staging their concert there, followed by a dance. Following along, invitations to a dance have been sent out by the high school literary society to take place in their assembly hall. Then the skating arena is always open, also the curling rink: an odd party or two is usually the order of the day for a Friday night, so if you want a choice of amusement just bowse along to Vermilion this Friday evening, February 22nd.

OBERT STANLEY HICKS

The funeral of the late Obert Stanley Hicks was held on Monday, Feb. 11th from McCall Bros. funeral home, Victoria, B. C. The Rev. F. H. Pain conducted the service, during which the hymns "What a Friend we have in Jesus" and "Lead, kindly Light" were sung. Interment was made in Ross Bay cemetery, with the following members of the Loyal Orange Association as pallbearers: Brothers V. Mansrow, H. Hoey, F. Greenslden and W. Baker.

The beautiful flowers which brought comfort in the loving sympathy they expressed, were as follows: Sheaf of Lilies, from his nieces Joyce and Rosalind; Wreath, Mr. and Mrs. L. B. Hicks and Family; Cross, Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Mann and Family; Sheaf, Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Maggs; Sprays, Mr. and Mrs. J. Pearson and Family; Mr. and Mrs. C. H. White; Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Payne; Mr. and Mrs. M. Thom; Miss Lucille Brown; Mr. Ujlvson; Mrs. Strafford and Mrs. Whisfield; Mrs. Mabel Robinson and Mr. and Mrs. A. Barr.

and Matt Brimacombe, three of whom were making their debuts as concert musicians.

SOME SALESMEN speak of the quality of their flour as if it resulted from secret and highly mysterious milling. There are no secrets in milling. The best flour is the result of intelligent selection of the very best wheat, a good mill, skilful miling and constant and never ceasing watchfulness. That combination insures good flour. Nothing else does.

Payments to Policyholders and Beneficiaries - 81,926,000
Surplus and Contingency Reserve - - - 66,938,000
An Increase of $9,157,000
Total Liabilities - - 422,020,000
(Including Paid up Capital)
Assets, at December 31st, 1928 488,958,000
An Increase of $67,652,000
Rate of Interest earned on mean invested assets (net) 6.58%
DIVIDENDS TO POLICYHOLDERS INCREASED FOR NINTH CONSECUTIVE YEAR
The Company has also inaugurated the practice of paying a special maturity dividend on participating policies, ten or more years in force, terminating by death or maturity.
EXTRACTS FROM DIRECTORS' REPORT
. . . After declaring amounts re-insured, the total assurances in force now amount to $1,896,915,934.37, an increase of $608,925,256.68. Policies in force number 633,360, an increase of 156,293 certificates of assurance are held by employees of corporations and firms under the group plan.
While every field of operation contributed its full share to these impressive advances, the rapid development of our business in Great Britain and the United States is especially noteworthy. The generous reception of our Company in countries served by powerful domestic institutions is particularly gratifying, as indicating a widespread appreciation of our record and services.
. . . The amount paid to policyholders since organization, together with the amount at present held for their security or benefit, exceeds the total amount received from them in premiums by $111,170,229.55.
The strength and resources of the Company have been still further enhanced.
The net rate of interest earned on the mean invested assets, after making provision for investment reserves, has risen to 6.58 per cent. Dividend increases, bonuses and stock privileges, accruing on many of the Company's holdings, contributed substantially to this gratifying result.
A net profit of $11,736,854.59 has been realized from the redemption or sale of securities which had risen to high premiums.
The securities listed in the assets have been valued at figures substantially below the values placed on them by the Government. This under-valuation of our securities represents an important safeguard against possible adverse market fluctuations, additional to the reserves specifically provided against such contingencies.
We are again able to report that on the bonds and preferred stocks listed in the assets, not one dollar, due either on interest or as dividend, is in arrear for a single day; while the dividends accruing to common stocks owned by several companies have been payable on the same stocks at the time of purchase.
The surplus earned during the year, based on the values given in the accounts, amounted to $48,264,488.52.
$10,000,000. has been deducted from the already heavily marked-down values of securities, as additional provision against possible fluctuations, increasing the amount so set aside to $20,000,000.
The special amount set aside as a liability to provide for unforeseen contingencies has been maintained at $15,000,000.
$15,822,139.65 has been paid or allotted as profits to policyholders during the year.
After making all deductions and allocations, $9,157,906.34 has been added to the undivided surplus, bringing the total over liabilities, contingency accounts, and capital stock, to $54,438,862.46.
The continued prosperity of the Company enables your Directors to announ ce once, for the ninth successive year, a substantial increase in the sums set aside to be distributed to participating policyholders during the ensuing year.
In addition, your Directors have inaugurated the principle of granting a Special Dividend on participating policies maturing after having been in force ten years or longer. This new bonus will enable policyholders or beneficiaries whose withdrawal is occasioned by the maturity of policy contracts, to participate in the accumulated surplus which it has not as yet been convenient to distribute.
The effect so provide life assurance at the lowest net cost obtainable has been increasingly appreciated. Our policyholders will be gratified by this further evidence of our desire that the Company's prosperity shall be fully shared by its members.

ELKS HELD DANCE

LAST FRIDAY EVENING

The local branch of the Elks' lodge held a successful dance on the evening of Friday, Feb 15th in aid of the kiddies' day fund Although the attendance wasn't overly large owing to the unfavorable weather, the right sized crowd for enjoyable dancing was on hand and a good time ensued.

The music was dispensed by the Keyes and Sherbeck orchestra, and refreshments were served by the ladies of the Women's Institute. The use of the extras of the evening was supplied by Brother Waldon who auto a some of his own composition entitled "Have You Seen My Lizzie," set to dance music.

SECURE SEED OATS SUPPLY EARLY

Farmers throughout the province are again being advised by the Provincial Department of Agriculture to make the necessary provisions for the supply of seed oats which will be required for their 1929 crop. The germinating quality of oats in a number of districts has been found to be somewhat seriously affected by frost and in some cases this grain has been rendered quite unfit for seeding purposes. It is pointed out, however, that quantities of good seed oats are available, particularly in the Peace River country, and arrangements are being made by many of the larger cooperative associations to meet the requirements of farmers whose oats are unusable. Information as to the sources of a supply of good seed may be secured from the office of Field Crops Commissioner W. J. Stephen.

SEE SNOW-GARBED ROCKIES ON SKIS

Party Explores Tonquin Valley and Maligne Lake

Jasper, Alta., Feb. 19.—The magnificent scenery of the Tonquin Valley is greatly magnified by the white mantle of snow, according to four men who have been seeing it on skis. Warden Meldrum, Fresh Bierstan, Jack Watson and R Morrison have returned to Jasper after three days exploring Valley a log cabin at their base, the famed Chrome Lake, the summer home of Tonquin Hill. They crossed over five feet of snow on the mountain and good skiing conditions. Much of the small bush and low trees of the summits was covered by deep snow which provided a much longer skiing run than would appear to the eye of the visitor in the summer time. The return route was from the Macfarlane Pass and down the Portal creek valley to the Fifth Cavell moraine road and the main Athabaska valley

The same group skied from Maligne Canyon to Medicine Lake—a distance of about 12 miles, pushed on another 10 or 11 m.—s to Maligne Lake and spent some time in these magnificent surroundings There was a large herd of caribou on the west shore, about a mile from the cabin, many deer and numerous moose tracks Among the animals they saw on the Tonquin trip were caribou, waterfowl and lynx.

ELECTIONS HERE WINS NORTHERN ALBERTA INTERMED. CHAMPIONSHIP

After being held to a 4-4 tie at Red Deer in the first of a home and home series in the last round of the Northern Alberta intermediate playoffs, the Lloydminster Elks stepped out on home ice on Monday last and triumphed by the Central Alberta boys 5-3. This win gives the border boys the right to meet the winners of the southern playoff as soon as they are decided.

The West and Its Natural Resources

The question of the transfer of the public lands and natural resources in the West by the Dominion to the three prairie provinces is once again very much to the fore. Ever since the provinces of Alberta and Saskatchewan were formed; in fact, to some extent ever since Manitoba was created a province, there has been a demand on the part of the Western Provinces that they should be placed in a position of equality with the older provinces in the matter of ownership and control of the public domain.

Fortunately, the question has now passed out of the realm of partisan controversy, because all political parties, Liberal, Conservative, Progressive, at Ottawa as well as in the Prairie Capitals, are agreed that the transfer should be made. Not only so, but the Governments of the Eastern Provinces have waived the objections so long urged by them, to only a question of reaching terms acceptable to the West on the one hand, and the rest of the Dominion on the other hand.

Negotiations are now under way with all three prairie provinces. In the case of Manitoba, agreement has been reached with the Dominion to the extent that a Commission is now engaged in studying the whole question of terms. Negotiations with Alberta reached the point of an agreement being actually signed between the two Governments, but later, Ottawa proposed to insert a provision relative to the school lands which was unacceptable to Alberta, and the agreement was not proceeded with. Ottawa has since modified its position and an early settlement of outstanding differences seems likely.

Saskatchewan's position is somewhat different from that of the other provinces. Whereas Alberta is rich in coal, oil, and other resources apart from lands, and recent discoveries have revealed a Flin Flon and a Thetford-Gordon in Manitoba, Saskatchewan's mineral wealth is yet to be proven. Furthermore, Saskatchewan's chief wealth has been found in its agricultural lands, and to a large extent these have already been disposed of by the Dominion, with the result that there is not as great wealth to be handed over by the Dominion to the province as exists in the case of the other two provinces. Saskatchewan, therefore, has a stronger claim for compensation for lands alienated under Dominion administration for the general benefit of all Canada. However, negotiations are in progress.

The sooner all these questions are finally settled and the Western Provinces placed in control of their lands and resources the better. There cannot be complete unity among the provinces, nor any full development of a national spirit and aims, so long as Western Canada feels it is forced into a position of inferiority to the Eastern Provinces. The interests of the Dominion demand the removal of any cause for such feeling. Further, whatever arguments may have been convincing in 1905 for retention of the public domain by the Dominion on the ground that they could administer them better than could the newly created provinces with all the manifold tasks before them, and with but small populations and financial resources, those arguments are removed now that there are over two million people in the three prairie provinces with fully developed governmental institutions and strong financial credit.

Constitutional issues, it is true, are involved in any consideration of the matter. The West does not, and cannot, accept the interpretation placed upon certain enactments by the Dominion and the Eastern provinces, notwithstanding that Eastern opinion is greatly modified to what it was a few years ago. It would, however, be a mistake for the negotiating parties to take up practical matters upon constitutional grounds. To do so would mean long and expensive litigation right through to the Privy Council, in England. Then, when the legal and constitutional issues were finally settled, an army of expert accountants would have to be engaged for years to delve into all the many transactions involving lands and resources since the passage of the first Dominion Lands Act, in 1872.

The main, sensible, business-like thing to do now is for the representatives of the Dominion and the Provinces to gather around a table and reach an amicable agreement, fair, reasonable and acceptable to all. The sooner this big issue is settled the better will Confederation stand, and the quicker will the resources themselves be developed for the use of the people and add to the growth, development and wealth of all Canada. So long as they remain in the hands of the Dominion nor Provincial Governments can proceed with proper and energetic developmental policies, and, as a result, progress is retarded.

Will Introduce Flag Bill

Resolution Passing With Canadian Standard Will Be Considered

The adoption of a Canadian flag will come before parliament during the present session through a resolution placed on the order paper by C. H. McIntosh, Liberal member for North Battleford.

The resolution of Mr. McIntosh calls for the appointment of a special committee "for the purpose of considering the advisability of adopting a Canadian flag representing Canada as a whole which shall form part of the British flag as the symbol of the dominion as an equality partner in the commonwealth of British nations."

Keeping High Ideals

Rule Of Famous Artist Is Good One To Follow

A famous artist strictly* resolved not to look at silly or funny pictures, simply because, when he himself wished to paint all these funny pictures crossed his thoughts, and consequently they were interwoven in his work. Hence he made it a rule to look only at great masterpieces by doing this he ever kept his mind full of great conceptions, and thus he found it much easier to paint great pictures himself. If people would only make it a rule to observe only that which is great and good, they would find it much easier to live a good and pure life.

German Gives Successful Demonstration Of His Fireproof Invention

A paper that does not burn has been discovered. The German inventor, Mr. Franz Franck, gave a demonstration recently. He took a sheet of ordinary newspaper, crumpled it into a ball, and wrapped this tightly immediately subject to a sheet of his fireproof paper. Then protected, he held it for a few minutes in the flame of a blowlamp. The lamp hot enough to melt a glass window-pane. Not only did the fireproof wrapping survive, but the ordinary paper inside was not even scorched.

NERVOUS INDIGESTION AS A RESULT OF FLU

A Severe Sufferer Overcame This Trouble By Taking Dr. Williams' Pink Pills

No element of recent years has proved so treacherous as has the flu. The disease itself is bad enough, but the after effects is where the real danger lies. The flu leaves behind it a thoroughly lowered vitality, impure blood, shattered nerves and an impaired digestive system. Thus nourishment cannot be had in sufficient amount or rebuilding the blood and strengthening the nerves during convalescence. Until the blood is built up there is no recovery of health and strength. The one sure blood-builder is Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. Start a treatment of them today and in a few weeks you show signs of robust health again.

Among the many victims of the terrible flu epidemic was Mrs. Mrs. Irving Maxwell, of Hancroft, Ont. Read what this lady has to say concerning what Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have done for her:—"After an attack of the Flu I was left in an extremely weak state. My blood was impoverished; I was seized with indigestion and the nerves of my system were shattered and nothing my doctor gave me seemed to help me in the least. I thought I would waste away and weaker till finally I lost all control of my nerves. A friend advised me to had used Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People, and I commenced strongly advised me to give them a trial. I had not taken two boxes when I noticed some improvement. I persisted in the treatment and by the time I had taken six boxes my health was fully restored to health again, and although I am a middle aged woman I am now able to do all my work around the house and feel as well as ever I did in my life before. What Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have done for me surely do for others."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are a tonic, not a stimulant. They build the blood and are a specific for such troubles as indigestion, anaemia, nervousness, rheumatism, and the general wornout feeling that affects so many people. They are sold by all medicine dealers or may be had by mail at 50 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

City Of Today Stands On Site Of Old Trading Post

Kamloops, B.C., is the name adopting on the wooded slopes of Queenston Heights in 1812, another chapter in Canada's story was written. Hundreds of miles westward, when Alexander Ross, near the junction of the Thompson and North Thompson rivers, traded for ten days with 2,000 Indians gathered at Cumsheen.

A few months later in the fall of the same year, Ross built the first Fort Kamloops for John Jacob Astor, and here the trade was carried on for many years. Today the city of Kamloops stands on the site of the old trading post, and only a moulding corpse, a few cellar overgrown with weeds mark the spot where the hard-faced fur traders of Astor's day held the field marching white civilization.

CHILDREN'S COLDS are doubly dangerous after Flu

Physicians advise that the chief danger in this epidemic is AFTER influenza. Then, more than ever, colds endanger a child's weakened system may lead to bronchial troubles, pneumonia, or other forms of dire consequence.

Check Colds Without "Dosing"

A possibility of influenza is that its taxing have the digestive system. The result is "dosing" further disturbs the digestion and lowers the vitality. Then, the child suffers needlessly and often over. Internal medication should therefore be avoided, except on the advice of a physician.

As Vicks VapoRub is applied externally, it can be used freely at the first sign of a cold with no fear of disturbing even the most delicate stomach. Just rub it on the throat and chest at bedtime.

Vicks Acts 2 Ways at Once

(1) Its vapors, released by the body-warmth, are inhaled direct to the inflamed air-passages, loosening the phlegm and easing the difficult breathing.

(2) At the same time, Vicks acts through the skin like a poultice, "drawing out" tightness and soreness, and thus helping the vapors to break up the congestion.

Of course, Vicks 5-way action is just as effective for adults' cold-troubles as it is for those of children.

ANGLO-AMERICAN FRIENDSHIP TO BE SAFEGUARDED

London, Eng.—It was learned in well-informed circles that preparations for a new approach to settlement of the disarmament problem may be made by the British government to the United States in the near future.

There were definite indications of a feeling in British governmental circles that an entire new system of approaching the disarmament question was needed. It was understood that this attitude would be applied to all armament problems that are not already regulated by treaties.

It was stated that a new method of solution would be sought in an effort to safeguard Anglo-American friendship and allay suspicions and misunderstanding in both the United States and Britain.

Post attempts to arrive with mathematical precision at a parity of naval strength, matching ship for ship, and gun for gun, have been met by an increasing number of British officials as having been the chief obstacle to an international agreement between Britain and the United States. They have been able to see little behind the impossibility of agreement on an equality basis. Therefore they are now considering what other method can be used for the solution of the problem, and to seek specially one which would be based largely on mutual confidence and good will.

The influential Britons who have been trying to shape this govern ment's United States policy say that it would lend toward conciliation on all difficulties, have been saying away from battle lest might be weaker till finally I lost all control of my nerves. A friend advised me to had used Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People, and I commenced strongly advised me to give them a trial. I had not taken two boxes when I noticed some improvement. To Prevent Grain Mixing

Changes In Wheat Marketing To Be Demanded By Western Members

Ottawa.—Drastic changes in the methods of marketing wheat are being demanded by the members from the prairie provinces and those demands will find their echo in the House this session from both Liberal and Progressive members.

When Robert Gardiner, Progressive leader, in the House the other evening demanded the resignation of the present board of grain commissioners and the establishment of a new board of five to administer the Canada Grain Act, he was voicing the views of many in the prairie provinces. Yet the Liberals are asking for more.

Before the present session is far advanced there will be a demand for some means to prevent the mixing of the terminal elevators, for changes in the personnel of the board of grain commissioners and for action in the direction indicated in the report of the agriculture committee of last session, namely, the establishment of protein content as the chief measure of the market value of wheat.

Large Butter Consumers

Canadians Use More Butter Than Any Other Nation

Vancouver, B.C.—Canadians are the largest consumers of butter in the world, declared Dr. J. G. Rutherford, Dominion Dairy Commissioner, in addressing the Western Canada Dairy Conference and Dairy Cattle Congress in 1920." Their annual per capita consumption, he put down at 27 pounds for each man, woman and child. This is 4½ pounds of cheese. Increased home consumption, according to Dr. Rutherford, had led to a large drop in butter exports and in this connection he referred to the huge consumption of dairy products by the automobile tourists annually invaded Canada, this trade alone now accounting for between 12,000,000 and 15,000,000 pounds of butter every year.

Rapid Comeback For Britain Predicted

Sir Alfred Cope Sees End Of Period Of Depression

Montreal.—That Great Britain was rapidly coming to the end of the period of depression and that she would come back to the foremost position she once held was predicted by Sir Alfred Cope, under-secretary of state for Ireland from 1919 to 1922

He is at present managing director of the Amalgamated Collieries of South Wales and is here in the interest of marketing Welsh coal in Canada. He said the coal industry had introduced economies long overdue.

Dispute Was Settled

Canadian Workers Re-Instated In Old Positions In Toronto

Ottawa.—In the House of Commons H. H. Adshead, Lisbon, East Calgary, asked the Minister of Labor whether he had any information to give the members with reference to German immigrants brought into this country to replace Canadian workers in Toronto.

Hon. Peter Heenan replied that he was now able to inform the House that a settlement had been reached whereby the Canadian workmen were re-instated in their old positions at the same wages which they received prior to the dispute.

Trapped In Burning Cabin

Neighbor Unable To Effort Rescue Of Three Prospectors

Sioux Lookout, Ont.—Trapped by flames in their tiny cabin, three prospectors lost their lives at the narrow Woman Lake Portage, according to word reaching here. With them perished their four dogs which were chained to the outside of the building.

The three victims were Tony Tyrell, and men named Gougan and Vogt.

The word is yet available as to where the three came from. Terrified barks of the dogs roused R. P. Dyrus, sleeping in a shack some distance. He rushed outside to see the cabin in flames but found it impossible to effect a rescue. He could not even get near enough to release the still living dogs.

Word of the tragedy was brought out by aeroplane.

WILL MAKE BID FOR LARGE AREA IN FAR NORTH

Ottawa.—While cabinet ministers and western members of Parliament will not discuss, openly, the announcement of Premier J. G. Gardiner, Saskatchewan, will seek a vast extension of the area of that province when he presents terms for entry into the Dominion Government there is the keenest interest in his proposition.

The reaction on the whole, is most unfavorable and no one appears ready even to consider the possibility of the annually invaded district of the territory immediately to the north of Manitoba.

That attitude of course is more marked among Manitoba members than others, but the general views of the province which would have to be drawn from are far-reaching results and might, conceivably, become an outstanding national issue.

Some members believe that no change in the present boundaries should be made until the northern areas are populated and that there should then be created new provinces to the north of the present prairie provinces. However, the majority of members agree that this ought not to be done, but that, when the time comes, the present boundaries should be extended northward.

The motives behind Mr. Gardiner's demand are not understood here. The area to the north of Manitoba and Saskatchewan extending to the Arctic Ocean and the coast of Hudson Bay and to the west by a line drawn from Coronation Gulf Inlet and along the Copper, Slave and Liard rivers, running into the Arctic Sea. Within a few years transcontinental railways will have been built in this northland.

Amend Post Office Act

Bill Has Been Given First Reading In House Of Commons

Ottawa, Ont.—A bill amending the post office act was given first reading in the House of Commons. The measure extends the privileges of newspapers. It provides that a sworn statement must be furnished to the post office authorities specifying the names and addresses of editors, owners and stockholders and other articulars. Religious publications are not affected and the names of small stockholders may be omitted in all returns, according to a clause in the bill. It is proposed that failure to comply with these provisions may incur a penalty of $100 and admission of ordinary newspapers to the mails. A further clause provides that paid reading matter must be marked as advertisements. Neglect to comply with this provision under the bill would incur a fine of not less than fifty dollars and not more than five hundred dollars on conviction. The measure was introduced by T. L. Church, Conservative, Toronto northwest.

Consider Tunnel Idea Nothing But Gamble

Should Not Be Started Without Investigation, Is Opinion Of Expert Engineer

London, Eng.—The project for the construction of a tunnel under the English Channel is a gamble.

This is the considered opinion of Sir Dalrymple-Hay, one of the world's authorities on tunnel engineering, who, in an interview with International News Service, declared the construction of the tunnel should not be decided upon in the first flush of enthusiasm.

Dalrymple-Hay's word must be received with deference. He is an engineer of much unrivaled experience in this sort of work. He acts as consulting engineer for the company controlling the Simplon tunnel. He has had the design and supervision of 500 miles of underground tunnels in London.

"The channel tunnel project is a gamble purely and simply because there is no authority who can say with certainty what may be the thickness of the strata in the middle of the English Channel.

"Again the whole things is a gamble because it is being done blindfold. As a practical engineer, I say that there is not a particle of real evidence to show the thickness of the strata under the sea bed. Geologists say they have taken borings and samples from the sea bed, but to an engineer that is just nonsense. They know nothing of the depth of the chalk."

Require Aid Of British Parliament

To Smooth Out Difficulties In Connection With Manitoba Act

Ottawa.—The possible necessity of invoking the legislative machinery of the British Parliament to smooth out certain difficulties of certain lands in Manitoba, was raised by R. W. Craig, counsel for the province at a session of the Manitoba natural resources hearing.

Mr. Craig, during the course of his argument, pointed out that the British Parliament had passed the Manitoba Act of 1870 and provision had been made whereby it could not be changed by the Dominion parliament.

It might be necessary, in order to change the present financ al terms between the provinces and the Dominion, to have the British Parliament validate such change by statute, Mr. Craig declared.

Historical authorities were quoted and precedence cited by Mr Craig in support of his contention that the Dominion's interest in the province's lands were primarily of legislative jurisdiction and did not involve proprietary rights.

Stricter Penalty For Violating Drug Act

Amendments Under Consideration To Curb Traffic In Narcotics

Ottawa.—The House of Commons considered in committee of the whole a bill to amend and consolidate the opium and narcotic drug act. The measure provides increased penalties in cases of conviction for selling or giving away, or distributing drugs without a license from the minister of national health. Those found guilty inserted a judge may at his discretion, sentence a convicted person to be whipped, in addition to the imposition of fine and imprisonment. A further change provides that persons guilty of infractions of the act shall be liable to payment of costs of prosecution. Other amendments are contemplated, a number of which are for purposes of clarity.

INTENSE COLD IN EUROPE CAUSES GREAT SUFFERING

London, Eng.—The almost unprecedented siege of cold weather has taken a great toll of life in Europe in the last week, and despatches from almost every country from Italy to the North Sea and the Bosphorus brought reports of most critical situations.

Deaths due directly and indirectly to the cold weather have gone well over the 1,000 since Monday, and this appeared to be no weakening of the grasp of the most severe winter in the memory of living man.

At Landau, the French sentry on duty with the army of occupation on the German side of the Rhine, died of exposure. Reports from Germany, was frozen to death. Forty other sentries collapsed due to cold and as many as possible were withdrawn from duty. The temperature was 11 below zero at Wiesbaden.

Advices received by Central Radio at Vienna said 10,000 persons had perished and that the Budapest had to receive coal rations from the Hungarian government.

Several deaths due to cold were reported from Budapest, including a night watchman and his wife who were found dead. The Hungarian capital was paralyzed by snow, which has put virtually all traffic, the United Press correspondent reported.

England was swept by severe snowstorms and communications were disrupted. The Thames, epidemic, combined with cold and bad cold weather accidents, has caused most of the deaths which have reached a total of well over 1,000 during the winter, according to reliable statistics from 11 capitals.

The statistics include

France 2,500 deaths due to influenza and similar diseases

England and Wales 1,000 deaths due to influenza cold shipwrecks

Spain 1,500 deaths due to influenza, pneumonia cold

A CRUISE OF CONTRASTS

With tiny tugs panting in their efforts to nose the twenty thousand ton Canadian Pacific liner "Duchess of Atholl" into the stream 250 passengers left New York recently on a "Cruise of Contrasts" that will take them to twenty ports in the West Indies, South America, Africa, Egypt, Italy, Monaco and France.

This is the second South America-Africa cruise by a Canadian Pacific ship. Last year it was undertaken by the "Empress of France," the first ship to land goods at the lonely island of Tristan de Cunha en route to the Cape of the cruisers, and when they return to Canada they will have the distinction of being among the seven hundred non-seafaring people ever to have that opportunity

Board Of Trade Ready For Year Of Activity

A most enthusiastic reorganization meeting of the Vermilion Board of Trade was held in the G.W.V.A. hall at Vermilion on February 13th. The main business of the meeting was the election of officers, which resulted as follows:

Hon. President—His Worship Mayor Fallow.
President — H. W. Harper.
Vice-President — C. W. Robinson.
Secy-Treas. — F. J. Richardson
Executive: J. A. M. Craig, A. E. Kaiser, F. C. Lenz, J. W. U. Morrison, M. Watson.

A considerable program of activity was outlined for the present year and it is expected that the Board will be able to deal with many matters of great interest to the community.

It was proposed, and the meeting went on record in favor of holding semi-monthly meetings at luncheons instead of in the evenings as in past years. Special features will be provided at these luncheons in an endeavor to maintain interest in the work of the Board throughout the year.

An active campaign for new members is being conducted by the Executive, both in the town and country. It is desired to make this Board of Trade not only a business organization but a means whereby farmers of the district and business men may get together along the line of a club to promote good fellowship and co-operation.

Everyone is urged to join and will be cordially welcomed.

Hudson To Spend $1,000,000 In Newspapers

Essex Challenge Week to Feature Campaign

The Hudson Motor Car Company, manufacturers of Hudson and Essex cars, will spend one million dollars in newspaper advertising during the months of March and April, it is announced by Courtney Johnson, general sales manager of the company.

Hudson, America's second largest builder of six cylinder cars in 1928, is experiencing the greatest year in its history, and this extensive campaign, the largest ever undertaken by the company, is designed to bring about even greater success to a sensational, successful time.

The feature of the campaign will be a national "Essex Challenge Week" which commences March 4th. During this week Essex cars will undertake every kind of test to prove their rich to the militant "Challenger" slogan says the announcement.

Annual 'Spiel Is Well Under Way

With twenty-seven rinks entered, 13 visiting and 14 home rinks, and with the ice in perfect condition, as yet uninjured by the would-be softness of the weather, Vermilion's big annual bonspiel got away to a flying start at 3 p.m. on Tuesday. The entry list is one of the largest Vermilion has ever had, but Secretary Sutton hopes to have the finals in all events played by Friday night. The visiting rinks are: Beecroft, McFadden and Dr. Knapp of Islay; Horton and Clifton of Vegreville; McFadden, McKinnon and Dr. Mosely of Manville; Dale and Stevens of Kitscoty, and Carse and Dunlop of Edmonton.

One of the high lights of the local rinks is that of the old timers, all of whom have shone brightly in the past but who have given up curling for several years now. The rink comprises Telford, Pirkis, Cooper and Joe McKone. Horton of Vegreville is also on deck with a rink of old timers, and Horton's rink was presented on the opening day of the 'spiel with some miniature besoms and stones by Vermilion's veteran rink.

Lace Making Old Art

Lace making was illustrated in the year 1275 at St. Annsburg, in Lancashire, by Barbara Uttmann. The first establishment of lace manufacture in England is said to be due to some refugees from Flanders, who settled in the village of Cranfield, in the west of the county of Bedford adjoining Buckinghamshire.

BLEEDING GUMS

Even their color, which, in health varies from a light pink to a dark pink, you would know at once that the gum tissues are sickly and out with blood.

Nature has planned it so purposely, thus giving the oral tissues high regenerative powers, subject as it is daily to minor injuries and scrapings during the mastication of food.

Normally, gum tissue is firm and resistant and will tolerate much abuse, without bleeding. But should there be an undue tendency of the gums to bleed straightway this should be taken as a warning sign that something is wrong, and the family dentist consulted forthwith.

What then, may be amiss?

Obviously these tissues are not in health, this being further manifested by a change in color from pink to red, or to a purplish tinge, evidenced by the most acute redness.

Furthermore, the gingivae may be swollen, and, again, slightly painful at their crests, though in the early stage of gingival disease, visible manifestations other than the tendency to bleed may be absent at present.

Perhaps the first intimation you have had of this condition was when one day, performing your mouth toilet, you noticed blood welling up freely around the necks of one or more teeth. Or, you may, and rightly, that the source of this hemorrhage was the "packets" underlying the free gum margin.

But why here?

The gum and gingival tissues are protected by a comparatively thin epithelial covering but which becomes progressively thinner as it nears the edge of the gingival crest, its deepest point, this covering is extremely light, may be almost translucent.

Here, then, is the most vulnerable point of attack on the part of the tissues leading organisms, which raising access to the tissues, commence their work of up and build degenerative process, with a consequent break-ing down of the cell structure and the consequent weakening of the blood vessel walls.

Then what follows? Nature's reply, first, even a mild stress on these weakened areas sufficient to cause a hemorrhage

There always is a reason for bleeding gums.

A PERFECT MEDICINE FOR LITTLE ONES

Baby's Own Tablets Should Be In Every Home Where There Are Children

The perfect medicine for little ones is found in Baby's Own Tablets. SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

MARCH 3

THE CHRISTIAN CHURCH

Golden Text: "Be ye, who are many, are one body in Christ."—Romans 12:5.

Lesson: Matthew 16:13-20; Mark 4:26-32; Romans 12:4-8; Ephesians 1:15-23; 2:13-22; 4:4-6, 11-16; 5:22-27; 1 Timothy 3-15.

Devotional Reading: Ephesians 4, 11-16.

Explanations and Comments

The Christian Church Is a Growing Church. Mark 4:26-32.—And Jesus said, "So is the Kingdom of God," that is, what you see to be God's method of working in Nature is also His method of working in the spiritual realm. The parables of Jesus show us that the term "the Kingdom of God" has to do with man's spiritual nature and possibilities, his inner life; it is the reign of God in the hearts of men. The Kingdom of God is he is a man should cast seed upon the earth—in Japan and the apostles and His later followers have implanted the seed of God in the hearts of men. After having sown the seed, the sower sleeps by night and rises by day; that is, he leads his customary life and leaves the result of his sowing with God. And the seed springs up and grows, he knoweth not how.

"Flower in the crannied wall,
I pluck you out of the crannies;
Hold you here, root and all, in my hand,
Little flower;—but if I could understand
What you are, root and all and all in all,
I should know what God and man is."—Tennyson.

The earth breath fruit of herself.

"We plough the fields and scatter.
The good seed on the land;
But it is fed and watered
By God's Almighty hand."

The growth of the plant is gradual but marked by progressive stages—first the blade, then the ear, then the full grain in the ear. The same is true of spiritual growth.

"Nothing great is produced suddenly, not even a grape or a fig. If you say to me that you want a grape to eat immediately, I will answer you that you cannot have it; a grape takes time. Let it flower first, then it will put forth its fruit, and then ripen. And would you have the fruit of a man's life and character all in a moment? Do not expect it."—Epictetus.

The Kingdom Is Universal in Its growth. It begins with a seed: it grows on to harvest. In this growth are three necessary elements; first, the beginning, the point of departure; second, a goal, a terminus to which the progress is directed; and, third, the pathway between the beginning and the goal, leading from one to the other. This is the law of progress in all things—a terminus ab quo," a "terminus ad quem," and a pathway between the two. He will continue in the process of progress who begins with the present, attaining the past, and pressing on to the future. "Forgetting those things which are behind and reaching forward to the things which are before, I press toward the mark for the prize of the high calling of God in Christ Jesus."—Philippians 3:13, 14.

The Short Line To Europe

Hudson Bay Route to Liverpool Almost Ready for Opening

For north in Canada a new railroad is taking form rapidly, and within a year the Hudson Bay Railway will be in operation from The Pas, Manitoba, to Fort Churchill, on Hudson Bay. The Pas is nearly 500 miles from Winnipeg by rail, and the extension to the west shore of Hudson Bay is nearly as much farther.

Through the Hudson Bay and eastward through Hudson Strait, skirting Labrador and passing south of Greenland, lies the short water route to Liverpool, a distance from Fort Churchill of approximately 2,600 miles. Following in a general way the 60th parallel of latitude east, the route is shorter even than the distance between Atlantic coast cities and Liverpool, and grainboats receiving the products of the farms of western Canada after a relatively short rail haul will have a shorter trip than those operating from Montreal, New York, Baltimore and the other important points of transshipment.

As a result of observations from vessels and airplanes, engineers incline to the belief that the Hudson Strait is open for not less than eight months in the year and that in the early fall, when the grain begins to move, ships may operate safely from the railhead at Fort Churchill through the northern passage—a route which all the navy explorers have visited and which many sought unsuccessfully—to Behrings, eliminating many hundreds of miles of rail, lake and rail conveyance of the grain.

As one Hudson Bay Railway takes shape, the process of the wheat through the Panco River country, 1,000 miles to the westward, take hope in the knowledge that the marketing across an even more northerly section of the Dominion than the Canadian Pacific main line, and connecting on one end with the Hudson Bay route and on the other with the Peace River country, will be added to the Pacific through a connection with the present Prince Rupert line. Adequate transportation will open up more of Canada's enormous wealth.

Studying Interior Of Earth

Much Will Be Learned in Future Is Belief

Not even the most visionary of natural scientists would venture to forecast that a system of antipodal tunnels would be a part of the transportation scheme of the future, nor that greater knowledge of the middle of the earth will be gained by boring a few thousand miles into it. But that a great deal more than is now known is going to be learned of the innermost interior of this great planet of approximately 8,000 miles in diameter is unquestionable.

Prof. Reginald A. Daily of Harvard university says that "the 19th century bequeathed to the 20th an overstocking responsibility—to invent and to use new instruments of exploring the earth far beyond the reach of direct penetration by the geologists' pick and shovel and borehole."

That important progress will be made in this direction Professor Daily's prophecy seems a strong belief. The inner earth, he says, "is a gripping subject of research," and through the study of "rays" and "waves" he believes much will be accomplished toward determining the exact character of the earth's center.

West Indies Seek Aid From Canada

Want Obstacles to Sale of Products to Dominion Overcome

A suggestion that Canada be asked to establish an organization similar to the Empire marketing board or contribute funds to the British board for the purpose to enable the West Indies and British Guinea to overcome obstacles to sale of their products in the Dominion was discussed before the first West Indies conference.

Speakers pointed out that new steamship services between Canada and the West Indies must increase trade between the Dominion and the colonies, necessitating action to facilitate the exchange of goods.

Advance in Aviation

There are 65 commercial aviation companies in Canada, according to a report of the Department of National Defence. This is more than twice the number in operation a year ago. There are also 15 private owners and 16 flying clubs. One concern carried 9,647 passengers and 1,992,000 pounds of freight during 1928.

The Red Cross Rendezvous

Valued Services Rendered by Society at Alberta U. F. A. Convention

January was the yearly pilgrimage of the hundreds of Albertan farmers to the great four-day powwow in the capital city of Edmonton, the big event of the year known as the U.F.A. Convention. Twelve hundred people trekked into the city that week, consisting of delegates and members, but the greatest of interested visitors. His arms C.P.R. cars of sleepers ran between the two cities. Edmonton, the host for the week, was packed to the roof, for the trek from the south required the comfort of those modern "covered wagons," where a man can put himself and wife and family to bed in snowy blankets and enjoy the comfortable feeling of escaping the earth far beyond the reach of direct penetration by the geologists' pick and shovel and borehole."

For the pilgrims were not men alone—although the majority represented the sterner sex. With them were their womenfolk, whereas all registering in their eyes a hint of wide horizons in far flung prairies—for the annual U.F.A. convention is an all-family places—looking as women look who seek for things afar off, and have an unexhaustible faith, an unquenchable hope, and a charity that beareth all things.

Some little ones, too, were seen toddling, bundled up morass of humanity as they trundled out of autos and trains.

Right at the top of the great red brick church, far removed from the floor of the convention where a lieutenant-governor and a premier and many mighty men of valour declined and inclined, the microphone could be found the eyrie of the Sedgings—the children's nursery and Red Cross rest.

A haven of refuge this, with many cots for tired little feet, toys to divert the attention of fretful workers where many a mother reclaimed when the heat of the argument of downstairs and the atmosphere drove her to take a siesta with the children. A Peter Pan playroom for the four-year-olds and a big table with all the other things at which presided Miss Seven-Pant at the Mad Hatters' tea party completed a charming toot ensemble.

Such was the much valued service rendered by the Red Cross at the annual United Farmers of Alberta convention, when hundreds of farm folk were thus touched right in the close contact in an adventure of education, and entertainment.

Behind the Red Cross "Crown" became the call of busy fathers and mothers who wended their several ways to lectures hall or committee rooms. Safely parked for hours, the children were shepherded under the Red Cross banner flag bedecking the wall of that upper room with its peace-time message "Still serving."

Said one anxious looking individual with his arms full of mother's shopping plus an obstreperous infant, "Red Cross still serving! Thank goodness for that."

Cannot Be Standardized

Efficiency in Every Line Confined to the Few

"It very often follows that the man who keeps scrub stock is a scrub farmer." That sentence in a discussion of livestock breeding at once the eye of the editor of the Chicago Drovers' Journal, who remarks that it is not a new thought, and that we all know there is much truth in it. The only value he observes in it is that it may stir some fellow, whose stock looks pretty hard, to try to do better. Some folks say there is no place for scrub stock, and can't understand why any of it is produced in a civilized country. But we never will be rid of it. There will always be scrub stock, and scrub farmers, and scrub doctors and lawyers and preachers and newspaper men. Efficiency never can be standardized. Always some will do better than others.

Gold in Alaska

Alaska can still point to its mountains and say that is gold in them their hills. In 1928 its miners extracted $4,773,000 worth an ounce; $5,927,000 for 1927. Prospecting still goes on, but no new find of considerable moment was reported last years. Every year sees a few placer mining fields worked out, but Alaska never troubles itself about that, always feeling sure new ones will be discovered. Experience has given fair warrant for the optimism.

Seed Grading Growing in Favor

Minister of Agriculture Gives Report for Past Fiscal Year

The grading of farm and garden seeds is a very important service of the Department of Agriculture at Ottawa. The principle upon which the Seeds Act is based is that of established grade names with provision for grade definitions that are prescribed by regulation. Provision is made within the act for the compulsory grading of nearly all kinds of seeds, and while field roots and garden seeds may be sold under a guarantee of minimum quality yet the grading of these seeds is steadily growing in favor, according to the Hon. Dr. W. R. Motherwell, minister of agriculture, in his report of his department for the past fiscal year. The grading is done on a basis of contributed samples received at the central office of the seed branch at Ottawa and district offices at different points in the country.

As indicative of the volume of work and responsible duties involved in grading agricultural seeds and in checking seed importations, Hon. Dr. Motherwell points out that there were 3,302 samples recorded, tested and graded during the year under review. The total amount of seed represented by these samples was, of course, very large, amounting to millions of bushels.

A Word Of Praise

Many Workers Would Rather Have It Than Extra Money

Is there anything so easy to give as a word of praise where it is deserved? Often those who have gone to much extra trouble in doing something special receive no recognition at all. Perhaps they are paid with money. But it is safe to say that many workers would rather have a word of praise from their employers than extra money. Praise not only gives the employee confidence in himself, but acts as a stimulant to his work which is attacked with greater energy than before. A word of praise brings happiness to those who have tried to do their best. Praise is cheap but valued greatly. Be quick to praise.

Sure to Return

Here is the latest story about a plumber.

He was just starting off to work when his wife said:

"Bob, bring me in some butter when you come back for whatever you're leaving behind.

"Ireland," said the teacher, "is also as large as Wales."

"Ireland," answered Willie afterwards, "is about as large as teacher."

Traffic Jams in Air

Private Airplanes Throng Route From Paris to London

Traffic jams have followed the airplane into the air. The Le Bourget-Croydon air route, despite the immensity of the heavens, suffers from overcrowding just like the narrow streets of cities.

French and English governments are trying to agree on a means of policing this great airway. The chief cause of trouble has been privately owned airplanes whose pilots have no regard for safety and commonly preferred to follow the regular route of the big commercial air lines.

These planes have increased in numbers to a point where they are a menace to traffic, especially in hazy weather. When visibility is low, the big London-Paris planes have many narrow escapes from collision.

Some Peculiar Plants

Oriental Countries Have Few With Odd Characteristics

The Egyptian lotus has some peculiar characteristics. For example when growing it can be cut and fed to cattle, yet when ripe it contains a deadly poison.

Then take the Indian plant of which the native name is Madar. The leaf treated and applied like a poultice will cure a severe sprain or a bruise, yet the milky juice has an extraordinary effect if swallowed. The sufferer has fits of terrible delusion alternating with bursts of wild merriment and shrieking laughter. This goes on for some hours; then, if the dose has not been severe enough to cause death, the patient falls into a deep sleep from which he wakes up comparatively well.

All Lives Are Interesting

An Article to E. W. Howe's Monthly Says

"If a man is fairly intelligent, he has had experiences of interest. He is disposed to frankness, his autobiography would be of value. Every man can take colors on the life picture a little differently. I find much more interest in a good autobiography than in any story of polar exploration. There is nothing at the North Pole that concerns any of us; nothing in life that does not."

Alberta Will Adopt Pensions

The province of Alberta will shortly adopt the old-age pensions scheme. This was stated by Hon. Peter Heenan, minister of labor, to a delegation representing the railway brotherhoods which waited upon members of the Dominion cabinet.

Continuity in advertising is as necessary as continuity in breathing.

Revise Map Of Antarctic

Great Change Will Likely Be Result of Explorations

Sir Herbert Wilkins has been compelled to suspend his exploration program in the Antarctic continent for the present season because of the exceptionally warm summer conditions he has encountered. Because of his inability to locate a new base nearer the Pole, and the soft state of the snow, his projected flight from Deception Island across the continent has been frustrated and must be postponed until a more favorable opportunity. This would have formed a dramatic and spectacular climax to his expedition, but its abandonment does not mean that his venture has failed in its main purpose. For the discoveries already made are of far greater significance as contributions to the world's stock of knowledge regarding the South Polar regions and radically change the prevailing conception of its geography.

The arm of Antarctic that reaches up in the direction of Cape Horn will no longer appear on the revised maps as a continuous projection of the mainland. In reality it is an archipelago of islands. Graham Land, also believed to be an extension of the mainland, has been found to consist of two great islands, the more southerly of them being separated from the continental area by a strait ranging from 60 to 90 miles wide. Just where the border of the true mainland actually lies is still undetermined, but progress of remarkable interest to geographers has been made towards its final location.

Apart from this scientific interest, the identification of these lands as islands has the practical advantage of permitting the establishment of bases for future airplane exploration in the interior south from the land been previously believed possible. Still more important is the possibility that it opens the way to the location of meteorological stations where observations can be continuously recorded for the purpose of long range forecasting. This is a new element in Antarctic exploration that has not hitherto been taken into account. But Sir Herbert surmises that such meteorological data may disclose a close relationship between cycles of climatic change, originating in the ice-covered plateau of Antarctic, and the great cycles that have periodically affect Australia and other lands south of the Equator.

Discussing these and other possible results of the Wilkins expedition, Dr. Isaiah Bowman, director of the American Geographical Society, declares that his work, together with that which Commander Byrd hopes to do, will result in a complete revision of the map of Antarctica. The exploration of a land of continental proportions seems an anachronism in the 20th century. Certainly this is its last generation which can in choice in such an experience

Sodium Sulphate Deposits

The investigation of the natural sodium sulphate deposits in western Canada by the Department of Mines, has proved up tonnage of hydrous sodium and magnesium sulphate in excess of 100,000,000 tons. There are many other deposits in the province which could produce sodium sulphate, but while the markets are limited and the price low, only those close to railways can be considered as producers at present.

Reward Wheat Distributed

Two hundred bushels of the "Reward" wheat are being distributed among 100 settlement board settlers in the southern half of Alberta. Each settler is limited to two bushels of this wheat for which a charge of $3 per bushel will be made. Very satisfactory results have been measured from the quantity of Garnet wheat which was distributed similarly three years ago.

Vermilion, Alta., Feb. 28, 1929.

The sudden death at Edmonton on Monday of this week of Judge Fred A. Morrison was a distinct shock to the many people who knew him, and for the past number of years as an intimate friend. It was only on the 19th February that he sat in chambers at Vermilion apparently in the best of health. The late Judge paid frequent visits to Vermilion while practising his profession at Vegreville and was twice candidate for the federal house when the riding of Victoria extended from Fort Saskatchewan to the Saskatchewan boundary. Judge Morrison was a man of singularly brilliant attainments. He was a native of the province of New Brunswick and a graduate in law and arts of Dalhousie University, Halifax.

EX-SERVICEMEN'S BANQUET WENT "OVER THE TOP"

Probably at no time since the late war has there been such a representative gathering of "retired men" as the congenial company which attended the ex-servicemen's re-union banquet at the Vermilion Hotel on Monday night. The local ex-servicemen turned out in exceptional force while the country and outside points were also well represented.

The function was unique in the fact that it was the first re-union banquet ever held in Vermilion for ex-service men only, and consequently was something in the nature of an experiment; but the unqualified success attending the efforts of the executive committee on this occasion will probably lead to the function becoming an annual event at least.

A most delectable repast was provided by mine host Ernie Wright, who is himself an ex-serviceman, and full justice was done to the part of the evening's entertainment. A well arranged toast list was the medium of some excellent speeches, a few of the speakers reaching high-water marked heights of rhetorical verbosity, while the unanimity expressed were enthusiastically approved.

At the conclusion of the banquet an enjoyable smoking concert was held, the programme for which contained some entirely unexpected talent a number of returned men, and every item was thoroughly appreciated. The party "dismissed" at midnight, the singing of "Auld Lang Syne" and the National Anthem being the finale to one of the most successful social events ever held in Vermilion; and it was the unanimous opinion of those present that the function would do much in stirring up enthusiasm among the ex-servicemen throughout, besides giving encouragement to the officers of the Canadian Legion, whose aim it is to look after the rights and good welfare of the premier organization in this community.

The many friends of Miss Hester White will be pleased to hear that although still a small girl—she is well on the road to recovery after her recent very serious illness.

Miss Nell McLay of Brandon, Man., and en route to Los Angeles, Calif., is visiting a few days in town with her sister, Mrs. Frank Wilson.

WORLD FAMOUS GLEE SINGERS TO APPEAR HERE MARCH 15

An announcement that will be hailed with delight is that the Westminster Glee Singers will appear here again, the date this time being Friday evening, March 15th. All who hear this famous band of songsters on their last appearance here were unanimous in their praise of them, and from press reports from the larger centres such as Toronto, Vancouver, Ottawa, Montreal, etc., the boys are being lionized a wonderful reception in their tour of Canada.

The Glee Singers consist of seven boy sopranos picked from the principal London church choirs, 2 male altos, 2 tenors, and 2 bass singers. The programme are distinguished by their variety, beauty and refinement. Whether it be a jovial glee or stately madrigal, some solo from the great English ballads in the shape of an anthem or Christmas carol, a frolic some vocal duet, a pleasing pianologue duty or a rollicking sailor shanter, these remarkable vocalists are equally at home in all these diversified forms. Nothing could be more fascinating than their selections of old British folk songs, an eloquent of the musical glories of "Merrie England."

Manager Pillie is indeed fortunate to have this unequalled band of musicians appear here on Friday evening, March 15th.

Rev. Dr. D. G. McQueen of the First Presbyterian church, Edmonton, preached at the First Presbyterian church here on Sunday morning last and in the St. Saviour's church in the evening, where a large congregation of both the Anglican and Presbyterian churches listened to a powerful sermon. Dr. McQueen presented to the students of the school of agriculture in the shape of the dormitory in the afternoon. Communion and baptismal services were held at the Presbyterian church after Sunday school. It was on Monday while Dr. McQueen was here that he was surprised at the sudden death of Judge Morrison.

VETS TAKE UNDISPUTED LEAGUE LEADERSHIP

Vets 5 — College 1

The Vets disposed of the College boys in the tune of 5 goals to one in the first game of the Civic league last night and grabbed off first place in the standing, as the Elks downed the Pacific in the second game. Jimmie Haskett and Clarence Barr were out too good for the V.R.A. lads and the younger Vet players were right there with the goods, too.

Elks 6 — Cloria 1

The heavy Elks defence was too much for the Cloria last night and they took the short end of a 6-1 count and dropped to second place in the league standing. The game was rough at times, however, particularly the senior players being inclined to take advantage of the younger boys' lighter weight. Grumbeni, and receiving no checking up.

The most regrettable happening that has ever occurred on Vermilion ice took place in the third period of the Elks Cloria game last evening when Bill Lamb was the victim of an unmanly attack, being hit over the eye with a hockey stick by an opposing player and rendered here de combat. Lamb, who was and left the game.

"A couple of cracked ribs, a fractured ulna, and a few hundred bruises" was the doctor's verdict a few minutes later.

The physician's deft hands soon bandaged the broken ribs and set the bone of the forearm.

"I'll go and patch up the fallen bully. I hope he's worse still," he chuckled as he left the room.

Andy stepped to the door and called in Connie.

"Don't look so frightened, Connie," smiled Donald. "I don't feel half as bad as I look."

"I'll have to go now," she said in a voice choked with emotion.

Andy accompanied her outside the door. "Ave a bite to eat. Connie?" he invited.

Connie shook her head. Now that the excitement was over, the strain of the emotion she had experienced showed in the dark shadows under her eyes and in the droop of her slight shoulders. "Andy," she began as she pinced a small hand on his arm, "you—you won't say anything about—about me."

A flood of rose dyed her tanned cheeks and her blue eyes fell in embarrassment. Andy patted her shoulder reassuringly.

"I'll never s'y a blinkin word, Connie; an oyster's got nothin' on me."

Connie, visibly relieved, picked up her gun and started up the hill. Andy watched the pathetic little figure until she disappeared in the woods. For a moment he stood staring into nothingness, then, shaking his head sadly, he entered the cabin.

"She's a little brick, Andy," Donald spoke weakly from his bed.

Andy glared at him. "Brick!" he repeated sarcastically "Is that all? You big, bone-headed, blinkin' noob!" He slammed the door as he went out to give emphasis to the remark.

"What the devil does he mean?" puzzled Donald. He turned painfully to his side, yawned equally as painfully, then fell into a sound sleep.

Donald stirred as Andy applied the water, and his one good eye opened slowly. "Did I win?" he questioned weakly.

"You bet your blinkin' life you did. When Donald's game rested on Connie his face twisted into a wry smile. He reached for her hand and held it in a firm pressure. "Good Wife sport," he whispered through split lips.

Connie felt as though her heart would burst. Scorching tears ran down her face, and it was with the utmost difficulty that she controlled the suffocating sobs that filled her throat.

The sound of the big mill whistle smote Andy's ears in a wild medley of short, sharp blasts, quite unlike the decorous tone that summoned and dismissed the men.

"What's that?" asked Donald, attempting to sit up.

"The engineer is celebrating, Donnie. The men 'ave returned to work. The strike is broken."

"Ah!" sighed Donald happily as he fell back on the pillows.

The distant hum of a gas car gradually increased to a series of staccato explosions, then died out suddenly. They heard, the light rumble of wheels as it drew to a stop at the station below. There was the sound of quick foot-steps on the board sidewalk and the door opened to admit Dr. Paul. He crossed the room and took Donald's hand, "Is it true," he asked incredulously, "that you whipped Ole Hand?"

"Strike me pink if 'e didn't," Andy vouchsafed.

"I have patched up Hand's victim's many times," the doctor stated, "but this is the first time that I have attended his victor, and I can assure you that it's a pleasure." He removed his coat and rolled up his sleeves. "I'll look you over," he added, then glanced significantly at Connie, who rose and left the room.

"A couple of cracked ribs, a fractured ulna, and a few hundred bruises" was the doctor's verdict a few minutes later.

The physician's deft hands soon bandaged the broken ribs and set the bone of the forearm.

"I'll go and patch up the fallen bully. I hope he's worse still," he chuckled as he left the room.

Andy stepped to the door and called in Connie.

"Don't look so frightened, Connie," smiled Donald. "I don't feel half as bad as I look."

"I'm sorry for the part I took in the strike, boss, I—"

"It's all right, Blackie," interrupted Donald, "you more than made up for it. We'll forget all about that."

Blackie's face wore a puzzled look as Donald gave his hand a friendly grip.

Meals in logging camps are eaten in silence and with a fixity of purpose. It is a business to be finished up with as hurriedly as possible. From the time the men are seated until the chairs are pushed back, the clatter of dishes and an occasional "pass the butter" are the only sounds.

As Donald moved to his place at the table the men arose and clapped their hands. Someone called for a cheer, but Donald laughingly held up his hand.

"Men, I can't find words to tell you how much I appreciate your good work. Your long hours of labor enabled the Company to get an important order away on time, thereby saving their prestige in a big lumber market. You will receive double pay for every hour you worked during the week."

A low murmur of applause followed this welcome announcement.

After lunch, feeling the need of exercise, Donald made his way slowly down the hill. The severe mauling and the days in bed had weakened him to such an extent that he was forced to take frequent rests. As he turned a curve in the trail, Hans and the men with whom Andy had fought crawled stealthily from the bush, looked furtively about them then followed Donald down the hill. He reached the open glade by the fairy nest to find Connie seated in the rippling stream, her chin resting in cupped hands, and starting dreamily into the flashing water.

"Ah!" he cried gaily, "I have caught my little dryad at her orgies."

At the sound he his voice Connie sprang to her feet, her heart racing madly. Hearing a sound behind him, Donald turned to find the eyes of the dread fiend on him in a malignant glare that chilled him to the marrow. For a short interval the dusky noble of the Indian held his ear though with a hypnotic power.

"Wh-wo?" he ejaculated, as the fiend bobbed down the trail. "Your guardian sure does give me an an-

The Battle of January

January was a momentous month for wheat producers the world over. Canada's 1928 crop delivered nearly four hundred million bushel of wheat. Argentina and Australia were commencing the delivery of unusually large crops. There was an immense visible supply of wheat. The market commenced to sag. The ego optimistic feature in a rather gloomy picture was the Canadian Wheat Pool. Just what the Pool stood for to told in candid language by George Bromshall, the British grain authority, in "Milling"

"Prices were put down on the plea that Argentina must sell more of her new crop, and, in fact, shippers did put out lower offers, and some Canadian sellers followed the downward lead

"But it was soon found that the Canadian Pool refused to offer or sell at the lower prices, and, of course, this gave Argentine shippers courage to work for a rise in prices.

"The action of the Canadian Pool also gave buyers confidence, and they not only found they needed wheat, but that they could pay better rates for it.

"As long as sellers were willing to "cut" prices, buyers were quite prepared to stand back and let them do still more "cutting" and quite possibly there might have been a bad slump had not the Canadian Pool taken a strong stand.

"The Canadian Pool Managers

certainly deserve credit for courageous handling of a difficult situation, and their action proves that former members of the Pool would not agree to low prices at this period of the season.

"The lesson of the price movements of wheat in the past week is that emphasis must be given to the power of strong hedgers to maintain prices.

"That experience showed that a crowd of weak hedgers was almost at the mercy of buyers in times of plenty.

"I think all must now recognize the commanding position of the Canadian Pool, and the readiness of Argentine shippers to follow a moves upward lead."

CHAPTER XV.

On the third day of Donald's convalescence he was able to leave his cabin. With his arm in a sling, his face patched with plaster, he made the rounds of the mill.

The men welcomed him with eager nods and smiles, many coming forward to shake his hand in silent respect. The big plant was now going at full blast. Belts flapped, logs thudded, planers moved loudly, and the great saw ripped shrilly through the big logs in a raising crescendo of sound.

Down at the siding an engine bumped noisily into a long string of flat-cars piled high with lumber. With arms akimbo, his wet undershirt clinging to his powerful torso, the mop of blond hair hanging damp on his brow, Gillis stood surveying the heavily-laden cars with an air of complacency. The lumber handlers sat about in positions of weariness, mopping their hot faces.

Gillis smiled cheerfully as Donald approached.

"Good news for you, Donnie," he said.

"What is it, Jack?"

"Last load for the big steamer," replied Gillis, as he pointed at the moving train.

"We're on time, then," cried Donald gladly.

"One day ahead," corrected Gillis. The engineer came to the cab window as the engine paused, and proclaimed his commendations by shaking hands with himself. The train gathered speed, and as the caboose rattled by, the conductor came to the rear platform.

"Good work, boys!" he shouted.

They stood watching the train until it struck the down grade and disappeared through the cut.

"Well, that's over," observed Gillis, as he sat down heavily and wiped the sweat from his face. He looked tired and worn, but the light of victory shone in his eyes.

"If it hadn't been for you, Jack," said Donald earnestly, "we would not have got that order away on time. You look all in; you'd better have a good sleep."

The big man's eyes brightened at Donald's praise.

"You don't look like you'd bin to a Sunday school picnic," replied Gillis with a chuckle.

As Donald walked up the hill the whistle blew for the noon-hour, and the men trooped past on their way to the dining-room. Blackie left the ranks and walked shamefacedly to Donald's side.

"I'm sorry for the part I took in the strike, boss, I—"

"It's all right, Blackie," interrupted Donald, "you more than made up for it. We'll forget all about that."

Blackie's face wore a puzzled look as Donald gave his hand a friendly grip.

Meals in logging camps are eaten in silence and with a fixity of purpose. It is a business to be finished up with as hurriedly as possible. From the time the men are seated until the chairs are pushed back, the clatter of dishes and an occasional "pass the butter" are the only sounds.

As Donald moved to his place at the table the men arose and clapped their hands. Someone called for a cheer, but Donald laughingly held up his hand.

"Men, I can't find words to tell you how much I appreciate your good work. Your long hours of labor enabled the Company to get an important order away on time, thereby saving their prestige in a big lumber market. You will receive double pay for every hour you worked during the week."

A low murmur of applause followed this welcome announcement.

After lunch, feeling the need of exercise, Donald made his way slowly down the hill. The severe mauling and the days in bed had weakened him to such an extent that he was forced to take frequent rests. As he turned a curve in the trail, Hans and the men with whom Andy had fought crawled stealthily from the bush, looked furtively about them then followed Donald down the hill. He reached the open glade by the fairy nest to find Connie seated in the rippling stream, her chin resting in cupped hands, and starting dreamily into the flashing water.

"Ah!" he cried gaily, "I have caught my little dryad at her orgies."

At the sound he his voice Connie sprang to her feet, her heart racing madly. Hearing a sound behind him, Donald turned to find the eyes of the dread fiend on him in a malignant glare that chilled him to the marrow. For a short interval the dusky noble of the Indian held his ear though with a hypnotic power.

"Wh-wo?" he ejaculated, as the fiend bobbed down the trail. "Your guardian sure does give me an an-full look. Why does he hate me, Connie?"

"What were you dreaming about, Blinkie?" he asked interestedly.

A gay light danced momentarily in her shining eyes, and the red lips curved in a smile; "I was dreaming I was rich," she archly confessed.

"An old, old dream," smiled Donald as he stretched himself painfully on the moss.

Connie sat down near him.

As always, this spot gave Donald a restful feeling. The gentle, zephyrs wafted from the woods about them were somnolently delicious and the sparkling glacial stream that rippled through the glade sang its clear, sweet song. He closed his eyes wearily.

The proximity of the man she loved, lying there with his arm in a splint, his handsome face still bearing the marks of the blows he had suffered in her defence, thrilled Connie to the depths of her warm, impulsive heart. An almost overmastering desire to touch his hair possessed her

Guard Against FLU — Sore Throat The First Warning.

Few families will escape. This epidemic constitutes a real danger. Health authorities everywhere warn the public of the danger of the common cold. Influenza usually starts with Sore Throat. Unless the germs are killed by some antiseptic treatment a serious malady may develop.

A simple treatment is to gargle three times daily with good-mouthful bottle and lots of Nerviline. The antiseptic properties of Nerviline quickly destroy the germs warm blankets for winter instead of in the thick. Of course if the cold is more severe Nerviline should be rubbed over the affected parts a lots of rubbing. It can't harm a blister, but will bring relief to the cold. To prevent Flu or cold: Your gaining Headway Nerviline will prove most effective. It has been proven necessary to purify the blood, and the system purged of all waste materials. For this purpose six months out of every year she is Hamilton's Pills are recommended. They act without griping or discomfort of any kind. This combination of Nerviline and Dr. Hamilton's these mountains and come every day Pills will prove a very satisfactory prevention for Grippe, Flu, etc.

We can only do a deed to God by doing that deed for Him—only by offering ours as the hands with which it shall be done Our human love for one another and all our human help is not less Its for using sure "God's tender mercy" is the name in heaven for what we call on earth. A drink of water! Many dear things of Providence He hands to His little ones by each other Sometimes now can He reach them Yet. And sometimes when can He use but you and me" —William Channing Gannett.

A Giant Thermometer

A giant thermometer 71½ ft high and 6 ft. broad, has been placed on the tower of the German museum in Munich, where, illuminated, it is visible for a considerable distance.

"I don't wish Jim Judd, the town calamity howler, no hard luck," says Old Man Munn, "but I wish he'd climb one of the mountains he makes out of molehills and fall off."

EYES AND HEALTH

"And he will never see the flowers, nor the young lambs jumping in the fields, nor the birds when they sing, and he can't work on the farm! Oh, my boy! my boy!"

A blind baby—what a tragedy in the lives of parents when the dread verdict is pronounced! To the child who lives in perpetual night, the realization of all he has lost is happily withheld in its entirety. He has never seen.

To the individual who has once seen and enjoyed the wonders and beauties of this world, blindness is a deprivation of half the heritage to live.

A million dollars to anyone who will restore my sight" once said a prominent business man who had become blind. But it was too late. No one could restore the vision that was lost. This above how valuable to us is our eyesight and how careful we should be to keep our eyes in good condition.

The eyes are connected with other parts of the body. The cause of many eye troubles is not in the eye itself, but comes from other diseases. On the other hand poor eyesight may cause illnesses in other parts of the body. Often when the eye trouble is corrected the health improves.

Frequently a child is backward in school, or if he does not stand or sit straight. It may be because his eyes are causing the trouble. Children as well as adults may have bad head aches due to eye-strain. An eye specialist should be consulted if eye troubles are suspected, special care being given to testing of the eyes. Glasses should be provided if necessary, so that the child starts school free of a serious handicap.

Bright and Rose Beiges

Offered for Day and Evening in Hosiery

No fine line is drawn between day and evening hosiery shades in the spring colour presentations by a leading hosiery company, which offers the hosiery tones which may be worn for either occasion.

On the color card from this house nine beiges to the tan family are shown, and one gray—of a medium shade called exquisite.

Orange and red tints in the tan colorings give this group a bright reflection in certain numbers, while others approve the pink-beige idea. The sunburn of the blonde and the brunette is visualized in these colorings.

Champagne, a pale tone described in its name, is designed for the new champagne shoe, and will probably be chosen in many instances for evening wear.

Fauvette is a tan skin shade, intended to harmonize with costumes in the paler pastels.

A natural complexion tint is called Suede.

An interesting innovation is a shade called Particolor, of a mauve beige cast, which, when covering the skin, gives an elusive harmonizing effect which is said to be especially suitable for the Alice shoe.

Among the bright sunburn shades is Peole, a deep orange tan resembling sunburned complexions. Different in depth, but similar in cast, is Mardi Gras.

Rose Brune is the pink beige for the blonde sunburned, Blond d'Or is described as a yellow blonde sunburn, while Tania is a deep tan sunburn tinged with red.

High School Defeated Lloydminster 9 Goals to 2

That the class of Junior hockey we have in Vermilion is definitely above that played in most towns of this size was clearly demonstrated last Saturday evening when our high school boys trimmed the Lloydminster H S boys 9-2. The local boys lined up as follows: Welch, Fraser and Bowes, Wald-aberry, Corsan, Fyfe, White, Brimacombe, and English.

THE NECESSITY OF WATER AND MINERALS FOR POULTRY

(By the Alsit Nature Hatcheries, Winnipeg)

We think of feed primarily in the production of eggs and sometimes forget-litter, Lowering the water content of the egg yolk material by 1 per cent will increase egg production by stimulating feed consumption and giving the necessary for egg formation. Warm water is one of the primary materials of which for egg production. When the flock goes off feed in a cold spell, egg production drops considerably, this be caused by the water being too cold or none at all. Give your hens lots of warm water and have them produce eggs when prices are high. Over one-third of the solid part of a hen's egg (that is considered of all the egg except the water it contains) is composed of two minerals — lime (calcium) and phosphorus. They are found in very small amounts in most farm feeds. The other two-thirds are made up chiefly of carbon, nitrogen and sulphur, these minerals are abundant in your ordinary feeds.

Poultrymen have long known the importance of lime for egg shell and know the need of phosphorus in producing eggs. Oyster shell, this natural mineral feed is produced from vast deposits of lime and phosphorus in the exact proportions suited for poultry needs (tri-calcium phosphate is a feed). Oyster shell is free from contamination of chemicals or drugs. It is a hard and shelled be used as such. Use oyster shell in your poultry mash and feeds. It builds up bone in your young chicks, developes hy-frames for heavy egg layers, supplies the needed egg producing material and makes hard-shelled laying eggs. Mix 5 pounds to every 100 lbs of mash. Have a supply of clean Oyster Shell in hopper at all times.

Charcoal is very essential for the health of your flock as it removes gases from the grain and sterilizes the food consumed. One pound of charcoal mixed in 10 pounds of mash will help to keep your flock in a healthy condition summer or winter.

Grit is necessary for poultry as they have no teeth and should have a hopper with clean grit at all times.

Fast Hockey In Final Sr. Game

Juniors Included in Line-Up

The local V. A. A. A. team played their last league engagement against the fast-speed Lloydminster Elks here last Thursday night, and although being defeated 7-3, held the Elks to a 2-2 tie until the last period. The border team displayed wonderful team work and ability to take advantage of every little break, their smooth, clever work around the goal mouth clearly demonstrating their superiority over other teams that they have met. The Vermilion management at last adopted the system that should have been inaugurated at the beginning of the season, namely, had a whole team serve line of juniors in uniform, and they put them on the ice all at one time with no noticeable decline in the standard of play. Our senior team has been playing along all season with one, perhaps two subs at the most, and this when we had a wealth of material on hand that only needed a few games of practice. Turns or Chances Barr's coaching to make them A1 hockey players. Lamp young Art Boyle, for instance, in the first game or two in which he took part this year, he appeared all at sea as was only to be expected—but look at him now! with a season's play under his belt, as good a man as we have on the team. It is only reasonable to expect that with the same advantages offered them, that the rest of last year's junior team—Bell, Cooper, Pal low, Rodgers—made show a like improvement! Never has a season been so favorable for the gradual breaking in to senior hockey for junior players, and never has so little of it been done. Next season we will be just one year behind, instead of having a second team imitating those young players, to put on the ice, the process of coaching them on and breaking them in will have to be undertaken or else expensive outside players imported, who, as soon as clear outside of the league competition, would be disqualified. And the importation of outside players discourages junior hockey in any town.

There may have been other reasons why the kids were not given the chance they should have had, but we cannot think of them.

Pool Elevator Programme

A tentative list of points at which the Alberta Wheat Pool will build or buy elevators during the coming season has been issued from the Pool office. The total number of points is fifty-six, but the list, it was pointed out, is by no means a final one.

The Alberta Pool has now 315 elevators located at country points, and the additions will bring the total number up to 371. The list may be enlarged considerably as the season develops but the increase will depend upon various factors.

The number of elevators which will be built and the number purchased will depend on the prices asked by elevator companies for elevators they are willing to sell, and also on the price of lumber.

Whatever the Pool decides to go into a new point it is usual for the organization to make an offer to purchase. There is no elevator there which will meet the requirements. In this way the Pool has acquired a considerable number of houses and avoided a wasteful duplication.

A number of points are under consideration for a second Pool house because of extraordinary large deliveries of Pool wheat, but a definite decision as to these has not as yet been reached.

Pool Elevator Handlings

The Alberta Pool Elevators have to date handled close to 45 million bushels of grain from 1928 crop. The leading Pool elevator is at Foremost where 315,000 bushels of grain have been handled, 230 000 bushels of wheat and 15 000 bushels of oats. Foremost is located in Southern Alberta in a district which at one time was considered to be in the "dry belt."

Elks are back in the Alberta play-offs. M.D. Grizzly Bear Ratepayers Mtg

The annual ratepayers' meeting of the Municipal District of Grizzly Bear, No. 451 was held in the Masonic Hall on Saturday, Feb 16th, secretary, on behalf of the retiring officer, called the meeting to order at 1 30 p. m. and asking for nominations for a chairman. On motion of J. A. Islay and R. C. Symes, Reeve Shaw was appointed chairman of the meeting.

Minutes of ratepayers' meeting of 1928 were read and on motion of J. A. Neil and C. W. Lewis, were adopted.

Statement of accounts for the year 1928 was presented and read over in detail, note being made of the small cash balance compared with previous year, and of the larger sums now locked up by the secretary-treasurer. Explanations was on motion of Arch Cranmer and Jas Stevenson agreed to.

Annual statement of accounts of Vermilion municipal hospital was submitted in detail, and on motion of J. Johnson and A. McNeil was adopted.

Water-rate matters were discussed, first annual statement was also read to the meeting, the various accounts being detailed and on motion of F. J. Maynard and R. J. Allen Roberts was adopted. Islay hospital statement reported as delayed in the mail and had not arrived.

Regarding free supply of gravel matters, J. W. Wylie and J. A. Islay pointed out that it be discontinued. An amendment by Jos Neil and Reeve Wilson, stating that cost of gravel be put on the basis of gravel be supplied to ratepayers was carried by a majority.

Motion by F. Van Wagoner and Jos Neil, asking the Council to consider securing a qualified weed inspector for the coming season, brought on full discussion. Reeve Shaw suggested that a ratepayers meeting held in Islay at later season to consider weeds on the farm who decidedly against and appointment. A vote showed a small majority for the motion. Mr H Arrowsmith that the Council consider the matter of having herd law in force throughout the municipality, also brought out a Coal Oil discussion. A motion was proposed by F. Sorensen that the council accept the resignation of Mr Green as councillor for Division 3, and that a by-election be held. Finally a direct negative moved by Reeve A. Wilson and John O Castle was carried by a majority.

Matters relating to road work and [illegible] Division 2 and 4 were discussed by J. [illegible] Roberts and [illegible] Division 3 by [illegible] Cranmer.

A vote of thanks to the chairman was proposed by Messrs Lewis and Islay and heartily seconded by a class.

Board Of Trade Is Re-organised

The Vermilion Board of Trade has lately been re-organized and a drive for members will shortly be in order. The president elect is Mr H W. Harper, and F J Richardson is secretary-treasurer. The new board of trade aims to be more than a mere business organization, but intends to be a get-together and real fellowship club of local residents in the district while at the same time working in matters of interest and importance to the town and district.

Power and Its Dangers

Down through the ages man has striven for power, and yet more power. From the biblical story of creation we learn that man was given power and dominion over the beasts of the field, and thus early in his career set out to establish his power over all the forces of nature. From that time down to the present we have witnessed increasing eagerness and energy man has sought for power.

It is recorded of Alexander the Great that, having conquered the then known world, he sighed for more worlds to conquer. Egypt under the Pharaohs, Rome under the Caesars, Carthage, Greece, all the great empires of the past strove for power and, having attained it, were ultimately destroyed by it. The same is true of Napoleon, and in the history of the present generation it has been proven in the case of the ex-Kaiser Wilhelm.

It is easy to contrast the history of Britain during the last one thousand years with that period. The British Empire is today the most powerful political entity in the world. It has gone on from strength to strength and increased in power not through aggressive use of its power, but by a policing of continually expanding powers which it exercised in the interests of peace and common rights, their status, conferring benefits on subject races and upholding their interests of equality with itself. The United States has grown in power in a way when it did not pursue such a course and sought to suppress its will upon the thirteen American colonies. At the present moment of gaining or retaining power it lost it. The power of November, especially in British Statement.

Similarly, Germany, which has exercised unwisely and successfully much money last. The last as true in the case of individuals as of nations. Whether it is the case of rulers, governments, or nations, the principles of the acquisition of all kinds and degrees of power remain the same. Those who make use of their power intelligently and sparingly, and who have developed a large body of public opinion favorable to their operations and operation of all services which to their very nature must be monopolistic, as for example railways telephones, electric

In the early days of Western Canada the C.P.R. enjoyed a monopoly in transportation facilities somewhat similar, perhaps in those days it had to be, but in the management of which, and in later years using its great power for the good of the country it has grown still more powerful and successful, and at the same time, stronger in the eastern and wonderful of the people.

The organized grain trade of Canada wielded great power, but, yet so long as reasonable to public opinion, it has lost much of its power. It is still inclined to be selfish and in that fact lies its danger, because it cannot be denied that it is losing instead of gaining in public favor, with the inevitable result that year by year it is being hedged about with greater restrictions and a larger measure of public control.

The same danger confronts the great banking institutions of the country, and the people are becoming increasingly restive under the steady absorption of small banks by the larger ones, and the result is that the latter, in time being, become more powerful, but there is always a greater power, the people themselves, and the banks may succeed in becoming so consolidated and powerful, that it will become impossible for the people to step in and take their powers to the nation itself.

In this electrical age, water powers coal resources, and electrical distribution systems are the very life-blood of industry. Upon them is dependent most of the conveniences of modern life. Control of electrical development means great power, both directly and indirectly. Financial magnates and captains of industry are full alive to this fact, and there is keen competition throughout the world, and especially on this continent, to obtain such control. It means power in a double sense. It is the five question in the Dominion Parliament, the Manitoba Legislature, the Alberta Legislature now in session as the most outstanding question before the Saskatchewan Legislature recently prorogued. It is the biggest issue in Ontario and Quebec, and the outstanding problem at present affecting the relations of Canada and the United States.

In Ontario the controlling factor are the people themselves through the Hydro-Electric-owned system. The Saskatchewan Government has adopted the same policy that unfortunately the situation is not so satisfactory in Manitoba and Alberta. And now come reports that United States interests are seeking to secure control of Canadian companies operating in the west which would have the effect of bringing this country within the clutches of the big American Power Trust.

In the first place, and most important, governments and people of western Canada should be alert to prevent any such absorption, and, in the second place, the big power interests should fully realize that, if they overstep the mark, the people will take the matter into their own hands and take back to themselves in the name of their governments, the resources and power to be developed and managed in their own interests.

Finally, a word of warning to corporations and monetarily generally. It is possible think Improved and the accumulation of great wealth and assets to become powerful. Such power, as already stated, wisely employed, is a good thing and will bring greater power and influence But here, too, we found elements of danger. There may arise a demand by some to use this power for other purposes and in other ways than was originally intended and to attempt to exercise that power in other fields. To do so is to invite disaster in some as all history proves, the masses of the people will not acquiesce, but, in such exercise of power, the power itself will be lost.

Rights Of Grain Growers

Courts May Determine Matter Of Designating Grain Terminals

A reference to the courts in order to determine the rights of the grain growers of western Canada in the matter of designating the terminal to which their grain may be sent is now likely, consequent upon the instructions issued to the board of grain commissioners by Hon. James Malcolm, minister of trade and commerce. The minister endorsed the suggestion of the board that such action be taken and that the expense to be incurred be borne by the board. In this way it is hoped to straighten out the difficulties that have arisen, related with regard to the contract that railroads entered into between the farmers and their wheat pools and

(b) The pools and the grain trade

Pending the outcome of this it is hoped that any action will be taken by the government along the lines of abolishing the board of grain commissioners, as suggested in various resolutions passed by a number of farmer organizations.

It is estimated that a person at the height of 5,000 feet can see approximately 80 miles on a clear day.

No Time For Train Travel

Lindbergh Finds Airplane Best Way To Get Around

When Col. Lindbergh set out on the first week in February in a flight to inaugurate the air mail service between Florida and the Canal Zone he was asked how long it had been since he had travelled in a railroad train.

"More than a year and a half—before I flew to Paris," he replied.

Since he became to fly, Col. Lindberg, up to the time of the Florida-Panama flight, had covered 270,000 miles in flight. This distance is equal to about eleven times the circumference of the earth. The time he had spent in the air totaled more hours, or about four months off the ground. In 1928 he was 500 hours in the air, or more than thirty-three days. In this time his flights totalled 83,000 miles.

"I wouldn't have time to go as many places if I didn't fly," he said.

Anchored in the Air

Chicago Aviator Kept Plane Motionless For An Hour

It is not unusual for a dirigible to hover over a spot for considerable time. But an aviator at the municipal airport at Chicago, recently kept a plane in the air virtually motionless for an hour. There was a 40-mile gale blowing. The aviator headed into it. He throttled his motor in such a way that the pull of the plane going forward just balanced the pressure of the wind driving it backward. The result was practically no progress in either direction.

The experiment was interesting but it probably solves no problems, and a stiff wind is not always available for hovering purposes. Some day, however, there will doubtless be developed a device which will enable planes to stay in the air while virtually motionless. That will mean a long step toward safety.

What He Must Know

A young farmer can get along very well without a knowledge of Latin or Greek, but to succeed he must know something of soils, of pests, or fungous diseases and a dozen other subjects that confront him every day. He must be nevertheless, but not the kind that educators speaks of with epidiascopy; hard knocks and adversity will accomplish that.

Discussing the Churchill

Most Northerly Hydro Development on the Large Scale in Canada

There is more than a touch of romance in connection with the announcement that early next month the first electric power will have been developed and will be available for use on the Churchill River. The Hudson Bay Mining and Smelting Company has an initial development of 2,000 horse-power almost completed to be used in connection with the work of bringing in the large development of 40,000 acre-power which is required for the operation of the mine and smelter at Flin Flon. There is little doubt but that this is the most northerly hydro development in Canada, at least in a power way. Island Falls, where Churchill is being harnessed, is 450 miles north of Winnipeg. A few years ago anyone who suggested that by 1929 the waters of the Churchill would be producing electrical energy would have been looked upon as a visionary dreamer. That it has already come to pass is another proof of the striking rapidity with which the north country is being opened up. The dark waters of the Churchill, suggestive of fur traders, canoe brigades, trappers, and the tragic mystery of the unsolved fate of Sir John Franklin, are destined to the promise task of making wheels go around. BRITISH PLAN TO BRING SETTLERS TO PEACE RIVER

Toronto.—The Toronto Star publishes the following special dispatch from Ottawa:

A statement published in the London Daily News to the effect that the British Government is trailing miners to cultivate a seventy million acre tract in the Peace River country fills the veil from one of the most ambitious colonization and development programs yet visualized for Canada.

Officially the Canadian government has no direct responsibility for the scheme. For the past three years or more financial interests of international prominence have been dickering with details of a project which embodies not only agricultural development on the 75,000,000 acres in northern Alberta and the northwest territory immediately to the north of the Peace River, but takes into account exploitation of mineral resources, oil, minerals, timber, water and power, etc., on a scale unprecedented.

It was known that this gyberal colonization plan had been placed before the governments of several countries, but the declaration that the British Government is behind the project and prospective settlers upon a course to prepare them for coming to the area suggests that the general prospectus has reached further than was believed. Premier King and Scandinavia are the sources from which it is hoped to draw the major settlement.

The general plan includes railways, highways and the extension of Alberta boundaries to bring in the territory for some 100 miles north of Peace River.

Chair Of Imperial Economic Relations Established In London School

London, Eng.—The Empire Marketing board has made a grant to the London School of economics to enable the establishment of a chair of Imperial economic relations. The board considers the progress of imperial economics in marketing of Empire products depends not merely on development of biological advances which have already received considerable encouragement from the board, but also upon scientific study of the many economic problems which confront those engaged in acquisitive development of Empire trade.

The new chair is intended to be authoritative centre for the study of such problems and should also increase the number of trained economists qualified to undertake practical economic research along lines considered to be most helpful to the marketing of Empire products in the United Kingdom.

Quota System For Canada

Advocates Restriction Of Immigration Only To Farmers

Ottawa.—A quota system for immigrants entering Canada is advocated by Hon. J. W. Edwards (Conservative, Frontenac-Addington).

Dr. Edwards, in a resolution placed on the order paper of the House of Commons, asks approval of the opinion that "immigration to the Dominion of Canada should be restricted by the adoption of a quota system which, however, shall not be applied to the British Isles and the United States of America and from which certain specified countries may be practically exempt."

Byrd Expedition Reports Important Discoveries At South Pole

New York.—The New York Times, The St. Louis Post-Dispatch and their Associated newspapers have received a delayed dispatch from their correspondent with the Byrd Antarctic expedition telling of a new exploration flight begun by Commander Byrd over King Edward VII. Land to the south of the mountains he discovered recently.

The flight was being made with two planes, a Fokker in which were Commander Byrd, Bernt Balchen, pilot, and Lloyd Berkner, radio operator, and in the other Captain Parker, Harold June, pilot and navy radio operator.

The correspondent's brief dispatch was sent by dog team from Little America, the Byrd headquarters ashore, to the barque City of New York at the last barrier, for transmission by wireless.

At the time it was sent the correspondent reported wireless messages coming from the planes showed that the flight was still in progress and already had been productive of important discoveries, which would be made known when the planes returned to their base.

Reserve More Radium

Small Supply Handicaps Toronto Doctors In Cancer Treatments

Toronto.—Effectual treatment of cancer in Toronto, other than by surgery, is considerably retarded by a small supply of radium available, declared Dr. Herbert A. Bruce, professor of clinical surgery, University of Toronto, in the course of a paper delivered before members of the academy of medicine.

Toronto's whole supply of radium, the speaker said, consisted of the small amount of one-half gram, or about $35,000 worth. The least amount necessary to successfully carry on a battle against the cell growth was five grams, he added

He suggested collecting a $500,000 fund which could be used for the purchase of radium, an amount sufficient to enable local surgeons to effect many more cures in cancer than is now possible.

Move Launched By Head Of Rose Navigation Company

The Pas, Man.—A move to have the Canadian Pacific Railway build a line into The Pas, was launched here, when Harvey Weber, president of the Rose Navigation Co., and Rose Transports, Limited, urged the Rotary Club to take the initiative.

Mr. Weber advocated asking the C.P.R. to build down the Carrot River Valley to The Pas, and secure trackage rights over the Hudson Bay Railway. He declared numerous prairie towns south and west of here were exclusively by the Canadian Pacific Railway would thereby get one through freight rate to Churchill instead of two rates.

PAYS TRIBUTE TO LEAGUE OF NATIONS' WORK

Ottawa.—"There is no royal road to peace, but there are many paths which lead in the direction of peace and the Briand-Kellogg treaty is one of these paths," declared Premier King during the House of Commons debate on the Kellogg-Briand pact.

Premier King passed at this moment to pay tribute to the work of the League of Nations towards peace. Touching upon disarmament, Premier King said it was true that progress toward disarmament has not been as great as one would like, but considerable progress had been made. The pact created a solemn moral, binding obligation not to go to war as a means of settling differences.

The Senate of Canada has already ratified the pact.

Mr. King sketched briefly the history of the treaty, which he said had now been accepted by 62 nations. Its fundamental origin was "to be found in the growth of public opinion and the part of all nations which have had to do with war in the recent past."

The treaty did not pretend to establish machinery for the preventing of war, but it called forth from the nations of the world "a solemn renunciation of war as an instrument of national policy."

The League of Nations did not include within its membership all the nations of the world, said the prime minister, in pointing out some of the advantages of the treaty. The United States was not a member of the League of Nations, but it had signed the treaty for the renunciation of war. Russia, two other countries were in the same position.

Support of the treaty, coupled with a note of warning that there must be disarmament if peace is to be more than a dream, was the burden of the speech with which Hon. H. H. Stevens, Conservative leader, followed Mr. King.

Will Not Issue Invitation

But British Government is said Considering Naval Conditions

London, Eng.—Replying to a question, Sir Austen Chamberlain, British foreign secretary, told the House of Commons that the government had no intention of issuing invitations to a new conference on naval disarmament.

Sir Austen re-affirmed a previous announcement that all questions concerning British relations with the U.S. and the naval conditions of the two countries are under consideration by the British Government.

"Our examination of this is being diligently prosecuted," he said. "As soon as it is concluded the first step will be to communicate with the Dominions."

The foreign secretary said the recent stagnation on disarmament is not because that any question concerning British relations with the U.S. and the naval conditions of the two countries are under consideration by the British Government.

"Our examination of this is being diligently prosecuted," he said. "As soon as it is concluded the first step will be to communicate with the Dominions."

May Create Another Province

Tenth Province In Northern Area May Be Solution

Edmonton That the Dominion Government could scarcely be expected to extend the boundary of any one of three prairie provinces Manitoba, Saskatchewan or Alberta without dealing with all three and also with the whole of that area now administered by the Dominion as the Northwest Territories was a statement of Premier J F Brownlee in the Legislature here.

The Premier said that while he did not wish to directly speak any person, he had gathered while in Ottawa that the Alberta and the Dominion Government if pressed was rather to create another province from the territories than to divide them up between the other provinces.

The Premier said he was recalled to take the reports of Saskatchewan's efforts in this direction seriously.

CONSTRUCTION OF A NATIONAL HIGHWAY URGED

Ottawa.—The railway terminals situation in Montreal and the Maritimes and faced in a rather large way in the very near future," Hon. Charles A. Dunning, minister of railways and canals, informed the House of Commons. The minister was speaking during debate on the resolution of D F. Kellner, (U.F.A., Athabaska) which calls upon the government to consider making a further federal grant for the next five years highway construction.

Mr. Dunning drew attention to the fact that Canada was the owner of a large railway transportation system, and that its needs must be considered when large expenditures from the federal treasury on highways were contemplated. He did not want himself placed on record as being opposed to the construction of a national highway

"But I do say, we must always have regard to our over two billion dollar investment on railways that is asking for the development progress only, over a period of years, of a system that was supposed to be sufficient to reduce possibility of our railways earning their own way, within a reasonable time."

Mr Dunning stressed the point that the provinces themselves pre-for increased subsidies for roads which are earmarked for some specific purpose, such as highway construction. The Dominion now pays over $1,000,000 annually in federal grants with strings attached

Later debate was productive of an amendment from A. V. Caine, Edmonton, (Conservative), which declared the construction of a national highway from coast to coast as soon as possible.

The majority of speeches favored federal aid in the construction of highways. The advantages which would accrue to the Dominion through increased traffic and trade, and all additions to the federal revenue were emphasized.

The members of the opposite side Mr Pierce said especially if provinces from Saskatchewan are getting it [illegible] to the federal treasury [illegible] in his opinion every route over a national highway

British Machine Has Accommodation For One Hundred Passengers

Howden, Yorkshire.—The R-100, the biggest airship in the world, being built at Howden, will undergo its first tests shortly.

Only the finishing touches to the structure remain to be made, gas bags being almost ready for inflation.

A speed of 100 miles an hour is expected to be attained by the 4,200 h.p. engines of the airship It has luxurious accommodation for a hundred passengers. It is intended to fly the Atlantic with a full complement of passengers after the tests have been completed.

Rationing Bread In Russia

People Are Using It To Feed Hungry Cattle

Moscow.—Bread books issued by the government will govern purchase of bread after March 15, the Moscow Soviet or governing committee has decided.

The committee, which acts when the Soviet is not in session, was ordered in a resolution to work out details governing the distribution of bread under the new order.

The resolution, after stating that the last capital was amply supplied with baked bread, went on to say that the main difficulty lay in speculation and in feeding cattle with bread which was cheaper than fodder.

UNEMPLOYMENT INSURANCE PLAN TO BE PROBED

Ottawa, Ont.—Canada's unemployment situation, and the practicability of establishing a scheme of unemployment, sickness and invalidity insurance, will be matters for exhaustive investigation by the House of Commons committee of industrial and international relations.

The committee sat for the first time during the present session, and laid the foundations for this Prowogh.

Henri Bourassa (Liberal-Lemieux) explained to the committee Canada's unique position as a nation where seasonal unemployment was always prevalent in winter, yet such was the demands of harvest time that in the summer thousands of United States laborers crossed the border and worked in Canadian fields, he said.

Co-operation of provincial governments must be sought by the committee to bring out figures which will eliminate the unemployment conditions in Canada

Experts will attend the next meeting of the committee to report on the family allowance and other related schemes, which is claiming the attention of the members

Grading Of Beef

New Regulations Will Shortly Be Put Into Effect

Ottawa, Ont. The governor-general-in-council has approved regulations governing the voluntary grading of beef offered for sale in Canada. Hon. H. H. Mesherwall, minister of agriculture, announces that the regulations will shortly be put into effect and graders appointed.

The regulations provide that brands shall not be applied to beef unless registered in inspected abattoirs, and bearing the meat inspection stamp "Canada Approved." All brands must be registered with the minister of agriculture and before these brands are approved, an inspection is made of the grazing or feeding of beef at the establishments where the brands are to be used

Failure to comply with the provisions of the regulations by any establishment in selling branded beef may result in the minister withdrawing the right for such establishments to use brands. When a retailer through the practice in storing, displaying or selling may be reducing the eating quality of the beef, provision is made for the regulations for the minister to notify establishments supplying the beef to stop selling to that particular retailer

A letter from Mr. Donald Anderson of Pennine, Mich. contains the information that Mr. Anderson has been confined to a hospital with an infection in one of his fingers. In order to stop the spread of the poison the finger had to be amputated at the knuckle. Mr. Anderson is also in the University hospital at Ann Harbor for an operation to straighten his leg and later will undergo another operation to lengthen this member. Ernie Anderson arrived home from Hanna, Alberta, on hearing of the illness of his father. Mrs. Anderson sent in her subscription renewal and states that the Standard is much enjoyed.

Miss Mabel Nix of Edmonton and Secretary of Girls' Work for Alberta was in town last Friday, and while here delivered several addresses on girls' organization work.

Miss Keith ex-matron of the hospital, left on Tuesday for Edmonton where she will remain for a while before determining on her future movements.

CANADIAN LEGION WHIST DRIVE PROVE POPULAR

The fortnightly Whist Drive and dance held in the Memorial Hall under the auspices of the Canadian Legion appears to be the most popular evening's entertainment just now. On the occasion of the last Drive the committee in charge had difficulty in seating the large crowd which attended. Exceptionally good prizes, comfortable surroundings and a congenial company contribute towards making these affairs drives an opportunity to "trip the light fantastic." The next event of this kind will be held on Wednesday evening, March 6th.

27 RINKS TAKE PART IN SIXTEENTH BONSPIEL

Jock Morison Wins Two Premier Events With 10 Straight Wins

The annual bonspiel, which was in full swing from Tuesday afternoon of last week until Saturday night, established a record in point of the number of rinks participating, totalling 27, made up of 13 visiting rinks and 15 local entries. Under ideal weather conditions the ice was perfect on U Friday when the going got hard from tough ice, consequently the very fine curling which had been in evidence up till that time was superceded by slogging matches, though the ice got a little heavier during the last few games. The best of good fellowship prevailed throughout and wins and losses were taken in a genuine spirit of sportsmanship as characteristic of the rink's game

Outstanding among the rinks was that of Jock Morison and his bonnie rinkers of the local club, who never lost a game and attached both the Grand Challenge and Brunswick trophies with the accompanying prizes. These were the two primaries, and Morison chalked up 10 straight wins, some of his games having most exciting finishes Clifton of Vegreville carried off the Alberta cup and the rink and Horton of the same town carried away the cup and second prize in the Vermilion—the proprietorship of the tankard to be determined at Vegreville ice. The Pilkie cup remained in Vermilion, being won by Duncan and his merry men after a hard scramble

Thursday evening a banquet was held at the Brunswick Hotel over 100 curlers attending and participating in the bountiful repast served by mine host Calford. A splendid program followed, which caused no end of merriment and in this connection the entertainment committee are deserving of the highest praise, for it smoothed anything hold heretofore

Large numbers of interested spectators were in constant attendance at the rink following the fate of favorite rinks and the wants of the hungry curlers were well provided for by the ladies of the Vermilion Curling Club and his various committees, as well as the secretary are worthy of the heartiest commend.

The outside rinks entering were Edmonton Dunlop and Carse, Vegreville Horton and Clifton, Mannville McKinnon, McFadden and Heaslip Islay Beerett, Knapp and McPhadden, Kitscoty: Dale and Stevens.

Home rinks: Sutton, Kaiser, Weidenburger, Morison, McKone, P. Lotz, E., Duncan, Rae, Cameron, Knoll, Whitby, Clarke, Lotz, F., Corley and Telford (1046 timers' rink).

The Winning Rinks
Grand Challenge—1, Morison, Vermilion; 2, McFadden, Mannville, 3, Heaslip, Mannville; 4, Waldenberger, Vermilion.

Brunswick Hotel—1, Morison, Vermilion; 2, F Long, Vermilion; 3, Hercules, Vegreville, 4, Telford, Vermilion.

Vermilion Hotel (Secondary to the Grand Challenge)—1, Horton and Clifton of Vegreville reached the finals and are playing off for first and second place at Vegreville Dale of Kitscoty and Beerett of Islay were the other two rinks to reach the playoff and their positions will be determined after the final play-off for the cup. Dale taking third in event of Horton winning and Beerett fourth, or vice versa should Clifton be victorious

Alberta Hotel (Secondary to the Brunswick)—1, Clifton, Vegreville; 2, Clarke, Vermilion, 3, Knoll, Vermilion, 4, Heaslip, Mannville

Pilkie Cup (Blue Ribbon): 1 Duncan, Vermilion, 2, Ed. Lotz, Vermilion 3, Corley, Vermilion, 4, Cameron, Vermilion.

Heroic Alberta Girl Awarded Humane Society Bronze Medal

Rosetta Annetts, 9-Year-Old Vermilion Heroine, Saved Lives of Seven

Because she risked her own young life to save the lives of seven other children, Rosetta Annetts, nine-year-old heroine of the Vermilion fire which swept the farm home of Alex and Mrs. Annetts in November last, has been awarded the bronze medal of the Humane Society.

It is here a question of how much I find in time to do things. Time was when I enjoyed curling very much from a sentimental standpoint, as all the adult members of the household away from home

Rosetta's children acted peacefully on Shepherdess Tea Gown

Rosetta awoke the occupants of the shepherded each door in the narrow stairs through a thick acrid cloud of blinding smoke

With every trip great yellow tongues of flame rose more and more, but seven times little Rosetta escorted a precious charge down the rough fire ladder.

Flames licked the girl's dress as she hurried from the house and just on the stairs bubbled in consume little pools beneath her un-lid feet

Out in an old sunk she covered her little family with horse blankets

One amongst them, four-year-old Barbara Rosen, with childish innocence, refused to leave her burning bedding — rushed back three times in all.

Beyond Her Power

Rosetta, each time, dashed after her but on the third occasion she found the smoke so suffocating and the flames so menacing that to rescue the tiny child was beyond her power

"Mother! Mother! Barbara is past all," were the first words from the little heroine when Mr and Mrs Annetts and Alexander Rosetta returned from Vermilion at 11:30 p.m. that night to find their home a charred ruin of blackened timbers

But in the chaos they found seven other little ones, saved from a death in the fire which had destroyed their home.

The Vermilion Lodge of Elks (BPOE No 121) are issuing invitations to their Annual Frolic which will be held in the Legion Hall on Monday, March 18th. The music for the occasion will be provided by Nelson Gourley and his Variety Five, from the University of Alberta. The Elks' entertainment committee are sparing no effort to make the affair a success able one, and it promises to be the social event of the season.

THE BOY SCOUTS

The first meeting of the re-organized Troop was held on Tuesday evening in the Parish Hall. There was a fine turnout of Scouts and also a very welcome number of new recruits But still more boys are wanted, and these present were asked to each bring a new recruit to the next meeting.

There are at present three patrols and it is hoped by the end of the month to double this and have the several live patrols as that there may be a winter patrol competition started involving first-aid, signalling, etc.

Showing their interest in the boys' welfare, six local men were present and helped towards making the meeting a success. It is hoped that still others will volunteer to help the boys in some way.

During the month the meetings will be held every Tuesday evening in the Parish Hall. Starting next month it is hoped that we shall be able to use the gym of the skating rink for the future.

The Boy Scout movement, if Tuesday is any indication, is off to a great start and the enthusiasm shown, it is hoped, will carry on during the summer.

Vets Finish Head In Civic League

The Vets finished at the top of the Civic league as a result of their win over the Clerks last night, while the two boys kept in the running for a play off position by trouncing the Kits 2-0 The Kits are now eliminated. There is one provisional game to be played and then the two Legion boys will engage the last two team in the fight for the Wiebe trophy. The College and Clerks battle with a one point advantage, play their deferred games, the winners of this game will end up in second place

College 3 — Kits 0

In as tough a struggle as has yet been witnessed, the V.'s succeeded the Kits team and sent the blue and white boys to the cellar position at the end of the league games The play was evenly divided but the Collegians did the scoring and Frank Mead in the nets for the surviving vets turned in an A1 performance Two of the College players, the Bone brothers were hurt by flying pucks during the game and Bengaleer notched two and C Bengs the third counter for the winners

Vets 6 — Clerks 3

The second game of the evening brought the league leaders together A win for the Clerks would have meant that they were sure of a play off position and first place, but they couldn't come through. The rumbunked the pep of the first encounter Jimmie White C Barr and Hamlyn secured for the Vets, and Bell and Cooper notched the counters for the Clerks

Britain's Wheat Market Valuable To Canada

Interesting Facts Brought Out In Report Published From Ottawa

The market in Great Britain is worth twice as much to the Canadian wheat grower as the markets of all the rest of the world taken together. That is a fact that stands out in a report published from Ottawa giving the export figures for the present crop year up to date. Putting it another way, if all other countries barred our wheat by excluding tariffs, the Canadian farmer could still find a market for two-thirds the amount of wheat he now produces in Great Britain. Or, if Britain barred our wheat, we would have to find buyers elsewhere for three times the amount of wheat we are able to sell in other countries at present.

Canadian wheat—and every other Canadian product—has a preference in Great Britain. The proof is that no other country except in Europe admits our wheat on the same favorable terms. Should Britain ever adopt a tariff, there is no doubt whatever that Canadian wheat would be admitted on the most favorable conditions granted to any milling growing country. A tariff is being actually proposed there in order that a financial preference could be given to Canadian wheat. The British market is the permanent outlet for Canada's surplus wheat crop, becomes parable; the largest outlet there is and the largest there is likely to be. That is a fact which Canada must keep in mind when they think of international trade—and when they are thinking of imposing important goods.—Edmonton Bulletin.

Productivity of Mosquitoes

One Lone Mosquito Reproduces 311 Bons Yearly, Says Scientist

The actual productivity of one lone female mosquito in a year is 179,875,000,000 offsprings, said Dr. Thomas J. Headlee, chief entomologist of the New Jersey agricultural experiment station, when addressing the annual convention of the New Jersey Mosquito Extermination Association. However, Dr. Headlee said, only 78,975,000,000 of these should be counted as pests, for they are actually biting, biting egg-laying females. The others are mere males which do not bite

Heart Trouble Hands and Feet Numb and Cold

Mrs. Wm. Fowler, Auburn, Ont. writes:—"Several years ago I was troubled with heart trouble and nervousness and at times my hands would become numb and cold. I am glad to say that I am entirely free of my trouble."

Dirigible Flight Delayed

Giant British Craft Not Making Trip To Canada Until July

The flight of the dirigible R-100 from England to Canada will probably be made towards the end of July. It was learned at the department of national defence. It had been set for the end of May, but technical improvements to the craft are being made which will necessitate delay.

Officials of the department regard the flight as one of the most important steps in inter-empire communication so far attempted. Possibility of a route to Australia across Canada is not considered beyond the bounds of possibility.

What "It" Is

Perhaps this must be applied generally to all husbands, but a woman in the Willesden police court recently described her husband as "it" in a famous woman novelist. The clerk pointed to a man in court and said "Is that your husband?" She replied "Yes, sir, that's it."

Explanations and Comments

Christ's Commission To Baptize All the Nations, Matthew 28.19, 20.—Upon a mountain in Galilee after the resurrection of Jesus, the eleven disciples met Him and worshiped Him. He told them of His universal dominion ["All authority hath been given unto Me in heaven and on earth"] and gave them His world-wide commission to make His power a reality. "Go ye therefore, and make disciples of all nations."

"Remember, fellow Christians, how wide was the horizon of Jesus. Our horizon widens from cradle to home, school, city, country, and, with some, perhaps, to the last man. But to Jesus the outside rim of the earth was the first horizon that He saw and the last. When His was born, the village came unto whom—the Jews? 'Unto all people'; 'among all nations'; 'throughout the whole world'; 'to every creature'; 'to the uttermost part of the earth'; are Christ's words. 'Go ye into all the world' is his limitless command—his boundless expectation."—Matthew D. Labosch.

Jesus directed His followers to baptize disciples into the name of the Father, and of the Son, and of the Holy Spirit; teaching them to observe all things whatsoever He commanded them. "Baptism is (1) into the name of the Father, as our Creator-Preserver, and Benefactor, who rules us as free agents, by His love. It is (2) into the name of the Son; it baptism we assent, as Peter did, 'Thou art the Christ, the Son of the living God,' and consent, as Thomas did, 'My Lord, and my God.' We give ourselves to be taught, and saved, and ruled, by Christ. It is (3) into the name of the Holy Spirit. We give ourselves to His guidance, as our Sanctifier, Teacher, Guide and Comforter."

And then Jesus gave His wonderful words of comfort and encouragement and cheer: "Lo, I am with you always" (not will be, but am), "even unto the end of the world!"

"Our responsibility for missionary work is patent in the command of Christ: our power for that work is perfect in this great promise of Christ.

Success and Happiness

People Do Not Fail Entirely Who Never Reached Goal

Mr. Edison, on his eighty-second birthday, told a number of assembled newspapermen that he was not acquainted with anyone who was happy. There is no reason to suppose that Mr. Edison was jesting and it would be an impertinence to suggest that he does not know his own mind. But if by "happiness" he means what tens of thousands of his fellow men mean—the satisfaction of having tried hard and won—Mr. Edison is clearly stretching a point, since in that case he himself should be one of the happiest of men. He has gone from victory to victory in the world of scientific invention and he will leave no abstract issues behind him. In some few things he was not, in his own opinion, have succeeded; but this is not to say that he failed. You do not necessarily fail entirely because you do not wholly succeed. Certainly Mr. Edison has been a very notable success.

When a mother detects from the writhings and fretting that a child has worms are troubling it, she can procure a reliable remedy in Miller's Worm Powders which will expel all worms from the system. They may cause vomiting, but this need cause no anxiety, because it is but a manifestation of their thorough work. No worms can long exist where these Powders are used.

The Good Old Days

Maybe two can live cheaper than one, after all. Mr. and Mrs. Tom Lovelock, of Lyneham, England, is celebrating their golden wedding anniversary, revealed that they were married when Lovelock was making but $15.00 a week and that shortly after his salary was increased to $2.25.

Wheat Bill Deal Approved

Agreement Between Railways and Province Of Alberta Up For Ratification

Approval of the agreement between the C.N.R., the C.P.R. and the Province of Alberta, for the purchase of the undertakings of the Edmonton, Dunvegan and British Columbia railways; the Central Canada Railway Company; the Alberta Great Waterways Company, is sought in a resolution placed on the order paper of the House of Commons, by Hon. C. A. Dunning, Minister of Railways and Canals.

The resolution seeks further authority:

"To incorporate the Northern Alberta Railways Company, the rights are to be vested the said jointly acquired railways."

"To authorize the Governor-in-Council to guarantee the principal and interest of the securities to be issued by the Canadian National Railway Company, to an amount or amounts fixed from time to time by the Governor-in-Council for the payment of one-half the purchase, and one-half the obligations assumed under the said agreement."

The Explanation

"I bought a new car and gave up my piano-player as first payment."

"I didn't know they accepted piano-players as payment on new cars."

"They don't usually, but the salesman is a neighbor of mine."

Mother (giving afternoon tea instructions): "Now, remember, Willie, when these cakes are handed round you must take a plain bun from the bottom of the dish."

Willie (disgustedly): "Just my luck! The bargain basement again!"

"Dish is all right if you know how to take it."

"I hate these people who have to be labelled like a bottle of medicine."

Charred Remains Of Man Found in Ashes of Straw Pile

CREMORNE FIRE ON BELL FARM

The charred remains of a man, evidently burned to death, were found in the ashes of a strawstack early Wednesday afternoon by Alasdey Bell on the farm. The straw stack lasted had burned down on Thursday of last week, from no known cause, and while the men had attended the attention of Alasdey Bell and a friend, Clarence Ewing, who had gone over to the fire and stepped it. From spreading to a larger stack some few yards away Nothing untoo was noticed at this time. The stack was about a hundred yards from the old highway, where it runs by the big Bell farm in the Claymore district.

Yesterday (Wednesday) Alasdey, while looking for horses, noticed what he thought was the head horse in the old strawstack bottom. On approaching his horse shied and would not go near the object. Mr. Bell on closer examination found it to be the charred remains of a man lying face down ward in the ashes of the burned stack. He immediately returned to the house and phoned Constable Olsen the news of his discovery.

Constable Olsen's examination revealed the body to be lying face down and with the head towards the centre of the stack. The feet were within three feet of where the edge of the stack had been. The general attitude of the body indicated crawling, the arms being under the body and evidently being drawn up under the body when the flames had reached it. The clothing and body were badly burned, the features being entirely gone and both arms were burned off at the elbows. The clothing from the back of the body was intact and of good quality and quantity, consisting of a heavy machinaw smock, sweater, wind breaker, flannel shirt, and heavy underwear; gum rubber shoes were on the feet. A purse containing a few button only was found in one hip pocket while a pocked handkerchief and pack tin were found in the other. Absolutely no identification marks were located. The body is that of a small man, short in stature, being slightly over five feet tall and light in build. No inquest will be held.

The body was identified later as that of Alex. Chimiller.

ISLAY ITEMS

R. A. Wilson, a respected farmer of the Dewberry district, died in the Islay hospital after a short illness. He was 56 years old. Mr. Wilson was one of the oldest settlers in the district. The funeral services were conducted at the home and at the cemetery on Sunday afternoon. We extend our sympathy to the bereaved family.

Miss Vera Hall, a graduate of the advanced school, leaves in her stable waits to-day at the rink to-day and to-morrow for Vermilion to have the advantage of a day in writing the tests.

The Sunshine Club met at the home of Mrs J. C. Miller on Wednesday afternoon. Mrs Bristow and Mrs McEachern assisted in serving.

The matron of the hospital Miss Spencer left for Edmonton last week.

Mrs R. E. Knapp is enjoying a visit from her father and mother Mr and Mrs. Ely of Fenwood Bush.

Mr A. Beecroft, skip, E. Moore, D. C. Nelson and J. S. Shaw are the rinks at the Vermilion spiel and won a prize. There was something amiss about them—they should have Islay and only sent in Vermilion.

GIRL GUIDING

We regret that an interesting article on the above topic, which was handed in for publication, was late to be held over until next issue on account of lack of space.

ROBERT ARNOLD

The funeral took place on Monday afternoon of Robert Arnold, infant son of Mr. and Mrs J. A. Arnold, who died from influenza. The service was held in the Roman Catholic church by Rev Father Cahill and burial was made in the R. C. cemetery in a setting of beautiful flowers the baby loaned in the casket, tastefully arranged in his lovely little casket which was a fitting tribute to the sorrowing parents. Robert who was only two weeks old, was a fourth child being survived by two brothers, Richard age 6, Edwin age 4 and a sister Aurora age 4. Besides a dozen or flowers from family, a pretty floral offering was sent by Mrs. Cameron and Jean and Roy. The sympathy of many friends are extended to the family in their sad bereavement.

Dr. Knapp's rink won about four games but all in different competitions They say they had a good time. The Doctor ought to have tried them on with at a variety—they were not used to easy life.

L. McFadden's rink did well, too, but didn't bring back any flowers. They all spoke of the wonderful entertainment given by the Vermilion rink.

Three rinks left on Tuesday to take part in the Kitscoty bonspiel, as follows J. Shaw, skip J. Preston, E. Moore and Fred Shaw. A Beecroft, skip, J. F. Rogers, W. C. Hanbidge and W. Evans. N. McEachern, skip, J. Burtell, E. Anderson and T. Torrance.

D. C. Nelson was called to Edmonton on a business trip. One of the Maynard staff at Vermilion is taking his place at the local yards.

Northern Mining Possibilities

Vast Mineral Development Forecast in Northern Saskatchewan

The Toronto Star says: "Opening up a territory in northern Saskatchewan having vast mineral possibilities is foreseen by present activity Effects at Rottenstone Lake, Lac La Rouge, and other northern fields would seem to substantiate repeated claims that Saskatchewan was on the eve of a tremendous mining development. Large mining companies together with the reported surveying of a railway line by the Canadian Pacific Railway, bring the country to the front.

"It is understood from best of sources that negotiations are now under way which may lead to the formation of a 5,000,000 share subsidiary company by Manitoba Basin and the Lindsley enterprise of ventures Limited. The details are now being completed, which would merge the claims of Manitoba Basin and those of Ventures, at Rottenstone Lake.

"The significance of this lies in the fact that the proposed subsidiary company will have a large acreage one group laying directly south, and another group directly north and northwest, of the Hall Brothers' property where Consolidated Mining and Smelting Company is now operating.

"Of further interest in this merger of big interests, is the fact Ventures and Smelters are building an eastern copper refinery and electrolytic zinc plant. The two combinations together have what is regarded as the pivotal properties both in Saskatchewan and Manitoba."

Too Much Speed

Doing Everything in a Hurry Has Become a Habit With People

There is, says the Rev. Ward Whate, of Toronto, too much speed in the modern standard of living, and home life is suffering as a consequence. The reverend gentleman's charge is, unfortunately, one that cannot be denied. Evidence in support of it is abundant on every hand. People hurry over washing, shaving and dressing. They bolt their breakfast. They rush to the office. They tear around during business hours if their work takes them outside. They scramble for lunch. They leap toward the golf links, and, once there, they walk around the links at a pace that would make a dog hot. They drink speedily, they bolt their dinner, and they spend array once more to the club. And we endure it because we have no time in which to sit back and realize that we could do something very much better.

Very Absent Minded

It was pouring with rain, and as the drawing master had a long way to go to his school, he decided the money for the taxi would be well spent. Unfortunately, there was not a taxi in the station yard, and he had to be content with a cab.

"What's that?" he asked the driver, just as he was about to enter the vehicle.

The driver followed the direction of his fare's gaze and pointing finger.

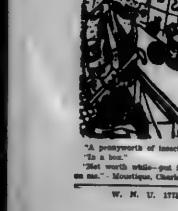
"Why," he exclaimed, on turning round, "that's no 'orse, that is!"

"Oh, is it?" retorted the drawing master, who was inclined to be absent-minded. "Well, just rub it out and draw it again."

Mr. Towsly—Have you started excavating on your new barn yet?

Farmer Silo—Partly. An airplane landed on the site last week and dug an excavation deep enough for three barns.

It was sixty years ago. He was on his knees. "Accept me," he pleaded, "or I shall die." She refused him and he died—last week.



"A pennyworth of insect powder—To a bee."

"Met worth while—got it straight on me."—Moustique, Charleroi.

Where Women Rule

Saskatchewan Egg Pool Directed Almost Entirely By Women

Here men have not a sinecure of directing large and successful farmers' co-operative marketing organizations in Western Canada, where there are several such. Indeed they haven't! The Saskatchewan Egg and Poultry Producers, Ltd., with a total membership of over 19,000 and doing a gross annual turnover of approximately $600,000, was organized by a number of farmers' wives less than three years ago. The first President was Mrs. John Holmes, of Asquith, Saskatchewan, and she still holds the office by popular choice. Only two of the six members of the Board of Directors are men. They were elected probably to prove that there is no sex superiority complex held by the overwhelmingly large number of women in the membership of the Pool.

The Saskatchewan Egg and Poultry Pool was organized because the farmers' wives regarded the system of individual selling as inefficient and under it the full measure of profits was not going to the producer.

A charge of $2 is made to those joining the Pool, one dollar of which is an organization fee, the other dollar is for one share of stock in the Pool. Members contract to deliver all their marketable eggs and poultry as directed by the Pool. Initial payments are made to producers on delivery, and the balance as soon as the products are sold and the overhead charges are determined. All profits go to the members.

Last year the Pool marketed 18,000,000 eggs and a large number pounds of dressed poultry, most of which went to Eastern Canada and the United States.

Mrs. Holmes came to Western Canada in 1905, from the village of Gilsum, Nottinghamshire, England, with her husband. They settled at Asquith, Sask., in 1907, where they still live. The head office of the Saskatchewan Egg and Poultry Pool is in Regina.

One-Passenger Taxicabs

One-passenger taxicabs are the latest thing in Constantinople, Turkey, according to recent cable dispatches. The men folk don't seem to mind so much, but the good ladies of the harem are objecting strenuously for two reasons. In the first place their lords must sit alongside the driver and in the second place Madame Fatima has no privacy whatever to enjoy her Turkish cigarettes.

Canada's Best Pet Export

The total number of pelts of all kinds produced in Canada in the year 1926-27 was 4,289,253 as compared with 3,666,143 in 1925-26. The increase in total number is due to an increase of 807,253 in the number of rabbit pelts, and of 80,854 in the number of squirrel pelts.

A Profitable Industry

Value Of Canada's Fisheries Runs Into Millions Yearly

A number of factors affecting the fishing industry of Canada, are worked together to make 1928 the most generally profitable year since the war. Good weather during the season, heavy runs of fish, and profitable marketing conditions due to short catches elsewhere, produced a total yield estimated at $50,000,000. The industry represents a capital investment of over $50,000,000, and gives direct employment to approximately 80,000 people and, in addition, there is a reasonable number employed in boat-building, rope making and other subsidiary industries. Prosperity has been general throughout all divisions of the industry.

The value of the fish of various kinds taken from our inland waters amounts annually to about $7,000,000, or approximately 14 per cent. of the value of the total Canadian catch. The greater part of this yield comes from the Great Lakes, but fish to the value of $1,500,000 are taken from the Prairie lakes. It is interesting to note that a catch of about 1,700,000 pounds is obtained annually from Lake Athabasca. The results of the operations of 1925 are not yet available, but it is estimated that the yield and value will be at least equal to the average of recent years.

Sulphur In Gases Valuable

Canadian Smelters Have Waste Of Fifteen Hundred Tons Daily

In a paper presented before a recent meeting of the Canadian Engineering Institute, W. H. DeBlois disclosed interesting statistics on the subject of sulphur contained in gases discharged in smelting plants of Canada. According to him fifteen hundred tons of sulphur are going to waste each day from Canadian smelters. The possibility of recovering a part of this for commercial use is of particular interest as the Canadian exports approximately two hundred thousand tons of sulphur, valued at about $3,000,000, a year. The imported sulphur is used largely by the pulp and paper mills. It is now proposed to produce liquefied sulphur direct at the smelters for use in the paper mills.

Steel With a Shin

Production of steel with a skin is announced by the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company, Pittsburg. The skin is produced through a process called nitriding, by placing the steel in a box of ammonia gas and 1,000 degrees. This forms, says the announcement, "a thin skin extremely hard, quite tough and rust proof."

PROPOSED NEW BRANCH LINES FOR C.N.R. ON PRAIRIES

The Canadian National Railways are asking Parliament, at its present session, for the right to construct 542 miles of new railroad. Of this amount, 543 miles are to be built on the prairies. The proposed lines fall into two general classes; lines which afford economic and operating advantages to the system and branches for the purpose of general development and colonization of territory which will constitute feeders to the system. The proposed lines and their relationship to existing lines and to lines now nearing completion are shown on the above map. The proposed lines are indicated by broken lines. Existing lines are shown in solid black lines and lines which are under construction and all of which will be ready for operation this year, are shown by a jagged line. The company proposes to complete all the new branch lines within three years.

One of the most important of the proposed lines is that between Aberdeen and Melfort, in Saskatchewan. This line with the proposed extension north-easterly from Ridgedale, will shorten considerably the distance between the Hudson Bay Railway and all of the territory south-west of Saskatoon.

The branch line programme enumerated is as follows: St. Walburg, Sask., to Beauville, Alta., 117 miles; Aberdeen, Sask., to Melfort, Sask., 55 miles; Hamiln, Sask., to Glenhuel, Sask., 39 miles; Meldpath, Sask., to Nevis, Alta., 40 miles; Ridgedale, Sask., north-easterly 30 miles; Alliance, Alta., southeasterly to Dobson, Alta., 82 miles; Bulwark, Alta., south-easterly from the proposed Alliance-Dobson line, 26 miles; Semansha, Alta., to Bragg, Alta., 41 miles.

Aviation Progress

Tremendous Strides Made In Aviation In Canada During Recent Years

The tremendous strides which aviation has made during the past nine years in Canada are shown today in figures compiled by the civil aviation branch of the department of national defence while in the annex figures 1928 is displayed as a banner season.

The latest figures show that flying time in 1928 was about 40,000 hours, as against a total of 5,000 in 1920. Passenger mileage last year was about 3,000,000 miles, as against 422,464 in 1920.

During the nine years just past, freight poundage increased from 6,740 in 1920, to 2,500,000 in 1928. In 1920 there were no records of air poundage, but in 1924, some 1,221 pounds of mail were carried. As compared with 264,163 last year.

Perseverance Will Win

Those Who Really Try Find Nothing Is Impossible

Perseverance will overcome all handicaps and it is therefore, one of the most useful human qualities. Never give up, to go on and on trying and trying over and over again can have only one result — final success. It is harder for some to accomplish tasks than it is for others; but the stubborn and the well-equipped bodily and mentally, may be left far behind when it comes to a test. Never despair! The important thing is to fix the goal and work straight and constantly toward it. Nothing is impossible to the persevering. Victory follows comes from turning aside, surrendering to our weaknesses and allowing others to pass us on the road. Half the battle of life consists in sheer tenacity, determination and a set purpose work wonders.

When People Walked

Many a man and woman in Michigan has walked five miles or so to school and puts a larger value on all education on that account. Twenty-mile walks to the nearest doctor were once common, and no doubt contributed to the recovery of the patient. A recent biography of an actor mentions a 33-mile hike to see his first circus.

Food Fishes More Important

Since its inception in Canada, fish cultural operations have been almost entirely confined to the more popular food fishes, but in recent years more attention has been given to the propagation of game fish, such as speckled trout in the east, and cut-throat and rainbow trout in the West

Problem is to make money first and then make it last.

Key To Lasting Prosperity

Best Rules To Follow Are Suggested By Charles M. Schwab

Ten rules which seem to him to hold the key to lasting prosperity are suggested by Charles M. Schwab, chairman of the Board of Directors of the Bethlehem Steel Corporation. They are reprinted, as follows, from the New York Herald-Tribune:

1. Pay labor the highest possible wage. Prosperity is intimately related to a liberal wage scale.

2. Treat labor as a business partner. Successful industry depends more on human relations than upon the organization of money and machines.

3. Conduct business in the full light of day. Public confidence and public suspicion may be separated only by a door.

4. Remember that the law of supply and demand is inexorable. And it also would be well to remember that there is no necessity for producing as excess.

5. Live and help live. Even prosperous industries can not afford to have the backward industries too far behind the procession — prosperity, to be permanent, must be equally distributed.

6. Welcome new ideas. To establish permanent institutions we must always be prepared for a change.

7. Never be satisfied that what has been achieved is sufficient. Smugness and complacency do not promote progress.

8. Operate business on the most economical basis Price-cutting, overexpansion, uneconomical methods of distribution are just as harmful to business and to the public as price-raising, monopolies, and rebates.

9. Look ahead and plan ahead. It is easier to avoid depressions than it is to cure them.

10. Smile, be cheerful, and work upon the basis that the fundamental purpose of business is to promote the happiness of human beings.

World's First Telegram

Was Written On Stone Thirteen Hundred Years Ago

What was probably the first form of "telegram" in the world was exhibited at the International Congress of Orientalists at Oxford.

It consists of a document of stone on which is a Coptic inscription, which translated means "He died today. That stone was brought by "express" messenger to the friends of an unknown man 1,300 years ago. The "telegram" is exhibited in the exhibition of Oriental books and manuscripts opened in the Bodleian Library in connection with the congress.

Among other exhibits is a collection of Indian playing cards with twelve cards for each suit, which were used in the sixteenth century. They are circular in shape and represent the signs of the Zodiac.

Safety In the Air

The assistant secretary of the navy in charge of the bureau of aeronautics says that there is only one fatal accident to every million miles of airplane flight in the United States last year. A comparative study of last year's fatal automobile accidents and the total motor mileage might indicate that flying is now safer than the highways.—Providence Journal.

Edmonton Public Utilities

All former records have been broken for Edmonton's profit from public utilities by the showing of a surplus of $207,785. This surplus placed all the utilities—street railway, power plant, electric light, city telephone and water works—in the profit-paying class.

Canada Has Best Name

Colin Cummins Will Likely Adopt "Bayne" To Describe Artificial Silk

The French minister of commerce has declared his intention to make a study of the need to rename "artificial silk." So says a Paris cable, adding that the question has been discussed recently in the French senate. In Germany the new fibre and textile are called glanzstoff, which means shiny stuff, or terms to that effect. Here on this continent, after rejecting a number of other proposals, the industry has become fairly well united in the use of "rayon." Britain still seems inclined to cling to "artificial silk." Despite the opposition of the true silk industry, and also of the manufacturers themselves of the various cellulose fibres that approach in appearance the textiles made from the genuine wrappings of the silk worm, it appears that rayon is the word that is now accepted as the best name.

In choosing "rayon," a word at once suggestive and harmonious, a sort of ray of light, a good French word was used. France could have adopted the term spidy. Apparently, however, she has not, and has herself floundering about in search of something better. We doubt her ability to find a prettier expression or one that will be accepted more readily. The one assured fact, however, is that the term "artificial silk" cannot endure. Like synthetic beefsteak and manufactured eggs, the term will have none of such subterfuge names. France could do no better than to place her own approval on "rayon" and settle the matter for all time. If she does that even Germany will be forced into line, as the term glanzstoff is distinctly not an internationalizable word.

Usually Needs Correcting

Person Who Looks For Errors In Pronunciation Is Always a Pest

Many a person pops, dignified damsel and arrogant aunt finds such a delight in correcting the mispronunciations of her friends and relatives that the latter treat them in fear and trembling.

The worst thing about this is that in most cases the pompous, dignified and arrogant ones mispronounce many simple words themselves.

Quite frequently you will hear the word "Solmon" pronounced "Sallmon." Usually the "l" is not used as the "q" in horse-radish. Our friend the dictionary tells us that "Sam-on" is the real pronunciation.

Welch carefully the chronic corrector of mispronounced words and you can easily locate a few errors a-glaring as this. Correcting the corrector is the surest method of curing the habit—for the neighborhood of an insufferable pest.

CHAPTER XV—Continued

For a moment Connie was silent. "When—when my dreams come true," she responded with an embarrassed smile.

Then he told her of the city and its ways and the things people did. She listened, with eyes distended, but with a contented smile, as though what he told her was confirmation of her dreams. She had seen the glitter of the grand opera, the music, the costumes and the singing, her grey eyes wide with longing, she sighed deeply.

Donald's voice trailed to a drowsy close; his chest rose and fell regularly, his features relaxed. He felt as though he were floating, exquisitely floating, on a sea of fleecy clouds that was bearing him softly away. A delicious languor enthralled him—an enchantment drowsy and dim. He felt himself drifting, drifting . . . He was asleep.

The willows at the lower end of the meadow were pushed cautiously aside, and Hand's head appeared in the opening. For two days he had lain hidden awaiting an opportunity to waylay Donald. The day after the fight he had boarded the train for the coast, but had slipped from the car at the station below.

His face—unprepossessing at its best—was now a horrible sight. The thick lips were swollen and cracked, the eyes discoloured and puffed and the broken teeth bared in a snarl as he saw Donald lying by the stream. Every hour since the fight Hand's hatred for Donald had grown Master. He would show him that he, Old Hand, deserved his reputation as a fighter. He would hold this cripple man helpless while he showered blows on his unprotected face, make him pay for money and bended knees; perhaps kill him. His hatred grew hotter and deeper as he watched him lying peacefully beside the girl who had been the cause of the fight in which he had been ignominiously whipped.

Connie sat gazing down on the sleeper. A sudden thought seized her, bringing a warm flush to her cheeks. Why not? No one would ever know. Would she dare? She glanced tiresomely about her, then leaned slowly over, her curls falling about her face, and touched her soft lips to Donald's cheek.

A bluejay screamed derisively. Connie came to her feet, her face crimson. Donald stirred, opened his eyes, and painfully raised himself.

"I'm sorry, Connie," he apologized. "It was very rude of me to go to sleep."

A moment later he walked down the hill. Connie accompanied him a short distance, then turned up a little steep path, and from a high, rocky ridge she watched his retreating figure as he turned toward the dyke.

A huge bucket on a cable, that had been used during construction for carrying men and material across the roaring chasm below the dyke, still hung above the boiling waters.

For Donald there was only the thrill, a keen exhilaration, in swinging in mid-air in this crude conveyance. He stepped into the bucket and with his one good arm pulled it along the rusty cable.

The Breed, hidden near the trail saw Donald as he walked town at the dam. The venomous look in his eyes gave place to one of strained interest as he saw the two men skulking menacingly after the unsuspecting man. With a feeling of malignant exultation, as he sensed disaster to the man he hated, he hobbled to the trail and furtively followed.

From the heights above Connie saw the sneaking figures as they crouched low against the edge of the dark spruces and at once divined their murderous object. For an instant she was paralyzed with terror. Her lips refused to move and her throat was parched.

The men moved cautiously as they approached their intended victim, fearing that he might be armed. As Hand saw Donald suspended over the river a look of fiendish elation crossed his features. Here was a chance to dispose of the enemy with no trace of the crime. He tore a fire-axe from the wall of the tool house and, with a low, animal cry, sprang like a deer, stumbling as he fell, he breath coming in short gasps. He ran wildly on. Snarls of joy at the thorny crabapple tore at her, devil's-club lacerated her face and hands, but she felt no pain. "O God," she prayed aloud, "help me to save him! Help me save him!"

Donald's face blanched at the sound of the axe as it hit into the heavy cable. He looked down at the jagged rocks and seething waves below. Then with closed eyes and a prayer on his lips he tore in mad frenzy at the rope. Desperately he tugged with both hands, although the pain from his broken wrist sent a wave of torment up his arm that sickened him.

No man can measure the speed of thought in a crisis; even the sluggish brain of the Breed functioned rapidly. Connie was not for him. Her happiness was bound up in the man working feverishly at the bucket. There was not one chance in a million that he would gain the safety of the cliff before the strands parted to plunge him to eternity. As he heard the crashing of Connie's slender body as she came down the hill, a softness crept into his eyes. With a speed incredible in one with his pitiful disability, he ran in a series of bounding steps to the edge of the bluff. The noise of tumbling waters drowned the sound of his approach. Just as Hand raised his axe for the final blow, the muscular arms of the Breed were flung about him. Emitting a startled curse, the big man turned and with a twist of his powerful shoulders flung his dusky assailant to the ground. As he rose Hand swung viciously at him with the axe.

With a quick movement the Breed dodged, and the weapon flashed over his head, flew from the big man's hands, and struck his confederate a glancing blow on the shoulder that brought from him a howl of pain. Again the Breed's arms closed about his adversary's waist. Mad with the pain in his shoulder, the foreigner drew a long, keen knife, circled warily about the two wrestling men until he found an opening, then plunged the knife to the hilt in the Breed's left side. The stricken man slithered from his opponent's arms and fell a crumpled heap to the ground.

Sick and giddy, Donald stumbled from the bucket, seized the axe and advanced weakly toward Hand. Hand's accomplice, taking one look at the prostrate body, turned and fled terror-stricken to the woods. Hand hesitated for a moment, then followed hesitatingly after.

At this moment, Connie, with clothes torn and hair dishevelled, broke from the woods, and with a cry of pity flung herself to the ground by the Breed's side and placed his head on her lap. The eyes of the wounded man flickered slowly open. He tried to speak, but a strong convulsion shook his frame from head to foot and he writhed in desperate agony.

Connie's face as she lifted it to Donald was drawn with grief. "Oh! ma sone water please," she said brokenly.

The dying man's lips moved. Connie leaned closer.

"I—I love you," he whispered faintly, "I—saved him—for you."

A ghastly pallor spread over his features and his lips were widely parted in a struggle for breath Again his lips moved in a fluttering whisper.

"Connie—will you—kiss me?"

As Connie pressed her tear-wet face to his the pain-contorted features relaxed in a smile of wonderful peace and his eyes closed.

When Donald returned Connie's head was bowed and she was weeping softly.

"Here is he, Connie?" he questioned gently.

"He's dead."

Donald removed his hat and with his bowed head.

"He died for me," he choked.

"And for me," she whispered inaudibly.

CHAPTER XVI.

Lest we tire of monotony, Nature gives us a change of colour for each of the flowering seasons. Flowers of every hue and shade, representing the different months. Pink for May, red for June, blue and pink for July, and so forth through the months of gold and purple cloths the hills and valleys.

The last week of August brought to Summit Lake a pageantry of colour that the Coast region is denied during the long, protracted rains that retard the ripening of the leaf. The deciduous trees were already withdrawing their life-giving fluid from the leaves to store it in their roots until spring. The willow, vine maple, alder and alder along the creeks and lake-shore held touches of autumnal colouring; while on the hills the yellowed leaves of the cottonwood were waiting in their setting of sober dark green conifers.

A gaudy red were the vine maples but the main beauty lay in the aspens and birches. The flowering dogwood blazed from every nook and cranny. The spring of the dogwood gives it its leaves a flame that burns with a fierce glow; a glow that further ripening deepens until its crimson flush becomes the loveliest hue of the British Columbia woods.

The Breeds, or willow herb, that in July gives to the open spaces a gorgeous tint of bluey pink, now show having a flock of seeds to a leaf, sway like tiny parachutes fashioned for the journey of the wind-driven seed. It

A few weeks ago this paper published a letter from the millers of Canada which was very unfavorable to the growing of Garnet wheat, owing, so what it was claimed, its inferior quality as a milling wheat as compared with certain other varieties of hard wheat commonly grown in the West Due to frost damage, an early ripening wheat is demanded in this western country and more so now than ever as the great wheat growing belt is pressing farther northward For this reason Marquis grew rapidly in favor and seemingly superseded Red Fyfe, and now Garnet, which ripens several days or more earlier than Marquis, is being grown extensively and with apparent good results. Reward is another wheat which is showing its adaptibility to Alberta and possibly at time grow on these earlier varieties will be replaced by others In spite of any adverse criticisms, Garnet has proven itself a good wheat to grow under western conditions and the larger percentage of this wheat harvested in this district last fall escaped early frost damage, though unfavorable weather was detrimental to grain grades. However Garnet forest grading 5 and 6 moved up to 3 and 4 and some is grading 2 Farmers who have been growing Garnet ran make no mistake in following the advice given by the Dominion Cerealist, at Ottawa, to continue to grow it

FIRST INTERIM PAYMENT 1928 POOL

Under date of March 1st distribution was made of First Interim Payment on deliveries to 1928 Pool a wheat basis of 1 per bushel on practically all grades, except No. 4 wheat the amount was 10c per bushel. In Alberta this distribution to Pool members aggregated approximately $6,500,000

In setting this payment a number of features must be taken into consideration by the Central Selling Agency. Since the first year's operation of the Pool it has been the policy to make the first interim payments sufficiently conservative to permit the selling Agency to continue a selling policy that in their opinion may procure ultimately the highest returns to the grower, unhampered by any turn the market may take, when a large volume of crop remains unsold. To pursue such a policy consistently throughout the whole season, the Selling Agency must be at all times in a strong financial and market position. Should we at any time make too large an initial or interim payment on any grade the net returns to the grower would probably suffer as a consequence.

Further, it is necessary to fix the amount of payment several weeks in advance of actual date in order to take care of the enormous labor required in balancing and closing the accounts of each grower and completing cheques for payment. The Alberta Pool alone has many thousands of individual accounts, and with this record payment issued over 28,000 cheques. This year but few grades will be exercised to insure accuracy.

It is absolutely essential that the Canadian Wheat Pool proceed carefully and on sound lines to insure the safety and security of its members Many farmers in this Province have only recently joined because of the fact that the Pool's first five years of operation convinced them that the organization was being administered and conducted along sound business lines, and further realized that the Pool's system of orderly marketing was sound in principle.

Our Pool Directors had a difficult situation facing them at date of setting this Interim payment with Argentine coming on the market with the very large crop unencumbered in its marketing, and Australia producing fifty million bushels more wheat than last year. It has happened before

Canada now holds the world record for winter cruises. With our cruise around the world, another to South America and Africa, a cruise to the Mediterranean and three to the West Indies this season, the red and white chequered house flag of the Canadian Pacific is seen in sunny ports of every part of the world. Next season another cruise is to be added, including two to the Mediterranean, and extensive additions will be made to the itinerary of the "Empress of Australia" on her seventh cruise around the world, starting December or Jan.

The interest of the Prince of Wales in Canadian affairs was demonstrated recently when, following his speech at Mansion House, in London, he visited the British Industries Fair, and spent some time in examining exhibits of the Canadian Pacific Railway. He took great interest in the carving of ship models and commented upon the artistic workmanship of the wood carver working under the Majesty the Queen, and George passed along the same group, and showed great interest in the display.

One of the most successful and interesting events of the winter season in the west is scheduled to take place in Regina on March 22 to 30 next when the Great West Canadian Williams, Fiddlers and Handicraft's Festival will be held in the Saskatchewan Capital in Regina. Over twenty nationalities will be represented in the musical and dance programme and in the exhibition of handicrafts, and a number of artists from the east will be present. The concerts are being arranged by the Canadian Pacific Railway in co-operation with the Conservatory of Music of Regina College.

TESTING GRAIN SAMPLES

A considerable number of farmers have been sending samples of grain to the Vermilion School of Agriculture for testing. It was understood some years ago between the Provincial Government and the Dominion Government that all seed testing should be done so the Dominion Seed Testing Laboratory, Calgary. Consequently all samples of grain that have been received at the School of Agriculture have been sent on to Calgary for the test. Just lately some samples have been received with no name indicating from whom the sample was received. It is obvious that we cannot do anything further with samples of this kind. We would like to make it clear, therefore, that all those who wish grain samples tested for germination should send same to the above address at Calgary. This is one year when it will undoubtedly pay farmers to have a germination test of any seed that is to be used in the spring.

This included many yearling heifers and bred cows. The top animal, Brampton Rex Majesty, sold for $2,600. This is the third highest price ever paid for a Jersey cow in North America.

Running down a timber wolf with a railway locomotive was the unusual sport tried by Engineer Hoey Bax recently when a C.P.R. light engine, hauling a 50 pound special one, Engineer M. In 1921 the Canadian Pacific paid out $2,000,000 from freight revenue in loss and damage claims. In 1927 it paid $700,000, a decrease of $1,400,000, although in the same period the gross freight revenue had increased by $15,000,000. Better freight handling did it.

The stonework and most of the partitioning of the Royal York Hotel have been completed, and there appears every likelihood that the great building will be open to the travelling public by June 1. The hotel is the largest and tallest in the British Empire

Some idea of the world-wide area over which the Canadian Pacific operates may be gathered from the fact that in making out its monthly balance it is necessary to turn fifty-nine different foreign currencies into dollars in order to get an accurate result in Canadian money.

Wireless is now being used to aid in the protection of forests against fire. The Ontario Provincial Government planes are equipped with the latest apparatus with a radius of 100 miles, so that the headquarters may be readily communicated with and immediate steps taken upon the discovery of an outbreak.

"The principle of rapid freezing has such qualifications that there seems to be little room for doubt that it is going to revolutionize the fishing industry," stated W. A. Found, deputy minister of fisheries. "We intend to make the experimental station at Halifax of the utmost value to the whole industry."

W. J. C Maddon of Calgary, is making arrangements with the Canadian Pacific Express Company for the transportation of whitefish caught in Great Slave Lake from Edmonton to Chicago. It is intended that the shipment from the fishing proved to rail head will be on steel to winter by five-ton trucks operating upon the thick ice of the Slave and Athabasca Rivers, traversing country that would otherwise be difficult to cross.

A new and strange form of wildfowl is being imported into Alberta by the Calgary Fish and Game Association, which has arranged to secure 2,000 Mongolian and Chinese ring-necked pheasants. The birds are to be liberated this summer throughout the southern part of the province, where 1800 were placed last season as part of the Game Association's plan for re-stocking Alberta's game bird supply. With all these Oriental birds loose the ancient Yellow Peril seems more imminent.

Clipping as much as an hour and a half off her schedule each round, and half an hour westbound, the Trans Canada Limited, crack flyer of the Canadian Pacific Railway running between Montreal, Toronto, and Vancouver, will be further remarked by the summer by means of a "solarium" car, containing baths and a special sun room, that will be included in her regular equipment. The Mountaineer, another speedy summer train, operated between Vancouver and Chicago will now have "solarium" cars and run on faster time. The Trans Canada makes its first run on July 12, and The Mountaineer on June 16. The former train makes 140 trips during the summer season covering a distance equal to about fifteen and a half times around the world.

Everywhere in every way ESSEX the Challenger is put to the proof ...under official newspaper observers

In Fast Getaway—no car is excepted.
In Speed—anything the road offers up to 70 miles an hour.
In Hill Climbing—the hardest hills in this community—and in America.
In Reliability—60 miles an hour all day.
In Economy—better than 20 miles to the gallon.

IN THIS CITY under official newspaper observation, Essex the Challenger will demonstrate its right to challenge the best that motordom offers. It is dramatic revelation of an all round quality Six—big, fast, roomy, powerful—now available at the lowest price for which Essex ever sold and but little more than the cost of the smallest, lightest and lowest-priced cars on the market.

As you see it out-perform cars costing far more, remember that exactly the same performance ability, quality, economy and riding ease are characteristic in the Essex the Challenger which you buy.

And in Value—compare it part for part in every quality particular of appearance, finish, comfort and easy riding to those costly cars in which you pay the higher price for those very things.

SCHOOL OF AGRICULTURE NOTES

Events worthy of note crowded on upon the other all last week, and Sunday came with a much appreciated breathing spell.

The first social of importance was the Junior Girls' banquet to the graduating class, on Thursday evening, February 28th. The dainty little repast to be perfect hostesses and nothing but praise was forthcoming for the smooth way in which the banquet was handled and for the excellently prepared food that was served.

Meanwhile everyone was busy in preparation for the exhibit to be given the V.S.A. "Royal." The boys were to be seen at any or all hours of the day or night, washing, trimming or polishing their favorite animal, while the girls went about their own mysterious tasks of preparing laundry and sewing.

The judging of the live stock exhibits started at two o'clock on 2nd March and was carried through without a hitch. Prof. E. Sinclair of Alberta University was the judge. After the live stock judging was over the doors of the gymnasium were opened and the students and visitors spent the next hour inspecting the other exhibits of the fair. Much favorable comment was heard on the millinery display, though the other exhibits were equally as praiseworthy.

On a whole the fair could scarcely have been more successful than it was. The whole-hearted participation of students and staff was directly responsible for the success This fair was only started a few years ago and its present success leads one to believe that there is a promising future for it. When the townspeople of Vermilion realize that this fair is worthy of their support, and then support it, we will have taken another step forward in insuring its success.

The Radio Committee's dance, given the same evening, served to cap the whole affair and make the day a perfect one. Many beautiful and elaborate costumes were to be seen, so that the judges had no little difficulty in awarding the prizes, which were as follows:

Most comic girl's costume "Negress," won by Miss Whitford.
Most original girl "Cigarette Seller" won by Miss Richardson.
Best dressed girl "Fairy," won by Miss McKay.
Special "Black Cat", Miss McCue
Most comic boy's costume "Sheric," won by Mr. Waldron.
Most original "Gentleman of Bath" won by Mr. Kinyan.
Best dressed "Persian Lady," won by Mr Towar.
Special "Nurse," Mr. Malaher

The prizes were well worth winning and amply repaid the winners for their efforts in preparing their costumes. As the Radio Committee were too busy with their dance to publish the "Radio" the staff undertook this task and at midnight, March 2nd, copies were distributed to students and townsfolk at the dance.

DIPHTHERIA IS PREVENTABLE

On two occasions recently special war flights in an aeroplane have been made, to carry precious Anti-Toxin to diphtheria patients. On the first one, the live stock judging was over the doors of the gymnasium were opened and the students and visitors spent the next hour inspecting the other exhibits of the fair. Much favorable comment was heard on the millinery display, though the other exhibits were equally as praiseworthy.

DIPHTHERIA IS PREVENTABLE

On two occasions recently special war flights in an aeroplane have been made, to carry precious Anti-Toxin to diphtheria patients. On the first one, two boys were risked their lives and all that death to them would mean to their families, to carry their life-giving cargo to the far North. On the second, a nurse and anti-toxin were taken to a stricken family, only some sixty miles from Edmonton.

The story of the far north is well known now, and needs no recapitulation. The story of the farm home near Westlock is raw tragedy A winter storm, drifted roads, a whole family stricken with diphtheria. The mother and one child dead, and only a chance visit from a neighbor reveals the terrible story. The telephone, a doctor, and an aeroplane, a nurse, anti-toxin, and the other members of the family are saved YET DIPHTHERIA IS PREVENTABLE

Every home can be freed from the menace of this dread disease. Immunize every child. It is a simple thing to have done Any physician can do it. It entails no hardship nor pain Surely it is a small price to pay for immunity from such a tragedy as struck that once happy home

Let this province lead the way in making the art of living a little safer for our children.

IMMUNIZE AGAINST DIPHTHERIA

Radio Broadcasting In Canada

The Canadian Government recently appointed a Royal Commission to study and make report on the whole subject of radio broadcasting in Canada. That Commission, headed by Sir John Aird, is at present in Europe studying the methods employed in Great Britain and some of the continental countries. It proposes to also study the methods followed in the United States, and, later, will hold public sittings throughout Canada with a view to obtaining the opinions of Canadian citizens.

The importance of this Commission's work can hardly be overstated. Radio has, in a few short years, come to occupy a vital position in the lives of the people, while the future possibilities of this newest form of entertainment, and its importance as a means of publicity, are such that the national interests demand that a well defined policy in the interests of all concerned, but more particularly in the interests of the Dominion itself, be developed with the least possible delay.

The question that naturally arises in the minds of patriotic Canadians is whether or not the radio in Canada is to be dominated by wealthy and powerful private interests in the United States just as the moving picture business has been, or whether Canada will itself develop as a truly national system of national broadcasting.

It has to be recognized and accepted as a fact that the great United States moving picture corporations control the situation in Canada, if not through actual ownership and management of Canadian moving picture theatres, at least through the making and distribution of the films that are shown in this country. There can be no successful denial of the assertion that because of this control of films it is possible for United States ideas, sentiments, enterprises, modes of living, and general propaganda of all kinds, to be insidiously inserted into the lives and thoughts of the Canadian people. In a word, one of the most powerful agencies for the dissemination of ideas throughout Canada is in the hands of private and wealthy corporations in a foreign land.

To a large extent the same situation has developed through the enormous circulation which United States magazines and periodicals of all kinds have secured in Canada. Apart from the fact that through advertising sandwiched in at intervals throughout the programmes. All this material, specially prepared for United States consumption and to meet the requirements and promote the interests of United States business, is carried through the air into hundreds of thousands of Canadian homes every day in the year.

It is not necessary to be anti-American, or in the slightest degree unfriendly to the United States, to nevertheless realize that this is not a good thing for Canada in a national sense. Our Canadian broadcasting stations are widely scattered over the Dominion. They have not the broadcasting power of the big U.S. stations. Nor have they the resources to finance the same type of high class and expensive programmes offered in the United States. Canadian national advertisers have the same large market to appeal to, and consequently cannot afford to spend tens of thousands of dollars in radio advertising.

Furthermore, do the Canadian people prefer private control of radio broadcasting financed on the basis of advertising, to the system which finds favor in Great Britain of national broadcasting financed through the payment of a reasonable annual license fee by owners of receiving sets who are the real beneficiaries of the broadcasts?

The influence of radio must be admitted. It already occupies a position along with the newspaper and the moving picture as a medium of information and a source of education and entertainment. It is here, and here to stay, to grow, to develop as perhaps few even now imagine. It will be a power for tremendous good or evil. It is essential that Canada, by neglecting the opportunity it presents, should adopt a wise policy in regard thereto.

Many Divorce Cases Covered Everything

With a marked increase in petitions within the past week, the senate divorce committee has the largest accumulation of divorce cases in history. The number so far is 214, with 186 from Ontario and 26 from Quebec. Wives seeking divorce in 121 cases and husbands in 40.

Acid Stomach

Success acid is the common cause of indigestion. It results in pain and discomfort about two hours after eating. The quick corrective is an alkali which neutralizes acid. The best corrective is Phillips' Milk of Magnesia. It has remained standard with physicians in the 90 years since its introduction.

One spoonful of Phillips Milk of Magnesia neutralizes burning sour, gassy acidity and the user feels fine in a few minutes. Its relief is quick. You will never rely on crude methods, never continue to suffer, when you learn how quickly, how pleasantly this premier method acts. Please let it show you—now.

Be sure to get the genuine Phillips' Milk of Magnesia prescribed by physicians for 50 years in correcting excess acids. Each bottle contains full directions—any druggist.

Canada's Climate Attractive

Even Winter Weather Is Enjoyed By Majority Of People

The Montreal Star says: "It has been the fashion for many years to quote Canada as a wintry land. The habit has persisted, despite the actual facts regarding our climate, which probably presents the widest latitude in conditions of any country in the world today. But just now Europe is having a taste of what a really hard winter can achieve, and things have been cracked in two by Arctic temperatures of a severity almost unknown in modern records. Shipping in the north is icebound, and even the Black Sea is beginning to freeze over—a event unrecorded within living memory.

Now if the people who are at present suffering so acutely were in Canada, they would be enjoying themselves. We have not been attacked by an unprecedented cold weather, and the general conditions through out the country have not been such as to cause any discomfort. Indeed, there is good ground for utilizing the attractiveness of our climate as a drawing card for intending immigrants, instead of frightening them with lurid pictures of winter of an Arctic character. A little more truth, and a little more publicity, would help immigration better than lantern slides and flaming posters on the walls."

CORNS

Relief in 2 Minutes

Peace River Settlement

A Million Acres Of Land Taken Up By 5,000 New Homesteaders

Five thousand people and a million acres of land were taken over last year by 5,000 new homesteaders in the Peace River country. The Rt. Rev. E. J. Hobbins, D.D., Bishop of Athabasca, stated in an address before the Empire Club at Toronto: "People say to me if the country will bear it. I say, I fancy it will bear it for about 20 years at that rate."

LIFE WAS A BURDEN

Health Restored Through the Use Of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills

"I am writing to express my gratitude for Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. Pills have done for me," says Mrs. Ida Hutchinson, Petitcodiac, Que., and further says: "I was badly run down that I felt that life was a burden to me and I got no delight in the time I had used them I began to feel better. I got a further supply and kept on taking them. Daily I felt myself growing stronger. The color returned to my cheeks and lips and I felt a new life coursing in me. In a nutshell I can now say that I am feeling fine, for which I give the credit to Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, which I strongly recommend to all weak girls and women."

A useful book, "Building Up the Blood," will be sent free to any address by the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are sold by all druggists or will be sent by mail, post paid, on receipt of price, 50c. Try them today.

Where Nobody Is Young

Nobody is young in the little village of Burshedin, Hungarian, whose inhabitants boast that their aggregate age, in proportion to the population, is the highest in the country. There are twenty-seven old folk whose years total 2,215—an average of seventy-eight each. Once Burshedin was a thriving community, but now strawberry growing is the only industry. All the young people have left for more fruitful fields.

A Power Of Its Own. Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil has a subtle power of its own. All who have used it know this and keep it by them as a most valuable liniment available. Its uses are innumerable and for many years it has been prized as the leading liniment for man and beast.

Prepared With Postage Stamps

Jam Near Bognor, Sussex, Housed, is Known As Stamp House

Near Bognor, where the King has been removed for his convalescence, there is an inn known as Stamp House. Its walls and ceilings are completely papered with old postage stamps, and frames of them are looped from one side of a room to the other. The "collection" was started many years ago by a former host of the place, who had a passion for stamps, and papered his first room with them. It is believed as a result of a wager. Under the mellow varnish there must now be hundreds of thousands; and report has it that many in semi-hidden corners are rare and valuable.

Recipes For This Week

(By Betty Barclay)

NEW YORK SALAD

4 slices pineapple.
½ cup nuts chopped
4 oranges.
Cream mayonnaise.
Lettuce.

Arrange slices of pineapple on nests of lettuce leaves. Cut celery in slender strips, one and one-half inches long, and mix with nut meats. Fill in small hollow of orange with this and four sections of orange, free from membrane, laid symmetrically on pineapple. Pass dressing separately.

BOILED CAKE FROSTING

1 cup sugar.
1 cup orange juice
Grated rind of one orange
1 egg white

In a smooth agate saucepan put sugar and orange juice and rind, mix well, and boil, being careful not to stir or disturb syrup until it will sp a long thread when it drops from the of spoon. Let gently from fire and pour slowly, while beating vigorously with a strong egg-beater, into the stiffly beaten white which has been beaten until light but not stiff. Continue beating until frosting is of right consistency to place, pour all at once onto cake and spread over surface with a few movements of a large, flat knife

Standards Of Greatness

Wealth Or Titles To Judge Of An Individual's Pre-Eminence

The mind of the average American is a curious combination of materialism and sentiment, and we must bear those qualities in mind when we consider what is the true standard of success. Is it wealth or titles? Is it the wide acclaim of the multitude? Is it the mighty dollar, which is, for him, to a large extent, supreme, the mark and emblem of a man's success in life. Here, in Great Britain, titles, honors, orders and decorations are the rewards for pre-eminence. In America there is no "honors list." The only list that counts is the yearly statement of income tax paid by every citizen and published far and wide so that all can see how a man has risen above his fellows. No wonder, therefore, that everyone strives unceasingly to get rich.—Sir George Armstrong in The London Observer.

Strain Of City Life

The strain of living in the cities is today a more potent factor in causing insanity than the loneliness of the isolated farm and settlement on which emphasis has been so frequently laid in the past in Canada, according to Dr. W. M. English, medical superintendent of the Ontario Hospital, Brockville, with over 2,000 patients. On the other hand, telephones, motorcars and radios have broken down the isolation of the farm, and whatever mental unrest through loneliness is no longer found in the degree formerly known.

Need New Terminal Station

Frederick Palmer Recommends New Station At Montreal For C.N.R.

It is absolutely necessary to provide suitable passenger station accommodation for the Canadian National Railways at Montreal, says Frederick Palmer, the well known British railway terminal expert, whose services were retained by the government to study the matter of furnishing the eastern metropolis with more commodious terminal facilities for the Canadian National Railways and at the same time survey the possibility of a joint station for the C.N.R. and the C.P.R. Mr. Palmer's report to the minister of railways was made public.

Internally and Externally It Is Good.—The crowning property of Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil is that it can be used internally for many complaints as well as externally. For sore throat, croup, whooping cough, pains in the chest, colic and many kindred ailments it has qualities that are unsurpassed. A bottle of it costs little and there is no loss in always having it at hand.

The Value Of Birds

Only Protection Country Has Against Insect Enemies

It is estimated that 10,000 caterpillars could destroy every blade of grass on one acre of cultivated land. An insect-infested tree may contain 12,000,000 aphides. The bird population of the country has been estimated at from 700 to 1,000 per square mile, and these birds, few enough in number, are our best protection against the insect enemies which they were intended to destroy. The man who kills these insectivorous birds is helping to destroy his own country

Nearly all children are subject to worms, and many are born with them. Spare them suffering by using Mother Graves' Worm Exterminator, an excellent remedy.

There are places in India where there are about 600 inches of rain in some years.

Heavy Oil Production

Growing Importance Of Alberta's Oil and Gas Fields

The steadily growing importance of Alberta's oil and gas fields is shown in recently published figures. The production of Alberta wells for 1928, is placed at 480,531 barrels as compared with 221,354 barrels in 1927. Of the 1928 production the Turner Valley field, in Southern Alberta, contributed 410,623 barrels of naptha, and 70,734 barrels of crude oil, the remaining 8,174 barrels coming from the Bindyrght field. The total production of natural gas for the province in 1928 is placed at 14,-176,000 million cubic feet as compared with 12,833,851 million cubic feet in the previous year.

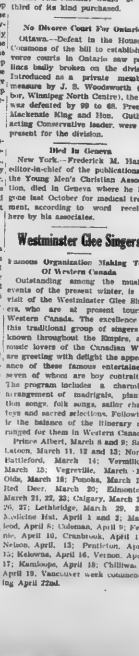
Near Cardiff, Wales, road repairers have placed a sign reading, "A car can be rented to worth two at the ditch."

There are 209 rooms in Buckingham Palace.

Minard's Liniment Relieves Pain.



The whole world knows Aspirin as an effective antidote for pain. But it's just as important to know that there is only one genuine Aspirin. The name Bayer is on every tablet, and on the box. If the name Bayer appears, it's genuine; and if it doesn't, it is not! Headaches are dispelled by Aspirin. So are colds, and the pain that goes with them; even neuralgia, neuritis, and rheumatism promptly relieved. Get Aspirin—at any drug-store—with proven directions.

Physicians prescribe Aspirin; it does NOT affect the heart

Aspirin is the trade mark (registered in Canada) of Bayer Manufacture. While it is well known that Aspirin means Bayer manufacture, to assist the public against imitations, the Bayer Cross will be stamped upon their "Bayer Tablets" hereafter.

INTERIM POOL PAYMENT ON THE 1928 CROP

Winnipeg. — An interim payment on the 1928 crop totalling more than $36,000,000 is being distributed to Wheat Pool members of Western Canada, according to a statement by E. H. Ramsay, general manager of the Canadian Wheat Pool.

The payment is 12 cents per bushel on wheat grades one to five, and on flax and rye, ten cents per bushel is being paid on number six wheat.

Manitoba Pool members are receiving the sum of $2,288,454.46 on deliveries of 18,408,000 bushels of wheat, and 709,760 bushels of flax and rye.

Members in Saskatchewan are receiving $17,499,453.34 on 146,414,000 bushels of wheat, and 2,165,860 bushels of flax and rye.

The Alberta Pool payment of $6,-490,883.12 is on 50,000,000 bushels of wheat. The total amount distributed is $26,186,923.52.

The payment made at this time is the first payment to be made on grain of the 1928 crop following the initial payment made at the time of delivery by the grower. In 1926 the first interim payment was dated March 9, but pool officials state that the date of the payment was advanced this year as much as possible in order to accommodate the thousands of pool members who have been hard hit financially as a result of the very disastrous frost which occurred on August 25, 1928, and which was general over the three provinces.

The Saskatchewan crop was particularly damaged by this frost owing to the fact that there are no few districts in the province which were not affected to the extent of lowering the grade of the crop from two to four grades.

Commenting on the aspect of the 1928 crop, and on the payment now being made, A. J. McPhail, president of the Saskatchewan Wheat Pool said:

"Notwithstanding the relatively higher price for wheat which prevails now as compared with the heavy crop season of 1923-24 when the Alberta Pool also made an interim payment of 12 cents per bushel, and notwithstanding the exceptionally heavy crop harvested by Saskatchewan farmers in 1928, there is no question that the wheat grower has just cause to be greatly troubled over the financial returns from his efforts last year By way of comparison it may be said that for the period of the crop year, August 1 to January 31, the grading of Saskatchewan Pool deliveries from the 1927 crop showed only 22.23 per cent. as falling into the grades from No. 4 to feed, while the corresponding figure for the crop of 1928 is 55.81 per cent. The cause of this greatly increased percentage of lower grades from the 1928 crop is the widespread frost which occurred in August, 1928.

Appointed To Tariff Board

Ottawa.—Hon James Robb, minister of finance, announced the appointment of Frank A. Jacobs, D.S.A., of Dewinton, Alta., to the vacancy on the tariff advisory board. Mr. Jacobs is a farmer, and succeeds the Hon. D. G. McKenzie, who resigned to enter the provincial government of Manitoba.

For Educational Purposes

Brandon, Man.—That the Manitoba government set aside one-eighteenth of all the natural resources that came under provincial control for educational purposes will be urged as a result of a resolution passed unanimously by the annual convention of the Manitoba School Trustees' Association.

Close Town Jail

Danville, Ill.—With the office of chief of police abolished as unnecessary and the lock-up abandoned as a five-day town of 8,000 limits, Danville is now depending on an honor system. Any arrested person faced the prospect of lodging in the village hotel at the city's expense.

Has Had Effect

Ottawa — Amendments to the Opium and Narcotic Drug Act, to provide for the deportation of aliens convicted of trafficking have had a salutary effect. Convictions have dropped from 1,349 in 1922, to 343 in 1928.

Britain Will Adhere To Locarno Treaty

Has Not Considered Any Other Agreement With Foreign Powers

London, Eng.—Godfrey Locker-Lampson, under secretary of state for foreign affairs, assured the House of Commons that Great Britain would enter into no military agreement with other powers that would in any way be contrary to her obligations to Germany under the Locarno security pact.

He made this statement in answering one of the many questions propounded as a result of recent publication in Holland, of an alleged military pact between France and Belgium, the particular question being:

"Can assurance be given that no military discussion will be held with France or Belgium which would not include Germany, in order strictly to maintain British obligations under the Locarno pact?"

The reply was: "The member may be quite sure that we will do nothing contrary to the Locarno pact."

A volley of questions regarding the alleged Franco-Belgian military agreement, and reports that Great Britain had some connection with it, were fired at the government in the House. Godfrey Locker-Lampson made categorical denial of the rumors, saying:

"Apart from the treaty of Locarno no agreement involving a military obligation has been concluded since the war between this government and Belgium, nor is any military, naval or air understanding in existence between the British government staff and that of any foreign country."

Universal Airways, Limited, Order Another Machine For Use In Saskatchewan

Regina.—Speaking up their plans with the opening up of the weather, officials of the Universal Airways, Ltd., ordered for immediate delivery of a new airplane for use in the province.

Saskatchewan has refused an offer of the transfer of the lands "without any strings attached," and the payment of the present subsidy.

Agreement has been reached to transfer to British Columbia lands in the Peace River block and the railway belt. At present officers of the departments concerned are working on the necessary accounting having to do with the transfer.

With respect to Manitoba, a commission is now engaged on matters concerned with the handing over to that province of its lands and resources.

The Prime Minister made only passing reference to the Seven Sisters Falls lease to the Winnipeg Electric Company. The leader of the opposition had been critical of the paste which Mr. Bennett claimed prompted the government in its retention of the natural resources to Manitoba.

Earlier in the session, the Premier, contrary to his usual custom, had condemned the government for the delay in dealing with this matter. Mr. King remarked, amid laughter, that "the whole reason of the hair was to avoid delay."

Application Is Dropped

Canadian Northeastern Not Building Railway Into Peace River Country

Victoria, B.C. — The Canadian Northeastern railway dropped its application for right to build into the Peace River country and will open conflict with any plans which may be made in that direction for the Pacific Great Eastern, the government-owned line. With its part of its original application dropped, approval of the private bills committee of the legislature was given to the company's request for right to build a line for 283 miles from Stewart, a tidewater port in northern British Columbia, to Fort Graham, in the central northern part of the province.

The Northeastern also dropped its request for right to build a branch up the Finlay river from Fort Graham for 100 miles, pending decision of the future of the government line.

PREMIER KING ON THE QUESTION OF RESOURCES

Ottawa.—The whole vexed question of the return of the natural resources to the western provinces was ventilated in the House of Commons recently. In a lengthy speech, Premier Mackenzie King reviewed the history of the natural resources problem and outlined the position today.

In brief, the situation at present, as dealt with by the prime minister, is as follows:

The province of Alberta is now in receipt of an offer from the Dominion government of the return of its natural resources coupled with the payment to it of a subsidy amounting to $562,000 annually for all time.

Saskatchewan has refused an offer of the transfer of its lands "without any strings attached," and the payment of the present subsidy.

Agreement has been reached to transfer to British Columbia lands in the Peace River block and the railway belt. At present officers of the departments concerned are working on the necessary accounting having to do with the transfer.

With respect to Manitoba, a commission is now engaged on matters concerned with the handing over to that province of its lands and resources.

The Prime Minister made only passing reference to the Seven Sisters Falls lease to the Winnipeg Electric Company. The leader of the opposition had been critical of the paste which Mr. Bennett claimed prompted the government in its retention of the natural resources to Manitoba.

Earlier in the session, the Premier, contrary to his usual custom, had condemned the government for the delay in dealing with this matter. Mr. King remarked, amid laughter, that "the whole reason of the hair was to avoid delay."

Dynamite Plot Failed

Explosive Is Found In Office Of Premier Taschereau, Of Quebec

Quebec.—Questioned as to a rumour that an attempt had been made on his life, Premier Taschereau stated that when he went to his office in the parliament buildings at 10.45 a.m. he found a stick of dynamite on the floor, with a half-burned fuse attached. The fuse had been extinguished by some agency after burning a few inches.

Premier Taschereau had been attending a committee meetings in the parliament buildings and at its conclusion returned to his office.

Switching on the lights at once he noticed the dynamite lying on the floor.

Premier Taschereau had the explosive removed by police and it was discovered to be dynamite of the most powerful type.

Famous Flyer In Accident

Col. Lindberg and His Fiancee, Miss Morrow, Meet With Mishap

Mexico City.—Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh's flying skill saved the life of his fiancee, Miss Anne Morrow, when their plane capsized on landing at Valbuena Field.

The colonel is confined to bed in the American embassy residence with what embassy attaches describe as a "slightly dislocated shoulder blade." Miss Morrow was badly frightened, but not injured.

Colonel Lindberg was returning from an air trip of several hours with the girl whom he will marry. The aeroplane, a four-passenger monoplane named the "City of Wichita," had been crippled by the loss of a landing wheel and the colonel faced a situation of unusual danger with the chances favoring a crash.

He brought the 'plane safely to earth and taxied for thirty yards on one wheel with the axle of the missing wheel dragging on the ground. Suddenly the 'plane pitched forward and turned completely over.

Later, Colonel Lindberg declared "this is nothing at all. It is not an accident; it is simply a mishap."

The banner for sending the largest sum per member to Home Trust Fund was presented to Mrs. J. Hay, worthy matron of the lodge. Mrs. Hay was elected Grand Treasurer of the Grand Lodge for Alberta, the following platform being adopted by the Lodge which aimed at the establishment of firmer relations between Canada and other members of the British Empire. The lodge put itself on record as being in favor of absolute separation of church and state; a non-sectarian national school system; equal rights all, irrespective of creed or color; unswerving loyalty to the British flag and constitution, the encouragement of immigration from the British Isles and the United States and other preferred countries; and several other items all aimed at the strengthening of the Empire bonds. Other delegates attending from here were Mrs. K. Mc-Mann, Vermilion, and Mrs. White of Chauvenal. This is the second year that the Lodge has won this distinction.

PROPERTY IN WEST END IN DEMAND

Lots Along Steam Line Nearly All Sold

If the sale of lots in the residential section of the west end of town is any indication of the houses that will be built in the coming summer, then Vermilion is in for a residence build ing boom. Needless to say the lots that are in demand are those along the central heating steam line that runs to the High school, the choice ones being long since picked out. The thirty foot lots facing on Main street are as yet not completely sold, lots from 1 to 5 being taken and lots 12 to 20 being rink property. Lot 21 on the other side facing on First St. north is reserved for the proposed swimming pool. The next vacant property, lots 22 and 24 are reserved for the curling rink, providing that company desire them. The only vacant lot on that side of the street is No 26, while of the remainder, Mr. A. M. West owns the corner lot number 27, Lorne McLean lot 31 and Ed. Darley lot 30 It is understood that all lot holders intend building first class residences in 1929 as will also Mr. Melvin Hill who has lots 1, 2 and 3 on Main street of the same block More residences have been a long felt need in Vermilion and apparently we are at last to experience some activity in building along this line

Beacon Searchlight to be Installed

The Town Council has recently made a grant of land for the establishment of a Port of Call in the east end of town. The land granted is one mile east, just opposite the property of Mr. E. Darbo. Ten acres is included in the grant, the landing field itself is to be triangular in shape and will be equipped with a large and powerful beacon revolving searchlight, which will be supplied by the Dept of Militia and Defence; also half of the cost of operating the light will be at the expense of the department The town is to supply barley and obstacle lights for the field. It is understood that the field will be placed and cleared and otherwise treated to insure easy landing should any planes come to land here. The beacon light itself is well worth any small expense the town might have in this connection

ISLAY ITEMS

Four rinks went east to the Kitscoty spiel last week and all brought back some prizes. Beecroft reached the finals in the grand challenge and got 2nd. Shaw's crew won 3rd in the same event and also 3rd in the Mar Hinnie. McFadden got 4th in the Merchants and Mayhew's got second in the Consolation. They might have won first, but defeated the last game They thought that 4 tons of coal was more use to cold Kitscoty than in this balmy belt.

The mixed bonspiel opened Monday night at 8:30 The ice was damp and heavy, but hardened up as the games proceeded, and Will Shaw's and J. Carew's rinks are their games, and early Tuesday morning Dr Rhaup and Dr. Hamilton won their games The next draw started out but there was not a lady who could get the rocks down over the hog line so the spiel has been called off indefinitely. There is a fine collection of prizes in the Hayward windows which may have to stand over for a year

Two rinks of lady curlers went up to Vermilion Monday Mrs Beecroft and Mrs. Pulleyblank won their respective games All had a good time and they wish to thank the ladies of Vermilion for their kind entertainment

A carload of cattle was shipped to Edmonton and a carload of horses was shipped by Mr. Mooney to Van Lewis, Ont.

The annual curling sermon will be preached in Knox church Sunday.

VETS TAKE STRANGLE HOLD ON WIEBE CUP

Islay Lady Curlers Play Here

Two rinks of lady curlers from Islay played two rinks of local ladies here last Monday night, and although each town represe ntatives were successful in winning one game each, the local ladies drew two points to the good on the round. The scores of the games were, Mrs. Knaul, Vermilion, 6; Mrs. Mitchell, Islay, 2; Mrs. Mutch, Vermilion, 6; Mrs. Pulleyblank, Islay, 19

The regular fortnightly Whist Drive and Dance, under the auspices of the Canadian Legion, will be held in the Memorial Hall on Wednesday next, March 20th at 8.30 p.m. Prizes on view at M Weber & Sons.

Examination Of Mine Prospectuses Likely

British Columbia Will Legislate To Protect Investors

Legislation designed to protect investors in British Columbia mines is being introduced in the Provincial Legislature by the Government. It will force all new mining companies to file copies of their prospectuses with the mines department as soon as they are issued so that the department may act immediately against any misleading statements about mineral properties.

The new law is designed to speed up the issuance of official statements and so prevent "wild cat" promotions from obtaining the public's money before they can be quashed

ABOUT YOUR NERVES

Headaches and Other Troubles Follow When the Nerves Give Way

Nerves are delicate fibres running from the brain to all parts of the body Some of them give us the sense of touch, others of pain, others convey the will to our muscles and enable us to move. When we have an "attack of nerves" it means that the body is in some way out of order and the nerves have become oversensitive so that we get neuralgia, nervous headaches, dizziness or other nerve trouble. Sometimes the nerves are too weak to do their work in the brain, and we get trembling fingers or those cases of ill health dance The whole nervous system is fed and kept healthy by your blood. If the blood is poor or thin and weakness follows, in that case a tonic is needed to build up the blood, and that it may in turn feed the nerves, quiet and heal them. A very good medicine for enriching the blood is Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. They will not take them without feeling the good they give. They especially improves your brain is cleaner, you feel full of new life. One sufferer, Miss Laing and Mr. MacKenzie, Caledonia Road, N.S., tells what this medicine did for her She says: "I suffered for a long time from severe headaches and nervous exhaustion. I tried several kinds of medicine but got no relief until I used Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and these, before long gave me complete relief. From my own experience I feel that I cannot praise Dr. Williams' Pink Pills too highly, and would advise anyone who is suffering from headaches or nervous exhaustion, to give them a fair trial, as I feel sure the results cannot be anything but satisfactory."

Take these pills as a tonic if you are not in the best physical condition and cultivate a resistance that will keep you well and strong. You can get these pills through any medicine dealer or by mail at 50 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Noted Explorer Dies

Surgeon Captain Edward Atkinson, commander of the Antarctic expedition that found Captain Scott and his companions and brought back the records in 1913, is dead at the age of 49 years. He served with the Grand Fleet in the war at Calliope and with the Howitzer Division in France, earning the D.S.O. and mention in despatches.

New Form Of Identification

Teeth prints have been added to finger prints and foot prints as means of identifying criminals. When inquiring into a burglary at a priest's house at Odense, Denmark, the police found teeth marks in a cake in the form of a marzipan pig. A suspect's teeth were examined and found to tally with the marks on the candy.

Reverence the Sabbath, Exodus 20: 8-11.—Remember the Sabbath day, to keep it holy: The root meaning of the word rendered "believed" in verse 11, is "to separate"; the Sabbath day is to be separated from other days by the way it is spent. It is to be consecrated to God in all thy work.

There are many persons whose difficulty in keeping this fourth commandment lies right there—they are too lazy to work the six days. The commandment lays stress upon working as well as upon rest. "Every man is as lazy as he dares to be," is an old proverb which is not true, without some measure of truth. "Life without industry is sin," declared Ruskin. The tragedy of many a life is that time is not felt to be a trust for whose use he must render account. "The true reason of a man's life apprehension of a day."

"For the Son of man is Lord in imitation of God's rest. Do, by all manner of means, and keep also the rest fit the week in imitation of God's work."—Ruskin.

The seventh day is a sabbath unto Jehovah thy God; in it thou shalt not do any work. The seventh day is to be distinguished from other days by the creation of labor. "The sabbath was made for man," Jesus declared. The needs of body, mind and spirit require one day of rest in seven. The reason given here in Exodus for the distinction to be made between the first six days and the seventh is that God, Himself, labored at creation and rested the seventh day, wherefore He hallowed it, separates it from the other days for special holy uses.

"The setting apart of one day in seven for rest and worship was due, primarily, to the fact that the human machine will run six days with ease and regularity if it can rest on the seventh day, but it will creak and break if it is pushed to the seventh day without relief. The duty of rest is quite as important as the necessity of work. The individual or the nation that disregards this law pays the penalty."—Amory H. Bradford.

COMES WITH A MESSAGE OF HEALTH
THE sun is the all-powerful life producer, Nature's universal disinfectant, and germ destroyer, as well as stimulant and tonic. WINDOLITE is the sun's most important ally.
Medical research has definitely proved that from the point of view of Health and Hygiene, the most effective among the sun's rays are the ultra-violet rays, which possess the greatest power for the prevention and cure of disease and debility.
Science has further established that ordinary window glass does not allow the passage of Ultra-Violet rays, and for this reason was are artificially excluding these vital health-giving rays. Therefore the invention of WINDOLITE has completely satisfied the long-felt need. Exhaustive experiments have conclusively proved that it is a most effective substitute for glass that it freely admits the Ultra-Violet rays, and that its use has a most beneficial effect on the growth and development of pets and chickens and on the well-being of cattle, enabled for the first time to have healthy light instead of darkness in their sheds.
Indeed, the discovery of WINDOLITE has during the last six years completely revolutioned gardening, given a new stimulus to poultry breeding, increasing the egg-laying capacity and fertility of chickens, has greatly improved the health of cattle and is now being used in domestic and household requirements.

When Pain Comes
What many people call indigestion very often means excess acid in the stomach. The stomach nerves have been over-stimulated, and food sours. The corrective is an alkali, which neutralizes acids instantly and the best alkali known to medical science is Phillips' Milk of Magnesia. It has remained the standard with physicians for 50 years since its invention. One spoonful of this harmless, tasteless alkali in water will neutralize instantly many times as much acid, and the symptoms disappear at once. You will never use crude methods when once you learn the efficiency of this. Go get a small bottle in try it.
Be sure to get the genuine Phillips' Milk of Magnesia prescribed by physicians for 50 years in correcting acid-ess acids. Each bottle contains full directions—any druggtore.

Wild berries, dead ripe, hung on bush drooping branches.

A soft "prut-prut-kwit-kwit" came from the leader of a covey of willow grouse that were feeding on the tiny fruit of a crab-apple tree. The call was answered by a shyer note from some hen mother, who probably was being taught the scale.

The summer had been one of exceptional dryness. For weeks there had been no rain, and a heated sun had poured its fiery rays from a cloudless sky. The heavy mountain dews could not penetrate the close standing timber, and the carpet of needles and moss became dry as tinder. A puff of smoke, from the raging on the Coast, hung over lake and mountain

For Wilkinson and his men there were anxious days. They covered the section between the mill and Squaw Ish twice a day, scanning the hillsides and valleys with the watchful eyer on the alert; plending and exhorting the settlers and loggers to greater vigilance, and all the while praying fervently for rain.

Donald had posted a notice that any one found smoking in the neighborhood of the woods would be immediately dismissed. Logging creates a vast amount of debris, so it is known, and a menace to the men of the woods With the commission of the Forestry men Donald's crew had piled enormous heaps of slash on the hillside, awaiting a favourable opportunity to burn. These menacing piles of brush, piled on this true specific with the assurance that it will always do all that its makers claim, and that you get 5-cented how safe you are with this preparation at hand get it today and know for yourself.

A TOWER OF STRENGTH

1928

Assurances in force (net) — An Increase of $469,915,000	$1,896,915,000
New Assurances Paid for — An Increase of $112,836,000	441,244,000
Total Income — An Increase of $41,972,000	144,747,000
Surplus earned during the Year	40,264,000
Payments to Policyholders and Beneficiaries	49,920,000
Surplus and Contingency Reserve — An Increase of $9,157,000	66,938,000
Total Liabilities (including Paid up Capital)	422,020,000
Assets, at December 31st, 1928 — An Increase of $47,053,000	488,958,000
Rate of Interest earned on mean invested assets (net)	6.58%

DIVIDENDS TO POLICYHOLDERS INCREASED FOR SIXTH SUCCESSIVE YEAR

The Company has also inaugurated the practice of paying a special maturity bonus to holders of endowment policies, five or more years in force, terminating by death or maturity.

EXTRACTS FROM DIRECTORS' REPORT

... After deducting amounts re-assured, the total assurances in force on account to $1,896,915,934.37, an increase of $469,923,254.48. Policies in force number 845,240, and in addition 136,291 certificates of assurance are held by employees of corporations and firms under the group plan.

While every field of operation contributed its full share to these impressive advances, the rapid development of our business in Great Britain and the United States is especially noteworthy. The generous reception of our Company in countries served by powerful domestic institutions is particularly gratifying, as testifying to widespread appreciation of our record and services.

The total paid to policyholders since organization, together with the amount at present held for their security or benefit, exceeds the total amount received from them by $111,170,279.56.

The strength and resources of the Company have been still further enhanced.

The net rate of interest earned on the mean invested assets, after making provision for investment expenses, has risen to 6.58 per cent. Dividend increases, interest and rent receipts, accruing on many of the Company's holdings, contributed substantially to this gratifying result.

A net profit of $11,078,954.59 has been realized from the redemption or sale of securities which had risen to high premiums.

The securities listed in the assets have been valued at figures substantially below the values placed on them by the Government. The understatement of our securities represents an important safeguard against possible adverse market fluctuations, additional to the reserves specifically provided against such contingencies.

We continue to be impressed with the thoroughness and efficiency of the service rendered to the Company's policyholders by the staff of the Company, and to express our appreciation of the manner in which they have discharged their responsibilities.

On behalf of the Board,

WILLIAM HENRY TAFT, President.

Making Movies Educative

Bulgarian Ministry Of Education Supports Well Equipped Picture

Bulgarian Minister of Public Instruction has presented a new bill to Parliament providing for the enlargement for all moving picture houses The Ministry of Education has a moving picture department, supplied with automobiles, projectors and other necessary equipment, as well as lecturers. Picture units work among the remoter towns and villages, showing shows in the open village squares. Here they are altogether insufficient, and the Government wants to expend the movement.

Three Hazardous Jobs

Railroad Worker, Steel Worker, and Miner Are Great Chances

The three most hazardous jobs in America are those of railroad engineer, the rail-road worker and the miner, reports the International Labor Office. Statistics examined by the organization show that the engineer has a chance of slaughtering and maiming people and work in one year out of 1,000.

During the last year the number of accidents were reduced in almost every industry. But one railroad worker in 16 suffered injury from an average time of 75 days. For every 1,000 men employed in the coal mines the total time lost during the year due to accidents was more than 19,265 years.

Mrs. Sam Speers Tells How Cuticura Healed Her Baby

"When baby was three days old," Mrs. Speers writes from Calgary, "it began with very small pimples which had rather large bases. They then scaled over. When these scales dried off a crust formed. It finally covered with moisture. It began on the face and spread to the body, limbs and scalp. It caused baby a great deal of suffering as he could not sleep. I used Cuticura Soap and Ointment. He seemed to get relief after the first treatment and two months he was completely healed." (Signed) Mrs. Sam Speers, Invalid's Alberta

FLU Germs Breed In the Throat.

First Appear As A Common Cold, But think Treacherous Headway in this Stage.

SOME SIMPLE PRECAUTIONS AGAINST INFLUENZA

Simple precautions taken now will enable you to fight dreaded "Flu" which is spreading rapidly through the whole country. The germs of influenza gain access to the body through the mouth and throat. Keep the throat healthy and you go a long way towards stopping the trouble An effective means of preventing the germs from settling in the throat is daily with Nerviline Half a teaspoonful of Nervilline in water makes a most efficient gargle. The same killing properties of Nervilline quickly destroy any bacteria in the mouth or throat If the chest is sore, if the throat is hoarse, if you have a cough—be sure to rub the neck and chest with Nervilline. Every drop of it will rub in, and out will come the congestion.

Of course it is absolutely necessary to insure clean the system with Dr. Hamilton's Pills which stimulate the eliminating organs, and rid the system of disease-breeding germs This combination treatment of Nervilline and Dr. Hamilton's Pills will give prompt and entirely satisfactory results.

BENEFITS EMPLOYES

General Motors is distributing this week to 12,823 of its employes thru the Corporation's and investment Fund, Class of 1923, the sum of $12,964,800, consisting of $2,191,200 in cash and 167,185 shares of General Motors new common stock having a current market value of approximately $20 a share.

General Motors has several plans which have for their object the promotion of the welfare of its employes, of which the Savings plan is one. The other plans include bonuses for employes, seven percent preferred stock investment plan, group insurance, bonus for salaried employes, and Management securities plan for senior executives.

The Savings and Investment Plan started ten years ago, is open to all employes of the Corporation and its divisions. The Plan provides for an equal class which permit the employes to pay into the Savings Fund annually twenty per cent of their salaries or wages, not to exceed $1,000 in any one year. In respect to each class the Corporation agrees that it expressed per year contributed as an investment Fund fifty cents for every dollar paid in by the employes. The Corporation has also agreed that the investment Fund is to be vested in General Motors common stock, the income from which is re-

V.S.A. Defeat Clerks In Last Game Of Civic League

Go Into Pay-Off With Vets

The V. S. A. team defeated the Clerks of Lake team 4-3 in the last scheduled league fixture of the Civic hockey league and by virtue of their win go into the pay-off with the Vets cver. Last night's encounter was played on sticky ice and this played havoc with the light forward line of the Clerks team. The College boys scored a goal in each of the first two periods and two in the final. The high lights of the game were several scraps and near scraps, the heavy going fraying players' tempers badly. The scorers were Boggs, Beepalte, C. Boggs and Burns.

German Aerial Expedition Will Again Attempt Conquest Of the Arctic This Spring

The conquest of the Arctic will again be attempted this spring. Plans for a circuit of the Arctic regions by the German airship LZ-127 have been revealed by Capt. W. Bruna, a German member of the "Aero Arctic," an international scientific organization, who visited officials of the Interior Department seeking their co-operation.

The expedition will be undertaken within the next few months, when the sun in the far north will shine 24 hours a day and the expansion of the gas in the airship will be obviated.

The airship is being lent by the German government, while the Russian government, by erecting a mooring mast at Leningrad, is giving assistance.

An effort will be made to map certain regions in the north. Observations will be made of sea depths and weather conditions.

The "Aero Arctic" foresees the possibility of regular air routes being established between points in the Arctic circle. Another suggested is Yokohama and Vancouver, by way of the Aleutian Island.

The airship will start from Leningrad, thence to Kolan, on the Murmanks coast, to Frank Joseph Land, across the Canadian sector to Nome, Alaska, where it will be re-provisioned, thence to Wrangel Island finally over the Polar basin.

Officials of the Interior Department are considering the undertaking of sending a Canadian scientist on the expedition.

Unearthed Evidence Of Mighty Battle

Last Stand Of Prehistoric Giant Against Buffalo Found In Alberta

Barking back into primordial existence on the Dark Continent, read of the discovery in a quarry at Springbok Flats, north of Pretoria, South Africa, unearthed evidence of a mighty battle in the dim past between an extinct species of giant buffalo and a powerful, giant-like primitive man. Indications from the shattered bones of man and beast which were found lying close together in the same stratum were that the man had been trampled to death by the buffalo in some remote age.

Most of the man's skull, a majority of the longer bones and parts of the hands have been recovered. The buffalo's remains also indicate that he died a swift and violent death, probably due to injuries inflicted on him by the man. The Johannesburg Museum director believes that the hunter and the hunted died almost simultaneously.

The man is officially described as "a powerful, large-sized man not closely related to any of the Negroid races." The size of the buffalo, as judged by measuring between the tips of the horns, must have exceeded that of the largest known American species.

School Attendance

2,394,726 Students Are Enrolled In Educational Institutions Of Canada

The number of students enrolled in the educational institutions of Canada was, according to the latest survey, 2,291,720. These included 2,022,728 in ordinary publicly controlled day schools, 102,668 in technical and evening schools, most of them under public control; 71,668 in private or independent schools; 42,646 in universities and colleges; 3,505 in preparatory courses, or schools affiliated to universities and colleges, in addition to those in private schools. The remainder were in business colleges, normal schools and other scholastic institutions.

The educational standing of the enrolment was 1,632,983 in elementary grades, and 300,149 in secondary or higher grades. These do not include the greater part of night school pupils.

The expenditure on public education during the year 1928-27 is given as $125,576,375.

Fox Ranching Problems

Fox raisers and particularly beginners would do well to secure from the Publications Branch of the Department of Agriculture, Ottawa, a copy of the first report of the Experimental Fox Ranch that has been operated in Prince Edward Island during the past three years. The ranch as described in the report is a model that might safely be followed. Problems of ex-raising, feeding, treatment for parasites and health are dealt with in a helpful way.

Cable Used During War

The post office cable from Peterhead to Rosslin, which was of great service during the War, has been dismantled. At one time a staff of forty-five was employed in handling messages at the Peterhead end of the cable, but this number gradually dwindled as the service fell into disuse.

Cash Bonus For Farmers

Large Sum Is Distributed By Saskatchewan Wheat Pool Elevators, Ltd.

Cheques to the total amount of $1,430,791 were recently distributed to members of the Saskatchewan Wheat Pool Elevators, Ltd., all of whom are farmers. These cheques represented the surplus earnings of the Saskatchewan Pool Elevator system for the crop year 1927-28. At the annual meeting of Saskatchewan Wheat Pool delegates held in Regina last November, it was decided that these be distributed to the members in cash. The payment is being made on the basis of 1½ cents per bushel for grain delivered through Pool country elevators and one cent per bushel for grain delivered to Pool terminals over the platform.

This is the third payment in cash covering the excess charges refund which has been made to Pool members. The amount of the surplus earnings of Saskatchewan Pool Elevators Limited during 1927-28 was returned to growers in Pulse way, 1927, and amounted to $476,000. This figure jumped to $1,373,000 for 1926-27, and for 1927-28 to $1,430,791.96, the amount recently distributed.

Money Needed For Montreal Harbor

Estimated That H.R. Line May Curtail Business At Eastern Port

A bill to authorize a loan of $10,000,000 to the harbor commissioners of Montreal for extension of harbor facilities, received first reading in the House of Commons. Hon. P. J. A. Cardin, minister of marine and fisheries, explained the money was not a gift, but was a loan.

Hon. R. B. Bennett, Conservative leader, drew attention to the possibility of a curtailment of business at Montreal on account of the construction of the Hudson Bay railway. The proposed extension of the line to Winnipeg indicated that some of the business would hereafter go in that direction. Mr. Bennett stated that further discussion would be had on second reading.

January Immigration Figures

Return Movement To Canada From United States Is Noted

Immigration to Canada during January amounted to 4,146, an increase of 18 per cent. over January a year ago. British immigration for the month increased from 771 to 1,-133, immigration from the United States increased from 1,223 to 1,573. Immigration from other countries decreased from 1,688 to 1,458.

The return movement to the Dominion of Canadians who had gone to the United States intending to live there and who came back declaring their intention of remaining, is reported in Canada, amounted during January to 1,767. These are not included in the immigration returns.

At the next World's Poultry Congress, to be held at the Crystal Palace, London, England, in July 1930, it is anticipated that Canada will exhibit about 1,000 live birds. In addition the Dominion will have an educational exhibit.

The cost of the World War has been fixed by a League of Nations committee at $362,500,000,000 (£72,500,000,000).

Alberta School System

Total School Enrolment Is Given As 160,000

Alberta's total school enrolment is approximately 160,000.

A greater percentage of increase occurred last year in high school than in public school enrolment.

The per capita cost of education for all schools in the province has remained practically stationary.

The foregoing information is contained in the annual report of the department of education, tabled in the legislature by Hon. Perren Baker, minister of education.

While the total enrolment in the schools of the province increased by 4,706 in 1928, approximately 37 per cent. of this number is to be found in the high schools. In 1906 the percentage of the entire enrolment in the high school grades was 2.41 in comparison with 11.44.

During the year 56 new school districts were organized. Of these 33 are north of township 53, and 17 north of township 70. The total number of districts in the province now stands 3,497. There are, however, a total of 5,148 departments in regular operation. Eighty-one new one-room schools were built and 13 new two-room schools. The is all enclusive of the building taking place in the towns and cities.

There has been an increased demand for technical education throughout the province.

More than 1,000 more pupils wrote on the departmental examinations than ever before. In the high school grades 75.9 per cent. of all the tests written were passed successfully. Making on an average of 75 per cent. or more on all units required for matriculation or normal entrance 149 pupils obtained standing.

New text books in agriculture for both elementary and secondary schools were introduced during the year, also a new system of grading and manuals. The latter were prepared by the University of Alberta curriculum in writing.

Approximately $150,000 worth of business was done in the school book branch. Ninety-four per cent. of this business was done with firms located in Canada. The remaining six per cent. went to British and American firms.

Sea Power Is Essential

Great Britain Could Not Definitely Renounce Its Use

Unquestionably Great Britain, to reach friendly accord with the United States, would be prepared to go a long way in announcing the use of naval power under certain conditions. It is absurd, however, to suggest, as the United States senate does officially suggest, that Great Britain and other maritime powers must renounce the use of sea power under any and all possible conditions. It is no reflection on the good faith of the United States in any that in time of war not even the American navy would be useful in accordance with the terms of any such treaty.

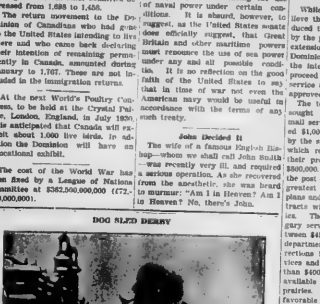
DOG SLED DERBY



Two gentlemen drivers' ice race entered for the Eastern International Dog Sled Derby. There was very little if any of commercialism exercised hereabouts, but the story is the gentlemen drivers who race their own dogs for the love of the sport and given the event a much wider appeal. Famous dog-mushers from the north with malamutes and huskies, as well as owners of dogs of mixed breed, whose dogs are bred for show points. The race goes to those with the greatest stamina. Here over a forty-mile course for each of three days, the derby is an endurance test for man and beast. And no whips are used. Arthur Beauvais is seen above with one of the husky types. Close Kinship Between Life Of Plants and Animals Is Borne Out By Interesting Experiments

Airmen Are Modest

Fame and Notoriety Do Not Seem To Affect Them

Airmen of the first rank are shy birds, for in them modesty seems innate, and it is possibly quite true that none has ever boasted of his feats in the war or of his exploits in flying. Deeds have made them known, but it is not they who gushed over them. Fame, and more often a welter of notoriety, has been thrust upon them; but from it they have emerged as they do from the clouds, unruffled, unaffected, reserved.

They may have flown the north Atlantic, as "three did, from Dublin to Greenly Island, and be engulfed in ovations that would turn the heads of lesser kings. But when the notes subsides, and the glory they beat know came so close to catastrophe, has gone down in the records of aeronautics, those fliers, like the host of their comrades in flight doing their jobs of work, retire into unmolested privacy. Their names were in everyone's mouth for a few months, in a year, are difficult to recall; and they might not be remembered today had one of the three, Baron von Huenefeld, at Berlin, with regrettable untimeliness, taken off on his flight to death.

It was as a passenger that Von Huenefeld joined in the north Atlantic flight, which he had made possible by expending on it all he possessed; but he was a pilot when he died, and in the last few months had been a remarkable flight from Germany to Japan. He had joined the pool who fly. Among combatants, they are apart; among civilians, they are aliens. In war, as in peace, the code is exemplary in honor. It is the same for all nations, high as the ships their airmen fly. They will be wrestling laurels for Von Huenefeld. He would not ask more; for the spirit of valhalla that has taken off will be borne to the aerodrome at which all airmen must land in time, so many so early.

Air Mail For the West

Understood That Post Office Department Will Resume Winnipeg-Calgary Service

While there is good reason to believe that the cabinet greatly reduced the amount of money sought by the post office department for the extension of air mail services in the Dominion, it is understood that it is the intention of the department to proceed with the' Winnipeg-Calgary service as soon as the estimates are approved by parliament.

The total amount of the increase sought by the department for air mail services is said to have exceeded $1,000,000 and this was reduced by the sub-committee of the cabinet which reviews the estimates before their presentation to parliament to $500,000. This reduction will compel the post office officials to exercise the greatest care in preparing their plans and in negotiating air mail contracts with private airway companies. The cost of the Winnipeg-Calgary service was estimated at between $450,000 and $500,000, but the department is committed in other directions in regard to air mail services and as it now stands not more than $400,000 of this amount will be available for this service across the prairies. Notwithstanding this unfavorable situation, however, the officials will proceed with plans and make every effort to arrange the matter that a service will be begun, probably next autumn.

His Reminder

A R.C. strolling along a street one morning, came to a fishmonger's shop. He was fascinated by the dead, expressionless eyes of the fish on a slab in the window.

"Good lor', that reminds me," he said suddenly hurrying away. "I've got to address a special jury this afternoon."

A British scientist predicts that in time to come men will be born toothless. We thought, in our ignorance, that they usually were born that way.

Could Not Hold It

The station-master rushed out of his room after hearing a crash on the platform. He discerned a disheveled young man sprawled out perfectly flat among an confusion of overturned milk cans and the scattered contents of his traveling bag.

"Was he trying to catch the train?" the station-master asked of a small boy who stood by admiring the scene.

"He did catch it," said the boy, "but it got away again."

Platt: "Yes? What is it?"

Pratt: "Crocus."

HOSPITAL BOARD MEETING

Minutes of the Vermilion Municipal Hospital Board meeting held on Saturday, 9th inst., all members of the Board being present.

Messrs. Morrison, Symes and Jurs were returned as hospital representatives by their different municipalities for another term of two years.

The following resolutions were moved and seconded:

That Mr. J. J. Hope be appointed chairman for the coming year.

That Mr. A. J. Morrison be appointed vice-chairman for the coming year.

That the chairman, J. J. Hope, and in the absence of the chairman, A. J. Morrison, the vice-chairman, with the secretary be authorized to sign and do the necessary banking business.

That the chairman and the secretary be appointed a committee to see Mr. Sutton in regards to the placing of hospital liability insurance and to get same if found satisfactory.

That the date for resident ratepayers in towns, villages and hamlets for paying the minimum hospital tax be set at 1st day of June and that the secretary advertise same in the Vermilion weeklies.

That the auditor be requested to make a monthly check of the Hospital books instead of only annually as at present and that the chairman and secretary be a committee to arrange for same.

In regards to the application that had been received at the previous meeting for an increase in salary by Miss Jensen (cook) it was moved and passed that Miss Shorten be given an increase of salary of $5.00 commencing March 1st.

Miss Spencer recommended that an increase be given to Miss Nahabenick in with the cook that she was given an increase of $5.00 as from March 1.

In regards to the hot water boiler which is causing Messrs. Mercheldt Hamborough and Taylor were appointed a committee to see that same is repaired as soon as possible.

It was decided that the Secretary write the assessed valuations of all units in the hospital district and forward copy of same to each Board member so that when the matter of requisitioning came up at the next meeting all members would be in a position to more readily set the requisitions.

HIGH SCHOOL NOTES

The High School play "Minstrums" will be given in the Columbia Theatre on the evening of Easter Monday. As this play is on the course of study for Grade XI each alternate year, the students taking part are all chosen from the third year. Special attention is being paid to the costuming. There are three periods—100, 1066, 1912. In the first act the Rhoads and Sibleys are seen in the quaint crinoline and frock coats. In the second act the next generation appears in the paten nine snobbishness of the early eighties. The third act finds the grandchildren wearing pop-tops and semi-empire shirts. If this doesn't seem romantic enough it may be added that one of the girls will wear her grandmother's wedding gown in the style of 1866.

The play itself is of modern drama. It has subtle and spontaneous humour and it is both literature and history. It's greatest appeal however, lies in the fact that it is a play about ourselves. All people live through the same crises as found the Rhoads and Sibleys

The date is Easter Monday, April 1st and the place is the Columbia Theatre.

The hockey game between the Vermilion high school girls and the Mannville girls was held in the Vermilion rink Thursday, 8th. The latter being in the race is unable to give a clear account of it She admitted that by some misfortune the puck once mysteriously passed into the goal which she was guarding. However, we ourselves have that the game was very energetic, and that the puck was down at one end most of the time. Nevertheless, our girls got only one goal, the two last periods being unfruitful for both sides.—Submitted by an observing pupil.

An enjoyable literary meeting was held on Friday, March 8, put on entirely by the Grade IX students. The meeting opened with "O Canada" followed by the Highland Fling by Erwin Kehoe. An enjoyable selection was given by the girls' quartette. John Stewart then played two selections on the mouth organ. The fourth item was a piano solo by Madelon McLeod, who responded to an encore. The male soloette then gave three popular selections. Last, but by no means least, Jean Freeman gave a violin solo and was forced to respond to an encore. The meeting closed with God Save the King

Demonstration Of Pontiac Big Six

At Community Hall March 19th

No resident of this town who is interested in automobiles should miss the motion picture presentation of the new Pontiac Big Six to be held in the C N R Community Hall, on Tuesday, March 19th, according to Mr. George Law, local dealer under whose auspices and through whose courtesy the moving pictures will be shown here

A special representative of the Pontiac factories at Oshawa will direct the presentation which will include three moving pictures specially filmed by General Motors. One of them deals with activity at the huge factories at Oshawa, largest in the Dominion and among the largest automobile plants in the world. This film shows how automobiles are built, from start to finish, takes its audience through the plant where all the Fisher bodies are made. General Motors has also had the sheet metal plant, one of the best equipped in existence, and many other departments.

Another film deals particularly with the new Pontiac, now a "Big Six," which according to factory officials has received a sensational welcome since its introduction recently. This picture gives the most comprehensive thought imaginable into all the advantages and inner workings of the car

The audience will see also how General Motors service men are trained in an interesting film dealing with the activity at the Oshawa Service school. This film is reported to be an education in itself

Body Found In Straw Stack Identified

Proves to Be Bill Chimiliar

The badly burned body found in the ashes of a straw-stack on the big Bell farm west of town was identified late Thursday evening as that of 30-year-old Dill Chimiliar. The identification was by his brother Mike on whose farm the family dwelt and was by means of the unburned clothing on the back of the body. The deceased man was subject to fits

On the day before the fire was noticed at the straw stack, Bill set out with a pack to visit his father near Vegreville, but was overtaken and brought back to the farm by his brother Mike. Mike let Bill out at his gate and then continued to drive on into town. Bill never went to the house, but left his pack and again set out, presumably for Vegreville He was noticed leaving again by a passer-by and by the time Mike with the facts when he returned home. Mike was not worried as he thought some one with whom Bill would of necessity spend the night would recognize him. How-ever, no news came and the next word the brothers had of the missing Bill was on Thursday last. The Chimiliar farm is the old A. J. F. Martin place, one mile south and west of town. The straw stack where the body was found was only about five miles away from the Chimiliar home

How Bill spent the time between the Wednesday that he left and the Thursday afternoon when the fire occured will probably never be known, and the origin of the fire will also be a matter of conjecture

HELPING YE EDITOR

By L. D. Nesbit
(From the Lloydminster Times)

The editor he sits around
And wonders what to write;
He's got to think up something good,
But must not start a fight.
The editor he wants the dope,
He wants the news and stuff,
Most any little yoke will do
But it mustn't be too rough.
The editor he wants to know
What folks go for a frolic;
'Bout marriages and even dates
Or cure for baby's colic;
Pressed hose, trousers and the like,
And what's become of Jimmie,
And for anything orig inal
Why, say, his name is "gimme."
The editor he sits around
And wonders what to write;
He looks for news the whole day long
And can't for it at night
Well, let's all help the editor
With the contribution stuff:
Let's deliver him with newsy news
Until he cries "ENOUGH!"

Canada's Financial Position

The financial position of the Dominion of Canada, as revealed by Hon. J. A. Robb in the budget presented by him to the House of Commons on March 1, is such as to be the source of great satisfaction to all citizens because, irrespective of party affiliations, every Canadian is intensely interested in the sound subjects of Dominion finances and taxation.

During the war Canada piled up a huge debt for a nation of less than ten million people. The people assumed the heavy burden without grumbling knowing it to be absolutely necessary, and a price that must be paid to safeguard the liberties of all the world, including their own. As war expenditures are reduced, and the debt piled up, it, of course, became necessary to impose much new and heavier taxation, not only to keep the revenue in balance with expenditures, but in order to meet heavy annual interest payments on the debt.

Even after victory was won it was necessary to still further increase the debt in order to bring an armies home from Europe, re-establish the men in civilian life and make certain that huge sums to be paid annually in pensions. Therefore, for some years the debt continued to increase and heavy taxation to be imposed. At the time it almost seemed that, instead of the debt being reduced [illegible] increasing from year to year.

[illegible] are glad to be able to say that the situation is now more encouraging and is far more than that. March 31 last, after meeting all expenditures on both current and capital account, it was reported a surplus of $70,000,000, the largest ever recorded since Confederation. And this surplus for 1923-29 follows on the heels of a surplus of $67,000,000 in the preceding year. The net result is that as heavy taxation is to be kept up the happy position of being able to pay them off in cash and not forced to borrow by refunding loans. In other words, the debt is being steadily, even rapidly, reduced. In the fiscal year now closing $50,000,000 has been paid off, and he has cash in hand to pay off another $60,000,000 which falls due next August. Thus in two years $113,000,000 is paid off the national debt, and about $4,000,000 a year saved in interest.

Mr Robb pointed out that seven years ago, on April 1, 1922, the annual interest charge on the public debt amounted to $133,182,113 whereas on April 1, 1929, the annual charge would be $117,142,100 a decrease of $16,340,012

This very gratifying reduction has been brought about, not by increasing taxation, but on the contrary, in the face of a steady lessening of that burden. For example the sales tax, which a few years ago was six per cent, is now only two per cent, the rate of postage has been reduced from five cents to two cents. The list of incomes exempt from taxation has been increased, and the rates payable on others reduced, the stamp taxes on receipts abolished and on cheques largely reduced numerous reductions in customs tariff schedules have been made, and low rates on telegrams, cables, insurance policies, railway and steamship tickets are to go.

It is not possible, of course, to remove taxation as rapidly as it was imposed during the war years, but every year some some advance in the right direction is made. And every such reduction has had a beneficial effect on the business of the country with the result that the lower rates have brought in revenues only slightly smaller

Reductions in taxation have been made possible through three main causes. First, the care exercised by Mr Robb over all expenditures which he has insisted be kept down to the lowest possible point consistent with efficiency and the requirements of the country. Economy has not been enforced to the point where development of the country was checked, but expenditures on non-productive services have been kept to a minimum. Second, returns in 1928, 1927 and 1922, for the Canadian National Railways were operated at a deficit amounting in those three years to no less a sum than $146,000,000 in the year just closed, the C.N.R. not only paid all operating expenses, all interest on bonds and debentures held by the public, but accumulated a cash surplus of $6,000,000 Third, the substantial increase in the trade and commerce of Canada, assisted by reductions in taxation, and the marked development in all branches of industry, has brought large revenues to the Government.

And the bright, the promising feature of the situation is that all indications point to a continuance of these same favorable conditions throughout the next fiscal year so that the people of Canada can look forward with a large degree of confidence to next year's Budget disclosing another large reduction in the nations debt and still further decreases in taxation.

Investigating Breathing Of Bees Discloses Interesting Facts About Health

To spend time investigating the question of the bee's breath may seem superfluous, but scientists have determined that besides giving a clue as to the health of the hive in the winter time and in the summer, the breathing is an index to other interesting facts about the colony. Professor G. H. Vansell, of the University of California, rigged an apparatus by which he could measure the carbon dioxide and the water vapor given off by a colony of bees in both winter and summer.

Predicts Library Of Aerial Photographs

May Be Created Within Ten Years By Land Surveyors

The creation of a library of records of aerial photographs within the next 10 years to constitute a reference source for Canada's natural resources was predicted by President J. W. Pierce, D.L.S., at the annual meeting of Dominion Land Surveyors at Ottawa when he said that already 250,000 aerial photographs covering the country from coast to coast had been assembled and placed in use for this purpose under the supervision of the Air Board, Canada, Department of the Interior.

Our Natural Resources

Wonderful National Heritage Of Untold Wealth Awaiting Development

The natural resources of Alberta are an immense heritage. Those natural industries will some day grow up in the Canadian west. Coal, oil, timber, lumber, water power, as well as rich agricultural land await the coming of capital and organizing genius to develop the province's part of untapped natural resources in the years ahead, before the end of this present century, agriculture may of self have been transformed into something like a manufacturing industry operated largely by industrial chemistry. In the meanwhile, there is any amount of work ahead of the province to make the most productive use of the resources which the Dominion government are handing over as part of the western share of a wonderful national heritage.

Marshall Stillman Movement Is Stolen Hedge Discharged Convicts To Imitate

Possibly fate may have dealt my offhand wrist the Marshall Stillman Movement is, and yet it is grappling with, and greatly aiding in the solution of, one of the most pressing social problems in the United States, that of taking care of the convict on his discharge. It strives to catch the former convict just as he leaves prison in a mood of sprightliness and to give that mood an opportunity to express itself. Its "clubs" have figured as perhaps the most important feature of its work until recently, for during the last year the question of jobs for its wards has been answered more successfully than ever before by the establishment of enterprises where former convicts alone are employed. The plan has exceeded beyond expectation, and to date, has to its credit a 100 per cent. record of achievement, that is, there have been no backsliders.

Society has in the past been responsible for many first-time offenders becoming habitual criminals. This movement is an effort to enable the ex-convict honestly desire to do so, really to straighten out. — Chicago Science Monitor.

Western Canada Air Mail Routes

Vote In Parliament Foreshadows Important Development

The main estimates tabled in parliament almost certainly foreshadow the establishment this year of an air mail service in western Canada. Leaving in mind the probable cost of the Winnipeg-Calgary air mail service, the increases in the appropriations to be sought by the post office department and the national defence department can be interpreted in no other way than as foreshadowing this most important development.

The vote on the air mail service in the estimates of the post office department is figured from $450,000 to $1,250,000 and this is more than sufficient to cover all contracts necessary in the western services. Besides the increase in the vote for the establishment of air routes, the estimates of the department, of $313,625, is about twice the amount required to construct light beacons and emergency landing fields along the 1,850 mile route from Winnipeg to Calgary and north from Regina to Saskatoon, and from Calgary to Edmonton.

In other respects the main estimates are of great interest to the west. The items for the encouragement of agriculture show very substantial increases. There is an additional vote of $437,000 for seed grain warehouses, $250,000 for seed grain control and grants to seed fairs, $150,000 for experimental farms, $180 000 for health or animals, $100,000 to establish a co-operative fruit by-products plant, and $100,000 for Canada's share in the newly organized empire bureau of research.

Miss Holman Prov of Legal, and formerly of Vermilion, passed away in Edmonton on Saturday, March 9th at the age of 52 years. The remains were forwarded Tuesday to Legal where funeral services were held yesterday morning at 10 a.m. o'clock, the Rev. Fr. Gentler officiating. Miss Prov was housekeeper for Father Gentler in Vermilion for many years and accompanied him to Legal; since a year ago last September she had been in hospital in Edmonton suffering from cancer. Her illness was borne with Christian fortitude and powerful resignation.

Find Woman Not Guilty of Slaying

Insufficient Evidence is Brought Forward in Murder Case at Vermilion

EDMONTON, March 19. — Mary Jaymar, made little Indian woman, is on her way back to her tent in the encampment near Vermilion today, freed of the charge of killing Kathleen Deschenaux with a club last November. But while the jury brought in a verdict of Not Guilty after 45 minutes' deliberation Monday afternoon, the accused woman was not permitted to leave the prisoner's dock without a stern warning from Mr. Justice Simmons, the trial judge.

Through an interpreter the court said: "The jury have found you not [illegible]. You should thank you are very fortunate because I think the probabilities are that you did kill this woman."

Evidence Lacking

In his charge to the jury, Mr Justice Simmons appeared to charge in favor of a manslaughter verdict or a straight acquittal, the evidence seemingly insufficient to support the more serious charge of murder.

Throughout the trial and even while the interpreter was explaining the Judge's warning, the countenance of Mary Jaymay's face did not change. Seated in the dark beside the police matron, the accused continually wrung her hands and seemed frightened of her strange surroundings (once, however, her face was wreathed in smiles, when her counsel, Hugh Macdonald, shook her hand after the court had been adjourned. It was only at this moment that the Indian woman seemed to realize she was free once more to pursue her nomad life among the wide open spaces of the North [illegible].

Premier Brownlee Here on 27th

With Hon. R. G. Reid Will Deliver Addresses at Closing Exercises of V. S. A.

The closing exercises of the Vermilion School of Agriculture will take place in the large gymnasium of the new dormitory, March 27th will be given over entirely to the various functions

Premier Brownlee and Hon. R G Reid, Provincial Treasurer, will, it is reported, both be present and as this will be the first visit of the Premier since the building of the dormitory, it will insure a large gathering of the people of the district who are interested in the School and students

During the morning of the 27th the students will be putting the finishing touches on the exhibits which will be larger and more extensive than ever. These exhibits will be placed in the large classroom and library of the dormitory and will be open for inspection at 1.30 p.m.

The fashion show which drew such a large gathering last year will be held in the gymnasium beginning promptly at 2 p.m. There will be much more seating room for the large crowds of women who will be interested. In the fashion parade the first and second year girls will wear the various dresses, gowns, suits, etc that have been made during the term An added feature this year will be the exhibition of more than fifty milliners creations that were made when Mrs Nye visited the school in January. The general exhibits will consist of all kinds of grain, grasses, suits, lingerie, layettes, millinery, stock cooking, kitchen furnishings, laundry equipment, household labor savers, carpentry, blacksmithing, etc. Altogether it will be by far the largest exhibit ever put on at the school, both from the standpoint of students taking part and equipment exhibited

At 6 p.m. the banquet will be put on in the dining room in honor of the graduating class, which will be larger in number than any preceding group

In the evening the graduating exercises will take place at 8 o'clock when Premier Brownlee will be the speaker of the evening and this in itself will assure a capacity audience. Every available chair is being called into service and it is expected that there will be [illegible] accommodation for all in the gymnasium with the aisles and back [illegible] occupied.

An interesting feature of the evening's proceedings will be the presentation of the Ingmire Society's bronze medal to little Rosetta Annette for her heroic efforts in saving the lives of her younger brother and sister when their home was burned last winter. Premier Brownlee will make the presentation

The evening's proceedings will open with the procession of the graduating class and in addition to the principal address [illegible] there will be a musical [illegible]. The last feature on the evening's program will be the presentation of [illegible] scholarships won by the [illegible] pupils, also the numerous prizes [illegible] have been donated by local [illegible] and others and which have been won in the various departments.

A very cordial welcome is extended to all, and especially the parents and friends of students to visit the school and to see the exhibits and the fashion parade, and also to attend the closing exercises in the evening

There will also be the closing dance to which the friends and visitors will be invited. The dance will only be for those who have attended the closing exercises and the dance will be closed after the evening proceedings begin at 8 p.m.

Mrs Geo. Duncan (nee Miss Betty Astley) left for the Pacific Coast to night.

LOCAL ELKS HOLD SUCCESSFUL ANNUAL FROLIC

The most successful social function held in Vermilion for many years took place in the Community Hall on Monday night March 18th, when the "Brother Bills" of the Vermilion Lodge of Elks staged their Annual Frolic

Over three hundred people, including many from points in this district attended the dance which was undoubtedly the social event of the season.

The "Brother Bills" had spared no effort to make the event a memorable one and the entertainment committee [illegible] in charge of the [illegible] and [illegible] which was [illegible] by Mrs Eh headquarters since Monday noon.

Cause of Asthma. No one can say with certainty exactly what causes the establishing of asthmatic conditions. Dust from the street, from horses, from grain and various other irritants may set up a trouble long-endured by irradiate passages through a sure preparative such as Dr J D Kellogg's Asthma Remedy. Uncertainty may exist as to cause, but there can be no uncertainty regarding a remedy which has freed a generation of asthmatic victims from the terrors of the bronchial tubes. Wilkins Party Bolted By Meeting Ice At Expedition Base

The Antarctic was almost too warm for airplane exploration during the time the Wilkins expedition was at its base at Deception Island early in the winter, Sir Hubert Wilkins, leader of the party, said after his arrival from South America.

The warmest summer season in 14 years melted ice at the expedition camp and limited Wilkins of the three-motored-equipped planes, the explorer said.

Wilkins said he made no attempt to reach the south pole, approaching only within 650 miles of it, devoting his time to preliminary survey for weather observation stations in the Antarctic.

Electric Power in Alberta

Transmission Lines Have been Spread over the Province At a Rapid Rate

The rapid rate at which electric transmission lines have been spread over the province of Alberta, especially during 1928, is indicated in a recently issued government report A network of high tension lines now radiates east and west, north and south over the central and southern part of the province. There is a continuous line from Edmonton in the north to Magrath south of Lethbridge, in the south, with the exception of the gap of less than thirty miles between Millet and Ponoka still to be closed.

The power company, with headquarters in Calgary, is operating 332 miles of 66,000-volt lines and 536 miles of 13,200-volt lines. Of this mileage approximately 50 miles of 66,000-volt lines, and 474 miles of 13,200 volt lines were built during 1928, and the company is completing in the north now extends as far east as Wainwright and Hardisty

Tax On Bachelors

Cuba Has Some Advanced Ideas On Legislation

Cuba is not the only country that imposes a tax upon its bachelors, but it is the only one in which the organization has shown the enterprise of establishing a governmental matrimonial bureau where prospective mates file their photographs. That, indeed, seems progress. Cuba is not satisfied with collecting money every year from dollars from all bachelors who persist in eluding the wile of women. If it succeeds in its efforts at reaching ideals. It would bring together those lonely souls, make and it made, the perfect union and in the perfectly complex fact unable to take the necessary steps which might lead to matrimony and the alter.—Springfield Union.

A DANGEROUS MONTH FOR THE BABY

Mothers Always Dread the Blustering March Days

No month of the year is so dangerous to the baby as March—the month of March—the month of quickly changing weather. One day is fine, the next cold and disagreeable. It is in the next wet and disagreeable. In spite of all precautions, few little ones will miss colds and these colds often lead to serious illness. Mothers, when the first symptoms appear—sore throat, cough in the eyes, running nose—Baby's Own Tablets should be given at once. They will rapidly break up the cold and prevent the more serious complications.

Mothers who keep a box of Baby's Own Tablets on the house may feel safe—just like having a doctor in the house. These Tablets are a gentle but thorough laxative that sweetens the stomach and regulates the bowels, thus driving out constipation and indigestion, relieving the baby of the many childhood ailments which are the direct result of a clogged condition of the bowels or of a sour stomach.

Baby's Own Tablets are sold by all medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

A Great Canadian

Prof. Shotwell Was Close Adviser Of Woodrow Wilson and One Of the Authors Of Kellogg Peace Pact

Mr. E. J. Garland and the Methodist Minister deserve thanks for declaring to Parliament recently that one of the greatest men of the world [illegible] Fact is none other than S Canadian, Prof. Shotwell, of Columbia University. Canada has given many notable figures to the industrial, commercial and academic life of the United States. It is doubtful whether she has given anyone who has made a more distinguished contribution to the republic than Prof. Shotwell. Born in Canada and educated in Canada, Prof. Shotwell stands today as one of the most eminent figures in the whole scholastic field of the United States. His name, indeed, is known wherever international or world politics is discussed, the pity is that it is not better known among his own countrymen here in Canada.

Prof. Shotwell first arrested world attention when he became one of the close advisers of Woodrow Wilson in the sphere of foreign affairs. [illegible] the Peace Treaty of Versailles was in the making, he was in Paris, and later on, in pamphlets and numerous volumes and newspaper articles and lectures he has dealt with international questions with a scholarship and sure grasp of realities revealing by few of his contemporaries.

Prof. Shotwell, in fact, must be regarded as among the greatest of living Canadians. The pity is that, like many another, he is an exile from the land his talents could serve so well.

Aviators Anxious To Reach Europe By Greenland Route

A letter has been received in Cochrane, Ontario, from Bert Hassells and his partner, Cranmer, stating that they are planning another attempt this year to establish an aerial mail route from Chicago to Stockholm, Sweden, via Greenland. These are from Rockford, Ill. Here who made an unsuccessful attempt to reach Europe by a northern route last year, the attempt ending when they were forced down in the bush by engine trouble. This year, according to the Stern they will attempt the trip in 500-mile hops by airplane, using stations as fault Site. Marie, Cochrane and two located at intervals between Cochrane and Greenland. They have advised that the runway which they made use of last year is taking off from Cochrane be kept open in preparation for a start this spring.

STEWARDSHIP AND MISSIONS

Golden Text: "It is required in stewards, that a man be found faithful."—Corinthians 4.2.

Lesson: Genesis 12.1-3; Deuteronomy 8; 14; Joush 8.1-10; Malachi 3.7-12; Matthew 28.18-20; Acts 1.5-8; 10.1-3; 28.13-30; Romans 1.14-16; 1 Corinthians 16.2; 2 Corinthians 9 1-15; 8.1-15.

Devotional Reading: Psalm 9.1-8.

Explanations and Comments

Stewardship In Regard To Missions, Acts 1.6-8.—The apostles met Jesus on the Mount of Olives, and there they asked Him if at that time He would restore the Kingdom to Israel. That question shows how well-night impossible it still was to the apostles to rid themselves of the common Messianic expectation of the Jews, that the Christ would rule over a Jewish nation independent of Rome and herself dominant, politically and religiously, over the other nations of the earth. "It needed the Pentecostal coming of the Holy Spirit to teach the apostles that Christ's Kingdom is not of this world."

"It is not for you to know the times or seasons, which the Father hath set within His own authority," Jesus replied. "But ye shall receive power after the Spirit, as the apostles imagined had to 'the Israel of God,' i.e. to Christian believers of every nation, by making Christianity the dominant religion."

"O God, I pray Thee for the children That can enjoy—all vexing things apart—

The beauties They in heaven and earth doth show

After first mingled with things I do not know."—Babcock.

And then Jesus promised power through the coming of the Holy Spirit, and gave His great commission: they were to be His witnesses both in Jerusalem and in all Judaea, and Samaria, and unto the uttermost part of the earth. Some one has called these four missionary ones great commissions, state missions, home missions and foreign missions. "It does not record the story of how the apostles carried out the commission. The uttermost part of the earth" is represented by Rome, the capital of the Empire, the place where, in Irenaeus said, "All met from every quarter."

"This message always hurts me when I think of the uttermost part of earth that have never heard the name of Christ."—G. Campbell Morgan.

Change Bread To Cake

How's the Magic Recipe

Cut slices of stale or fresh bread ¾ inch thick. Trim off crusts. Cut each slice into strips ¾ inch wide by 2 inches long.

Spread these strips on all sides with Eagle Brand Sweetened Condensed Milk, using a broad knife.

Roll strips in dry shredded cocoanut, brown very fine. Place in pan and brown very delicately on all sides under low gas flame. Use at least an ounce of cocoanut.

Variations: Little cocoanut cakes re-mail—made from bread. Taste just like Angel Food cake.

Try them! This and dozens of other magic recipes are found in the Eagle Brand Cook Book "New Magic in the Kitchen." Write for your free copy to The Borden Co., Dept. BW. 110 St. Paul St. W., Montreal, mentioning this paper.

Take Daylight From Air

Reproduction Of Light Said To Be Real Success

A radio aerial draws radio waves out of the air, daylight is automatically with sound. Absorption and reproduction of light, by a method strikingly similar to radio is likely to be used, T. Gen. London, Out., inventor, president of the R. T. Gee Company, Limited, manufacturer of electric light bulbs, is the discoverer. The process, he states, is to be soon available for general use. Too Much ACID

Many people, two hours after eating, suffer indigestion as they call it. It is usually excess acid. Correct it with an alkali. The best way, the quick, harmless and efficient way, is Phillips' Milk of Magnesia. It has remained for 50 years the standard with physicians. One spoonful in water neutralizes many times its volume in stomach acids, and at once. The symptoms disappear in five minutes

You will never use crude methods when you know this better method. And you will never suffer from excess acid when you prove out this easy relief. Please do that—for your own sake—now.

Be sure to get the genuine Phillips' Milk of Magnesia prescribed by physicians for 50 years in correcting excess acids. Each bottle contains full directions—any druggist.

Change Bread To Cake

How's the Magic Recipe

Cut slices of stale or fresh bread ¾ inch thick. Trim off crusts. Cut each slice into strips ¾ inch wide by 2 inches long.

Spread these strips on all sides with Eagle Brand Sweetened Condensed Milk, using a broad knife.

Roll strips in dry shredded cocoanut, brown very fine. Place in pan and brown very delicately on all sides under low gas flame. Use at least an ounce of cocoanut.

Variations: Little cocoanut cakes re-mail—made from bread. Taste just like Angel Food cake.

Try them! This and dozens of other magic recipes are found in the Eagle Brand Cook Book "New Magic in the Kitchen." Write for your free copy to The Borden Co., Dept. BW. 110 St. Paul St. W., Montreal, mentioning this paper.

Up-To-Date Airport

Municipal Field At Oakland, California, Has Every Modern Convenience

How many a person realizes that parking space for airplanes is sold to the same way as parking space for automobiles, in the down town areas of big cities. To take Oakland Municipal Airport at Oakland, California, as an example, one night ground rental costs one dollar per plane. Hangar space less than 1,000 square feet costs two dollars a day or forty dollars a month, with quotations for larger space up to an acre over 2,000 square feet are charged at four dollars a day or seventy-five dollars a month.

One can get a plane washed just as a car is washed for $1.25 an hour Mechanics are available at this airport for two dollars an hour during regular working hours and three dollars an hour during other periods

If you arrived at this airport by plane and wanted to stay there during the night you can get a bunk for a dollar a night or fifteen dollars a month There are at this airport conveniences found at few other airports and that of sleeping quarters is one of them.

Oakland airport which is operated in connection with the airport of the city, has had a speed land channel from San Leandro Bay, an arm of San Francisco Bay, dredged direct to Hangars This channel is 1,000 feet wide, and 16 feet deep, and allows for the landing of seaplanes at the same field that is used by land planes It is a matter of 11 miles from the seaplane landing to the San Francisco ferry pier office.

A restaurant to accommodate 150 people was recently completed at the field There is also a lounge, writing room with full view of the field and a banquet room housed in this building, in addition to the usual news stand, tobacco shop, soda fountain and souvenir booth, which one is accustomed to find at any railway station.

Western Horse Shipments

Twenty-Six Thousand Sent To Eastern Canada Last Year

Western harness, the number of horses were shipped into Ontario and Quebec last year. Most of these horses came from Alberta and Saskatchewan. Others shipped in principally in Ontario and Quebec although some were shipped as far as Prince Edward Island. The shipments varied from heavy draught animals to light range stock and about 5 per cent were purebreds. A carload of these unbroken range horses of Percheron and Belgian breeding was shipped into Halifax. One month and sold at public auction realizing an average price of $73 for the 21 horses.

Simple Precautions Against FLU Sore Throat — The Danger Signal

Health Authorities Point Out The Necessity Of Treating The Simple Cold At Its Beginning

Nearly every case of "Flu" starts with a simple cold. At first the throat is sore—often just a little hoarse—soon the infection goes lower—then the chest is affected. A safe plan is to gargle the throat three times daily with "Nerviline"—this will keep the throat free from germs. If there is any sign of tightness in the chest, rub on Nervilline—every drop will penetrate deeply—congestion will be relieved—the cold will break up quickly. Many a dangerous case of "Flu" can be avoided by this simple home treatment.

Of course it is always wise to take some relaxing medicine, and for this purpose immediate results will be secured from Dr. Hamilton's Pills—they purge the system of impurities and carry off a lot of disease—breeding germs.

This combination treatment of Nervilline and Dr. Hamilton's Pills is very effective for Grippe, Influenza, Bad Colds, etc., and can be relied upon to give very satisfactory results.

Little Helps For This Week

"In God have I put my trust; I will not be afraid."—Psalm lvi. 4

Oh, heart of mine, we shouldn't Worry so!
What's the use of calm we couldn't
Have, you know:
What we've met of stormy pain,
And of sorrow's driving rain,
We can better meet again.

If it blow
We have erred in that dark hour
We have known,
When our trust we put in the shower
All alone
Were not shelter and shadow blest.
As the gracious Master meant?
Let us temper our outlest
With His own.

For we know not every morrow
Can be sad;
So, forgetting all the sorrow
We have had,
Let us fold away our tears,
And put by our foolish fears,
And through all the coming years
Just be glad.

—James Whitcomb Reilly.

"Robot" For Nine Years

Expert Chess Player Evoked Patience Of New York Museum

The secret of perhaps the strangest "robot" ever exhibited in America has been revealed with the death of Peter J. Hill. Thirty years ago in New York city, the proprietors of a fake museum astounded their customers with an "automaton chess player." Thousands, including many internationally known players, tried in vain to defeat the "mechanical man." The robot in reality was Hill, hunched and disguised. An expert chess player, he sat in the museum for nine years, shifting the pawns on board with jerky, mechanical movements, maintaining silence and keeping his secret from those with whom he played.

WINDOLITE

The Improved Glass Substitute

MADE IN ENGLAND

COMES WITH A MESSAGE OF HEALTH

WINDOLITE admits 87 per cent sunlight. It makes light but still keeps out rain, cold, dust and germ destroyer, as well as stimulant and tonic. WINDOLITE is the sun's most important ally

Medical research has definitely proved that from the point of view of health and hygiene the most effective among the rays are the Ultra-Violet rays which possess the greatest power for the prevention and cure of rickets and tuberculosis.

Science has further established that ordinary window glass does not allow the passage of Ultra-Violet rays, so that by using glass as a medium for excluding these vital health-giving rays. Therefore, the invention of WINDOLITE has completely satisfied the public demand for a substitute. Experiments have conclusively proved that it is a most effective substitute for glass, that it freely admits the Ultra-Violet rays, and that its use has a most beneficial effect on the growth and development of plants and chickens and on the well-being of adults, enabled for the first time to have healthy light instead of darkness in their sheds

Indeed, the discovery of WINDOLITE has during the last six years completely revolutionized gardening, given a new stimulus to poultry breeding, increasing the egg-laying capacity and fertility of chickens, has greatly improved the health of cattle and is now being used in domestic and household requirements.

Hall Packed At Demonstration Of Pontiac Big Six

Twenty-five million people drive automobiles today yet comparatively few have ever seen a motor car in the making. The privilege of viewing the building of an automobile progressively from start to finish was accorded the large number of residents of this town and the district who were the guests Tuesday night of Geo. Lawlocal dealer, at a special moving picture presentation of the new Pontiac "Big Six."

Two unique moving pictures films formed the basis of the presentation which was directed by an expert from the General Motors plants at Oshawa. Particularly fascinating was the film showing the interior workings of the various Oshawa plants. In the stamping plant, which is one of the most modern in the world, huge presses capable of exerting forces of one hundred tons were seen at work, while by side delicate machines used in tracing the finest designs. Perfectly ordinary sheets of metal laid in these presses were transformed in the twinkling of an eye to complete fenders, engine covers, running board aprons, and other parts.

Nodie the less astonishing were the assembly lines. Naked frames are pulled on long tracks by slowly moving chains which never stop. As the frame moves along the line, specific operations and installations are made until completion.

At one point it passes beneath a hole in the floor above. A bell rings and down comes a body. In a few seconds it is part of the car, and all while moving. One and a half cars every minute are driven off the assembly lines at Oshawa capacity production has been the building of Pontiac bodies takes place in a plant by itself.

Particular interest to all with the slightest inclination towards things mechanical was the moving picture showing the assembly, delivery and comprehensively, the advantages and features of the new Pontiac which has been brought to the low building of Pontiac bodies takes place in a plant by itself.

A vote of thanks was presented asking the Council to arrange for herd law to be in force in the municipality. A resolution to the effect that veterinary aid be was also presented asking that no change be made on the motion Council herd by officer for the part of the municipality.

A refund for road work overpaid in Div 1 was agreed to. Correspondence regarding land required for road devel- was then read and fully discussed. Payment of school requisitions at end of March was arranged for. Secretary pointed out that all owed payments to the schools totaling $2700 had been made this season. Several other routine matters were disposed of. Pupils under Inspection gave a very pretty action song which was encored. The Law Library voted up $100 for use and business in a series of comic caricatures which at the same time demonstrated some outstanding features of the Pontiac.

Prize tickets were distributed to each pupil present. Miss Joseph received for valuable prize finished the evening's entertainment. The $50 in equity in the car was won by Miss Muriel Stone, the $25.00 equity going to Mr. Thos. Allen of Marwayne. C. Ellis of Lea as Riverharp peacell and Mrs. E. Bushell was the winner of a box of chocolates.

Dr. Wallace was appointed medical health officer for the part of the municipality lying south of the Battle River and Iron Knoll and Knapp for the Wood Lake and Eastern halves north of the river.

An application from a ratepayer for an advance for seed grain was refused.

Mr. Fletcher of the Dependent Children's department waited on the council in the matter of payments on behalf of J. Green's family and was accorded a hearing.

The matter was presented asking the Council to arrange for herd law to be in force in the municipality. A resolution to the effect that veterinary aid was also presented asking that no change be made on the motion Council herd by officer for the part of the municipality.

A refund for road work overpaid in Div 1 was agreed to. Correspondence regarding land required for road devel- was then read and fully discussed. Payment of school requisitions at end of March was arranged for. Secretary pointed out that all owed payments to the schools totaling $2700 had been made this season. Several other routine matters were disposed of. Pupils under Inspection gave a very pretty action song which was encored. The Law Library voted up $100 for use and business in a series of comic caricatures which at the same time demonstrated some outstanding features of the Pontiac.

Prize tickets were distributed to each pupil present. Miss Joseph received for valuable prize finished the evening's entertainment. The $50 in equity in the car was won by Miss Muriel Stone, the $25.00 equity going to Mr. Thos. Allen of Marwayne. C. Ellis of Lea as Riverharp peacell and Mrs. E. Bushell was the winner of a box of chocolates.

Here and There

To meet increased trade and passenger traffic the water of the Pacific coast, the new vessels of the Canadian type for night service between Vancouver and Victoria have been ordered by the Canadian Pacific Railway, it has been announced by Captain C. D. Newcombe, manager of the British Columbia Coast Steamship Services.

A new carrier and telephone system for Canadian Pacific purposes will shortly be in operation across Canada, it was stated recently in Winnipeg by Mr. John McMillan, general manager of the Canadian Pacific Railway Company, who was on a tour of the west. This greatly supplements the facilities already used.

Since the world war the Canadian Pacific has constructed 1,145 miles of new railway track, some of which opened up new territories and developed new areas of country for settlement and industrial activity.

An average of twenty-seven pounds of butter is consumed each year by every man, woman, and child in Canada. It has been discovered by federal statisticians, making the Dominion the largest consumer of butter in the world. The per capita consumption is ten pounds greater than that of the United States. No light is thrown upon the number of ounces of bread buttered by hungry Canadians.

The sweetest news received in Canada for some time was the report from the British Industries Fair in London that twenty million tons after its opening an order had been placed for $20,000 worth of honey.

Santa Claus must be establishing a reliable transportation system in this country as it is reported that a consignment of live reindeer from Hannover was recently shipped to Canada. It was the largest shipment of these animals ever to be made.

The recent announcement that a new Dominion Atlantic Railway hotel is to be built at Kentville has been received with enthusiasm, not only among commercial men but the general travelling public as well in Nova Scotia. At the same time the Dominion Atlantic Railway is the object of a good deal of favorable comment by the part it is playing in developing Nova Scotia as a tourist ground and the Annapolis Valley.

Canada Takes Leading Part Among Nations of the World In the Control of Narcotics

The following article was prepared at the direction of Dr. J. A. Amyot, Deputy Minister, Department of Trade and Commerce and Health, by Mr. C. H. L. Sharman, Narcotic Division.

One of the most urgent social problems confronting the League of Nations is the world-wide illegal use of drugs, but long before the formation of the League, Japan and China and Canada has taken an important part, the Dominion had enacted drastic measures at the control of the opium traffic and the elimination of the illicit use of narcotics within her boundaries.

The first Act dealing especially with the subject in Canada was passed by the Dominion Parliament in 1908. This made it an offence to import, offer for sale, possess, or manufacture opium prepared for smoking, or crude opium, for other than medicinal purposes. Three years later in 1911 further enactment bought the illegal drugs morphine, its salts and cocaine— under control, and on account of these statutes the Dominion was justly regarded at that time as having the most advanced legislation thereupon in the world. With a view to the international control of the opium traffic, Canada was represented at the subsequent conferences at the Hague in 1912 and 1913. In addition to making it an offence to possess, manufacture, sell, or distribute the various derivatives of opium and cocaine, except for medicinal or scientific purposes the 1911 Act stipulated that these drugs should be sold only by a book of 25 wholesale or retail druggist to physicians, veterinary surgeons, or dentists, on prescriptions signed by members of these professions. As a matter of fact, the Hague Conference agreements were ratified by and purposes already embodied in the Dominion's 1911 Act, but these agreements never were ratified by other countries until after the conclusion of peace, when the Treaty of Versailles included a clause whereby the International Opium Convention was incorporated therein and brought into force.

In conformity with the ideals of the League of Nations, a still more stringent act was passed by the Dominion Government in 1920, and in 1922 an amendment was made providing for the deportation of all aliens convicted of trafficking, irrespective of the length of their stay in Canada. Legislation, by the session of June, 1922, and January, 1927, 466 persons were deported. In 1923 another Act was passed, tightening up every probable loophole of evasion, followed by further regulations and amendments in 1924, 1925, and 1926, which made the legislation on the subject as perfect as humanly possible. The Narcotic Act as it now stands specifies a maximum penalty of seven years imprisonment with a minimum of six months and a maximum fine of $1,000, with a minimum or $200 in case of trafficking, while in cases of sale of narcotics to a minor, the court is empowered to impose the lash in addition to any other punishment.

Owing to her strategic position between the East and West, Canada is one of the world's highways over which the traffic would naturally pass. Her alertness, therefore, in combating the narcotic evil not only conserves the health of her people, one of our greatest natural resources, but also assists in maintaining the welfare, peace, and good order of the world.

Aid To Agriculture

Trees Are Of Benefit To Production On Prairies

The planting of trees on prairie farms in Western Canada is having an appreciably beneficial effect on the quality and variety of agricultural production in that part of Canada. The large and growing distribution of planting material made from the nursery stations of the department of the interior at Indian Head and Sutherland, Saskatchewan, and Lacombe, Alberta, the general appearance of the prairies in the provinces of Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta, and the development of shelterbelts is being followed by the setting out of apple and small fruit orchards, gardens of fine vegetables, and by further beautification of prairie homes with shrubs, flower beds, and extensive lawns.

Alberta Poultry

A New High Mark For Industry Is Set During 1928

A new high mark in the value of the poultry industry in Alberta is established during 1928, according to the annual report of the Poultry Commissioner, J. H. Hare. Figures arrived at with the co-operation of the Dominion Bureau of Statistics show that the numbers of the various kinds of poultry on Alberta farms in 1928 were as follows: 1-398,314 turkeys; 2-90,822 geese; 99,-238 ducks; 4-6,496,130 other fowl; a total of 6,313,706 as compared with 5,853,000 in 1927. A corresponding increase in the value of poultry is shown in the fact that this reached $6,000,386 in 1928, as against $4,-931,000 in 1927.

Rates Of Seeding Grass and Legumes

The Pounds Of Alfalfa Seed Per Acre Is Recommended

In the growing of grasses and clovers it is important that in seeding reasonably correct amounts of seed be used. While in favourable seasons a comparatively light seeding may succeed well, seasons that are more adverse have to be considered at the beginning of the year. At the Lacombe, Alberta, Experimental Station such crops as rye grass, timothy, alfalfa, sweet clover, and brome, were sown at different rates with wheat seeded on summer fallows as a nurse crop. The results of these tests are shown in the report of the superintendent of the station, published by the Department of Agriculture at Ottawa. As between rye grass and timothy it is brought out that during the dryer years the rye grass made the better growth, while the reverse was the case when there was an abundance of moisture available during the growing season. The yields produced by the different rates of seeding indicated that ten to 15 pounds of rye grass per acre was the most satisfactory. In the case of timothy, as low as two pounds of seed per acre gave a satisfactory yield in a moist year, while a thicker seeding up to five pounds and over—gave the best results when the moisture was more scant. Mr. Reed, the superintendent of the station, has reached the conclusion that there is little advantage in seeding more than 10 pounds of alfalfa per acre. Thirteen pounds per acre was found a very big crop and a coarse, unpalatable hay. In the case of sweet clover rather heavy seedings—from 15 to 20 pounds for the yield of crop but for its palatability. Seeding at the rate of five pounds per acre produced a much too thin stand and a very weedy crop of coarse hay. Ten pounds of Sweet Clover is the acre is little crop and two or three pounds more gives better results, particularly in the fineness of the hay crop. Ten pounds of Brome seed per acre is reported to be very satisfactory. A five pound seeding resulted in a thin stand the first year, resulting in a coarse weedy crop of hay. This seeding, however, usually thickens up sufficiently to give a good stand during the second season. With heavier seedings, up to 15 pounds per acre, the crop thickens up quickly, makes an excellent pasture and but soon becomes sod-bound if left for hay.

Increased Use Of Butter

Canadians Are the Largest Consumers Of Butter in the World

The people of Canada are the largest consumers of butter in the world. The per capita consumption has been put down at 27 pounds yearly, approximately 10 pounds more per head than the people of the United States, which holds second place on the list. The increased home consumption of butter and the supplies necessary to meet the demands of the growing tourist trade, have created a drop in exports, not only of butter, but of other dairy products. Almost 170,000,000 pounds of butter are consumed annually by tourists in the Dominion.

While Ontario and Quebec are the largest producers of butter and other dairy products in Canada, the output of the three prairie provinces—Manitoba, Saskatchewan, and Alberta—now totals approximately one-third of the total production of the Dominion. Fourteen years ago Western Canada was importing 300 cars of butter annually. Now it exports millions of pounds.

Index To Growth Of Prairie Provinces

Average Under Production Shown Large Increase In Fuel For Years

The rate of settlement in the prairie provinces has not kept pace with what it was before the war, but the expansion of acreage put into production has been marvellously accelerated.

The Ottawa publication, Natural Resources, shows this in a graph. In 1900, from when the great influx of settlers into the west may be said to date, 3,500,000 acres had been brought into production. Ten years more, heavy incoming settlement had increased that acreage to 12,027,000.

The acreage under production by 1913, when settlement reached the peak of Boom and per acre is reported to be very satisfactory. A five pound seeding resulted in a this stand the first year, resulting in a coarse weedy crop of hay. This seeding, however, usually thickens up sufficiently to give a good stand during the second season. With heavier seedings, up to 15 pounds per acre, the crop thickens up quickly, makes an excellent pasture and but soon becomes sod-bound if left for hay.

He was sentenced to death.

Here we have five good reasons why Shiling is so popular now in Quebec. There are cross-country races for ladies, junior and senior events and jumping for the experts. Waste In Gasoline Wags Seen Runs Into Millions

In dealing with the question of extravagance and waste, a speaker on the floor of the British House of Parliament made the statement, says a writer in Tit-Bits: That every year more than four million bottles of medicine are wasted because the average tablespoon holds more than four drams, which is the usual dose.

Most of us, when we write a telegram in a postoffice, use more than one form before we are satisfied with what we have written. We think nothing of this, but the G.P.O. complains that seventy million telegraph forms find their way into waste-paper baskets every year.

There are in police districts: Herschel Island, Aklavik, Fullis Island (Cape Bathurst), Langton Bay, Bernard Harbor and Cambridge Bay (on the great Arctic island of Victoria Land). This latter is 900 miles east of Herschel.

Communication is by dog-sled in the long winter and by water in the summer.

Hitherto the police have depended upon the vessels of the Hudson's Bay Co., or other traders for summer inter-communication and the transportation of men and supplies. But during the past season the presence and efficiency of the Arctic section of the police force was materially increased by the arrival of the auxiliary-powered schooner St. Roch, which breather will do patrol work and districts supplies throughout the western Arctic during the season of open water, It will, in fact, be a boating police post.

Vessels coming into the Canadian Arctic from Bering Strait do not reach Herschel until some time after the ice-pack has moved northward in Queen Maud Gulf and beyond have been opened to navigation. In order to be sure of passing Point Barrow, Alaska, in safety on their way out to Bering Strait, vessels must leave Herschel early in September, although there is still several weeks of navigation to the eastward. By wintering in the Arctic the St. Roch will be able to take advantage of the whole of the season of navigation for the discharge of its patrol and other duties.

The St. Roche was built last winter in North Vancouver by the Burrard Dry Dock Co. Its length is 98 feet; beam, 24 feet; speed, 7 knots; cargo capacity, 175 tons. Besides a full equipment of sails as a schooner, the St. Roch has Diesel engines of 125 horsepower.

She left Vancouver on June 26th and arrived at Herschel on July 20th. She sailed from Herschel on August 1st for Cambridge Bay and Coronation Gulf, and on Aug. 20th was in winter quarters at Langton Bay, 250 miles east of Herschel.

She has wireless equipment which communicates with Aklavik, and through Edmonton to Ottawa, sometimes tuning in with Ahkvik she was able to reach the boat Bay Radio of the Hudson's Bay Co., at Cambridge Bay, 600 miles distant. The Bay Radio reached Cape Hope's Advance on Hudson Strait and proceeded thence to Ottawa.

The boat's engineer on the St. Roch comprises Sergt. Frederick Andrew. In charge, and nine men, including a wireless operator, all certified master mariners. The third officer is an ex-naval midshipman who saw service in Belgium during the war.

Owing to bars at the mouths of the several arms of the Mackenzie delta, the St. Roch will not be able to reach Aklavik. But connection between Shingle point on the Arctic coast and Aklavik, 40 and 75 miles from Aklavik can be maintained by small power-boats, of which many are available.

Having their own means of transportation with full efficiency the police are well equipped to give a measure of supervision all along the western Arctic coast to matters that in ears entirely beyond their reach in the conditions under which they had hitherto been working.

Among the many activities of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police is included the maintenance of national prestige and the preservation of rights of life and property on Canada's great Arctic coast.

From Herschel Island at the western boundary of Canada's coast line to Boothia Peninsula on the east is about 1,300 miles direct, but following the irregularities of the shore the distance is much greater. The whole region is far beyond the Arctic circle.

The native population is Eskimo. There are a few missionaries and some traders including the Hudson's Bay Co. Indian population does not extend northward to the coast.

There are at police detachments: Herschel Island, Aklavik, Fullis Island (Cape Bathurst), Langton Bay, Bernard Harbor and Cambridge Bay (on the great Arctic island of Victoria Land). This latter is 900 miles east of Herschel.

1,000 FACTS ABOUT CANADA

The 1929 edition of that popular annual, "1,000 Facts About Canada," edited by Frank Yeigh, the well-known Canadian author and publicist, is now off the press and contains a wealth of material that presents the coloring story of our national progress in crisp, concrete form. Many new features mark this issue, such as the additional information during the last years since the armistice, as well as the remarkable advance made in the land 13-months' period of "Canada's Best Year." The booklet "sells Canada" most effectively, and is widely distributed for that purpose, while it is invaluable to any Canadian who wishes to know his own country. The 50 chapters of contents tells the all Dominion story in a nutshell. Copies may be had at 50 cents from leading newsdealers or from the Canadian Facts Pub. Co., 546 Huron Street, Toronto.

BOY SCOUT NOTES

There was a well attended meeting held on Tuesday evening, when still one or two more old boys came back to the fold. We want to see still more and also more new recruits.

Next week is the last meeting in the Parish hall, after which we will use the gym at the rink. It is hoped that the troop will have five patrols by then and that soon thereafter we can hold an investiture of badges and display

He leaves to mourn his loss a widow and three sons. The family wish to thank the many friends for their kindness and sympathy and for the floral tributes received.

Oratory Semi-Finals Edmonton On April 2nd.

Caroline Gets Local Honors

The provincial semi-finals of the Canadian oratorical contest will be held in the McDougall church, Edmonton on the night of April 2nd. There will be 12 speakers on this occasion, each of the representatives being the champion of their respective district. Miss Caroline Green, third year student in the Vermilion high school, will be the champion of this district, having defeated all other contestants from the border to Lamont.

The reward offered the winner of the Dominion oratorical championship is anything indeed—a free trip to Europe, through scenes famous in song and story—a free trip to Toronto—a free trip to Washington to compete with the world finals of the contest. These are some of the glittering rewards which may be won by any one of the 12 boys and girls who are to compete in Edmonton on April 2nd.

The winner of the district championships will meet the winner of the Southern Alberta title at a date to be announced later, and the winner of the provincial oratorical finals will then go to Toronto, to compete with the finalists and the winners of the other provinces for the dominion championship. Practically every orpsman is met by the Edmonton Journal.

Circulating Petition To Lift $100 Milk License

Petitions for the purpose of lifting the one hundred dollar tax on milk vendors are being circulated among the citizens and may be signed at several business places in town.

The petition sets forth the disadvantages of one concern having a monopoly of business in any town, stating that no competition tends to make the quality of any business deteriorate greatly, also that the purpose for which the by-law was passed had failed, as most of the milk clients had to abandon that they be supplied with milk from certain sources. This was being done as far as possible, but the general opinion seems to be that the quality of milk still leaves much to be desired. What was expected to be gained by the system now in force is hard to see, as instead of having several milk vendors we have one, but all previous vendors supply milk to the company having the monopoly, as the tax is prohibitive for more than one milk business. Under this system it is alleged the grade of milk delivered considerably. The petition does not call for abolishing the tax but proposes that a $10 license be substituted in its place.

CHANGE OF MILK BUSINESS CHANGED

Herb Stone of Islay Reported to Be Taking Over Supply

While the report has not as yet been confirmed by the parties interested, rumors are current that Vermilion's milk business has been purchased by Mr. Herb Stone, who has had the milk business of Islay for some years now. Mr. Hayden the present proprietor of the milk business giving over on March 31st. The Standard has been unable to get into touch with either of the principals of the deal to confirm the reports.

Maintain The Quality of Alberta's Crops

BETTER SEED

BETTER YIELDS — BETTER GRADES — BETTER PRICES

A special committee appointed by the Minister of Agriculture, with the co-operation of numerous organizations in the province, is urging the use this spring by farmers throughout the province of

High Quality, Clean, Treated Seed Grain

in order to reduce the heavy annual losses sustained by sowing inferior seed.

Farmers can co-operate by:

1. Using registered seed wherever available.
2. Using at least high quality commercial seed.
3. Having seed tested for germination and purity.
4. Treating seed for smut.
5. Thoroughly cleaning all grain intended for seed.
6. Seeding only varieties of recognized quality and varieties suitable to the district.

Good seed will be in demand this spring. Secure your requirements early—before the supply is exhausted.

U.F.A. Locals, Boards of Trade, the Wheat Pool, Banks, Commercial Grain Firms, the press, and many other organizations are working in co-operation with a—

MILD WEATHER THAWS IGLOOS

Edmonton Made Homeless By Sun

The Pas, Man., March 20.—It might be expected that winter would be welcome at Tavane Bay. For Tavane Bay is 50 miles north of Port Churchill, where the Hudson Bay Railway, thru Manitoba's rich northern mineral fields, will run. But the Eskimos have been much maligned. Even the Eskimos will tell you that. As usual, this past winter, the Eskimos of Tavane Bay have been living in igloos, the round houses of snow and ice. As usual they were buried now and again by blizzards. But quite one of the usual was the time which struck them just after Christmas. The tempest came soaring to 21 degrees above zero. The walls of the igloos collapsed and dozens of families were made homeless. Yet the Eskimos were cheerful. Their attitude was: "Who said our country was frozen up?" And building materials were cheap. As soon as the weather was normal again they set to work and rebuilt.

W. A. Impey, pilot of the Dominion Explorers who told the story to Canadian National Railways' ears were working on the line to Hudson Bay, flew a south plane in the Tavane district, mapping coastline and marking the routes of lakes and rivers. Because caribou is unobtainable at the migration season, Spence, who went up to Tavane in September, saved a good deal of fish for the menu of his camp. He used his plane in setting out his nets, too and nearly lost them from camp. The airplane was useful, too, he found, in visiting trap lines, and Spence visions the trappers of the future covering great distances by air

(CCD)

Although Canadians have been styled strong "silent" men there seems little to support the reputation in the recent announcement that they are the world's greatest telephone conversationalists. There are 1,250,267 telephones in Canada, recently published statistics disclose, allowing for a 'phone for every eight persons. If all the conversations that took place during the past year were placed end to end they would be heard in Mars, for every citizen had on an average of 221 conversations during 1928. Presumably this does not include wrong numbers.

One of Montreal's first big buildings that was demolished to make room for one of the latest skyscrapers downtown has appeared on an entirely new site, in the amusement of the citizens. So exactly was the building taken down that scarce a score of new bricks were required to complete the restoration on its new site.

Up to December 31, 1928 the Canadian Pacific had spent in subsidiaries and Canadian development work, land settlement, etc., $55,000,000 of the sum owned.

Sir Charles Gordon, G.B.E., K.B.E., head of Brazil and Canadian Light Co., has been appointed to the list of directors of the Canadian Pacific Railway Co., to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Mr. E. E. L. Beynon. Sir Charles, who, with Mr. L. Beynon, also has been appointed to the executive committee of the board.

A shipment of cabbage that will resemble the cargo of Prussian on Noah's Ark will take place shortly from Victoria. The Colonial Fruit Co., when a number of refrigerator cars, all the other vessels will be put on the Royal Edward at the National Pool at Banff, Alberta.

Progress in Canada is world 23,700. That of any other, in what government financial results for 1928 ($6,911,682,000—sorting out at that figure) was the greatest return in the history of the country and the largest since Noah and the Ark. The total increase first in the highest per capita wealth of any part of the Dominion.

The Canadian Pacific Railway, in connection with the Manitoba Department of Agriculture, Saskatchewan Dominion Department of Agriculture and the Manitoba Agricultural College has provided two good seed cars, and a quality car, which is traveling through that province. There are demonstrations of grasses, clover and corn and poultry displays, while accompanying lecturers talk on the importance of clean seed and forage crops, and lectures on the rearing of chickens, turkeys, etc.

H. B. VERMILION VALLEY MEETING

The first meeting of the Council of H. B. Vermilion Valley for the year 1929 was held in the municipal office, Vermilion on Wednesday, March 13th, all councillors being present. The only change in the members from last year being Councillor George Shepherd for Div. 2 in lieu of F. R. Cameron. The following resolutions were adopted:

That Mr. Norman McClellan be the Reeve for the year 1929.

That the report of the returning officer be accepted.

That Mr. D. McRae be appointed depuy reeve for the first half of the year 1929.

That the minutes of last meeting be adopted as read.

That the financial statements for the months of January and February be accepted.

That Dr. W. W. Bell be appointed Medical Health Officer for the 3 year half of the municipal district and that Dr. R. H. Begg be appointed M. H. O. for the eastern half.

That the Western Municipal News be subscribed for.

That the following bills be paid:—H. A. Mercer R.O. $40.00; R. Cameron D.R.O. 4.00; Lee Shirley D.R.O. 4.00; A. Mitchell, pol clerk, 4.00; J. Mitchell, pol clerk, 16.00; R. S. That the following bills be paid:—Standard $111.17; Brimacombe Bros 2.95; J. Wotherspoon 4.00; Town of Vermilion 7.00; Standard 3.50; Hay ward Lbr. Co. 15.30; King's Printing 13.25.

That the electric light bills from the town of Vermilion be paid as they become due.

That Councillors be paid the following mileage to meetings: N McClellan $1.00; D. McRae 2.00; W. Thompson 4.00; G Shepherd 20c; W. Bohan 1.40; A. Lord 2.00

That the secretary and reeve or depuy reeve be empowered to transact all banking business.

That H. W. Brown be appointed deputy secretary treasurer for the M D Vermilion Valley during from May 1st, 1929

That the deputy secretary's salary be $1500.00 per annum and the Assessor's salary be $100.00 per annum.

That in view of the fact that Mr. Hury does not propose to carry on the work as secretary, and that certain work on the weed inspection, should be done by the next necessary treasurer during the month of May, it is deemed advisable that Mr. Brown's term as secretary treasurer conclud on April 30th

Lucky Alberta Boys To Attend Jamboree

Boy Scouts Will Go to Birkenhead for Celebration in Summer

Six lucky Alberta youths are to be chosen not later than May 15 as the quota of Boy Scouts from this province to attend the big international jamboree at Birkenhead, England, from July 31 to August 12. It is expected that 30,000 Scouts from 44 different nations will assemble for this two weeks' celebration.

From Canada there will be two troops, each consisting of 32 scouts, with a full complement of officers. According to information just received by W. Selwyn, field secretary for the provincial association, the Canadian delegation will assemble at Ottawa on July 11 for one week's training before sailing from Montreal on July 19 on the S. S. Antonia.

In order to qualify for selection, the boy scout must have to his credit two years' continuous service previous to January 1, 1929. He must not be under 14 or over 16 years old, while the basis of selection will be diligence and efficiency. Each organizer will make his recommendation to the district officers who in turn will submit their recommendations to the provincial executive for consideration by the selections committee

While there are upwards of 5,000 boy scouts in this province, it is believed that around 1,000 of that number will be eligible for selections for the trip to the old country, but only six will be chosen. All expenses of those selected as members of the Alberta contingent will be paid but other scouts who come within the qualifications may also go with the party at their own expense.

The total expenses, including return railway fares, meals, uniforms, etc., will amount to $126.50. There is a possibility of some service clubs or other organizations desiring to finance this trip for some worthy lad.

In connection with the above it is interesting to know that one of the six boys will be chosen from either Vermilion or Vermilion troops this to be decided on at Provincial board quarters. The local committee are at present deciding on their candidate, and it is to be hoped that this boy will be the lucky one.

HIGH SCHOOL NOTES

In connection with the entertainment made last week about "Miss memee," the High School pay to be given on the evening of Easter Monday, we wish to state that arrangements will be made for all school children to see the play prior to the evening performance, at a very slight admission charge. Watch for a later announcement of the place and time. The price for the evening performance will be straight fifty cents (50c).

The art class is now busy on daily outdoor programme and every effort is being put forth to make the performance an enjoyable event.

Those who do not already know the plays are urged to read it before Easter Monday. It has genuine literary quality, real value as a study in social history, and appropriate diction. It is history translating itself into terms of human character and conduct. A quick reading of the play will give both the players and listeners. Copies may be borrowed from members of the Literature III class

Show Success Of Co-operation

The 32nd Annual Meeting of the members of the Wawanesa Mutual Insurance Society was held in the I.O.O.F. Hall, Wawanesa, at 8 p.m., February 5th, 1929.

Mr. Henderson in a brief speech called the meeting to order and stated that during the 32 years that the Company had operated and which covered one-third of a century, he had been one of the original Directors and had attended each one of the 33 annual meetings and hoped to be spared to attend several more.

The Managing Director, Dr. C. M. Simmons, then read the Directors' and Auditor's report.

The assets for the year 1928 was given at the rate of 20% of the note and the liabilities in assessments amounting to $480,858.66 leaving a balance of premiums amounting to $170,452.34 as reserve needed. The policies written on the cash plan increase year by year each year amount to 22.5% of the total business of the Company. Interest and rents were brought in $44,406.68, ordinary operating expenses $38,648.47, leaving $170,048.87, a net profit over $5200.07 were paid, an increase of 40% over 1927. Those losses occurred in two hourly defined periods, the first during the month of May and the other occurred about the middle of the year during which the spring clean up, the annual burning of rubbish due to poorly roofed stables from, particularly following the use of the matches.

The cash assets were materially increased and the total assets brought up to $2,674,174.24 an increase for the year of almost $200,000.

The year was remarkable in the Company's history in that a gain of almost 12 millions in volume was recorded for the year. The total insurance in force is now over 188 millions.

It took ten years of earnest effort on the part of the management to bring the Company up to a volume of 17 millions of dollars, and the reason to feel gratified that we were able to put this amount of increase on in one year.

The retiring Directors were Messrs Meaker and Reid who were re-elected. A vote of thanks was given to the Manager and Directors for the very able manner in which the business had been conducted.

An Imperceptible Growth

Five Weeks Routine Great Advance Made In Flying

Colonel Padley of the Ottawa Flying club made a bold prophecy when he said Canada will have a thousand 'dromes and a thousand pilots to fly them next year. Perhaps he knows more about what he was talking than maybe do those who must decide his belief. Flying in Canada is moving fast. How rapid is his progress is shown by figures issued by the department of National Defence.

At the beginning of the year there were 333 airplanes in operation. that was more than three times the number at the beginning of last year The increase was in the line which pays less most expansion. Of the 333 airplanes, 246 are operated commercially 87 are being used in government services. With the greater commercial activity in flying has had to come corresponding development in flying facilities. There are now twenty available at the beginning of the year have increased to 44 at the beginning of this year only 40 commercial pilots had licenses at the beginning of last year, 190 held them last month.

As a matter we may not be very air-wise; but that isn't keeping, on from watching with a good deal of amazance the increasing pace at which we are putting the air. We would not care to trust our forests long without the hovering protection of our air patrols. The longer does flight on a hasty mission arouse amazement. Our letters are going and coming by air, and likely will do so to very much greater extent as the service is demanded by the users. We would have little faith in the early, almost on the inspection, progress in our mining development, if we were not driven by dependence upon the airplane as the speediest agency in bringing it about We hardly know how fast is the development in the uses to which we are putting flying it has been growing so imperceptibly, we have taken it for granted. But its rate of advance is quickening. It is coming to us out of a clear sky, and most of us won't know it until we can't help seeing it be here.

Tremendous Pressure From New Apparatus

Harvard Professor Announces What His Invention Will Do

Artificial pressure of 600,000 pounds to the square inch, the highest so far produced, has been attained by Prof. Percy W Bridgman, of Harvard University, with an apparatus of his own invention. This pressure corresponds to what would be found at the bottom of an ocean 380 miles deep. Under its force, steel tends to spread, paraffin becomes harder than machine steel, and other curious as hard that it can be used as a die to cut steel. Mercury frozen at room temperature under a pressure of 200,000 pounds, although it normally freezes at forty degrees below zero or lower.

Had To Be Accurate

The policeman was interrogating a householder. "You say a rug was stolen from your hall," he said "Can you give a description of it?"

"It was one of those reversible rugs—red on one side and green on the other."

"Yes," said Robert, taking notes, rapidly "and which was the red side?"

Service Like Talking Machine

The gramophone is rapidly becoming more popular in Hartshorne and this popularity is seriously affecting the sale of musical instruments. Out of every 100 instruments purchased in one of the largest music stores, 90 are talking machines.

Tropical Fruits For Apples

People In Big Cities Lose Much By Ban

In an editorial called "Apples and Canned with California persimmons, Belgian grapes and Chilean peaches in New York's January fruit dish, it is strange to remember how once at this season the apple was king

In the places remote from the big cities the apple still is king and long may it reign. It was the fruit upon which our grandsires and grandames feed, and it is the fruit we believe upon which the sturdier of their descendants still feed. We have thought that with the decadence of the Poldom, the Northern Spy, and the Greening orchards will come the decadence of the sterling human life.

Into the oldtime cellars in city and in country in the fall of the year went barrels of "apples against winter" The boyhood excursions into the cellars which were hunted with the apple against the cold, were a part of the day and evening joys of life. Apple pie, stewed, pied or puddinged, the apple was a delectable. We say it in such today, and let the January Florida strawberry and grapefruit make the most of it.

We find ourselves wondering if any apple merchant of today grows the Pound Sweet. This apple was big and sweet as its name suggests, and it was one of boyhood favorites, but today, wandering through the markets and looking into the occasional barrels, we find it mournfully absent

Slow in Making Changes

Many Pillar Boxes In England Still Bear Insignia V.R.

Although Queen Victoria the Good has been dead nearly thirty years, and wanderer in rural England finds to its surprise that there are innumerable pillar boxes still bearing the insignia V.R. The Queen reigned so long, and so many were put up, that the job of putting on a new cypher when King Edward ascended was too big. Even in West London, says a writer in the London Graphic Chronicle, there are still a respectable number of V.R. boxes. They can be seen in Piccadilly, Grosvenor Place, Bond Street, and Park Lane. Like the George IV posts round Hanover square district, they keep the past alive.

Kept the Cubs

Many interesting incidents were reported from the training camps when the Negro recruits first put in an appearance. One night when Sambo was on guard he heard a disturbance on the road and called out: "Hey! You-all halt! Who goes?"

"Mess sergeant of Company B," came the reply, "returning to camp with cubs."

There followed a confused period, the sentry apparently torn by a conflict of emotions. Finally he shouted: "Pass, Mr. Sergeant. Hab cubs?"

Fine Sport

A traveller stopped to change tires in a desolate region in the Far West.

"I suppose," he remarked to a native onlooker, "that game is the finest parts of the country the bare necessities of life have risen treasonably in price."

"You're right, stranger," replied the native gloomily, "and it ain't worth drinking when you get it."

Great Change In Heligoland

Once Fortress Bristling With Germans Guns, Now a Playground

Heligoland, that tiny rock rising about out of the North Sea, has turned from a great fortress, bristling with German guns, to a veritable playground, made so by the ever increasing number of tourists that visit the spot.

Children play in the fortifications, once so strictly barred to all inquiring eyes, says the Weekly Scotsman.

The island again belongs to Britain, but only in a political sense. The inhabitants have never learned to speak English as a current tongue, though plenty of them do speak it. They talk their own dialect of North Frisian at home, and German for the benefit of the outside world. That outer world is still almost entirely German. The national pride in the fortress made Heligoland, even in the heights of its power, a favorite place of summer pilgrimage. And now that the once exclusive Officers' Club is turned into a restaurant, the merchants' wives of Hamburg and Bremen can show their elaborate and bejewelled selves in as much advantage as in Nordeney or Swinemunde.

Tradition says that Heligoland was first settled by Frisians, when the British bartered it to the Germans. some English knowledgeable fishers have been trying to get the thought that they were getting a good price for a disengaging asset. However so much of the island is Empire, spared in the last generation. And if its popularity increases as it is doing at present, there will be more money enough to spend on whatever works are necessary to keep back the encroaching sea.

Since the demolition of the fortifications, the famous illuminated gesthose, which were known all over the world before the conversion of Heligoland into a fortress put them out of action, have been restored again to the list of attractions. The new State Biological Institute, in which was established Germany's only ocean laboratory, and the Marine and North Sea museum, are other attractions for visitors.

Canada's Deep Sea Fisheries

Vessels Are Capably Managed and Seldom Have To Stand

Canada's deep-sea fisheries are worked by vessels from 40 to 160 tons, carrying from twelve to twenty men operating with trawl lines from dories. The fleets operate on the various fishing banks, such as Grand Bank, Middle Ground, and Banquereau. The vessels, built by native hands, remain at sea, sometimes for months at a time, and in the hands of sailors who have no superior, seldom come to grief. When they return, the fish which have been split and salted on board are taken on shore and washed and dried.

The International Boundary

The International Boundary between Canada and the United States, including Alaska, is 5,500 miles in length, and the task of permanently maintaining this boundary in a state of effective demarcation was made one of the functions of the International Boundary Commission by a treaty signed in Washington, on February 24, 1925.

The world is not perfectly round, actually being flatter at the north and south poles.

Variation Of Rhubarb

Well-Known Varieties Are Used In Test Carried On At Ottawa Farm

Commercial varieties of rhubarb have been tested side by side at the Experimental Farm at Ottawa for several years. The three standard or well-known varieties used were Linnaeus, Victoria and Early Raspberry. A planting of each of these varieties grown in rich sandy soil, four feet apart. The Linnaeus, one of the quite early sorts, produces a plant of small to medium size, quite erect in the early stages but drooping later in the season. This variety has the weakness of a tendency to produce seed stalks rather freely. The stem colour varies from a pink shading to a quite deep red at the base with occasional red dots scattered over the surface. The flesh is slightly tinted with a delicate red, the texture is fine, brittle, sharply acid and of good quality.

Victoria resembles Linnaeus but is slightly shorter in the stems. It has much thicker skin than the Linnaeus, the flesh has a fair amount of red colouring matter and has a rather sharp acid but pleasant flavour.

Early Raspberry produces a large stiff erect plant with strong crowns. The stalks are very strong and deep pink, the leaves grow 60 to 64 ounces; Victoria, 456 lbs., and Early Raspberry, 418 lbs. Many other varieties are grown. These are fully described in the report of the Dominion horticulturist for 1927, published by the Department of Agriculture, Ottawa.

A Profitable Industry

Large Shipment Of Turkeys From the Peace River District

The raising of turkeys is being carried on profitably in the Peace River District. The superintendent of the Dominion Experimental Sub-Station in his report for 1927, published by the Department of Agriculture, Ottawa, says that 500 pounds of dressed turkeys were shipped out from the Grande Prairie and Spirit River districts, cooperatively, and a smaller shipment of some 9,000 pounds was sent out from the district still further west. The turkeys netted producers an high as thirty-five and one-half cents a pound for No. 1 stock over twelve pounds in weight. Lighter stock brought lower prices.

Comparing Holidays

Japanese Seem To Have Best Idea Of Real Recreation

California holidays are good but transatlantic, the quietest, and greatest holiday-makers I know are the Japanese. The Japanese, when it wants recreation, goes to look at flowers. And when he reaches the flowers, he does not, curiously enough, tear them up by the roots or stamp on them, or put on his female companion's hat, or turn on the gentle saxophone-moan. He does not even eat bananas or shrimps out of paper bags and throw the bags on to the grass. No, he simply goes on looking at the flowers; he and his humble wife and his flowery babies walk click-clack-click-clack on their clogs, round and round the flowers, talking in soft light voices about the flowers. By and by they all take out of bright neatly folded handkerchiefs neat straw boxes of seeds — (rice mixed, with a few peppers or fragments of dried fish)—and they neatly make sure . . . of their chopsticks and then they go home with all the time. Between one holiday and another you may hear Japanese talking of a cherry tree in bloom as we Nordics might talk of a baseball favourite or a Derby winner. . . .

The Chinese are a naturally gay people, but the English, they seem ill have a propensity to put all their gaiety into their work rather than into their play. The Chinese and the English have, I often notice, much in common, and, if they were not for the obstacle of language, a Chinese sugared-apple-vendor and a London bus-driver could perhaps enjoy each other's jokes in perfect soul-communion—as long as they were workaday jokes. But, like bus-driver, the Chinese confine holiday puts on his stiff best clothes and his stiff best manners and purchase about with his wife and babies among self-conscious herds of his fellows and their wives and babies. A Chinese holiday parade is almost invariably most pompous

Temperature Must Be Just Right When Bananas Are Shipped

Bananas, as travellers, are pampered. From the time the fruit is picked green from the sun-splashed slopes of a lagoon in the West Indies, or the bright cliffs of the Canary Islands, infinite care is taken to ensure that the "bananas shall not take a chill, and the ripening process is maintained by a warm, even temperature, says a Tit-Bits writer.

Alongside the large steamers at such great ports as Hull, special trains of grey-covered vans are hauled up to make Banana Specials. They are the hottest railway trains in Britain, without excepting the passengers, and without a regular time table.

The sides, ends, and roofs of each van are insulated by means of double boarding, between which is fitted non-conducting material. A thick wood around the van doors and steam heating pipes are fixed inside the roof and at the ends. Hooded ventilators are attached to the long lines of cars so that they may be warmed throughout.

When the temperature is right, the fruit is hauled up from the holds of the vessel at the docks and tucked into its nearly-warmed quarters with the help of much packing straw. The doors are slammed and bolted, the right away signal is given, and with a steady flow of steam pasting through pipes which extend the whole length of the train, the Banana Special treks away to its destination, where warmed stores await the arrival of the fruit.

Who Pays For Advertising?

It Pays For Small and Yields Profit As Well

The following article will be of especial interest to those who believe that advertising adds to the cost of selling:

It is amazing how few people — even busy business men — know the fundamental principles of advertising, and yet there is not a business that is not in some way directly or indirectly seriously affected by advertising.

People who really ought to know better will argue that advertising adds to the cost of selling. Successful salesmen sometimes argue that "the time advertising came out of their salary"—just as if they would be drawing more money if their firm did not advertise.

The opposition that some salesmen feel toward advertising is basically the same as the opposition of an unthinking consumable toward labor-saving machinery.

Advertised products sell more easily and more often than non-advertised products. Advertising not only sells goods, it increases the volume of individual purchases and speeds up turn-over.

Salaries come out of profits and profits come from volume of sales not volume of production. If volume is not there, then the profit per unit of sale is proportionately smaller.

The following appeared in Personnel Journal Publicity, under the heading "Do Pays For Advertising?"

"The low murmur of his pupils' voices, coming over their lessons at night, had been a drowsy summer's day like the hum of a beehive, interrupted now and then by the authoritative voice of the master in the tone of menace or command, or persuasiveness, by the appalling sound of the "Now, then, James!" satisfoteer along the flowery path of knowledge.

"Hans Van Houtee, who pays for advertising?" asked the famous pedagogue of Sleepy Hollow, suddenly from the manuscript.

"Proceed to the foot of the class you are wrong."

"Retire to the foot of the class you are wrong, too."

"Hiron Van Ripper, you should be able to answer correctly this question, for your father is an advertising man. Who pays for advertising?"

"The consumer, sir."

"The schoolmaster rose to his full height. His bony fist thumped upon the desk.

"All three of you are wrong!" he screeched. 'No one pays for advertising.'

"The manufacturer does not pay, because advertising increases the demand for his product. The increased volume reduces the manufacturer's overhead and makes possible a decreased selling price. Besides, the manufacturer obtains that intangible but bankable asset—goodwill.

"The retailer does not pay for advertising. Advertising increases his turnover, bringing him quicker profits on his investment.

"The consumer does not retile the advertising bill. He obtains the benefits of lower prices made possible by the increased volume that advertising assures.

"No one pays for advertising! Advertising pays for itself—and pays the manufacturer, retailer and consumer alike. Who pays for it? Who pays the salary of the star salesman? The star salesman, himself, of course. It's just the same with advertising."

ALBERTA MINUTES

First meeting of the new council of M. D. of Alberta, No 635 was held in the municipal office, Manville, on Wednesday, March 13th, 1929. The following councillors present were W. H. Rose, Fred Whitlaw, Alex. Allanach, W. E. Scott, Jos. Modin and A. Oakshotson.

The newly elected councillors, W. H. Steele, Alex. Allanach and A. Oakshotson, took the oath of office.

Jas. Modin was elected chairman for the ensuing year, and W. E. Scott deputy reeve for the ensuing six months. G. M. Cundal was re-appointed secretary treasurer and assessor for Wild Lands. W. E. Sutton was re-appointed auditor.

Minutes of the preceding meeting were read and approved.

Council decided to pay 10 cents of Kill-Em-Quick gopher poison

Mr. Walling mentioned to the council that the Manaville hospital intended taking light from the Canadian Utilities Ltd. This brought up the question as to whether the company would be allowed to put their poles on the right of way. It was decided that it was inadvisable to have them do so if they could get a right of way thru private property.

The following machinery was authorized to be purchased: Grader, Gravel son Maintainer for Div. 1 and one for Div 2.

It was decided to ask the government for a capital grant of $1600.00.

A resolution was passed to pay W. J. Pearce $61.94 for land taken out of S.W. 13-50-5-4; Jas. Horne $97.78 for land taken off S.E. 13-50-5-4 and the C. P. R. $30.86 for land taken off S.W. 7-51-7-4 for roadway.

Wild Land Tax for 1928 for $18.04 was ordered cancelled on N.E. 13-51-5-4 as this land was sold to a resident rate-payer in 1928.

The secretary was instructed to write the Superintendent of C. N. R. at Edmonton to have the crossings one mile east and two miles east of Manaville and one mile west of Derwent more put in the centre of the right of way and graded up to standard

Sensational Finish to The Civic League

The final of the Civic League was played last Thursday night and resulted in a tie, each team having won three, this giving them the round and league championship by a total of 1 goal to 3.

The College boys lost the first game of the playoff two to zero and were conceded only an outside chance to win, but the return of Dave Hall to the line-up and a fine line of rushes undoubtedly were a big factor in their victory. The College drive to the leadership was the sensation of the league, as they were at the bottom of the heap last year and this year only started to land them in the play-off The strength of the College team probably lies in a handy line of rushers who need them freely, their regular

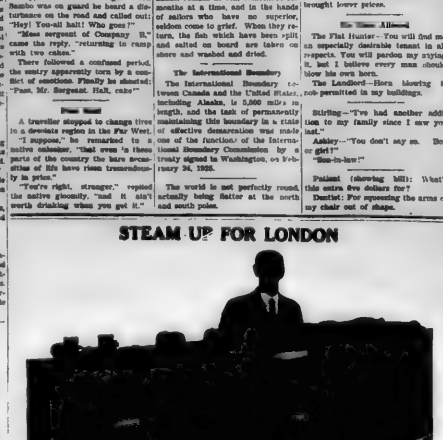
STEAM UP FOR LONDON



THE model, a perfect working miniature of one of the Canadian National Railways' giant locomotives, is now on the way to London, England, where it will be exhibited at the European offices of the National System. John H. Wood, of Winnipeg, constructed it in his spare time, and it took him fourteen months of diligence and skill. The main frames and some of the other parts were made by apprentices in the Fort Rouge and Transcona shops. The model is correct in all external details and will work under its own power. The boiler has been tested to 150 pounds pressure. For the purposes of exhibition a motor was placed in the cab base to drive the wheels through a worm gear on the main driving axle. The over-all length of the model is eight feet, six inches, while the over-all length of the original 6100 is 96 feet, six inches. The model weighs approximately 275 pounds and the super-locomotive 226 tons.

New "Ship Of the Desert"

A gigantic "desert liner" has been designed by an engineer in Germany, which, if proven practical, will eventually supplant the camel as a means of conveyance across the Sahara desert. There are four decks to the ship, and 12,000 miles can be covered without taking on stores.

The Evil Of Grain Mixing

Following the unsatisfactory result of grading the 1928 wheat crop of Western Canada a certain degree of protest and criticism has poured in to Ottawa and Winnipeg. Governments, Wheat Pools, Grain Commission officials, Boards of Trade and all farmers' organizations, Merchants and business men generally, suffering because the farmers have suffered, add the protests. In all this volume of criticism perhaps no one feature has called forth more complaint than the practice of mixing.

It is quite true that mixtures does not see eye to eye on this subject, and farmers themselves are sharply divided on the issue whether or not mixing should be absolutely prohibited and made an offence under the law. While many favor such action, others, equally loud in their claims that it mixing was entirely abandoned, there would be a terrible glut of low grade and high grade grain on the market, thus creating enormous loss to producers.

The Saskatchewan Grain Growers' Convention gathered within its own province a week of conference on this and allied subjects affecting the grading and marketing of Western grain, and proposes to carry its decisions further still to Manitoba, Alberta, British Columbia, and Europe, in what is recognized as the most determined attempt yet made to find solutions to some of the acute problems confronting the Western grain grower. In due time the report and recommendations of that Commission will be laid before the legislature authorities.

There is, however, another form of mixing in regard to which there are no two opinions. It is unanimously denounced as an evil, and one that is costing the farmers of Western Canada many millions of dollars annually. Furthermore control in the case of this particular form of mixing rests with farmers themselves, and with Pool Elevators handling over 50% of the individual grain growers' crop.

The form of mixing which reference is made is that indulged in by so many farmers in sowing mixed seeds, instead of sowing a single variety pure seed of one good variety. The seed is frequently used in a mixture of different varieties, while wheats mixed with red wheats with consequent loss in value of the composite grade. Such mixing takes place usually not in country or terminal elevators, but on board ship, not in the world markets, but right on the farms of Western Canada.

Investigations over a long period has established the fact that certain varieties are best adapted to certain districts. This information is available to every farmer. It is his duty to secure this information and then sow the variety which grows best in his district. He may not be able to afford to purchase sufficient pure, registered seed of that particular variety to seed his entire acreage this year, but he should get a few bushels of such pure, registered seed, sow it in a properly prepared plot, and increase his seed supply on his own farm.

The fruits of last Fall make it necessary that all seed sown this spring be first tested for its germinating qualities. Strong germination is necessary in wheat, oats, barley and flax. Strong plants having healthy vigorous roots withstand adverse conditions such as spring frosts, insects, disease, better than weak plants. Farmers will be well advised, therefore, to send samples of their seed grain to their nearest Dominion Seed Laboratory and have it tested.

There is still another form of mixing on the farm which is even more disastrous, that is the mixing of weed seeds with the grain through the use of impure and not properly cleaned seed. Governments and railways combine to run special seed cleaning demonstration trains throughout the country. Governments build seed cleaning plants. Nevertheless, tons of weed seeds are sown annually, as well as mixed varieties of grain, as was definitely proven by the seed drill survey conducted in Saskatchewan a couple of years ago

Western Canada farmers must begin at the beginning in dealing with the mixing evil. First, it is essential that all seed sown be of one high variety, thoroughly cleaned, with all weed seeds eliminated, and tested to immunize its germinating qualities. With the groundwork thus laid for the production of clean, high grade grain, necessary further steps can and should be taken to preserve the identity, grade and standard of that grain all the way from the farm to the ultimate world market.

Railway Aviation Expenditure

British Government Decides To Leave Appropriation For This Year

British estimates for government aviation expenditures during 1929, presented to the House of Commons by Sir Samuel Hoare, air secretary, total $81,000,000. This is a decrease of about $250,000.

In connection with the estimates, Sir Samuel said the new airships, the R-100 and the R-101, should be completed early in the financial year.

"The two airships should begin the trials of the spring and I hope to see the flights to overseas bases, such as Montreal and Karachi, achieved during the year," Sir Samuel added.

SPARKLING EYES AND ROSY CHEEKS

The Birthright Of Every Girl With Rich, Red Blood In Her Veins

The dull eye that goes with blood-lessness is a sure sign of misery and unhappiness. Anaemia that is blood-less, and Brenda with dark lines under-neath. But this is not all. Anaemia works havoc all through the system. The young growing girl, and girl-while they are breathless and incapable of exertion, while older women who are anaemic complain of backache and nervousness.

There is only way to bring bright-ness to the eyes of girls, and women, and women. That way is to invigorate the body with new blood and strength. Start Construction Of Ocean "Landing Field"

First Floating Airport To Be Anchored Half Way Between New York and Bermuda

Construction of the first floating airport of several that have been planned for trans-Atlantic airplane service will be begun immediately, according to an announcement by Harry J. Gelow, Inc., naval architects. It will be anchored about 300 miles at sea, half way between New York and Bermuda.

The airport will be a steel platform 1,200 feet long, 400 feet wide, and rising normally at least 100 feet above the surface of the ocean. It is to be moored by cables of forty-three tons and will contain a machine shop, hotel and restaurant, and a landing stage capable of handling a seaplane.

To hold this floating island in place there will be chains $1,150 feet long attached to specially designed anchors. Six thousand tons of steel and 2,000 tons of iron will go into its construction, and the cost is estimated at $1,500,000. The chief concern has been retained as consulting engineer by the company, the Armstrong Seadrome Development Company of Wilmington, Del.

Kaiser Cost Germany Millions Every Year

Abdication Has Saved Country Large Sum In Salaries

It has been figured that Germany in the last 10 years has saved $135,000,000 in salaries to the former royal rulers of the empire. Before the war the kaiser cost Germany $3,384,000 a year. Then came three kings—of Saxony, Saxon and Wurtemburg—and seven grand dukes, who cost Germany more than $5,000,000. Besides these royal "appointments" the other expenses of the imperial system brought the annual expenditures up to $12,000,000. Of course there had to be big armies and generally increased cost of royal government but this further cost could hardly be

ALBERTA PLANS GRAVELLING OF THREE HIGHWAYS

Edmonton, Alta.—The province of Alberta plans to expend a total of at least $10,000,000 on improving roads within the next three years, so Hon. G. L. McPherson, minister of public works, told a deputation from the Alberta Motor Association which interviewed the government recently.

Of this huge sum, during the year 1929, said the minister, the government will open the sum of $4,547,-663 out of capital and income accounts. This figure, however, includes interest and sinking fund charges on previous capital expenditures.

The expenditure for 1929 will cover the complete gravelling of three main highways from Central Alberta west to the Rocky Mountains. Of these three main highways, one of them, the gravelled road leading east from Calgary to Medicine Hat, and on to Walsh, on the Saskatchewan border, will complete a transcontinental highway clear across the province.

Thus, this main gravelled highway will extend from the Saskatchewan border through Medicine Hat, Ilasano and Calgary, linking up with the gravelled highway to Banff.

Britain Plans Second Imperial Air Line

Will Link Capetown With London Says Air Minister

London, England.—Arrangements have been completed for a second great imperial air trunk line, the two being approximately the same distance and being designed to give regular services in the world.

Sir Samuel Hoare, air minister, announced in the House of Commons that arrangements have been concluded for a service between London and Capetown, touching Khartoum, Kisumu, Salisbury and Victoria Falls, also approximately 6,000 miles, has been operating for some years, a provisional time table having been arranged for this service weeks ago.

Negotiations between the various African governments, particularly the Union of South Africa, for inception of a weekly air service between London and Capetown have been brought to a successful conclusion, the air minister announced.

Heavy Snow In Colorado

Two-Day Storm Isolated Small Towns Near Denver

Denver, Colo.—Many towns and villages in the Rocky Mountain region were marooned by snow that covered highways to a depth of three feet in places, following a two-day storm.

The storm area extended northward to the Canadian border, spreading a white blanket over Montana, Colorado and Wyoming.

A group of high school boys rescued Frank Nelson, 74, from his cabin near Mount Almagre, fifteen miles from Colorado Springs, where he had been marooned without food.

Wins McKee Trophy

Award For Meritorious Service Given To Western Air Ace

Ottawa.—Major Wilfrid "Punch" Dickens, commercial pilot of Edmonton, Alta., has received the McKee Trophy award for 1928, for meritorious service in the advancement of aviation in Canada. During the twelve months he made a total of 1,000 hours in the air, a remarkable achievement when consideration is taken of the fact that Dickens performed most of his duty in the northern sections of the Dominion.

Announcement of the award was made by Colonel J. L. Ralston, minister of national defence.

Noble's Resignation Accepted

London, England.—The Exchange Telegraph Company says it had been officially announced at Rome that General Umberto Nobile, commander of the ill-fated Italia expedition, had resigned his air duties. The resignation was accepted.

Was Hero Of Gallipoli

London, England. General Sir Charles Monro, who at an advanced age, served in the Gallipoli and Saloniki defence and was slightly wounded and mentioned in despatches, is dead at the age of 64 years. He retired in 1926.

Wants Canada To Develop Helium Gas

Operation Of British Dirigible Would Necessitate Obtaining Gas Here

London, England.—Development of helium gas for use in airships in Canada is a possible development of the building of the giant dirigibles for trans-oceanic transport by the British air ministry, Sir Samuel Hoare, air secretary, intimated in the House of Commons. He said it was hoped to approach the Canadian government later to see whether it would be possible to produce helium in Canada as the gas is produced and used extensively in the United States.

The two airships, he hoped, would be ready to take the air by spring or early summer.

If the home tests are successful it is proposed to make a flight to Egypt and India, and then to Montreal.

Toronto.—Large quantities of helium gas can be produced from natural wells of the Bow River Valley, of Alberta, to the south of Medicine Hat, it is understood here, and if commercial quantities was first accomplished in Canada during the war by Dr. Russell Commerford, under Prof. J. C. McLennan, of the University of Toronto.

Helium is non-inflammable and though less buoyant than hydrogen, is much safer.

Radiogram Received From the Antarctic

Welsh Society Of Saskatoon Gets Message From Scientist With Byrd Expedition.

Saskatoon.—A radiogram from the Antarctic, relayed by mail by the New York Times, has been received by Welsh residents of Saskatoon, from Frank Davies, in which the latter wishes the Saskatoon Welsh Society a happy Christmas and 1929.

Mr. Davies, at one time an instructor on the University staff here, left Canada with Commander Richard E. Byrd, in his expedition to the South Pole, sent the message on January 28 from "Little America," Antarctica, and it was received in New York on March 2, too late for the local celebration, which took place March 1. The document will nevertheless, form a valuable addition to the archives of the Welsh Society in Saskatoon.

Telephone Service Increased

The Pas, Man.—It was announced by H. Coddington, commercial superintendent of the Manitoba Telephone system, that arrangements for another hundred line extension on the Dauphin-Barclaya Bank (Canada) without amendment.

The Disarmament Question

Britain and U.S. Stand Agree In Matter Of Naval Strength

Buffalo—The question of Anglo-American relations overshadows all other political topics in the interest of the British public, according to Sir Arthur Balfour, chairman of the British Industry and Trade Commission, which is conferring with the business men.

Mr. Coddington said that the long distance business originating in The Pas was far beyond expectations.

Fire Sweeps London Factories

Heavy Loss In District Occupied By Paper Houses

London, England.—The biggest fire that London has experienced in a long time caused heavy damage on the south shore of the Thames in a district occupied by paper and tin factories. Three hours after the first alarm, flames were shooting 100 feet into the air, a whole series of the factories being ablaze.

A large part of London was illuminated by the blaze. Scores of fire engines and hundreds of firemen were trying to prevent further spread of the conflagration. They managed to avert danger from neighboring workmen's homes, although the families fled.

One of the losses in the fire was 400 tons of newsprint paper.

Famine In Uganda

London, England.—A dispatch from Kampala, Uganda ,to the London Daily News, reports thousands of persons dying of famine in Belgian Uganda. Motorists saw hundreds dying on the roadsides attempting to cross the border into British Uganda, the dispatch said.

Socialist Designs Futilely

Berlin.—Prof. Arthur Einstein and Mrs. Einstein left Berlin to avoid publicity on the famous scientist's birthday. He was 50 years old on March 14. They went to an unnamed country place for a short visit.

Extension For British Air Force Criticized

Kellogg Fact Has Not Changed Policy, Says Labor Member

London, England.—Joseph M. Kenworthy, Laborite member of the House of Commons, bitterly criticized the British Government in debate upon the 1929 estimates for the air force. He said the government's estimates bore no trace of any change in policy since Mr. Henderson signed the Kellogg anti-war pact," he said.

Kenworthy criticized the "enormous cost" of the air station at Singapore and also the utilization there of young airmen and "expensively trained cadets."

"I could have understood it two or three years ago, before the signature of Creni Britain was affixed to the Kellogg anti-war pact," he said.

A total of $2,500,000, a fifth of which is to be spent this year, he said, is to be devoted to the Singapore station.

"If the station is merely for defense of a new dockyard, that is an extraordinarily large sum," he said.

Sir Samuel Hoare, secretary for air, replied that provision made in the general expenditure at the Singapore base, and that Singapore would be capable of repelling any aerial side of any operations of the naval base.

"We think if there were no naval base at Singapore, the air base would be necessary" Sir Samuel said, "as it is the natural point of our communications."

HOUSE PASSES BILL FOR C.P.R. BRANCH LINES

Ottawa.—The Canadian Pacific Railway Act for branch line extensions completed its passage in the House of Commons, when it was given its third reading The bill emerges intact, with the proposed Sutherland-to-Melfort line in Saskatchewan was eliminated in the committee committee. The bill now goes to the senate.

The measures authorizing the Canadian National Branch line developments still stand for third reading on the order paper in the commons. The bills have been held up on account of the budget debate, but will likely soon be accepted and also passed on to the senate.

The C.P.R. bill, being a private one, came up during the hour in the house set aside for private members' bills. It passed with little or no discussion.

The house also quickly gave third reading to the bill which will incorporate Barclaya Bank (Canada)

Many Applications For Assisted Passage

Approval Given Large Percentage Of Prospective Settlers

London, England.—In the thirteen months ending January 31, 1929, 6,-583 families and 25,468 individuals not included in families applied for assisted passage to Canada, Right Hon. L. C. M. Amery, secretary of state for the Dominions, told the House of Commons. Of these, 2,772 families, and 18,718 individuals had been approved and 2,140 families, and 13,351 individuals had sailed for Canada. These figures did not include the special scheme under which 1,000 British coal miners went to Canada as harvesters.

After Ring In Recovering

London, England.—The papers are giving great prominence to the diet photographs of Tommy George, who since his arrival at Craigwell House They show His Majesty seated in a bath chair in the grounds with Queen Mary standing beside him. The photographs lend confirmation to recent reports of the King's rapid progress toward recovery

Toronto.—William Kelleher, ex-caleman of Toronto, who died recently at the age of 83 years, left an estate valued at approximately $20,-000. Mr. Kelleher, who arrived in Toronto penniless more than 60 years ago, willed $10,000 to local orphanages.

"THE TEN-POUND SMILE"

A happy group of Britishers who have just arrived in Canada under the ten-pound fare. Asked for comments as to the possible success of this reduced rate, officials of the Department of Colonization and Development, Canadian Pacific Railway, say: "While we are in general agreement, wholehearted with the words of the Dominion, more will depend on the opportunity afforded by the new rate, it is far too soon to state that much may be expected. Indeed there are indications that, apart from the first stimulus arising from the novelty of a new rate, the majority taking advantage of it are not looking for agricultural opportunities, and cannot therefore be readily placed through existing colonization organizations The movement as a whole, therefore may prove to be disappointing."

SHOWS RECORD SURPLUS

Hon. James A Robb, minister of finance, who introduced the budget in the House of Commons, on March 1, in which he announced another reduced debt and revealed a record surplus of $60,782,000.

Expect To Complete Railway In April

Line To Churchill Being Steadily Pushed Onward

Winnipeg.—Within sight of the sea, steel laying workers are pushing steadily onward to Fort Churchill, terminus of the Hudson Bay Railway, and early in April, unless the unforseen occurs, will have completed their work.

Telegraph communication with Churchill was established for the first time on March 12, and steel is now within 12 miles of the port, stated H A. Dixon, engineer in charge of the Canadian National Railways, here. Construction material for work at the port already is en route north.

Auto Driver Killed Trying For Record

Machine Out Of Control Crashed Into Sand Dunes

Daytona Beach, Fla.—Lee Bible, 43-year-old Daytona Beach garage mechanic, rode to a spectacular death in the 36-cylinder racing car with which he was vainly attempting to break the world's speed record of 231 miles an hour made by Major H. O. D. Segrave, of England. Speeding at more than three miles a minute, the machine got beyond his control and crashed into the sand dunes, striking and killing also Charles Traub, a newsreel cameraman. Bible left a wife and two children.

The accident, one of the most tragic in the history of beach racing here, occurred just after Bible crossed the measured mile course at a speed of 202 miles an hour, and was witnessed by a crowd of approximately 20,000 spectators who lined the sand dunes for miles.

To Fight "Red" Menace

Manitoba Command Canadian Legion Asks Action Against Communists

Winnipeg.—Eradication of Communism from Canada and the prosecution of those responsible for its spread, was demanded in a resolution unanimously adopted at the fourth annual convention of the Manitoba command, Canadian Legion, British Empire Service League.

The convention also urged that the Communists be prohibited from holding meetings in public schools.

Communists, the delegates declared, were attempting to instill their doctrines into the minds of children and the newly-arrived immigrant. Communist ideals were being circulated in literature and speech, marked by blasphemous, seditious and contrary to the teachings of Christianity."

They would "demoralize youths" and would lead to ultimate bloodshed, revolution and the breaking down of all religious and civil authority."

Pilot Has Freak Accident

British Airman Had Propeller Shattered In Encounter With Hawk

Chico, Calif.—Victim of a freak airplane accident, Flying Cadet R. D. Hamilton, R.F.C., was forced down in a ploughed field near Cana, six miles north of here, with the propeller of his pursuit plane shattered, the result of an aerial encounter with a hawk.

Cadet Hamilton, attached to the British airplane carrier, H.M.S. Furious, flew an 18-hour hop-off flight from that city to Vancouver, B.C., when the freak accident occurred.

BRITAIN HAS NEW SCHEME TO HELP SETTLERS

A new assisted passage scheme to provide Canadian farmers with British workers has been announced by the Department of Immigration and Colonization, Ottawa, here in the British Isles it will be able to find the farmer's stewardship care, to be recruited and after examination by Canadian immigration officers as well as that of the passage money by the British government. The movement will start within a month it is said and several thousands a year will probably be brought out in this way.

It is proposed that selected men will be given a preliminary training in agriculture in the British Isles before they are sent out to Canada. Under the present scheme the immigrant is required to have a definite job to go to before he is allowed to enter the country.

The new scheme is explained to be quite different from the former assisted passage scheme which was discontinued in 1925 when it was found that many of the immigrants were unfitted for agricultural work and were not prepared to settle down on the land. Under the present scheme the immigrant is required to have a definite job to go to before he is allowed to enter the country.

The new program is to be supplementary to the various assisted passage schemes already in effect. The most important of these is that of the steamship rate for agricultural families, with free passage for children.

Vermilion Chosen For Co-operative Institute

Big Gathering In June-Prominent Speakers To Attend

Most of the citizens will remember the co-operative Institute that was held at Edmonton last June when the most noted speakers were brought from Britain, the United States and Canada to address the immense gatherings at the University of Alberta.

This year the government proposes to hold four Co-operative Institutes in the province instead of one, the purpose being to cover a larger area and make it possible for more people to attend the meetings. For a time there was some question as to whether or not Vermilion would secure one of these meetings, but it has finally been decided that they will be held at:

1. School of Agriculture, Vermilion.
2. University of Alberta, Edmonton.
3. School of Agriculture, Olds.
4. The City of Lethbridge.

Thus, beginning the week of June 24th there will be held, for four days probably one of the largest gatherings that has ever been held in the town of Vermilion. Those who come from a distance will have accommodation in the school of Agriculture, Vermilion's and in the hotels in town. Hundreds of people will come by car These meetings are for men, women and young people. The main addresses will be for all, but there will still be special meetings for junior young men and women. The School of Agriculture will be entitled to a representation of 30 students, and the young peoples' organizations, like the Junior U.F.A., will also have representation

This will be a meeting of farmers, farmers' wives, and citizens generally who are interested in the many phases of co-operation. The foremost speakers from Great Britain, the United States and from all over Canada will be present to address the gatherings. There will be four days packed full of information concerning the great co-operative forces that are at work in the world today. As stated above, Vermilion is one of the four places in the province to be chosen as the meeting point for one of these gatherings, and we want to be very sure that our attendance will warrant that this point be selected for the following year if such meetings are held. Such bodies as the town council, the board of trade, the agricultural society, U. F. A. and all such kindred organizations should get solidly behind these meetings Undoubtedly when the time comes it will be necessary to secure the co-operation of local committees to put the big gathering over. All the meetings are free and there will be no local expense. What will be needed, however will be the wholehearted co-operation of the citizens of the town and district generally to induce all who may be interested in North Eastern Alberta to attend. If the gathering is anything like the one held at the University last summer there will be hundreds of people in the town for the four days and scenes of cars will circle in the morning and home at night.

Fuller details of the undertaking will be given later in the Standard

Edith Leigh, C.N.B. Dies In Bolton

At One Time Was Head of Maternity Ward, Vermilion Hospital

Many Blackburn friends who knew Nurse Edith Leigh during her professional training at the Blackburn Infirmary and afterwards in her devoted and far sighted work for the sick and suffering, will regret to hear of her death, which occurred on February 17th from pneumonia in Bolton in Ireland.

After Miss Leigh took her C.N.B. at the city of London hospital, she was sister-in-charge of the maternity ward in the municipal hospital at Vermilion, Alberta. During the war she went home to take charge of the Greenbank Military hospital, Bolton, where she did excellent work.

For some time past Miss Leigh had undertaken private nursing and contracted pneumonia while nursing a patient in Bolton. Only those who knew her best can realize what the loss of so skilful and devoted a nurse means to those she has served with no thought of self during many eventful years—Edmonton Journal

Old-Timers Re-Union Banquet

The members of the Vermilion Old Timers' Association held their annual banquet at the town rink on [illegible] night, when the hall was beautifully decorated for the occasion. Long before the hour set for the meal which didn't put in an appearance, the ladies had served up a bountiful and great each guest [illegible] a wealth and robust conviviality [illegible] seen nowadays, recalling [illegible] fond humorous of the early days.

After singing O Canada, Mrs. Brimacombe bent the genial and capable gathering in Toronto and got it. And eighty Old Timers, men and women, sat down to discuss the meal. From the moment of setting down ripples of laughter increasing to waves and sometimes gales swept the length of the tables. There was no let up on the hilarity until President Pilkie rose to address the gathering, he outlined the objects of the Association, following with reminiscences of old times

There was no formality in the proceedings, every member called upon responded with speech or song. Those responding when called upon were W. E. Steel, M. A. Brimacombe, Jas Common W. Sherwood, C. E. Hoover, Elden Hayward, Jas C. Mawby, A. Campbell, W. Baldasz, J. A. Rose, [illegible]. All were in splendid fettle and the [illegible] of the evening was well [illegible] by Mrs. M. A. Turkey Hill Farm Sells For Big Price

Fred Clare, one of the most extensive farmers in this district, has recently sold out his farm holdings south of town to Mr C. O Quist of Markwame The farm sold comprises fifty sections of the choicest farm lands in the Vermilion district, [illegible] what is known as the Turkey Hill district. The deal calls for $40,000 per section and the farm is taken over as a going concern, fully equipped. While quiet as to his future movements, Fred eventually replied "No. This much you need a district to leave, and we rather think he is going to continue farming on some more land which he owns in much the same part of the district

Cup Presented To College Team

Gen. Capston Host At Luncheon To Civic Team

The players, managers and officials of the Civic Hockey League were royally entertained by Mr. George Capston at a luncheon held in the Cabaret de Luxe on Friday night last. Every hockey team was well represented, guests from the town, lodges and press also being in attendance. Forty-three persons sat down to the beautiful luncheon supplied by host Capston.

A pleasing feature of the evening was the presentation of the handsome Marquis Four trophy, donated by Mr. W. R. Wiebe, to the College hockey team, winners of the Civic hockey club. In the absence of Mr. Wiebe the cup was presented by Bert Williams who, in a neat little speech set forth the ideals of the civic league, reviewed its career, saying that the league deserved much stronger support than had been accorded it. Mr. Williams also congratulated Fred Mead, captain of the winning team, on its success. In his reply, Mr. Mead wished especially to thank Mr. Williams for his efficient and impartial refereeing of the games and also Mr. Wiebe for the handsome trophy he had presented for competition. Mr. Heckbert, manager of the V. S. A. boys, made in his remarks some constructive criticisms of the league, which were very well received. Managers or representatives of each team held their own with each other in reparee when called upon to say a few words, representatives of the town council, Elks' lodge, citizens and the press also being heard. Mr. Dan Taylor hoped that it would be possible to form either a hard or soft ball league along the idea of the Civic hockey league, and leaving that idea with them while Mr. Jos. McKeon urged all present to attend the meeting of the Athletic Association on Monday evening.

Practically every speaker paid hearty tribute to the host of the evening, George Capston, not only for the fine time provided during the evening, but also for practically fathering the Civic League and fostering the Clerks team. Mr. Capston provided fun and forms for the Clerks at his own expense and did the line's share in putting on the league. This was all summed up by Mr. Williams, who moved a hearty vote of thanks to George, which was unanimously passed by all singing "For He's a Jolly Good Fellow." In his reply the host stated that he was always for good, clean sport and lots of it, and that he had fully enjoyed the Civic League and was especially pleased to be able to bring them altogether for the event. Three rousing cheers for Mr. Capston closed an evening of jovality and good fellowship.

DIED IN PLATTSEN

KITSCOTTY, March 27.—While awaiting the early morning train to the west, Mrs. Jane Mowat of Calgary passed suddenly away. Deceased, who had reached the age of 76 had just concluded a six months' visit to the daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Clarke, of Kitscoty, and was journeying to Calgary where her return was expected by her son, Wm. Mowat, and daughter, Mrs. Robertson.

The burial service was conducted by the Rev. Mr. Whelan in the Union church.

The various functions held yesterday afternoon and evening in connection with the closing exercises of the Vermilion School of Agriculture, will long be remembered, as they were without doubt, the most outstanding yet held in the history of the institution. It was impossible to publish the complete report of the proceedings and do it justice in this issue, as the story is held till next week. The occasion was honored with the presence of Premier Brownlee, the Hon. R. G. Reid, provincial treasurer, and Dean Howes of the faculty of agriculture, University of Alberta and first principal of the Vermilion school. Little Rosetta Annette was presented with the Human Society's bronze medal by the Hon. Mr. Reid during the course of the evening proceedings held in the large gymnasium of the dormitory, and which was packed to the doors.

BUY AT HOME —

"Buy at home — you SELL THERE" with variations such as "you work there" or "you make your money there"—has been a favorite advertising slogan with merchants for a great many years.

All of which makes no feet once again that a dose of one's own medicine should be prescribed occasionally. In plainer words, a merchant whose we may call "Jones" is noted for his anxiety in relation to the home purchasing proprietaries of his townspeople, particularly when this applies to groceries—which Jones handles.

Jones, however, places his printing order with a out-rate artist in a metropolitan centre, and returns from a business trip to this same centre each fall with two or three attractive suits made by his city tailor.

Now, Jones, that isn't nice. "Buy at home—YOU SELL THERE" is a motto that you should hang upon your office wall—and read it carefully when next you feel the urge to preach to your neighbors.

News has been received from Edmonton that Mrs. Wm Telford is getting along as well as can be expected following her serious operation, but will be under medical care for the next three months.

ISLAY ITEMS

No one dare say that there are no sporty curlers in this metropolis and also good Sabbath observers. Timings had not gone out of the rink and on Monday the rink was flooded from the adjoining dough and the ladies and gentlemen started at 9 p.m. on the best ice of the season. There were draws at 11, 1, 3, 5 and 7 o'clock The grand challenge put into the loop and the Merchants draw into the fifth draw good-bye for the season, for on Tuesday it was a case of "Home is where I'm wanted."

W. Easten and J. Bristow, qualified timers, attended the reception a Vermilion. Quite a number also attended the Elks' dance.

Miss Moore and Miss Chrisp o Vermilion are here from the normal school, teaching under the supervision of Mrs. Sherback and Miss Kennedy.

Mrs. T. M. Stephens left on Tuesday for Philadelphia, Penn., on account of the illness of her sister. Rhwill remain until her husband gets his holidays in August. Miss Ruth accompanied her mother.

Mr. Jas. Darrah is assisting D. C Nelson in putting in shelves, racks and counters and enlarging the floor spaces of Hayward Lumber, who are stocking up hardware.

Mrs. Jesse E. Hurlburt, daughter of Rev. T. A. Bowen had her home and her husband's barber shop entirely destroyed by fire last week.

The tractor and plowing outfits are coming out of town. Quite a few farmers have been harrowing.

Mr. Shirreff, south of town, had a very successful sale yesterday. Quite a few went out from town.

The full quota of new street lights have been recently installed and give the town a good business-like look at nights. Also a stronger current has been installed at the hospital.

George Young returned last week after spending the winter at his boyhood home, Somerset, Eastnd.

Wm. Purvis and family are here from Ontario and out on the farm again, ready to go in for another year

CARE OF BABY CHICKS ON ARRIVAL

(By Alex. Taylor's Hatchery, Winnipeg, Man.)

When your baby chicks arrive, be sure to have a comfortable home prepared for them. The lid of the chick box acts as a brooder and should be kept on until you have your brooder ready for them or give them to brood hens. Most farm folks have a brooder house 10x10 feet. This will accommodate 200 to 500 chicks with a coal burning Colony Brooder stove to rear them. The brooder should be tested and operated several days before chicks arrive and have the brooder house thoroughly dried before chicks arrive. The temperature of the brooder for the first week should be 95 degrees; second week 90 degrees; third week 85 degrees. The temperature of the brooder house 6 inches from the floor should be 65 to 70 degrees Once you have raised chicks with a brooder you will know all you desire to use brooder hens. Give baby chicks water with the chill removed and all the buttermilk they will drink, have plenty of small chick grit oyster shell and charcoal in hoppers before them. Feed a baby chick four to 10 per cent Beef scrap or a well mixed commercial chick feed. Hopper feeding is a sanitary poultry practice and is especially valuable in preventing disease. Feed chicks what they can consume in 15 or 20 minutes, then remove what is left and feed four or five times a day. Chicks grow when they are consuming the most grain of feed and they will only do this when they are hungry between feedings. Feed all the grain in a little [illegible] of clover or straw. Green feed should be given at noon. Lettuce or chopped dandelions are very good. A good thing is to give the chicks a warm mash at noon of equal parts of shorts, crushed oats, Victory meal and cornmeal, a pinch of salt and pepper to flavor. Also mix with same your [illegible] clean table scraps.

Cod Liver Oil in the chick mash is essential during cold weather or dull days; it develops bone, muscle, plumage and keeps chicks supplied with the necessary vitamines For chicks up to one month, use one ounce to ten pounds of dry mash; for older chicks and hens, two ounces in ten pounds of dry mash.

Water dishes or founts should be washed every day. Keep chicks warm and dry, cleanse the litter often, especially if you have a large number together Protect chicks against colds and draughts.

ANOTHER LANDMARK PASSES; STANDARD INSTALLS MOTTO

The Vermilion Standard has at last done away with thirty one engine which was exceptionally well known throughout the length and breadth of Vermilion's business district, not so much by sight as by sound. With the installing of the two horsepower electric motor by John Welsh, the Editor of the Standard has gone through four distinct power ages. First of all the big lobster newspaper press of The Standard was turned by hand; this was superseded by steam power, which, in the neighborhood of 14 years ago gave way to the 1.6 C gas engine which has held away manfully and nobly ever since. This is the first edition to be published by the electrical power. The Editor wants to know now what the next motive step will be.

Mrs Rob Jarklin, who has been under treatment for some time past at Calgary, is visiting in the district and expects to spend three months here recuperating her strength, when she will return with her children to her home in Calgary Her many friends are delighted to see her and to know that she is on a fair road to recovery

The Stuff Life Is Made Of

An Episode Of the Brave Dwellers Of Distant Plane

(By M. H. Coppens)

Way up north, there's a silent drama of life that must be seen to be appreciated. You get a glimpse of it now and then in an odd way when reports come in from those brave dwellers of the distant places, whose business it is to stand on guard for health.

You leave the ribbon of steel far behind, some six miles, and at last arrive at a house of healing where a well known flag reminds you of hospital life "over there." It is a Red Cross Outpost, small, efficient, and ever active in the service of the suffering.

Saturday night and thirty below! The Shrine truck driver had a sick load to deliver to the little hospital. Now beds and bedroom comforts were eagerly expected. Every ward full and a man with a splintered knee waiting for the new beds from Edmonton, sitting up all night with the courage of the North in his blood. Childbirth, flu, measles and accident, all in the day's march to the Red Cross nursing sisters.

Cold that had the sting of the Arctic, the steely cold of the land of Northern Lights. Strangely fitting was the broken English of the man who spoke of Nice (Hythe), and said he was "Prus'ter de marrer."

Ash and pioneer log dying that night in the little lonely ward of the North-ern Outpost Hospital. For twenty years he had worked, and on for a certain farmer. Now the end was near. There was but one wish the dying man expressed. He must see his old employer once again. That was all he asked of life, a look.

Sixty miles away was the homestead, but what are miles to the men of the North Death was ailing and life waved and waved.

Over an unbroken trail three horsemen in relays made that long mile trip to Strather for the doctor. Ten at night and a household asleep when the word was brought of the sick man's last request. Out bed sprang the man of the house to rouse him through the traffic of a city, and prove themselves most loyal in any sort of emergency.

Telling Him

A bishop was paying a visit to a certain parish, and decided to address the children of the Sunday School. He had noticed many pasters referring to the "Bishop's Visitation," and accordingly began his talk by asking the children the meaning of the word "Visitation."

"Please, sir," replied a youngster, "it's a plague sent by God."

A Good Substitute

Dad: "And his son Charles, do you think they will ever find a substitute for petrol?"

"They have one now, and I wish you'd get a trial."

Dad: "Indeed! Charles! I've never heard of it. What is it, anyway?"

"Nine bottles," retorted his father.

Hubby (feeling a twinge in his back): "I believe I'm getting lumbago."

Wifey: "What's the use, dear? You won't understand a word they say."

Advice For Poultry Raisers

Simple Remedy Will Cure Cramp In Young Stock

The chick season has opened with weather that is not at all favorable for rearing. Long spells of wet weather will result in many additional cases of cramp in young stock.

With cramp a chick loses the use of its feet, the toes turn inwards and the bird simply hobbles along on the front joint of its leg. This should not be confused with leg weakness which deprives the chick of the use of its legs altogether and the bird lies huddled up on the ground.

The obvious remedy for cramp is to remove that the brooders and runs are kept dry without being too dusty. Birds that are affected may be removed and have their legs anointed with camphorated oil. First warm the oil and paint the legs with a small brush. Place the birds in a well-littered box and repeat treatment a few hours later. By the following morning all traces of cramp will have gone.

Leg weakness is mostly brought about by depriving the chicks of an earth run. From a very early stage a chick simply must have access to earth; deprive it of this and the chances are ten to one that leg weakness will appear.

Dogs Are Intelligent Friends

Records Show Fidelity Has Been Proved On Many Ways

All there are human beings who imagine the dog is not a true and intelligent friend to man. Instances of astonishing intelligence and accurate reasoning in dogs have been so on many occasions They have hurried for help when some one they did not even know was in trouble; guarded children with greater fidelity than some humans rescued many from watery grave; protected homes from invasion by astounding what we call the instinct which may be regarded a form of reasoning; that guides the actions of the lower animals. Dogs are great friends. They show no side They ex-pect no reasoning; though a life of hardship and privation, the art of fetching is well becoming as obsolete as the use of good English. Not long ago, $15 million worth of personal writing paper was used yearly. Consumption amounts now to only $10,-000, showing what we call the telephone and the telegraph as the factors chiefly responsible for the decrease in personal correspondence.

The case as made out seems to be complete for the plaintiff against the decrease in personal letter writing. But we doubt that letter writing is or will become a lost art. Those who have thoughts worth putting on paper still record them and will continue to do so. Letters which have been unwritten because of modern facilities for communication probably would not have added to the art of letter writing if they had been written.

Making Them Fresh

Mistress: "Let me a dozen eggs and see that they are fresh. Eggs one should have the date of laying on it."

Maid returning: "Are these all right, ma'am?"

Mistress: "Yes, those are right."

Maid: "I told the young man at the grocer's that they must have had date on so he wrote it on at once"

Eight-Two Years Service

Scheduled Sailings From British Ports

British Government To Finance Plan To Send Poorer Workmen To Canada

A new assisted passage scheme to provide Canadian farmers with British workers was announced by the Department of Immigration. Farmers in the British Isles must have not been able to find the present £10 assisted passage fare, are to be required and after examination by Canadian immigration authorities will be lent their passage money by the British government. The movement will start this spring, it is expected, and several thousand men will probably be brought out this year.

The proposal will embrace a limited number of unemployed miners, physically fit, but not necessarily of the skilled farmer class, who come under the present assisted passage scheme.

A survey of the various provinces is at present being conducted by the department, and the number of men to be assisted will depend upon the demand for agricultural workers.

The new scheme is understood to be quite different from the miner-harvester scheme of last year. The men must demonstrate a desire to settle permanently in this country, and no provision is made to provide return fares at the end of the harvest. None of the expense is to be borne by the Canadian Government.

While assisted steel not have farm experience, they will be carefully chosen with regard to physical fitness and willingness to accommodate themselves to conditions.

The new program is to be supplemented by the usual assisted passage schemes already in effect. The most important of these is the £2 steamship rate for agricultural families, with free passage for children.

Many Apartments In Buckingham Palace

And Large Number Of Rooms For Servant Staff

In Buckingham Palace there are over 300 rooms. These include forty bedrooms (thirty for servants, ten private apartments for the King and nine for the Queen, thirty State apartments, and twenty box and luggage rooms.

The servant staff numbers about 200 men and maid servants. There are about sixty housemaids, a housekeeper, and four assistant housekeepers. Many of the men-servants are married and live out.

There are usually ten motor-cars in use for the King and Queen, about twenty for the use of members of the Household, and a dozen for conveying luggage, servants, and so on to and from railway stations.

Quite Satisfactory

Jones and his wife had been having words, and Mrs. Jones did not forget to taunt him with his shortcomings.

"Pity," she exclaimed, with an air of disdain, "you are not fit to clean my boots."

Jones paused a moment, removed his pipe and drawled: "Well, then, clean them yourself!"

Sharp Retort

"What do you think of the board of directors of the new company?"

"Sharp at times, and capable of nothing, while the rest are capable of anything."

Poem Of Empire

Hon. Wade Says Trade Treaties Should Be Made Within Empire

Trade treaties should be made within the Empire and then without.

If a for spittin' squint-eyed cuss boy introduced you to a mountain pony which had been christened with the unique name of a smuggled religion, "J.N.T.", "Sidkirt", or with any other name that suggested surprising but gentleness and mildness, you might be slightly suspicious as to the horse's behaviour.

But what's in a name;

The ponies of Jasper National Park, Alberta, are the opposite to what their names stand for—that is most of them. Though full of energy, especially on the homeward trek, they are thoughtful, kind and gentle. They know the hour of departure, and can be trusted in the face of anything, even a wasp's nest or a porcupine.

Many tourists have taken such a liking to the ponies, reports Major Fred Brewster, famous outfitter and guide at Jasper, that they have bought them and had them shipped to their homes. The most recent purchase was made by Miss Marie Crevaling, of St. Louis, Missouri, who bought "Sandy," one of the most saddle ponies in the park. Miss Crevaling spent the summer at Jasper Park Lodge, and during her stay, "Sandy" was the favorite pony; consequently they became close friends, and there was nothing else for it but that "Sandy" should go to St. Louis —which he did.

Required Quick Thinking

School Teacher Kept She Had When Inspector Called Unexpectedly

Here is a good school inspection story that has come out of Oregon, but really comes from England, where, in certain districts, denominational teaching by nuns and other religious personages is still approved. A school-board member there that are out of harmony with the tenets of the belief such teachers entertain. One day he unexpectedly reached such a school on a surprise visit one forenoon long after the hour locally allotted by law to religious teaching. The teacher was on her knees praying, head bent, oblivious to all but her devotions. The children also were all on their knees in prayer. Aroused by the opening of the schoolroom door, the praying teacher turned her head and recognized the dread inspector. She acted with wonderful presence of mind. Knocking on her desk for attention like mad, she called: "Children, you may rise. Your prayer has been answered. The inspector has arrived."

Begins At Home

Good nature, like charity, begins at home. We are never more ready to quarrel with our neighbors than with ourselves. We are dissatisfied with ourselves. When we look with disapproval on our own doings, it is difficult to be enthusiastic over the same doings of others are following.

A motorist usually has the same opinion of a pedestrian's walking that the pedestrian has of the motorist's driving.

Shown Rapid Development

Population Appeals Of Alberta Flight Over North Country

The recent spectacular flying flight of Captain Ingram from the vicinity of Chesterfield Inlet, on Hudson Bay, out to civilization, directs attention to the rapid development of northern transportation in Canada, says the Department of the Interior, through its Natural Resources Intelligence Service. The flight was made on the winter weather conditions and the machine was equipped with skis.

The story of the successful flight out from the winter headquarters of the prospecting expedition at Mile-lien Inlet, on the west coast of Hudson Bay, is not remarkable solely because of the use of skis and the winter flying conditions for such flying was accomplished in March, 1921, when several planes flew into Port Simpson, on the Mackenzie River, in almost the same latitude. There are much more important aspects to the accomplishment of Northern Explorers.

The two planes flew across an unmapped and practically unexplored country from the town of Peace River, and made the first landing in the Far Northern Territory at the trading post at Simpson. Mineral wealth—oil—was the lure then as in 1928, and the prospecting parties established with the north some three months before the opening of river navigation. In that "dash" the flight was successful, but there were weeks of anxiety following before one of the two planes returned safely and landed on Bear Lake, near Peace River. Both planes had met with minor mishaps in landing at Simpson and Indian craftsmanship and native gift were requisitioned in successfully repairing the propeller of the plane which flew back to civilization.

Getting Into a Groove

Nothing Is Achieved By Following Path Of Least Resistance

There is a wide gulf between what we know we ought to be doing and what we are doing. We have great gifts, but we are also born lazy. We have more than anything else, to be contented. We hate things that unsettle us. Comfort is the greatest boon life can bring us. So we follow the path of least resistance and settle into grooves. We find a comfortable place and stick in it. We make ourselves contented with something inferior, because it would be too much trouble to get the best. The contentment that comes from a sense of genuine achievement is one of life's greatest blessings. The contentment that means we have stifled our visions of what is high and noble in order that we may settle down to something ordinary and commonplace—is a curse. It prevents us from being as fine as we might be. It leads to ourselves and dissatisfied to be unhappy—granted; but when a man takes stock of his achievements and feels ashamed he now they are no better, instead of proud because they exceed those of his neighbors, he is on the way toward attainment

The Rocking Chair

Has Long Been a Subject Of Controversy Between Men and Women

At last a book has been written about the rocking chair. It should fill a long-felt want, for there must be a great many people who have wondered as to the origin of this familiar institution. It is appropriate perhaps, that this new book should have been written by two authors, a man and a woman, for casual observation would seem to warrant belief that the rocking chair has been a more prolific subject of controversial discussion between men and women than any other article of domestic furniture.—Providence Journal

Nothing To Worry About

Little Danger Of Letter Writing Becoming Lost Art

According to a Holyoke (Mass.) paper manufacturer, the art of letter writing is fast becoming as obsolete as the use of good English. Not long ago, $15 million worth of personal writing paper was used yearly. Consumption amounts now to only $10,-000, showing what we call the telephone and the telegraph as the factors chiefly responsible for the decrease in personal correspondence.

SUCCEEDS TO EARLDOM

The earldom of Egmont with an annual title and vast estates in England, has passed, by the death of its ninth earl to Frederick Joseph Trevelyan Percival a western Canadian rancher, who has spent most of his life in the foothills near Calgary. The new earl has left for England with his 12 year old son to attend to the business of succession.

In picture (1) is the new earl seen grinding an axe at his ranch home. A close-up of the earl is shown in (2). No. (3) is the earl's son and heir the Hon. Indigestion

What most people call indigestion is usually excess acid in the stomach. The food has soured. The instant remedy is an alkali which neutralizes acids. But don't use crude helps. Use what your doctor would advise.

The best help is Phillips' Milk of Magnesia. For the 50 years since its invention it has remained standard with physicians. You will find nothing else so quick in its effect, so harmless, so efficient.

Commis stood outside the door listening to the sound of the axe on the rough log walls of the house. She was attempting to place her heavy head in a knee at the top of her head. A page cut from a magazine was tacked to a log near the mirror. She studied the photograph carefully, then returned to the attack with renewed vigour. But she could not get it to suit her. She tried and tried, but the heavy shining coils would elude her slender fingers and fall in a golden cascade over her bare shoulders. Her efforts to reach a satisfactory result brought her to the verge of tears, but stamped her little foot impetuously. At last she got it arranged in a fair semblance to that of the Princess, and with a sigh of relief was so startling that Donald fairly gasped. The child of the moment was transformed, as if by a fairy's wand, to a woman of wondrous grace and beauty.

Commis perked her head saucily, then half smiled to show her small milk-white teeth; apparently she was satisfied with the reflection she saw in the glass. From the clothes-line she took a flour sack that had been split open and washed for use as a drying dishes. Draping this from her waist line, she pinned it securely, assuming a haughty pose, she walked past the mirror with a sinuous undulating movement. The little artiste was so perfect in her mimicry that Donald was completely fascinated by the word "Janet." Twice she passed before the tiny mirror with a regal air, then turned and faced it with characteristic bird-like motion to catch the reflection.

Her beautiful queenly pose slipped from her. She stopped abruptly, throwing out her arms with a forlorn gesture of despair, and leaned forward. Two big tears welled from her blue eyes and ran down the cheeks of the little girl who had been plucked convulsively at her faded blue overalls. A sob like a stab pain burst from her lips. Then she became up slowly to cover her tear-wet face as she threw herself face forward on the bed. Her slender arms and hers were shaking with such an agony of weeping that Donald's heart fell comforted and his eyes grew suddenly dim.

Her spotted captive, grazing nearby, raised its head and looked at the child in wide wonder, turn more the rest of his

Him hurried to do his bidding. When the other hearers leaned to lift the inanimate body, Hoop-la bravely interfered. "Let him alone," he said savagely. "Stand back!" And up the light form and bore it down the hill to their bed in the rough log shack. Donald forced a few drops of brandy through the dying man's colourless lips. Blackie stirred feebly. His eyes fluttered open and he smiled as he recognized Hoop-la.

"Give me your hand," he whispered faintly. "I'm going, my last hand, old pal. I guess God'll be good to us rough-necks." He gasped painfully. "I'm going to forgive Mike Sandy; his eyes became fixed and glassy, his jaw sagged.

Hoop-la's motionless, the hand of his dead friend held in his warm clasp. Slowly his head dropped forward, and his body shook with a dry racking sobs. Doctor Paul came in hurriedly. In answer to the look of intense pain in Donald's eyes, he shook his head sadly.

Donald and Wilkinson lighted poorly by the door. They were unashamed of the tears that made furrows down their blackened cheeks. Sick at heart, utterly overcome by the tragedy, Wilkinson sank dejectedly to a seat outside the cabin door and covered his face with his hands.

There came a sudden patter of raindrops that drummed on the roof of the cabin. Wilkinson stood erect with arms stretched wide. "Rain!" he cried. "The merciful rain! Thank heaven!" He stood with face upturned for an interval, enjoying the pelting downpour, then turned to look in the cabin door, to weep and brooding sadness in his bloodshot eyes.

"Donald," he said gently, "the newspaper account of this fire will mention the fact that 'a logger was killed.' A logger!—yes—men like Blackie are the backbone of this country, the salt of the earth. Why people over learn?" he continued, in a voice vibrant with deep emotion. He pointed to the barkless stubs of trees blackened and charred, and branchless save for the gibbet-like limbs stuck out from the naked trunks. "Think of it! All this—the smiling out of a valuable life—a verdant hillside changed to a charnel-house of dead trees and blackened stumps on bare rocks—the loss of thousands of dollars worth of valuable timber all this caused by the careless dropping of a lighted cigarette!"

CHAPTER XVII.

Donald's announcement that Labor Day would be celebrated at the Lake was received with good-natured approval by the men of the camp, who spoke of the coming event as the "dry" holiday. The rain, which had brought such blessed relief to the hearts of the guardians of the forest, had cleansed the air of the last vestige of haze that had overhung the Hills like a pall.

The morning of the holiday dawned auspiciously. The last days of August had given place to the mellow sunshine of Indian summer, when the crystal clear atmosphere above the mountains seemed much nearer, standing out sharply against the blue sky. Near the top there had been a fresh fall of snow that had covered the bare ice of the glaciers and the peaks with a mantle of white. Rays of the September sun were reflected from this virgin covering with a brilliancy that was dazzling to the eye.

Janet arrived for the occasion, the first time she had been in the camp since the previous day. Donald, on the trail from the north had brought the news that Janet and her father, Reserve, their dusky riders gaily bedecked in holiday attire. "Kiabowya-pasty," the Indians called their white colored faces lighting up with a grin that betokened a grin day spirit. Their tents dotted the lake-shore in the trees glowing cheerfully throughout the night.

The sports committee had arranged a full card for the afternoon and Connie's hysterical sobbing and moving to the small figure of his mistress, who lay with her whites and the brilliant sawing race in which two "buckers" from each camp would participate; a hundred-yard dash; a log-rolling contest between a man of the State of Maine and a citizen of New Brunswick. But those were mere preliminaries to the real event of the day, the much advertised horse-race. The men from the other camps, arrayed in their "Sunday clothes" made their appearance early in the day.

The cook camp bought its supply of sandwiches and cakes, but the brunt of the work fell on Andy and his assistants, who piled her upon the long tables under the long tables under the willows by the lake-shore. The lemonade was in half-barrels at each end of the tables, with a "help yourself" sign attached.

Old bloodthirsty, with stolid, seamed face, crowned deep with crow-batching of wrinkles, walked through the throng laden with baskets they were trying to sell. "Mike Sandy's basket," garnered their aged voices as they held forth their wares.

Old Mother Wainwright sat with her brown hand cans up to pat his head lovingly.

Donald lighted softly back to the trail. He stood for some time with his hand on the saddle, his head low down, his eyes fixed on the trail. "Little girl," he said gently, then whistled in a lively tune.—he shortly retraced his steps to the camp. His errand of clearing just in time to see Connie as she disappeared in the timber across the lake. He did not mind that he knew that he was aware of her flight, so he knocked loudly on the door and called out that he was going. He waited derisively from the top of a dead tree. The pony raised his head to eye him sternly. Connie's pert face showed at the corner of the barn, a look of gentle questioning in her beautiful big eyes.

Donald rode slowly back to camp. Connie's distress had touched his heart; her heart-breaking sobs were still ringing in his ears. "It is fate that Wainwright does not love his daughter," mused Donald. It must be that he is very poor.

"Don't see how I can help his thoughts ran on. "One can't very well suggest to a father that he buy clothes for his child."

Andy rang the lunch-bell and there was a wild and good-natured scramble for the tables.

A long table had been arranged in the big dining-room for the officials and Janet's party to which Donald had invited Mr. Wainwright

"Did you find Connie?" queried Wainwright.

"No," lied Donald. "I couldn't locate her."

Janet's friends were having a merry time. There was laughter pricing and gay repartee from all sides. Douglas was in his element. His quips and brilliant sallies keeping the table in a continual uproar.

As Donald glanced around the big table at the laughing faces of the gay party, he tried to visualize Connie dressed as one of these fashionably-clad girls who represented Van couver's "younger set." The picture he conjured caused him to smile dreamily.

Janet had manoeuvred to secure a seat beside Donald. In spite of all his artful contriving she had been unable to have more than a few words with her father's busy general superintendent since her arrival. She received the dreamy smile on his lips and wondered what could be the cause.

Guard Against FLU — Sore Throat The First Warning.

Few families will escape. This epidemic constitutes a real danger. Health authorities everywhere warn the public of the danger of the common cold. "Flu" usually starts with Sore Throat. Unless the germs are killed by some antiseptic treatment a serious malady may develop.

A simple treatment is to gargle the throat three times daily with Nerviline. The antiseptic properties of Nerviline quickly destroy the germs in the throat. Of course if the cold is sore Nerviline should be rubbed over the affected area—loin of rubbing; it can't burn a blister, but will bring out the congestion and break up the cold.

To prevent 'Flu' or colds from gaining headway Nerviline will prove most effective. It is hardly necessary to point out that the bowels should be stimulated, and the system purged of all waste materials. For this purpose Dr. Hamilton's Pills are recommended. They act without griping or discomfort of any kind. This combination treatment of Nerviline and Dr. Hamilton's Pills will prove a very satisfactory preventive for Grippe Flu, etc

Breaking With Thirteen

Superstitious People Should Avoid American Silver Quarter

Londoners have a deeply rooted idea that five shilling pieces are unlucky.

It is very hard, says a writer in Pearson's Weekly, to find the origin of this queer idea, yet it is an absolute fact that many waiters and waitresses have even to handle a five-shilling piece owing to their fixed belief that it will bring ill luck.

If it were the American silver quarter dollar, one could understand the superstition, continues the article, for surely, of all coins ever minted, this is the most risky. The quarter is twenty-five cents, which roughly corresponds to our shilling, and it simply teems with thirteens.

It has thirteen stars, thirteen letters in the scroll in the eagle's beak, thirteen feathers in the eagle's tail thirteen parallel bars on the shield, thirteen horizontal stripes, thirteen leaves on the olive branch, thirteen arrow heads and thirteen letters in its name "quarter dollar"—an amazing collection of thirteens!

Discover Old Observatory

Instruments, All Of Stone, Are In Excellent Condition

Workmen, digging a cellar in Bucknow, Mecklenburg, discovered what is declared to be an old observatory which archaeologists declare dates from 1181 B.C. A stone circle with markings indicating observations on the sun's positions throughout the year served as a timetable.

The instruments, which are all of stone, were found in excellent condition, and a fair measure of latitude can be made even now. Several museums are bidding against each other for the possession of this unique relic.

Little Helps For This Week

"Set my will but Thine be done."—Luke xxii. 42

Whate'er my Father wills is best, Twilight or suffering toil or rest, Thine eye and Thine alone, can see What I should have, and do, and be. I only ask that I may learn The way which Thou would'st have me go. That I my will in Thine may lose, This what Thou, Lord, for me shalt choose

I, too, may choose.

WINDOLITE

MADE IN ENGLAND

The Improved Glass Substitute

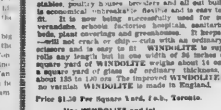
COMES WITH A MESSAGE OF HEALTH

THINK sun is the all-powerful life producer, Nature's greatest germicide and growth developer as well as stimulant and tonic. WINDOLITE is the sun's most important ally!

Medical research has definitely proved that from the point of view of Health and Hygiene, the most effective among the sun's rays are the Ultra-Violet rays, which possess the greatest power for the prevention and cure of disease and debility.

Science has further established that ordinary window glass does not allow the passage of Ultra-Violet rays, so that by using glass we are artificially excluding these vital health giving rays. Therefore, the invention of WINDOLITE has completely satisfied the long-felt want. Exhaustive experiments have conclusively proved that it is a most effective substitute for glass, that it freely admits the Ultra-Violet rays and that its use has a most beneficial effect on the growth and development of pans and chickens and on the well being of cattle enabled for the first time to have healthy light instead of darkness in their stables.

Indeed, the discovery of WINDOLITE has during the last six years completely revolutionized poultry farming, given a new stimulus to poultry breeding, increasing the egg-laying capacity and fertility of chickens, has greatly improved the health of cattle and is now being used in domestic and hot-house requirements.



WINDOLITE stands for 100 per cent sunlight! It makes light but strong windows for cattle sheds, dairy stables, poultry houses, hot-houses and all out-buildings. It is economical—cheaper than glass—and is easy to cut and fit. It is now being successfully used for sunrooms, verandahs, schools, factories, hospitals, sanitariums, bed pens, cloud coverings and greenhouses. It keeps out cold—will not crack—dirt—cuts with an ordinary pair of scissors and is easy to fit WINDOLITE is supplied in rolls any length, but in one width of 36 inches only. A square yard of WINDOLITE weighs about 14 ozs., while a square yard of glass of ordinary thickness weighs about 135 to 140 ozs. The improved WINDOLITE requires no varnish. WINDOLITE is made in England.

"GIMME, GIMME, GIMME!"

How can any man possibly look as pleasant as this Gymnasium Instructor, with seven charming ladies crying "Gimme" at once? The answer is that the photograph was taken on the Canadian Pacific liner "Duchess of Richmond" during a cruise of West Africa, the Isles of the Blest and the Mediterranean. This was the last photograph taken by the late "Topsie" Edwards, father of the modern illustrated newspaper.

Prairie Tourists To Have Sea Cruise

Winnipeg, March 26 — "Low land and high land and out along the sea" — This line of verse applies perfectly to the summer tour which will leave the Canadian National Railways' station at Winnipeg on July 1. Beginning here, the tour, which will be person ally conducted, will cross the prairies, through Saskatoon and Edmonton, will carry in Jasper National Park, will strike north through Prince George to Prince Rupert, and will then drop south by steamship on the Pacific coast to Vancouver.

Many reservations have already been made to say nothing of inquiries and there is evidence enough that the tours will be as popular as last summer's.

On the second day out, the travel ers will spend the afternoon at Wat rous and will have an opportunity di bathing in Little Manitou Lake, a min eral lake unique in the prairies. They will see Saskatoon and Edmonton and will drive through Wainwright Buffalo Park. After a day at Jasper, seeing the Lodge in the mountains, golfing and motoring or riding the mountain ponies, they will see the supreme Mt. Robson, highest Gates and Canyon ing of Canada's wonders — and they will walk through the fascinating In dian village of Kwuaga, which has ties with totem poles. The trip from the northern port of Prince Rupert to Vancouver, along the placid sheltered sea, will be a pleasure in itself, climaxed by a loop of Vancouver, there the travelers will be free to go to they please

YOUR GARDEN PLOT AND MINE

A department devoted to constructive criticism of the homes and garden plots of the members of the Vermilion Horticultural Society and others.

Following the lines laid down by other successful similar organizations it is the intention of to have a series of criticisms of the members' gardens written up each week in the Vermilion Standard. It may be the premises of the president of the Horticultural Society, or of Mayor Fallow or of the public buildings and grounds of the town of Vermilion which will appear next week, but whichever it is it will give you an idea of what your place looks like to others. With attention to the critic's remarks improve it, if it needs any improve on it if neglected, will it still reflect credit on yourself in particular and the Town of Vermilion in general?

If you think, after the criticism of your place has been well written up, that you have been favored, an open letter to this department will be in order, but if on the other hand you cannot see eye to eye with the critic the department would like to have you hand them a full correction of what your place really looks like from the eye of the beauty based on your own conception of it.

We have a wonderful town, a town of live energetic people and that means wide-awake and resourceful citizens. The appearance of a town is an indication of the prosperity and it is up to everyone to act himself and instill into others to have our homes and gardens as attractive with flowers, shrubs and trees, and it is the purpose of the Horticultural Society to foster the spirit among our citizens. We do not ask you to become members in the matter of the annual membership fee of $1.00, we ask you be a member in the true meaning of the word, that is, and why will be a member now that his home and garden is made an outstanding beautiful spot in our town. This will be a true incentive to your neighbor, and if your actions will instill in him a desire for an attractive place, your town as a whole will soon be one of the most beautiful in Alberta.

Remember that the local office of the Alberta Government Telephones carried off third prize in competition with all the other locals in Alberta for the most beautiful and attractive office and grounds?

Then the Town of Vermilion was a competitor in the last annual exhibit of the Vermilion Horticultural Society, and carried off a prize?

We are having our annual exhibit on August 22nd in the Arena rink. We want one thousand entries to make it a success. Do not wait for someone to call on you to become a member — show that you are interested for your own and the town's sake and call on Ed Sutton, the secretary, with your membership fee and then go out and make a garden and be one of the 1000 exhibitors.

With reference to the critic on of gardens, yards, etc., it is proposed that a committee of three commence After the premises of a party have been inspected, one of the committee drops off and his place is taken by the party whose place was inspected thus affording an opportunity of all to have a say what the other fellow's place looks like to them. This scheme has been worked successfully in other Alberta towns and has resulted in a wonderful improvement as to cleanliness and tidiness of yards and gardens. Fences half down, gates hanging on one hinge, weeds, etc will all come in for mention. It all depends on the committee how strong the "mention" will be.

OLD TENNIS COURTS NOW A THING OF THE PAST

The old tennis courts located west of the Anglican church and first built by members of the church congregation, will be the scene of flashing racquets and bounding balls no more, for the property has been sold for residential purposes and a house has already been moved onto the east court. This means that the Tennis Club will have to go to work in earnest and fix up the new courts which the town laid out for them last year and which are located just east of the rink. These courts were laid out and levelled by an engineer and with the proper attention should prove most satisfactory to the old courts. The chief difficulty in connection with the grass growth on the courts, but with the liberal use of either brine or some kind of oil this can be done away with. All this tends us to think that with the present spring weather growth won't be long in starting, so the sooner the Tennis Club get together and organize and concentrate on getting the courts in to shape, probably the better they will be. Usually the first meeting of the tennis club is poorly attended, and perhaps holding it in a more public place, such as the town hall which can usually be obtained for such purposes, would bring out a larger attendance.

V.A.A.A. Hold Annual Meeting

Post Year Most Successful in the History of Association

A. E. Kalyer will guide the destinies of the Vermilion Amateur Athletic association for the year 1929. This was the unanimous decision of the members of the association at its annual meeting on Monday evening of this week and which was held in the town hall. There was a large attendance, one of the best in recent years. An encouraging note was the presence of so many young men and boys in the words of President West this augurs well for the future of Vermilion. The financial statement was submitted by the secretary treasurer, C. Chisholm and showed total receipts for the year of $1,164.46 and a balance to credit of $402.99. The year was regarded as the most successful in the history of the association, both from the financial and sports point of view.

Before retiring from office which he declined to accept for another term, President West appealed to the young men of Vermilion to come forward and take an active part in the affairs of the association. We have been one of the best athletic associations in the province of Alberta, he said, and it was up to the young men to associate themselves with it and thus build up a virile machine in the town of Vermilion. The other officers elected were as follows: Vice President, Dr. W. W. Bell; secretary treasurer, W. E. Sutton. These officers with the following will constitute the executive: A. E. Williams, baseball; J. W. E. Marble, basket-ball; H. W. Harper, hockey; C. L. Whitby, lacrosse. The tennis and football clubs will appoint their representatives shortly. It was decided to hold the annual field day sports on Monday, June 3rd.

New Pontiac "Big Six" Now on Display

Power, performance and appearance previously obtainable only in the big car field distinguish the new Pontiac "Big Six," latest product of General Motors of Canada, which has just been put on display in the showrooms of Geo. Law.

An inspection of this new car reveals that to the many features of sound basic design which in three years have brought the Pontiac swiftly to leadership among the sixes, the designers have added an impressive array of big car specifications which seem to predicate this car above the small car field in everything but price.

In view of the interest aroused by the "Big Six" at the national motor shows in Toronto and Montreal, its appearance here has been eagerly anticipated, and the local dealers are featuring the first showing as an event of more than ordinary interest. Explaining the reason for his enthusiasm, the head of the firm asserted that the new Pontiac line provides not only new body lines that instantly catch the eye, but a chassis and engine almost entirely new.

The engine, according to this authority, is more powerful than a year ago, with 200 inches of cylinder displacement and developing fifty-seven horsepower. Refinements include a harmonic balancer and counter-balanced crankshaft; larger valves, manifold and carburetor; sturdier rear axle; redesigned transmission assembly and new Hotchkiss drive with two universal joints.

Paralleling the new performance of the power plant is the beautiful new, longer and wider Fisher bodies. Overall length has been increased to 167 inches. On the hood a smart new louvre grouping sets the car instantly apart in traffic. In manner unlike the conventional the louvres all are grouped in one panel, and extend horizontally across the bonnet.

The Fisher closed bodies all have adjustable driver's seats, smart new sun visors of all-metal construction, ride bumper headlights operated by foot control, ebony finish instrument panel with individual mouldings and illumination by two shielded bulbs, small slightly arched windows in rear, slender ebony finish steering wheel and deep luxurious upholstery in mohair colors harmonizing with the new and beautiful exterior Duco combinations.

Smart low wheels of the heavy artillery type, type with large hub caps and flanges, take 29x5 balloon cord tires. The small wheels, however, do not affect road clearance, which is ample at 8¼ inches. Special equipment, consisting of six wire or demountable wood wheels and tires, with spares carried in front fender wells, is available at extra cost.

Safety is assured by the new dirt- and water-proof four-wheel brakes, of the internal expanding type, with a useful parking brake on the main driveshaft. Riding ease comes from luxurious upholstery, improved springs and Lovejoy hydraulic shock absorbers on all four wheels.

Seven models comprising the line are a four-door sedan, two-door sedan, sport roadster with folding rumble seat, sport phaeton, coupe, and two new types — a custom-like landaulet sedan with a folding top over the rear quarter section for all weather driving and a convertible cabriolet with rumble seat.

Features characteristic of the entire line include larger headlamps of modified bullet type design with chromeplated door and narrow rims, running boards bound with polished aluminum moulding, hood catches of cadmium plated, new tire carrier supported on sturdy brackets, VV windshield on closed body types, rear view mirror, automatic windshield cleaner, new approved combination stop and tail light, larger motor-driven horn and theft-proof door locks.

Following the annual meeting of the Vermilion Amateur Athletic association on Monday evening of this week, an informal discussion took place with regard to the advisability of removing the old curling rink to a place immediately west of the skating rink, the idea being to have both rinks carried on by the one management. It looked as if the town would have to take the building over and the question was as to how to raise the necessary moneys to pay for the moving. It was felt that the matter would have to be carried out under popular subscription as was the case with the skating rink, subscriptions to be taken out by the subscribers to curling fees or as otherwise might be arranged. It was pointed out during the discussion that the skating rink had not paid its way last season and with the curling rink under the one roof, as it were, the idea seemed to prevail that one would ease the other financially. A committee was appointed to ascertain the probable cost of moving the structure, to report at a meeting to be called shortly.

THE FIRST EASTER

IT the end of the Sabbath, as it began to dawn toward the first day of the week, came Mary Magdalene and the other Mary to see the sepulchre.

And behold, there was a great earthquake; for the angel of the Lord descended from heaven, and came and rolled back the stone from the door, and sat upon it.

His countenance was like lightning, and his raiment white as snow.

And for fear of him the keepers did shake, and became as dead men.

And the angel answered and said unto the women, "Fear not ye; for I know that ye seek Jesus, which was crucified.

"He is not here; for He is risen, as he said. Come, see the place where the Lord lay.

"And go quickly, and tell His disciples that He is risen from the dead; and, behold, He goeth before you into Galilee; there shall ye see Him: lo, I have told you.

And Mary Magdalene and the other Mary departed quickly from the sepulchre with fear and great joy; and did run and bring His disciples word.

And as they went, behold, Jesus met them, saying, "All hail."

And they came and held him by the feet and worshipped Him.

Then said Jesus unto them, "Be not afraid; go and tell my brethren that they go into Galilee and there shall they see me."—Matt. 28.

This is the story of Eastertide, Wonderful Glory Gates swinging wide, Beauty of resurrection, Triumph with bloom, Bright Angel Warden there by the tomb;

So from the prison He comes forth divine:
Jesus is risen, new glories shine.
This is the story of glad Eastertide.
This is the story, a King crucified.
Hoc- is the treasure sent from above,
For heart-measure, such infinite love.

The Christian faith has given some great and glad days to the world, but none of the greatest are Christmas and Easter. At Christmas we are apt to centre our thoughts upon the children as we think of the Christ Child, and celebrate with gifts, and sing "Glory to God in the highest, Peace on Earth, Good Will toward men." On the Easter morn we think of the age as well as yours and rejoice in the wonderful fact of the resurrection. In the one Christ opened the portals of heaven and gave mankind a glimpse of the redeeming fires of God; and in the other, Christ burst the bars of death and gave us a glimpse of resurrection glory. Easter bells ring out the message Jesus lives this Easter morn How glad we are that winter is over and spring is here again. As we look around we see the emblems of resurrection everywhere; we see the new bud on the old tree, we witness the miracle of new born life, listen to the songs of birds, see fresh foliage appear each spring. We must not forget, as nature performs her miracles of resurrection, that there is no law of nature independent to the law of God.

Today, we hold a chrysalis gathered from the limb of an old tree. We wonder how it lived though the bitter cold of winter waking the resurrection of spring. We do not know. We know it will burst its tomb and come forth a beautiful butterfly

Death, an unwelcome visitor, has entered many of our homes during the year. Whether he comes to smooth the tired lines from the face of the aged and still the hands that have grown wrinkled in toil, or to gather the baby life that was like a sweet bud with no time for unfolding or when his coming cuts short the fresh young life just opening in the bloom in grain buyer for a local elevator hope. We never question immortality. Jesus said "I am the resurrection and the life. Because I live ye shall live also."

The flowers awake to life anew,
The birds come back in song;
O, what must life Eternal be
That Jesus came to bring
Like sunshine after winter,
Like the springtime after snow,
Will be the resurrection,
Which in Jesus we shall know

One Nation, Two Cultures

The Dominion of Canada is a great heritage. It has many great problems to solve in order to achieve its destiny. Before Governments and people can successfully cope with these problems the citizenship of the Dominion must become imbued with, fully accept and earnestly practice the "Spirit of Confederation" which animated the leaders in the public life of this country sixty odd years ago. The names and memories of the Fathers of Confed-ration are held in honor, not only for what they achieved but because of the true patriotism expressed through real sacrifice by which union became an accomplished fact.

It is no light matter to speak of the Spirit of Confederation. It was a very real thing. It breathes brough every utterance of the men who found it necessary to sink political differences, submerge personal views and convictions, abandon policies dear to their hearts, and accept compromises falling short of what they desired. But they did it, knowing that only so could disaster for British and Canadian interests be averted and the future of the northern half of the continent under the British flag be assured. It was this spirit which alone made Confederation possible and carried it successfully through the stormy early years.

This same spirit is just as vitally necessary in the life of Canada today as it ever was in the past. Without it the Dominion could not have had its being, and without it the Dominion cannot continue to exist.

The great challenge which Canada presents to the world at large, and, of course, most vitally of all to her own people, is not in the material realm of trade and commerce, but in the realm of the spirit. The people of the Dominion are composed as they are of two great races two distinct forms of religion, speaking two languages, and the product of two cultures. Canada's challenge to the world is to be found in our success or failure to consistently live up to the Spirit of Confederation and make it a living vitality in the life of the Dominion This is Canada's challenge to the world because the issues of world peace or war are very bed up in the solution of exactly similar problems in the nations of Europe and across the Pacific

The problem before the Fathers of Confederation was whether the existence of two races, two languages, two cultures in Canada was an insurmountable obstacle to the creation of a single united nation, and whether such a nation could exist on the basis of that fact. Their decision was that such a nation could exist and they laid down the formula in the British North America Act. Confederation became an accomplished fact, and it has not only survived but progressed and grown to an amazing extent.

There is one Canadian of French race and language for every two Canadians of English race and language. How shall both feel that common love for home and soil which is the soul of nationality? Both races have traditions, a part of their own. On what principle and to what ends may both races have a common national future?

These vital questions can clear through the whole of our national life today, just as they did prior to and at the time of Confederation. Shall the people of Canada, with so vast an estate to develop in common, with so great a part to play in elevating the quality of living and so noble an opportunity awaiting them to take in the British Empire and in the sphere of international relations, always be faced with the menace of racial discord, of attacks by one race on the integrity of the other, of recourse to embittered discussion of rights that should be secure, or wrongs that should have been corrected, when scores of social and economic problems are crying out for solution? Race is like a car left with its engine running. The slightest touch will put it in gear and it will speeding towards some bitter accident.

In the nineteenth century Lord Durham's policy was the "obliteration" of the French-Canadian The policy of the Fathers of Confederation was the recognition of the identity of both races, both languages, both religions, both cultures. Their ideal was one nation, two cultures; one nationality, two languages; one loyalty, two races

Which policy was practical? To obliterate a whole people, or to form a nationality in which the identity of two peoples might be secure, free, developing? The Fathers of Confederation had the only practical policy, the only policy that would ensure peace make the progress of Canada possible, and establish a new nationality in British North America.

DO YOU SUFFER FROM RHEUMATISM

For Relief You Must Reach the Root Of the Trouble In the Blood

Sufferers from rheumatism who have found their condition unrelieved or actually growing worse while using other remedies, should resolve to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. The truth of this statement is attested not merely by the case of Mrs. Ellie A. Adams, Parrsh, Ont., who says:—"I was a helpless invalid for a year with inflammatory rheumatism. I had good medical treatment and took mineral baths, but with no result. Ultimately I felt utterly discouraged, and was suffering greatly. Then one day I read in a local paper of a case similar to mine, in which great praise was given to Williams' Pink Pills and I decided to give this medicine a trial. It is now more than a year with pleasure I write to tell you that in less than two months after I started the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills I was able to get up and walk about, as well as ever I did. I can never praise these pills too highly and I hope that in making my experience public it may benefit some other sufferer."

A very useful book "Building Up the Blood," will be sent free on request by The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are sold by all druggists or will be sent by mail, post paid, on receipt of price, 50c. a box. Try them today.

Many western Canadians will make a bee-line for Regina Exhibition in June, under the auspices of the "New Outlook," official publication of the United Grain Growers, and the Canadian National Railways.

Wool By Aeroplane

Australian Company Combining The Means Of Transport

Transport of wool by aeroplane is being considered by Australian Air Services, Ltd., in districts where camel caravans are now employed. The company in Melbourne has already received a request from a station owner in Northern Victoria for specifications and an estimate of cost of freight plans to carry his wool over a difficult 300 miles of the journey to the nearest seaport. The transport of freight in the districts in which the station is situated costs about £50 per ton, and a plane will be able to transport freight over the distance in a day whereas several weeks are often required.

Sire Of Hoover's Support

League Of Nations Has Good Friend In U.S. President

What stand will President Hoover take in regard to United States cooperation with the League of Nations? Supporters of the League, who think they have practically abandoned any hope that the States will become an active member of the League, feel that in Mr. Hoover they have the strongest support of its policies since the regime of President Wilson.

They base this belief on the fact that in 1919, President Hoover was an urgent advocate of United States entry into the League and that while bound by loyalty to his party to take an opposite point of view he will always remain at heart a strong protagonist of League ideals.

It cannot be said that League support by itself they had a genuine friend in Mr. Coolidge. Practical ignorance or rapid acquiescence was all that could be expected from the former chief executive. Always he appeared to be dominated by the small town point of view of the narrowest type of American in his dealing with the League and constituted by the greatest incapable of thinking on an international plane.

While the new president is similarly by party connection it is believed that by every means in his power he will strive to represent that liberal minded section of the country fervently advocate closer co-operation with the League in maintaining world security.

Many have been relieved of corns by Holloway's Corn Cure. It has a power of its own that will be found effective.

Miller's Worm Powders are depended upon to clear worms from the system.

Big Job For Typesetters

Complete Set Of Chinese Type Will Take Seven Years To Produce

Four will envy a certain Shanghai printing establishment which has been working for three years to make a complete set of type, so that 10,000 Chinese characters (most of China's alphabet) can be printed.

It will exceed by several thousands the number of characters now being used in the printing of the largest of Shanghai's Chinese newspapers.

Since the single symbol, in Chinese, may express a whole idea, an imposing array of type is required by the monotype printing establishment, and the newest alphabet, which will provide each of the 10,000 characters in five sizes, will be a book.

Each "letter" must be photographed and the impression on the resulting plate tediously touched by hand. Four more years will be required to complete the work.

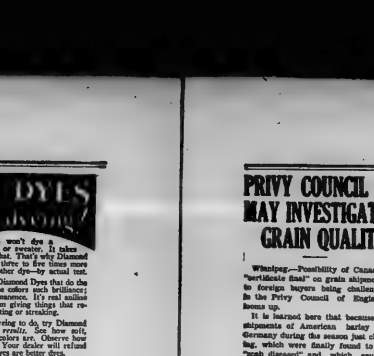
Minard's Liniment for Coughs and Colds.



Words won't dye a dress, or coat, or sweater. It takes real anilines to do that. That's why Diamond Dyes contain from thirty to five times more anilines than any other dye—by actual test.

It's the anilines in Diamond Dyes that do the work; that give the colors such brilliance; such depth and permanence. It's real anilines that keep them from giving things that rubbed look; from spotting or streaking.

Next time you have dyeing to do, try Diamond Dyes. Then compare results. See how soft, bright, new-looking the colors are. Observe how they keep their brilliance. Your dealer will refund your money if you don't agree Diamond Dyes are better dyes.

The white package of Diamond Dyes is the original "all-purpose" dye for any and every kind of material. It will dye or tint silk, wool, cotton, linen, rayon or any mixture of materials. The blue package is a special dye, for silk or wool only. With it you can dye your valuable articles of silk or wool with results equal to the finest professional work. New Type Of Flying Craft

Being Built For British Air Ministry and Is Nearly Ready For Tests

The London Mail says that a flying machine called a "ballistyte" is being built at the order of the British air ministry and is nearly ready for tests.

It is a development of the helicopter, and was invented by Vittorio Isacco, who in 1917 collaborated with Pescara in making five helicopters.

The new machine is designed to ascend and descend vertically and to hover motionless in mid-air.

Traffic Is Increasing

Two New Steamers Ordered For Vancouver-Victoria Night Service

To meet increased freight and passenger traffic on the waters of the Pacific coast, two new vessels of the "Princess" type for night service between Vancouver and Victoria have been ordered by the Canadian Pacific, it is announced by Captain C. D. Halloway, Manager of the British Columbia Coast Steamship service. The two sister ships are to be delivered next year, each having accommodation for 430 passengers.

Small Suns Compose Stars

Partially Eclipse Each Other Every Twenty-Four Hours

In Canada's solar system there is a star of the ninth magnitude known as C. It is composed of two small suns each about half as massive as our own and but little more than half the diameter, though of much greater density. They appear to be dying down into the planetary stage of burned-out condition for the time with a reddish light and possess a much lower surface temperature than our sun.

This pair of suns worlds in the making are at an average distance apart of 1,700,000 miles, and they appear to revolve around one another at great speed in about twenty hours partially eclipsing each other every time as seen from the earth We do not see the effect of these eclipses until forty-three years after they occur, owing to the great distance (3,720,000 times that of our sun) of this marvellous solar system of Castor

Death Of Famous Canadian Engineer

Sir Alexander Gibb, famous Canadian engineer, died in London, England, on March 20th. He was born in Aberdeen, Scotland, in 1872, and was educated at Aberdeen University. He was the engineer for the Glasgow Corporation Water Works, and was knighted in 1921. He was also engineer for the Rosyth Dockyard, and the Kut-el-Amara Barrage in Mesopotamia.

Discussing Amount and Duration Of Annuities

Committee Makes Good Start At Reparations Key Problem

Paris.—The experts committee on reparations is making a good start at its key problem—the amount and duration of annuities with which Germany's debt will be paid.

Discussion is strictly semi-official, however, and there are still wide gaps between the hopes and claims of the different parties. But there is a spirit of conciliation in the air which seemed to justify an optimistic outlook on deliberations which soon may reach a plenary session of the committee.

Prance was credited with the intention of claiming ten billion marks (about $2,500,000) of an immediate payment which Germany is expected to make.

Belgium, it is stated, will ask reimbursement of six billion marks for the Belgian emission and that German currency which the German invaders left behind.

Great Britain's claims in the first payment are expected to total about four billion marks (about $1,000,000,000) it is understood. Great Britain will claim that previous agreements do not apply to the claims of the dominions and that she expects further to be reimbursed now for what has already been paid the United States on the war debt account.

Plane Another Trip Over Niagara Falls

French-Canadian Willing To Dare Death A Second Time

Niagara Falls N.Y.—Jean Lussier, French-Canadian, who successfully made the perilous trip over the Falls in a rubber ball last summer, encased in a rubber ball, probably will dare death a second time on July 4.

Lussier's novel over the falls in a specially constructed ball in daylight with more than 75,000 persons witnessing the feat. He was fished from the river two hours after starting his trip by William "Red" Hill, veteran riverman.

Lussier is planning to make the second trip in a vehicle which he has been working on for a year. It will be six feet in diameter, electrically lighted and so constructed that the occupant will be able to remain upright during the entire journey. It will be heavily padded inside to insure escape from any serious injury.

No Disarmament Conference This Year

Earliest Possible Date Will Be Spring Of 1930

Geneva.—League of Nations circles have informed the press that there will be no possibility of holding a general disarmament conference this year.

The first statute it was declared at which such a conference can be convoked will be the spring of 1930, but it is more than probable that it will be held along in the fall before it can be held.

This delay is due purely to the present lack of progress in the preparation for the conference.

It will be necessary it was pointed out that the League's Preparatory Disarmament Commission meet at least two more sessions before anything can be reached on a draft project for a general disarmament convention.

A Million Dollar Prize

Shanghai, China.—A three cornered contest among wind and waves, Japanese salvagers and hundreds of Chinese pirates for a prize valued at more than $1,000,000, is taking place off the China Coast, eighty miles from Shanghai, within the Yangtze estuary. The prize consists of the British Canadian Lloyd steamer "Celtsea" which was wrecked on the treacherous Button Rock.

Alberta House Prorogues

Edmonton, Alta.—The third session of the sixth Legislature came to a close here, March 20, at 5.45 o'clock after His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor William Egbert had consented in the name of His Majesty the King, to the passage of large number of bills and had formally accepted on behalf of His Majesty the supply granted the House.

Long Search Rewarded

Father Finds Son Stolen About Forty Years Ago

Kansas City, Kansas.—Forty years of search, his life and fortune spent in quest of the babe, his boy who was kidnapped from a cradle, was rewarded when A. A. Wilhite, 60, was reunited with his son, F. H. Hiatt.

The son, now 41 years of age, is a prosperous farmer of Kent, Ohio. His mother died at his birth.

The child's maternal grandmother, Mrs. Sarah Lewis, ran away with the boy from their home in Emporia, Kansas. A man named Alfred Hisler disappeared from Emporia at the same time. The boy grew up with the name of Hisler.

Church bells tolled along its 1,- 800 miles length, warning dwellers near its banks to flee for their lives.

MARSHAL FOCH SUCCUMBS AFTER LONG ILLNESS

Paris.—Marshal Ferdinand Foch, famous generalissimo who led the allied armies to victory in the great war, died at his home after a lengthy illness. He was 77 years old,

Although it had long been apparent that the great general was fighting his "last campaign," his warrior heart would not give in and day after day he fought off the inevitable end with grim courage, but a combination of heart trouble, kidney disease and a lung infection were too great at his age.

On February 26, the Associated Press was authoritatively informed that the marshal's death seemed only a matter of days—a week, perhaps, or less. But the marshal, with indomitable will, held off death even longer than his doctors thought possible. In a supreme endeavor of his heart after several days of improvement that brought death to the intrepid warrior.

The foremost fighter in the great war," displayed in illness the same grit and courage that made him a commander-in-chief who led the allied armies to victory in the great war.

Prince Decorated By Master Mariners

Receives Temporary Insignia Of Office While Regular One Is Being Made

London, England.—The Prince of Wales at the annual banquet of the Master Mariners was adorned with a temporary insignia of office, an ornate badge and chain, while the actual insignia is paid and jewels is being made. It was the first meeting in his official capacity with the body to which the King last year appointed him "master."

Cabinet ministers, ambassadors, and many prominent men were present.

The prince, after an allusion to the presence of the high commissioners of the Dominions, announced amid cheers of proposal to make the company an imperial body by increasing its membership by one-hundred. All of the new members had been master mariners resident in the Dominions. The prince said he regarded the proposal as a very important move and one which would serve as a great imperial link.

Says Doukhobors Are Not Communists

Look On World As One Community States Peter Veregin

Winnipeg.—Stating that communism, so-called, was nothing but a changing of name," Peter Veregin, spiritual head of the Christian community of all Doukhobors, asserted in an interview here that Doukhobors were not communists in the accepted sense of the term

They looked upon all the world as one community, headed by Christ, and looked upon the country in which they were as a community unit.

Mr. Veregin declared that it had not been Doukhobors, but Russians living on the borders of the Christian community and wrongly considered members of it, that had been implicated in trouble with colonist authorities in British Columbia.

Trains Meet in Head-On Collision

Nineteen Meet Death In Train Wreck in Ontario

Parry Sound, Ont.—Through an unexplained mistake in the interpretation of orders, two crack Canadian National Railway transcontinental express trains loaded with sleeping passengers crashed head-on at Drocourt, a siding 46 miles north of here.

Members of train crews met death when the heavy engines and the baggage cars of the trains were telescoped and passengers in a colonist car on the west-bound train were burned to death, some before the eyes of helpless trainmen and passengers.

Some of the dead may never be identified owing to the fierceness with which the flames devoured all within the car.

Railway officials estimate that 19 persons were killed, though late tonight but six of these, all members of the train crews, were listed among the identified dead.

The passengers burned to death in the colonist car are believed to have been mostly immigrants bound for new homes in the West. Many of them were without relatives or friends in the Dominion.

The colonist car which caught fire was of wooden construction. This type of car is fitted with a stove which passengers are allowed to use for preparation of their meals during the long journey from the east bound to the prairie provinces. The interior of these cars is wooden. It is believed that the crash overturned the stove and the car took fire from the coals which were spilled out.

The passengers, many of them asleep in their berths when the trains crashed, were caught without means of escape. Emergency trains were sent out from divisional points when news of the disaster was flashed out. Injured were rushed aboard and rushed to hospital here. Some died en route.

Will Attend National Conference On Education At Vancouver

New Delhi, India.—The National Conference on Education at Vancouver, in April, will be probably the first occasion on which the Indian states have been represented as a separate unit of the British Empire. Lawrence Rushbrook-Williams, foreign secretary of the State of Patiala and noted historian, is the official representative of the native ruling state and he left for Vancouver on March 22.

ALBERTA FIGHTS PLAN FOR RETURN OF RESOURCES

Edmonton, Alta.—Protesting that return of the natural resources to Alberta on the same basis as their return by the Dominion government to Manitoba and Saskatchewan would be unfair to Alberta, Premier J. E. Brownlee delivered a lengthy exposition of Alberta's position on the subject in the legislature.

Greater cost which Mr. Brownlee objected to the same settlement of the resources question with Alberta as with Saskatchewan were outlined by the premier as follows

The Dominion had made Alberta an offer including the return of school lands and school lands funds; a settlement of the parks question on the same basis as the province and the arrangement that when the dominion federation arbitrarily were declared upon there would be a transfer of natural resources with the present subsidy but with no increases This is the same offer made to Saskatchewan, but that province is objecting to continuance of the present subsidy now accepting to Alberta's subsidy arguing that it should not be fixed until the whole question is settled, the minimum

It had been suggested that settlement could be made by the Dominion on the same terms with both Saskatchewan and Manitoba and Mr. Brownlee.

If this arrangement were made into effect the net result would be that Alberta's subsidy would remain by for all time at $562,000 a year while Saskatchewan would receive annual payments being entirely done away with in the two provinces were created in 1905 1910, had been no discrimination

Ten Acres Of Wheat Seeded On March Nineteenth

Edmonton, Alta. A special to the Journal from Spirit River in the Peace River country, says The Pluterry settlement, twenty-five miles west of Spirit River, has the rest of the country shaded for early seeding. Jack Burrows, a rancher of Pluterry, seeded ten acres to Marquis wheat, March 19th. This is believed to be the earliest seeding on record in the North

Work on the land in Edmonton district got off to a start on March 19, when a large disc swung into action on the provincial government farm at Oliver. This is said to be one of the earliest starts on the land in ten years

Horses Win Against Turtle

Port Arthur, Tex. Fisherman A. Wiltz hitched four horses to a seine and dragged a 1,300 pound turtle from the Gulf of Mexico. The turtle whose protective shell had been cut, perhaps by a ship's propeller, put up a hard fight before the horses finally won. It was estimated to be more than 100 years old

WHEAT GRADING IS SUBJECT OF OTTAWA DEBATE

Ottawa.—The marketing of Canada's 1928 wheat crop came before parliament in no uncertain way recently. Following reports from the west of dissatisfaction with the work of the board of grain commissioners, and the way the crop was handled this year, three resolutions were placed on the order paper of the House of Commons. One asked that in grading wheat, its protein content be taken into consideration. A second referred to the mixing of grain, and a third condemned the board of grain commissioners for issuing the so-termed "hybrid" ticket. It was on a recommendation of the committee on agriculture that it be emp-owered to investigate all these points at one time that the discussion burst forth into the Commons and forced the budget debate to give way.

To the various and severe criticisms which have been levelled at the board of grain commissioners, Hon. James Malcolm, minister of trade and commerce, said: "To answer charges against the board of grain commissioners when the board has not had an opportunity to give evidence as to why they ruled or failed to rule in a certain way, I think is hardly fair. So far as I am concerned I have found the board of grain commissioners at all times anxious to assist in the administration of the grain act in the interests of the producer. Whether they have made mistakes of judgment or not still to be brought out in the evidence before the committee."

He declined to comment a as minister of the crown on a public servant until the latter had been given the opportunity to defend himself. He accordingly urged the appointment of the committee that its scope be enlarged, be granted by the House. The members of the board would then come before the committee to give their side of the case.

Speed Boat Title Captured By Seagrave

English Driver Adds This To Automobile Racing Laurels

Miami Beach, Fla.—The International Speed Boat racing title went across the seas to England as the result of a race devoid of competition.

Major H. O. D. Seagrave added the water title to his automobile racing laurels when he sent his patched and leaking "Miss England" sweeping across the finish line on Biscayne Bay recently five minutes best behind The Woolf "Miss America VII." He was officially credited with winning the two-heat race with three points, as against two for the United States speed-boat king.

Wood's boat flashed around the two-mile course in the elapsed time of 11 minutes, 45.05 seconds, for an average speed of 61.375 miles an hour. The Englishman clocked in the time of 16 minutes, 50 to seconds, for an average of little more than 42 miles an hour.

The victory went to the English driver on the basis of points scored, Wood having been forced from the first heat yesterday with no points.

A. W. EBBETT, K.C. PASSED AWAY ON TUESDAY MORNING

A. W. Ebbett, K.C., ex-M.L.A., died at his family residence here early Tuesday morning of this week, after an illness from which he has been ailing for some considerable time past. In January last the ailment took a severe turn but he recovered sufficiently to attend to his business, and on Saturday last attended a meeting of the Vermilion agricultural society, of which organization he had been vice-president for a great many years. The deceased's name was mentioned for the Stettler judgeship recently made vacant by the death of Judge Morrison. He was prominent in masonic circles, having been past master of Hope Lodge, Mansville, and past principal of Vermilion chapter Royal Arch masons. The deceased was 63 years of age and leaves a widow, one son Frank, and one daughter Alison. The son and daughter were absent in Edmonton over the Easter holidays when the deceased passed away. He was about the town on Monday, but that night he suffered a relapse from which he failed to revive. He was a man of strong robust constitution and during his whole life at Vermilion took an active part in public and professional affairs.

The deceased was born at Hampstead, New Brunswick. Coming to Alberta in 1903 he settled at Mansville. Upon being admitted to the Alberta bar he formed a partnership with the late Norman Murray and removed to Vermilion in 1915 when the latter entered for overseas service.

The funeral is being held this Thursday afternoon under Masonic auspices. Hearfield grumphy is attended to the family in their sad bereavement.

Arthur Wellesley Ebbett, active in the public and professional life of the the province of Alberta for the past twenty years, was a barrister of high standing who since 1915 has practiced at Vermilion. He birth occurred in Hampstead, Queen's county, New Brunswick, on the 3rd of January, 1866, and he spent his early life on the farm. His parents were Charles H and Elizabeth M. (Perry) Ebbett who were of English descent and of United Empire Loyalist stock, the great grand parents of Arthur W. Ebbett having left the United States during the Revolutionary War.

In the acquirement of an education Mr Ebbett attended the common schools, the grammar school and the University of New Brunswick. He remained a resident of Gagetown, N. B., Queen's county, New Brunswick, until 1898 and then took up his abode at St. John in the same province, but as climatic conditions there did not agree with his wife, he returned to Gagetown a 1900. It was in the year 1907, for the benefit of his wife's health, that he came to Alberta, obtaining leave of absence from the government, and located first at Manville, where he remained for [illegible] years. There he established the Manville Telegram, latterly renamed by the present Manville News. In 1917 he removed to Vermilion, where he has resided continuously since.

Choosing the law as his profession Mr Ebbett was admitted at Alberta in his native province in 1890 was called to the bar in 1900 and was appointed King's Counsel in Alberta in 1912. The extensive and important clientage accorded him attested his ability in such a way as to prove a fine comprehensive understanding of the principles of jurisprudence. Mr Ebbett was appointed Justice of the peace and clerk of peace for (illegible) county, New Brunswick, in 1897 and on that position until 1904. He was made Clerk of the county courts and clerk of the circuit court in 1904. While a resident of Manville Mr Ebbett served as chairman of the school board for several years and also acted as chairman of the council for the village of Manville. He has always been active in politics as a supporter of the Liberal party. In 1917, on the resignation of the Hon. A. L. Sifton, premier of the province, he elected by acclamation to the provincial legislature of the province of Alberta. He was defeated in the tidal wave which swept the farmers into power, Edgerton 2nd, W. J. Campbell Fairview 3 Clinton John son Manville 4 Tom Poulton Vermilion, 5, Stanley Johnson Vermilion.

To Check "FLU," Grippe

Make the Germs in the Throat Before They Invade Other Parts of the Body.

EFFECTIVE PREVENTIVE MEASURES EXPLAINED

Simple precautions taken now will enable you to fight dreaded "Flu" which is sweeping rapidly through the whole country. The germs of Influenza gain access to the body through the mouth and throat. Keep the throat healthy and you go a long way towards stopping the trouble. An effective means of prevention is to gurgle the throat three or four times daily with Nerviline. Half a teaspoonful of Nerviline in water makes a most efficient gargle. Its germ-killing properties of Nerviline quickly destroy any bacteria in the mouth or throat. If the chest is sore, if the throat is hoarse, if you have a cough—be sure, to rub the back and chest with Nerviline. Every drop of it will rub in, and out will come the congestion.

Of course it is absolutely necessary to house-clean the system with Dr. Hamilton's Pills which stimulate the digestive organs, and rid the system of disease-breeding wastes. The combination treatment of Nerviline and Dr. Hamilton's Pills will give prompt and entirely satisfactory results.

WORLD HAPPENINGS BRIEFLY TOLD

The Canadian Pacific Railway contemplates constructing a modern hotel in London, England, it is revealed in the annual report of the company.

Over two-thirds of the immigrants who entered Canada during the ten months of the current fiscal year came either from Britain, the United States, or preferred country sources.

The Edmonton Exhibition this year celebrates its fiftieth anniversary, the first show having been held within the walls of Fort Edmonton in 1879.

For the eleven months of the current fiscal year April 1, 1928, to February 29, 1929 immigration to Canada totalled 152,911, an increase of 13,979, or 12 per cent over the corresponding period in 1927-28.

Reindeer racing is to be tried in Vancouver where a "stud" of twenty reindeer has been established and all the Eskimo drivers are being trained to race their novel steeds round the track.

The British Admiralty has awarded a "good service" pension of $750 per annum, beginning March 1, to Captain Kenneth C. B. Dewar, formerly commander of H.M.S. Royal Oak, who figured in a notable court-martial at Gibraltar last April.

Carl B. Ekelson, of Marion, N.D., pilot for Captain Sir George Hubert Wilkins on his Arctic Polar flight, was awarded the Harmon trophy for 1928, which is given to the U.S. flier making the greatest contribution to aviation during the year

A Vancouver dispatch to the Montreal Gazette says: "The Duke of Gloucester (Prince Henry) has not been left London for Japan to invest the Emperor with the insignia of the Order of the Garter, he expected to return home via Canada. It is understood the Duke will spend a holiday at his brother's ranch at High River, Alta."

NEW BABY DISTURBS TIRED OFFICE WORKER

"When my eldest boy was just a few weeks old he was badly constipated from my milk," says a Nebraska mother. "He kept us awake so much, my husband almost slept one his desk at the office. Then my doctor got us to give baby some Castoria and the next day he was much better. His stomach and bowels began acting perfectly and he gave us no more trouble." Avoid imitations of Castoria. The Fletcher signature marks the genuine purely-vegetable, harmless Castoria, doctors everywhere advise for those ills of babies and children, such as colic, constipation, colds, diarrhoea, etc.

Queer Rule in India

There is a rule in India that a younger daughter may not marry before the elder. In case the younger wishes to marry however, the way out is to marry the elder daughter to a tree or large flower, then carry being taken that it be not a pipe poplar or elder, for these are sacred and it is difficult to get a divorce from any of these

Nahanni Country Gold Rush

Prospectors Going Into Dangerous Part Of Unknown North

Through the richness of the Saskatchewan river basin is exhausted, a new gold rush is now starting into the Nahanni country west of the Mackenzie river, and more than 1,000 miles north of Edmonton. Airplanes are taking in prospectors who are following the air trail blazed last summer by Jack Hammed's N.A.M.E. machines. Traces of the old McLeod diggings have been found, and one of the methods to be used to help re-discover the placer deposits which have cost more than one human life since their first discovery in 1904. Hostile Indians and fugitive whites have combined to make Nahanni a dangerous part of Canada's unknown North.

Money In Pork Packing

Product Made Most Use Of In Manufacture Of Lard

The boast of the modern meat-packing industry, that all the pig is utilized, followed its spread in new fields by the announcement of the Maine fishing industry, that all the fish is being utilized, even its scales.

Pearl essence plants at Portland and at other points along the Maine coast are offering seven cents a pound for fish scales, and tons of scales formerly discarded by fishermen have been sold this season at a total price estimated at $200,000.

One hundred pounds of the scales, for which the essence factories pay $7, are required to produce one pound of pearl essence, valued at $125 in the New York market. The essence, after elaborate processing, is used in the manufacture of beads, necklaces and miscellaneous jewelry.

The spinning and weaving of cotton is one of the most important and extensive of the manufacturing industries in Portugal.

THE MINISTRY OF ISAIAH

Golden Text: "Then I said, Here am I; send me."—Isaiah 6:8.

Lesson: Isaiah 6:1-13; 7:1-17; 30. 1-6; 31.1-33.

Devotional Reading: Psalm 116. 15-19.

Explanations and Comments

Isaiah's Heavenly Vision, 6.1-4.—In the year that King Uzziah died, I saw the Lord sitting upon a throne, high and lifted up: thus the prophet Isaiah begins his account of his vision and call to service. This is more than a date; this is an experience!" exclaims Dr. C. R. Brown. Isaiah had a vision, a dream, in which God was vividly real to him.

Isaiah saw God. Do men see Him today? Was He any nearer to Jerusalem than He is to London or New York? Did that old Hebrew possess faculties different from ours? Can we see and know God? What do we mean by seeing and knowing God? A spirit cannot be seen with physical eyes. We mean that we are convinced of the reality of God that our thinking and living are determined by that conviction; so sure of Him that we live as if we saw Him by physical sight."—Amory H. Bradford.

"The conception of Isaiah's vision is singularly pure and lofty. It is a marvellous thought when he draws near to God. The vision is when the service in the temple is figured. The prophet fell into a trance while holding the service and musing on its meaning. Suddenly the house and temple fade, and the ministers became transfigured; the walls went apart, and the roof lifted itself up till it seemed the high dome of God's palace on high under which he stood, and the Lord the King on whom His throne receiving the adoration of all holy beings."—A. B. Davidson. And his train filled the temple. There was

"No face; only the sight
Of a swerping garment vast and white
With a heaven that I could recognize."—Browning.

"The king was dead, but God was alive, Who shall say that it was not something of the same strength of faith that came to James A. Garfield, when, speaking to a thousand enthusiasts in New York after the assassination of Lincoln, he exclaimed, 'God reigns; and the government of Washington still stands!'"—J. T. McFarland.

A Heathen Luncheon

The following tasted recipes solve the problem of a tasty luncheon without meat:

Tomato Chowder

2 cupfuls Borden's St. Charles Milk.
1 pint hot water.
2½ cupfuls canned tomatoes.
1 medium sized onion sliced thin.
4 tablespoonful butter or butter substitute.
4 tablespoonfuls flour.
1 teaspoonful sugar.
1 teaspoonful salt.
¼ teaspoonful pepper.
½ teaspoonful soda.
8 water crackers split.

Melt the butter in the top part of the double boiler, add the onion, and cook it gently till yellowed, about five to eight minutes. Pour in the milk and water, set over the lower part of the double boiler and scald. Mix the flour, salt and pepper with enough cold water to make a smooth cream; stir it into the milk, and cook about fifteen minutes, stirring occasionally. Heat the tomato with the sugar; when boiling, add the soda and combine it with the thickened milk. For serving, put a split cracker or which has been dipped in warm water, in each plate.

Do you know why McLAUGHLIN-BUICK rides so much more comfortably than other cars?

Here are three important reasons

McLAUGHLIN BUICK'S famous cantilever springs—the most expensive type of springs employed on any car in the world, coupled with the famous McLaughlin-Buick torque tube drive—are designed solely for comfort, not for ornamental power, and provide the maximum degree of riding restfulness.

McLaughlin-Buick's Lovejoy hydraulic shock absorbers . . . front and rear . . . absorb the jars and jolts of the roughest roads, thus adding still further to the buoyancy of McLaughlin-Buick travel.

And McLaughlin-Buick's deep, soft seat-cushions, together with the lounging spaciousness of McLaughlin-Buick interiors, provide unequalled riding luxury for every passenger.

McLaughlin-Buick offers the highest standard of motoring comfort ever attained; and this is one vital reason why more moderate-priced McLaughlin-Buicks than any other fine car.

FUNERAL OF CHARLIE LYSONS

Much sympathy is but throughout this community for Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Lysons in the death of their eldest son, Charlie, which took place at the Vermilion hospital on Monday, March 25th, after only a few day's illness, death being due to general peritonitis. Brought in to the hospital on Sunday at 7 o'clock, he passed away at 3 p.m.

Charlie was eleven years and two months old and was a pupil of Gen on school at Toland. He was a boy of a singularly bright and happy disposition and his death is keenly felt by his schoolmates and friends.

The funeral took place on Thursday from St. Saviour's church at Vermilion, service being conducted by the Rector, Rev. Ross Sage. The hymns "Nearer My God to Thee" and "Safe in the arms of Jesus" were sung, as well as the Nunc Dimittis.

There were many floral emblems. On the casket: Sprays of Wreath, from Father, Mother and Family; Spray of Roses from Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Lewis, grandparents; Wreath from teacher and classmates of Toland school, and Anchor from Toland Sunday school. There were also sprays from Mr. and Mrs. O. H. Webber, Mr. Clarence Lewis, Mrs. Mabel Webber, Harold and Fred, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Small Family, Mr. and Mrs. C. Thomson, Mr. and Mrs. W. Hinchey and Family, Florent and Gertrude Tagougia, teacher and pupils Woodvale school, Woodvale Glee Club, The Toland United Farmers' Association, and the Toland U.F.W.A. Interment took place in Vermilion cemetery.

Pall-bearers were Messrs. C. Lewis, G. Tweddle, J. Thomson and A. Priddiani, Dr. McGrath, A. Berthet.

CARD OF THANKS

Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Lysons and Family wish to take this opportunity to thank all the friends and neighbors who have rendered such kindly assistance and sympathy in their recent bereavement, and to all who sent flowers and were present at the last sad rites.

"Oh yes," he replied absently. "You were gone for some time this morning she stated.

"Yes," he concurred, "I went up to bring Connie."

"Oh!"

Janet's fine eyebrows lifted slightly, and she looked at Donald with a curious intentness. "Why didn't she come?"

"She wasn't home."

Her woman's intuition long ago had told here that the "woodpecile"—as Donald called Connie—was ready in love with him. As she looked at him now and noticed his pre-occupied air, a pang of jealousy shot through her heart like an arrow. Was it possible that he had begun to realize that the wild girl of the woods was not a child, and that his love for her had been kindled in his heart? For the thought made her feel faint and she tried to put it from her mind.

Lunch was finished now and they were walking back to the lake, Douglas invited the party to take a trip around the lake in a motor-boat, to which they accepted gleefully.

Janet hesitated as Donald turned away with Walsweight. "Aren't you coming Mr. McLean?" she called.

Donald turned and shook his head. "I may be back later," he said briefly.

Janet flushed to the roots of her dark hair at her lip in anger. She was not used to being thwarted in her desires.

Donald and Walsweight seated themselves on a bench under the willows and lighted cigarettes. Donald was ill at ease. The sound of Connie's tragic sobbing was ringing in his ears. He could see her little figure writhing on the ground in a fit of pique of grief that had torn at his heart-strings. His sprang involuntarily to his feet and began pacing the ground with quick, nervous strides. Walsweight glanced up at him interrogatively.

"You seem worried," he volunteered.

"I am," Donald admitted briefly

Donald was in a welter of indecision. How should he broach this delicate subject? Although poor as he the proverbial church-mouse, Connie's father had the pride of Lucifer. There was natural dignity in his bearing, a certain aloofness in his manner, that is no way interfered with his unfailing courtesy, but had always provided exchange of intimacies. He had resided in this wilderness for many years, but none could say that they had any more knowledge of his affairs at this moment than the day of his arrival.

Donald decided to take the plunge. He sat down on the bench beside Connie's father and related the scene he had witnessed that morning — of Connie's preening before the mirror with the magazine page pinned to the logs; of the struggle with her hair; of the flour sack, and of the piteous sobbing of the heart-broken child.

Walsweight's face flushed painfully. There was a look of poignant suffering in his grave eyes. Of all the races in the world, the English—especially of the better class—feel most stoically to hide their distress.
